1. To expiate; to answer or make satisfaction for.
2. To reduce to concord; to reconcile, as parties at variance; to appease. [Not now used.]

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT (atonement, atone) 81

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT (atonement, atone) 1

Romans 5:11 And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

Greek New Testament

καταλλαγή

BDAG 462a

- reestablishment of an interrupted or broken relationship, reconciliation

NT uses

Romans 5:11 οὐ μόνον δέ, ἀλλὰ καὶ καυχώμενοι ἐν τῷ θεῷ διὰ τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, δι' οὗ νῦν τὴν καταλλαγὴν ἐλάβομεν.

Romans 11:15 εἰ γὰρ ἡ ἀποβολὴ αὐτῶν καταλλαγὴ κόσμου, τίς ἡ πρόσλημις εἰ μὴ ζωὴ ἐκ νεκρῶν·

2 Corinthians 5:18 τὰ δὲ πάντα ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ καταλλάξαντος ἡμᾶς ἑαυτῷ διὰ Χριστοῦ καὶ δόντος ἡμῖν τὴν διακονίαν τῆς καταλλαγῆς,

2 Corinthians 5:19 ὥς ὅτι θεὸς ἦν ἐν Χριστῷ κόσμον καταλλάσσων ἑαυτῷ, μὴ λογιζόμενος αὐτοῖς τὰ παραπτώματα αὐτῶν, καὶ θέμενος ἐν ἡμῖν τὸν λόγον τῆς καταλλαγῆς.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM (atonement, atone) 39

2 Nephi 2:10 And because of the intercession for all, all men come unto God; wherefore, they stand in the presence of him, to be judged of him according to the truth and holiness which is in him. Wherefore, the ends of the law which the Holy One hath given, unto the inflicting of the punishment which is affixed, which punishment that is affixed is in opposition to that of the happiness which is affixed, to answer the ends of the atonement—

2 Nephi 9:7 Wherefore, it must needs be an infinite atonement—save it should be an infinite atonement this corruption could not put on incorruption. Wherefore, the first judgment which came upon man must needs have remained to an endless duration. And if so, this flesh must have laid down to rot and to crumble to its mother earth, to rise no more.

2 Nephi 9:25 Wherefore, he has given a law; and where there is no law given there is no punishment; and where there is no punishment there is no condemnation; and where there is no condemnation the mercies of the Holy One of Israel have claim upon them, because of the atonement; for they are delivered by the power of him.

2 Nephi 9:26 For the atonement satisfieth the demands of his justice upon all those who have not the law given to them, that they are delivered from that awful monster, death and hell, and the devil, and the lake of fire and brimstone, which is endless torment; and they are restored to that God who gave them breath, which is the Holy One of Israel.

2 Nephi 10:25 Wherefore, may God raise you from death by the power of the resurrection, and also from everlasting death by the power of the atonement, that ye may be received into the eternal kingdom of God, that ye may praise him through grace divine. Amen.

2 Nephi 25:16 And after they have been scattered, and the Lord God hath scourged them by other nations for the space of many generations, yea, even down from generation to generation until they shall be persuaded to believe in Christ, the Son of God, and the atonement, which is infinite for all mankind—and when that day shall come that they shall believe in Christ, and worship the Father in his name, with pure hearts and clean hands, and look not forward any more for another Messiah, then, at that time, the day will come that it must needs be expedient that they should believe these things.

Jacob 4:11–12 Wherefore, beloved brethren, be reconciled unto him through the atonement of Christ, his Only Begotten Son, and ye may obtain a resurrection, according to the power of the resurrection which is in Christ, and be presented as the first-fruits of Christ unto God, having faith, and obtained a good hope of glory in him before he manifesteth himself in the flesh. 12 And now, beloved, marvel not that I tell you these things; for why not speak of the atonement of Christ, and attain to a perfect knowledge of him, as to attain to the knowledge of a resurrection and the world to come?

Jacob 7:12 And this is not all—it has been made manifest unto me, for I have heard and seen; and it also has been made manifest unto me by the power of the Holy Ghost; wherefore, I know if there should be no atonement made all mankind must be lost.

Mosiah 3:11 For behold, and also his blood atoneth for the sins of those who have fallen by the transgression of Adam, who have died not knowing the will of God concerning them, or who have ignorantly sinned.

Mosiah 3:15 And many signs, and wonders, and types, and shadows showed he unto them, concerning his coming; and also holy prophets spake unto them concerning his coming; and yet they hardened their hearts, and understood not that the law of Moses availeth nothing except it were through the atonement of his blood.

Mosiah 3:16 And even if it were possible that little children could sin they could not be saved; but I say unto you they are blessed; for behold, as in Adam, or by nature, they fall, even so the blood of Christ atoneth for their sins.

Mosiah 3:18 For behold he judgeth, and his judgment is just; and the infant perisheth not that dieth in his infancy; but men drink damnation to their own souls except they humble themselves and become as little children, and believe that salvation was, and is, and is to come, in and through the atoning blood of Christ, the Lord Omnipotent.

Mosiah 3:19 For the natural man is an enemy to God, and has been from the fall of Adam, and will be, forever and ever, unless he yields to the enticings of the Holy Spirit, and putteth off the natural man and becometh a saint through the atonement of Christ the Lord, and becometh as a child, submissive, meek, humble, patient, full of love, willing to submit to all things which the Lord seeth fit to inflict upon him, even as a child doth submit to his father.

Mosiah 4:2 And they had viewed themselves in their own carnal state, even less than the dust of the earth. And they all cried aloud with one voice, saying: O have mercy, and apply the atoning blood of Christ that we may receive forgiveness of our sins, and our hearts may be purified; for we believe in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, who created heaven and earth, and all things; who shall come down among the children of men.

Mosiah 4:6 I say unto you, if ye have come to a knowledge of the goodness of God, and his matchless power, and his wisdom, and his patience, and his long-suffering towards the children of men; and also, the atonement which has been prepared from the foundation of the world, that thereby salvation might come to him that should put his trust in the Lord, and should be diligent in keeping his commandments, and continue in the faith even unto the end of his life, I mean the life of the mortal body—

Mosiah 4:7 I say, that this is the man who receiveth salvation, through the atonement which was prepared from the foundation of the world for all mankind, which ever were since the fall of Adam, or who are, or who ever shall be, even unto the end of the world.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP

Key Phrases

infinite atonement 4 | 2 Nephi 9:7 (2), 25:16; Alma 34:12

Commentary See also Alma 34:8–16, which speaks of an “infinite and eternal” sacrifice.

- See the key points below, about how 2 Nephi 9:21 appears to put a restriction on it. “Infinite” probably can’t mean “unbound in every respect.” I’m not even sure that would make sense.

perfect atonement 1 | DC 76:69

power of (the) atonement

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- General list of scriptures that refer to different aspects of the atonement
 - Isaiah 53:3–5
 - Romans 3:25–26
 - * Notice that the emphasis is on God’s righteousness here, similar to the verses at the beginning of DC 45.
 - Galatians 2:19–21
 - Galatians 3:13
 - Ephesians 1:7
 - Ephesians 2:13–22
 - 2 Corinthians 5:14–21

- Colossians 1:9–29
- 1 Nephi 12:10–11
- 1 Nephi 19:8–12
- 2 Nephi 9
 - * Many things here; you’d have to go through the chapter to list them individually.
- 2 Nephi 10
 - * The stuff at the end specifically
- 2 Nephi 25:16
 - * Mentions that the atonement is infinite; good comparison to Alma 34.
- 2 Nephi 25:23
- Jacob 4:11–12
- Mosiah 2:38–39; important to read this one in the light of other verses that use the term “demands of justice,” because mercy is what satisfies those demands
- Mosiah 3:7, 11, 13, 16–18, 21, 25–26
- Mosiah 4:2–3
- Mosiah 4:6–8
- Mosiah 5:2–15
- Mosiah 13:27–28
- Mosiah 14–16
 - * There’s a huge amount in both of these chapters on the atonement, in a bunch of different ways.
- Mosiah 18:2
- Mosiah 26:22–24
- Alma 11:40–41
- Alma 22:13–14
- Alma 24:10–15
- Alma 33:22
- Alma 34:8–18
- Helaman 5:9–12
- Helaman 8:14–15
- Helaman 14
 - * Most of the chapter, but not all of it.
 - * Through to verse 19 at the start.
 - * 28–31 at the end maybe?
- 3 Nephi 11
- Mormon 9:12–14
- Moroni 6:4, specifically I’m thinking of the “author and finisher” part
- Moroni 7:27–28
- Moroni 7:41
- Moroni 8:19–23
- Moroni 10:33
- DC 18:11–12
- DC 19:15–19
- DC 20:19–28
- DC 21:9
- DC 35:2
- DC 38:4
- DC 45:3–5
- DC 45:51–52
- DC 53:2
- DC 54:1
- DC 76:69
- Christ suffers “the pains of all men, yea, the pains of every living creature, both men women and children, which belong to the family of Adam” (2 Nephi 9:21).
 - Note that this restricts the atonement, or at least the pains suffered, to those beings who belong to the family of Adam. So it isn’t “infinite” in this sense; we have to qualify it in some way.
 - See also DC 18:11–12 here.

Categories of people the atonement applies to

The power of the atonement is effective in the lives of many people for many different reasons. Here are some of the categories of people to which it applies, and the way in which it applies:

1. Those who have fallen by the transgression of Adam. See Mosiah 3:11. “His blood atoneth for the sins of” these people. See more about this idea of the “transgression of Adam” here.
2. Those who have died not knowing the will of God concerning them. See Mosiah 3:11. “His blood atoneth for the sins of” these people. See also 3 Nephi 6:18 and Numbers 15:27–29.
3. Those who have ignorantly sinned. See Mosiah 3:11. “His blood atoneth for the sins of” these people. See also Romans 7:9 and DC 76:72.
4. Little children. See Mosiah 3:16. “The blood of Christ atones for their sins.” See also DC 29:46–47, DC 74:7,

Temporal nature of the atonement

See the note at Mosiah 3:13.

- See also Jacob 4:4, Jarom 1:11, Mosiah 16:6,

Will we have to perform an atonement?

- Romans 12:1, with the idea of our bodies as a “living sacrifice”

AUGHT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Any thing, indefinitely.
- 2 Any part, the smallest; a jot or tittle.

AUTHORITY

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ἐξουσία

BDAG 311a

- 1 a state of control over something, freedom of choice, right (e.g., the “right” to act, decide, or dispose of one’s property as one wishes)
- 2 potential or resource to command, control, or govern, capability, might, power
- 3 the right to control or command, authority, absolute power, warrant
- 4 power exercised by rulers or others in high position by virtue of their office, ruling power, official power
- 5 bearer of ruling authority
- 5.a human authorities, officials, government
- 5.b of transcendent rules and functionaries: powers of the spirit world
- 6 the sphere in which power is exercised, domain
- 7 Various opinions are held about the meaning of 1 Corinthians 11:10...
 - This part of the entry discusses that verse in Corinthians.

Some NT uses

Matthew 10:1

Matthew 28:18

Mark 3:15

Mark 6:7

Luke 9:1

Luke 12:5

John 5:27

John 10:18

BAPTISM

See also

Baptism for the Dead,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Romans 6:3–10

- You could probably go farther than verse 10 but I had to cut it off somewhere.

Greek New Testament

βαπτίζω

Book of Mormon

Mormon 7:10

Moroni 6:1–4

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 55:1 BEHOLD, thus saith the Lord unto you, my servant William, yea, even the Lord of the whole earth, thou art called and chosen; and after thou hast been baptized by water, which if you do with an eye single to my glory, you shall have a remission of your sins and a reception of the Holy Spirit by the laying on of hands;

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- The manner of baptism—of submerging someone in the water and then pulling them out—is “after the manner of [Christ’s] burial,” and we are “buried in the water in his name” (DC 76:51).
- DC 35:5–6—Rigdon was baptizing “by water unto repentance,” but his followers were not receiving “the Holy Ghost.”

Baptism for the dead

My notes on baptism for the dead are NOT here; they are in a separate entry, Baptism for the Dead.

Why do we need to be baptized?

To start, one answer is that we need to initialize a law-bound relationship with Christ—we need to hook ourselves into the part of the system of priesthood laws that has to do with salvation, and we do it by being baptized.

The “baptism of fire”

See:

- DC 33:11
- DC 39:6

BAPTISM FOR THE DEAD

Buck's Theological Dictionary (1833)

86–87 a practice formerly in use, when a person dying without baptism, another was baptized in his stead; thus supposing that God would accept the baptism of the proxy, as though it had been administered to the principal. Chrysostom says, this was practised among the Marcionites with a great deal of ridiculous ceremony, which he thus describes:—After any catechumen was dead, they hid a living man under the bed of the deceased; then, coming to the dead man, they asked him whether he would receive baptism; and he making no answer, the other answered for him, and said he would be baptized in his stead; and so they baptized the living for the dead. If it can be proved (as some think it can) that this practice was as early as the days of the apostle Paul, it might probably form a solution of those remarkable words in 1 Cor. xv. 29: “If the dead rise not at all, what shall they do who are baptized for the dead?” The allusion of the apostle to this practice, however, is rejected by some, and especially by Dr. Doddridge, who thinks it too early; he thus paraphrases the passage: “Such are our views and hopes as Christians; else, if it were not so, what should they do who are baptized in token of their embracing the Christian faith, in the room of the dead, who are just fallen in the cause of Christ, but are yet supported by a succession of new converts, who immediately offer themselves to fill up their places, as ranks of soldiers that advance to the combat in the room of their companions who have just been slain in their sight?” Lay baptism we find to have been permitted by both the common prayer-books of King Edward and Queen Elizabeth, when an infant was in immediate danger of death, and a lawful minister could not be had. This was founded on a mistaken notion of the impossibility of salvation without the sacrament of baptism; but afterwards, when they came to have clearer notions of the sacraments, it was unanimously resolved, in a convocation held in 1575, that even private baptism in a case of necessity was only to be administered by a lawful minister.

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 124:28–36

DC 127:5–10

DC 128

Commentary and Studies

Origins in the restoration

See the various accounts of JS's discourse on 3–5 October 1840, and notes there.

BELIEF

Commentary and Studies

Belief in belief and bearing testimony

Lately (5/10/2021) I have been thinking about belief and belief in belief, which is something that Yudkowsky talks about in various places in his Less Wrong book. The point he makes, and others have made this too and I think this might have occurred to me independently a long time ago as well, is that in saying “The Earth is round,” what you are really saying is “I believe the Earth is round.” Each affirmation or denial you make should really carry with it the sign of that affirmation or denial. Going one step further, saying that “I believe the Earth is round” is really saying “I believe I believe the Earth is round.”

(There are a lot of other important points too—see parts B and H, with numbers 13, 17–19, and all of H in particular.)

I think this is an important point in relation to religious belief in general, and I haven’t thought through everything it means. But I have been considering its application to the practice of testimony-bearing. Virtually everyone who bears as testimony in an LDS setting actually says something like, “I believe the church is true,” or “I believe that God exists.” They actually include the “I believe” bit in what they say. Going by the rule of the previous paragraph, what they then really saying is “I believe I believe that God exists.”

This is helping me to understand what I dislike about the practice of testimony-bearing. Think about the difference in the internal processes required to say the words “I believe that God exists” versus “God exists.” Before you can affirm “I believe that God exists,” what you have to check is whether you actually believe that. But that would be checking not whether something is true in the world or whether the world outside of you is a certain way, it would be checking to see whether you actually possess that belief. And if you look inside yourself and find that you do actually believe that God exists, you can then affirm, “I believe that God exists.” But the internal process shows that you are really affirming “I believe I believe that God exists,” because that’s what you had to check.

Compare affirming “God exists.” Before you can affirm that you have to check whether God actually exists, which means you have to check something about the world rather than about yourself. It’s like saying “There is a computer on my desk.” To affirm that, I don’t have to check anything inside me, I have to go find out whether there really is a computer on my desk. If I discover that there is, I can then say the words. The difference in the processes is what you have to check before you make the affirmation.

So in saying “I believe that God exists,” you are really just saying something about yourself: “I believe I believe God exists.” You are not making a claim about anything else in the world, it is only a claim about yourself. If other people wish to verify or investigate what you have said, they must check into you, or your beliefs and your psychology, not into the world. And more than that, saying something like “I believe that the church is true” is really just a social signal—it communicates no useful content. It is the verbal equivalent of a thumbs-up or something like that.

On the other hand, if I get up at the pulpit and say “God exists,” then I am in fact saying “I believe that God exists.” But I am affirming my belief about the world, rather than about myself. And so if someone wants to check whether I am right to believe that, they have to go check whether God exists, inasmuch as that is possible. They don’t have to check into me, and it seems like that is the kind of testimony we want to be bearing anyway.

BLESSING, BLESS

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

μακάριος

BDAG 541b

- 1 pertaining to being fortunate or happy because of circumstances, fortunate, happy
- 1a of humans
- 1b of transcendent beings, viewed as privileged, blessed
- 2 pertaining to being especially favored, blessed, fortunate, happy, privileged
- 2a of humans privileged recipient of divine favor
- 2b of things or experiences blessed
- 2bα of parts of the body of persons who are the objects of special grace, which are themselves termed blessed
- 2bβ of things that stand in a very close relationship to the divinity
- 2bγ of martyrdoms...of the object of Christian hope

NIVAC NT 01 291–292 Makarios is a state of existence in relationship to God in which a person is “blessed” from God’s perspective even when he or she doesn’t feel happy or isn’t presently experiencing good fortune. This does not mean a conferral of blessing or an exhortation to live a life worthy of blessing; rather, it is an acknowledgment that the ones indicated are blessed. Negative feelings, absence of feelings, or adverse conditions cannot take away the blessedness of those who exist in relationship with God.

WBC 33a 91 Although the word μακάριοι, which appears as the first word in each of the nine beatitudes, occurs in Hellenist literature, where it describes those of good fortune, the true background to the NT use of the word is in the OT (Zimmerli finds forty-six instances in the Hebrew canon). The LXX often uses the word as a translation of אֲשֶׁרִי (deeply “happy, blessed”). The word is of course especially appropriate in the NT in such contexts as the present one, where it describes the nearly incomprehensible happiness of those who participate in the kingdom announced by Jesus. Rather than happiness in its mundane sense, it refers to the deep inner joy of those who have long awaited the salvation promised by God and who now begin to experience its fulfillment. The μακάριοι are the deeply or supremely happy.

Some NT uses

BLOOD

Commentary and Studies

The idea that “spirit,” not blood, will be in our veins or bodies after the resurrection

- Leviticus 17:11
- 1 Corinthians 15:50–51
- JS, 20 March 1842

WW version As concerning the resurrection I will mer[e]ly say that all men will come from the grave as they lay lie down, whether old or young their will not be added unto the[i]r stature one cubit neither taken from it, All being raised by the power of God having the Spirit of God in their bodies & not Blood

TS version As concerning the resurrection I will merely say that all men will come from the grave as they lie down, whether old or young, there will not be ‘added unto their stature one cubit;’ neither taken from it; all will be raised by the power of God, having spirit in their bodies, and not blood.

BOOK OF ABRAHAM

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- -Michael Chandler showed up in Kirtland with the mummies and scrolls on or right before July 3, 1835 (JSEP 1). -JS and the saints bought the materials in July 1835 (JSP-J1:57). -JS showed Chandler some preliminary translations before he left Kirtland, according to JSEP 1. -JS's journal entry for October 1, 1835, records that he and Oliver Cowdery and W. W. Phelps were working on the Egyptian alphabet (JSP-J1:67). -JS thought that the papyri contained at least three different stories: one of Abraham, one of Joseph of Egypt, and one of an Egyptian princess named Katumin (JSEP 2). -Champollion's discoveries weren't known to the British public until 1837 (NMKMH 170, note 1). -Champollion's correct deciphering of Egyptian was not reported in America until December 28, 1842, in the New York Herald (JSEP 2, note 3). For more on Champollion, see also JSEP 14—his books on grammar and vocabulary were not published until 1836 and 1841, respectively, in Paris. There was an 1830 publication in Boston based on some of Champollion's work. -The church canonized the Book of Abraham in 1880 (JSEP 3). -Attacks on the Book of Abraham came as early as 1861, but the major assault began in 1912, when an episcopal bishop named F. S. Spalding published a book called Joseph Smith, Jr., as a Translator. He commissioned professional Egyptologists to take a look at the translation and they all panned it (JSEP 4–5). Remember they're basing their opinion on the woodcuts, the explanations, anachronisms, and so on, since at this point they thought they papyri were no longer extant. -The papyri were recovered on November 27, 1967, when the Metropolitan Museum of Art gifted them back to the church (JSEP 6). They knew they were the same as the ones JS had because the illustrations on the papyri matched the woodcut facsimiles. -Dialogue published a translation from some Egyptologists in 1968, and they said that the fragments were from the Book of Breathing and the Book of the Dead. -JSEP 11–68 is an essay by Marquardt on the history of the JS Egyptian papers, with a nice timeline as well. -The Book of Abraham was translated from 1:1–2:18 in 1835; at that point in the translation JS leaves off and doesn't return to it again until around March 1842, right before the full version is going to appear in the Times and Seasons. On March 9 1842 JS writes a letter to Edward Hunter in which he says "I am now very busily engaged in Translating, and therefore cannot give as much time to Public matters as I could wish" (PWJS 550). On March 8 1842 JS's journal entry says, "Commenced Translating from the Book of Abraham, for the 10 No of the Times and seasons" (JSP-J2:42). -So you have to remember that 1:1–2:18 are pre-Kirtland temple dedication stuff, and the rest is just a couple months (or less) before the restoration of the endowment on May 4 1842. For example, JS's journal entry for 1 March 1842, about a week or a week and a half before he would have translated/dictated Abraham 3, says that he was preparing the woodcut of one of the facsimiles, and that later in the evening he was with "the Twelve & their wives at Elder [Wilford] Woodruff's. -where he [JS] explained many important principles in relation to progressive improvement. in the scale of intelligent existance" (JSP-J1:39). For this date WW's journal says, "My Birth Day I am 35 years of age this day as the spring enters, And thinking I could not Celebrate my Birth day more effectually than to meet my best friends I killed a Turkey made a feast & invited some of my friends to attend. Some came & some could not. The company consisted of Joseph the Seer & Lady Elders H. C. Kimball & Lady J. Taylor & Lady & Mother, Dr. W. Richards & John E. Page. After supper the evening was mostly spent in hearing Joseph the Seer convers about the blessings of the kingdom of God much to our edification" (WWJ 2:156).
Some connections from my reading: -In the grammar & alphabet the characters are understood in terms of five different degrees. In a letter by Oliver Cowdery to William Frye, 22 December 1835, Cowdery writes, speaking of the original discovery of the mummies: "There were several hundred mummies in the same catacomb. About one hundred embalmed after the first order and deposited and placed in niches and two or three hundred after the second and third order, and laid upon the floor or bottom of the grand cavity, the two last orders of embalmed were so decayed that they could not be removed and only eleven out of the first, found in the niches." So five "orders" here too.
- JS is also studying Greek at the same time—see the J1 entry for 23 December 1835.
- JS is studying Hebrew at the very same time as well, in late 1835 and the school starts in 1836; see the journal entries around that time in J1. This is extremely important and helps us understand a great deal of what happens with the translation of the Book of Abraham.
 - See, for example, the beginning of the entry for 19 January 1836. Also, 26 Jan 1836; a very important entry is 7 March 1836, where he discusses translating Genesis 17 from Hebrew (see also 8 March of the same year, where they do Genesis 22 and some of Exodus 3, in preparation for 1 and 2 Psalms); another very important one is 30 January 1836, where Seixas himself declares that the manuscripts are "original beyond all doubt";

- For more on JS and languages, see Juvenile Instructor 27, 1892, May 15, page 302, where a man named John Hess recollects (many, many years later) that JS was studying Greek and Latin in the fall of 1838.

BOSOM

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The breast of a human being and the parts adjacent.
- 2 The folds or covering of clothes about the breast.
- 3 Embrace, as with the arms; inclosure; compass; often implying friendship or affection; as, to live in the bosom of a church.
- 4 The breast, as inclosing the heart; or the interior of the breast, considered as the seat of the passions.
- 5 The breast, or its interior, considered as a close place, the receptacle of secrets.
- 6 Any inclosed place; the interior; as the bosom of the earth or of the deep.
- 7 The tender affections; kindness; favor; as the son of his bosom; the wife of thy bosom.
- 8 The arms, or embrace of the arms.
- 9 Inclination; desire. [Not used.]
- bosom, in composition, implies intimacy, affection and confidence; as a bosom-friend, an intimate or confidential friend; bosom-lover, bosom-interest, bosom-secret, etc. In such phrases, bosom may be considered as an attribute equivalent to intimate, confidential, dear.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

κόλπος

BDAG 493a various meanings in general literary usage, frequently with suggestion of curvature and the hollow so formed, as of a person's chest, folds in a garment or a bay of the sea; our literature contains no application of the term to anatomical parts uniquely female.

- 1 bosom, breast, chest...furthermore, apart from the idea of dining together on the same couch, "being in someone's bosom" denotes the closest association
 - This entry glosses John 1:18 as "who rests in the bosom of the Father."

CGL 819a, PDF 859

- 1 (singular and plural) fold at the lap of a garment (formed where it loops over the belt), lap-fold
- 2 (singular and plural) area of the body covered by the lap-fold, lap, bosom (usually of a mother or nurse, where a child or animal is nurtured or sheltered)
- 3 bosom (of a beautiful woman)
- 4 womb (of a woman)
- 5 bosom (of the earth, especially as holding the dead)
- 6 capacious depths, bosom (of the sea)
- 7 curving recess of the coast, bay, gulf
- 8 gulf of water between enclosing coasts, gulf
- 9 valley, glen
- 10 capacious hollow, hold (of a ship); recess, cavity (in the ground, in a cave)
- 11 curving hollow (of a hunting net)

LSJ 974a, PDF 1045

- I.1 bosom, lap
- I.2.a vagina
- I.2.b supposed sinuses in the womb
- I.2.c in poets more vaguely of the whole sinus genitalis, womb
- I.2.d of other cavities
 - II fold of a garment
 - III any bosom-like hollow:

- III.1 of the sea, first in a half-literal sense, of a sea-goddess
- III.2 bay, gulf
- III.3 vale
- III.4 of a fortified site, salient
- III.5 bottom of the chariot
- III.6 fistulous ulcer which spreads under the skin
- IV in Tactics, enveloping force

TDNT: κόλπος (3:824–826)

“At a meal the place of the guest of honour, hence figuratively to express an inward relationship” (824).

“In the NT we find κόλπος as a ‘bosom,’ ‘lap’ in John 13:23: ‘at supper he took the place of honour on Jesus’ breast’. Applied figuratively to membership of the community, we find the same motif in [2 Clement 4:5] in an unknown saying of the Lord...[the Greek follows; see AFGTET 142 for the Greek, and AFGTET 143 for this translation: “For this reason, if you do these things, the Lord has said, ‘If you are gathered with me close to my breast (ἐν τῷ κόλπῳ μου), yet you do not keep my commandments, I will throw you out and say to you: “Get away from me; I do not know where you are from, you evildoers (ἐργαται ἀνομίας)”’.”]. Without the idea of a meal it expresses closest fellowship in John 1:18.”

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 109:4

Key Phrases

bosom of eternity 1 | DC 88:13

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary There’s also a use in a note to JS-H in the scriptures. It could appear elsewhere.

BOWELS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The intestines of an animal; the entrails, especially of man. The heart.
- 2 The interior part of any thing; as the bowels of the earth.
- 3 The seat of pity or kindness; hence, tenderness, compassion, a scriptural sense.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Philippians 1:8

Philippians 2:1

Greek New Testament

σπλαγχνίζω

BDAG 834a (This word is listed as the middle/passive form, so the definitions below correspond to that form.)

- have pity, feel sympathy

CGL 1280a, PDF 1320 (This word is listed as the middle/passive form, so the definitions below correspond to that form.)

- have sympathy, feel pity

LSJ 1628a, PDF 1699

II feel pity, compassion, or mercy

Some NT uses

Matthew 9:36

Luke 7:13

Luke 10:33

Luke 15:20

σπλάγχνον

BDAG 834a 1 the inward parts of a body, including especially the viscera, inward parts, entrails

- 2 as often in the ancient world, inner body parts served as referents for psychological aspects (see καρδιά): of the seat of the emotions, in our usage a transference is made to the rendering heart... (on English “bowels” in this sense see OED s.v. bowel sb. 3), in our literature mostly as the seat and source of love...sympathy, and mercy
- 3 by metonymy [from meaning #2], of the feeling itself, plural love, affection

CGL 1280a, PDF 1320 (This word is listed as the middle/passive form, so the definitions below correspond to that form.)

- 1 plural internal organs of a sacrificial animal; innards, offal (eaten by participants at a sacrifice)
- 2 (collective singular referring to human organs) lungs or guts; spleen
- 3 womb
- 4 (figurative, singular and plural) inner organs as the seat of emotions, heart, guts (as the seat of anxiety); (of impetuosity or violence); (of anger); (of pity) [NT mentioned here]; (of love); (of eager enthusiasm); (referring to one’s innermost nature or character) heart

LSJ 1628a, PDF 1699

•

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 6

DC 121:3

DC 121:4

DC 121:45

Key Phrases

bowels of mercy 4 | Colossians 3:12; Mosiah 15:9; Alma 26:37; 34:15

Bible anchor verses

Colossians 3:12 Ἐνδύσασθε οὖν ὡς ἐκλεκτοὶ τοῦ θεοῦ, ἅγιοι καὶ ἠγαπημένοι, σπλάγχνα οἰκτιρμοῦ, χρηστότητα, ταπεινοφροσύνην, πραύτητα, μακροθυμίαν,

Commentary See also 1 John 3:17; Alma 7:12; 3 Nephi 17:6–7; DC 101:9; DC 121:3–4

BREAD

Scriptural Usage

Total occurrences of “bread” in the scriptures 391

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 80

John 6:31
John 6:32 (2)
John 6:33
John 6:34
John 6:35
John 6:41
John 6:48
John 6:50
John 6:51 (3)
John 6:58 (2)

BUFFET

Scriptural Usage

KJV

Matthew 5:25–26 • These verses don't use the term "buffet," but it may be a way of understanding a similar idea.

New Testament

KJV

2 Corinthians 12:7

Greek New Testament

κολαφίζω

BDAG 492a

- 1 to strike sharply, esp. with the hand, strike with the fist, beat, cuff
- 2 to cause physical impairment, torment, , fig. extension of 1, of painful attacks of an illness, described as a physical beating by a messenger of Satan 2 Cor 12:7. The data for a scientific diagnosis are few, and it is not surprising that a variety of views, characterized by much guesswork, have been held: epilepsy, hysteria, periodic depression, headaches/severe eye trouble, malaria, leprosy, an impediment in speech
 - It does mention very briefly that many people formerly favored an interpretation of this term in 2 Corinthians 12 where it had more to do with inward temptations.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 78:12

DC 82:21

DC 132:26

Key Phrases

buffetings of Satan 6 | 2 Corinthians 12:7; DC 78:12; DC 82:21; DC 104:9; DC 104:10; DC 132:26

Bible anchor verses

2 Corinthians 12:7 καὶ τῇ ὑπερβολῇ τῶν ἀποκαλύψεων. διὸ ἵνα μὴ ὑπεραίρωμαι, ἐδόθη μοι σκόλοψ τῇ σαρκί, ἄγγελος Σατανᾶ, ἵνα με κολαφίζῃ, ἵνα μὴ ὑπεραίρωμαι.

Commentary —

Commentary and Studies

Ken Openshaw's discussion of the "buffetings of Satan" (January 2023)

Our objective in coming to this Earth is to become like God in every way: characteristics, eternal body, glory, power, priesthood, fatherhood, and etcetera. We call becoming like God in every way, Eternal Life. For many years, I considered the Buffetings of Satan only in a negative way. I viewed it as a punishment inflicted upon those who disobeyed. I now view the Buffetings of Satan as more of a gift, a blessing provided to those who are in need of a certain experience to overcome weaknesses or be exposed to something that they have not been exposed to but is required in order to become like God in every way.

Christ's work and his glory is to bring to pass the Immortality and Eternal Life of man. (Moses 1:39) He accomplishes His part through (1) His Resurrection; (2) His Atonement and (3) His Example. The resurrection provides every individual who comes to this earth with an eternal body regardless of anything we do. The atonement gifts to those of us who have faith in Jesus Christ and accept His atonement the ability to be forgiven of any act we do (through repentance) or is done to us (freely) that separates us from God. His example gives us the "road map" of what we must do to become like Jesus Christ and therefore like the Father. This example shows us what Christ did to become like the Father and therefore what we must do to become like the Father.

Christ could not have become like the Father if He did not do everything that His Father did. (John 5:19) This means that Christ had to control his earthly body, confront Satan, love every son and daughter born to the Father and perform the atonement, among other things. It is therefore logical that we cannot become like the Father if we do not do everything that Christ did.

We have two barriers in this life that limit our doing everything that Christ did: (1) we never have the opportunity and (2) we are incapable of doing what Christ did through physical or mental limitations or spiritual weaknesses. God's plan permits us to overcome these barriers through the Atonement and the Buffetings of Satan.

The Atonement cleanses us from any act that separates us from God. Regardless of how many times we sincerely ask for cleansing, even for repeated offenses, we receive it. (Moroni 6:8) By being cleansed, we are empowered to try again to change our behavior or overcome that situation that we cannot control. The Atonement does not, however, take away that weakness. We are the ones who have to work at resolving that issue that separates us from God. The scriptures call this process of becoming perfected "...paying the penalty of our transgressions." (DC 138:59) John described the Savior's efforts in overcoming the weaknesses of man as Christ's obtaining His fullness by receiving Grace for Grace and then continuing in Grace to Grace. (DC 93:11-12) Christ received grace (forgiveness) every time he did something that separated Him from God and since He never repeated those acts, he continued from grace to the next time He needed grace.

The Buffetings of Satan is that process that permits Satan to tempt, challenge, confront and test us with essential experiences that are required to become like the Father. Since we all have different life experiences, The Buffetings of Satan is one of the blessings that the Father provides as part of His Plan that permits us to have those essential experiences that will permit us to become like Him.

The Buffetings of Satan can be experienced while we are on this earth or in the Spirit World. (DC 132:26) Therefore every experience that we lack to become a God will be provided as long as we desire to continue progressing.

Because Satan's ability to test us can overpower us if we are not ready for the challenge, Satan is generally limited on what he is permitted to do to us. These limitations are controlled by God and as we request and are ready, He eases these restrictions so we can progress through our personal development. Eventually, if we continue our progression, we will be given the opportunity to confront Satan in his full power and capacity as well as confront every weakness we need to overcome.

CARNAL

See also

Devilish, Flesh, Sensual

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Pertaining to flesh; fleshly; sensual; opposed to spiritual; as carnal pleasure.
- 2 Being in the natural state; unregenerate. The carnal mind is enmity against God. Romans 8:7.
- 3 Pertaining to the ceremonial law; as carnal ordinances. Hebrews 9:10.
- 4 Lecherous; lustful; libidinous; given to sensual indulgence.

Buck's Theological Dictionary (1833)

Key Phrases

carnal mind For this phrase, see Mind.

CERTAINTY, SURETY

See also

See,

Book of Mormon

Helaman 14:4

3 Nephi 5:1–2

Commentary and Studies

Certainty through seeing or other empirical experiences

See this study at See.

CHARITY

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

2 Nephi 26:30

Ether 12:33–

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 124:116

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- There are a couple places in the scriptures where “charity” and “love” are mentioned separately, as though they are distinct; see DC 4:5 for some notes.

Faith, hope, and charity

See this study at Faith.

CHRIST (JESUS)

This entry is for discussion of the individual called Jesus Christ.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

Χριστός

BDAG 971b

- 1 fulfiller of Israelite expectation of a deliverer, the Anointed One, the Messiah, the Christ, appellative...ἐπισημαίνεται ποῦ ὁ Χριστός γεννᾶται he inquired where the Messiah was to be born (Matthew 2:4)...etc. The transition to sense 2 [below] is marked by certain passages in which Χριστός does not mean the Messiah in general (even when the reference is to Jesus), but a very definite Messiah, Jesus, who is now called Christ not as a title but as a name
- 2 the personal name ascribed to Jesus, Christ, which many gentiles must have understood in this way (to them it seemed very much like Χρηστός...a name that is found in literature light of Christ See here.

Key Phrases

spirit of Christ See here.

Commentary and Studies

Christ progressing

- Philippians 2:5–11
 - Potentially, I’m not sure.
- DC 93, many parts of it, especially from the beginning up to and including verse 22.
- 3 Nephi 12:48, with the difference to Matthew 5:48, in that Christ is now also perfect.
- Orson Pratt, 28 August 1852, Deseret News Extra, 16a, first new paragraph

Titles for Jesus Christ

advocate See DC 45:3 and my notes there.

Alpha/Omega See Revelation 1:8 and DC 95:17. Could be referring to eternal lives/eternal round stuff.

mediator See Hebrews 12:24 and DC 76:69.

mighty one of Israel See Isaiah 1:24, Isaiah 30:29, 1 Nephi 22:12, and DC 36:1

only begotten I understand this term to refer to Christ as the only individual who receives life and power directly through Heavenly Father; we receive it through Christ. See Moses 4:1 and notes around there.

- Similarly, see DC 93:12–14, along with Mosiah 15:1–5.

The in-dwelling relationship of Christ and the Father, and Christ and us

See:

- John 15:1–11
- John 17
 - Not the entire chapter, but it does appear several times.
- 2 Corinthians 5
 - The idea occurs a few times in this chapter.
- Galatians 2:20
- Galatians 3:26–29
- Ephesians 1:10–11
- Philippians 3:8–14
- Mosiah 15:1–5
- 3 Nephi 1:14
- 3 Nephi 9:15
- 3 Nephi 11:27
- 3 Nephi 19:23
- 3 Nephi 19:29
- 3 Nephi 28:10
- DC 35:2
 - See my notes here, I have a lot of connections to other verses.
- DC 93:16–17

Christ filling a certain role in the plan of salvation

- 2 Corinthians 1:19–20
- DC 13 and my note on “Messiah”
- DC 18:21–25, which is a discussion of the name of Christ, but especially verses 23–24 talk about the name in an unusual way I think

Christ experiencing temptation

See this study.

Other aspects of Christ’s character

- Philippians 2:5–11
- Colossians 1:9–29
 - These verses go with places like DC 93 and DC 88, in giving us very fundamental knowledge about Christ’s character.
- Jarom 1:11—something really interesting about the temporal nature of Christ and the atonement. There is another verse, maybe in Jacob or 2 Nephi, that says similar things, I think.
- Mosiah 7:27
- Mosiah 13:34
- Mosiah 15:1–5

CHURCH

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 10:67 Behold, this is my doctrine—whosoever repenteth and cometh unto me, the same is my church.

Key Phrases

church of Enoch 1 | DC 76:67

church of the firstborn 10 | Colossians 1:18; Hebrews 12:23; DC 76:54, 67, 71, 94, 102; DC 77:11, DC 78:21; DC 88:5; DC 93:22; DC 107:19

Bible anchor verses

Hebrews 12:23 καὶ ἐκκλησίᾳ πρωτοτόκων ἀπογεγραμμένων ἐν οὐρανοῖς, καὶ κριτῇ θεῷ πάντων, καὶ πνεύμασι δικαίων τετελειωμένων,

Commentary Note that the “firstborn” bit in the Hebrews verse is in genitive plural, not singular.

DC 76:94 says, “They who dwell in his [God the Father’s] presence are the church of the Firstborn.”

DC 93:22 says, “And all those who are begotten through me are partakers of the glory of the same, and are the church of the Firstborn.”

Commentary and Studies

Who is the “church”?

See DC 10:67; other scriptures related to this?

COMPOUND

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- A mass or body formed by the union or mixture of two or more ingredients or different substances; the result of composition.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 2

Exodus 30:25 And thou shalt make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the apothecary: it shall be an holy anointing oil.

Exodus 30:33 Whosoever compoundeth any like it, or whosoever putteth any of it upon a stranger, shall even be cut off from his people.

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 0

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 2

2 Nephi 2:11

Alma 43:13

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 0

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

COMFORTER

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

John 14:16

- See also verses 17–18 here.

John 14:26

John 15:26

John 16:7–11

Greek New Testament

παράκλητος

BDAG 680b originally meant in the passive sense...(but παράκλητος is restored from παρακλος, and the restoration is uncertain), ‘one who is called to someone’s aid’. Accordingly Latin writers commonly rendered it, in its NT occurrences, with ‘advocatus’...but the technical meaning ‘lawyer’, ‘attorney’ is rare...In the few places where the word is found in pre-Christian and extra-Christian literature as well it has for the most part a more general sense: one who appears in another’s behalf, mediator, intercessor, helper...the Greek interpreters of John’s gospel understood it in the active sense...in our literature the active sense helper, intercessor is suitable in all occurrences of the word...in 1 John 2:1...Christ is designated as παράκλητος: παράκλητον ἔχομεν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν δίκαιον we have Jesus Christ the righteous one, who intercedes for us. The same title is implied for Christ by the ἄλλος παράκλητος of John 14:16. It is only the Holy Spirit that is expressly called παράκλητος = Helper in the Fourth Gospel.

CGL 1069b, PDF 1109

- 1 one who is called in (to help), supporter (in a lawcourt) (Demosthenes)
- 2 (referring to the Holy Spirit) counsellor, advocate (New Testament)

LSJ 1313a, PDF 1384

- I.1 called to one’s aid, in a court of justice: as substantive, legal assistant, advocate
- I.2 summoned, δοῦλοι
- II intercessor; hence in NT, Παράκλητος, of the Holy Spirit (John 14:16, cf. 1 John 2:1)

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 23

DC 21:9 For, behold, I will bless all those who labor in my vineyard with a mighty blessing, and they shall believe on his words, which are given him through me by the Comforter, which manifesteth that Jesus was crucified by sinful men for the sins of the world, yea, for the remission of sins unto the contrite heart.

- See the JSP version, which is slightly different (not in the specific “Comforter” part though).

DC 28:1 BEHOLD, I say unto thee, Oliver, that it shall be given unto thee that thou shalt be heard by the church in all things whatsoever thou shalt teach them by the Comforter, concerning the revelations and commandments which I have given.

DC 28:4 And if thou art led at any time by the Comforter to speak or teach, or at all times by the way of commandment unto the church, thou mayest do it.

DC 35:19

COMPREHEND

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To contain; to include; to comprise.
- 2 To imply; to contain or include by implication or construction.
- 3 To understand; to conceive; that is, to take, hold or contain in the mind; to possess or to have in idea.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 2

Job 37:5

Isaiah 40:12

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 3

John 1:5

Romans 13:9 • The Greek word here is ἀνακεφαλαιόομαι, which just means “to summarize.”

Ephesians 3:18

Greek New Testament

καταλαμβάνω

BDAG 460b

- 1 to make something one's own, win, attain (There is a lengthy discussion here of the meaning in John 1:5, starting at the beginning of page 520, PDF 301; “the darkness did not grasp it,” “the darkness did not overcome it,” though I definitely like “attain” and “win” here too.)
- 2 to gain control of someone through pursuit, catch up with, seize
- 3 to come upon someone, with implication of surprise, catch
- 4 to process information, understand, grasp
 - John 1:5 is mentioned here but it refers you back to meanings #1 and #2.

NIDNTTE 3:83 “καταλαμβάνω occurs 13x (plus 2x in the story of the woman ‘caught’ in adultery, John 8:3–4). In negative contexts, it is used of an evil spirit “seizing” a boy and throwing him to the ground (Mark 9:18), of darkness not ‘overcoming’ or ‘understanding’ the light (John 1:5; similar to John 12:35), and of the final day ‘overtaking’ unprepared Christians (‘surprise you like a thief,’ 1 Thessalonians 5:4). The remaining occurrences are positive. Paul does not claim that he has ‘already obtained [λαμβάνω]’ or ‘taken hold of [καταλαμβάνω]’ the goal of his high calling (Philippians 3:12a, 13, but rather: ‘I press on to take hold of that for which Christ Jesus took hold of me [διώκω δὲ εἰ καὶ καταλάβω, ἐφ’ ᾧ καὶ κατελήμφθην ὑπὸ Χριστοῦ]’ (3:12b). In contrast to Israelites who have not responded to the gospel, Gentiles have ‘obtained’ righteousness through faith (Romans 9:30; NRSV, ‘attained’). Believers are exhorted to run their spiritual race so they can ‘win’ the victor’s imperishable crown of eternal life (1 Corinthians 9:24, in parallel with λαμβάνω). The middle voice can denote mental grasping, thus ‘to comprehend, understand, realize’ (Acts 4:13; 10:34; 25:25), and it is used in Ephesians 3:18 of understanding the extent of God’s love (cf. English comprehend, from Latin prehendere, ‘to grasp’).”

TDNT 4:12

- “κατα— orig. ‘from above to below,’ hence completely, so that καταλαμβάνω is a strengthening of the simple form.
 - Note that the use of “comprehend” in DC 88:6 involves Christ “ascending on high” and “descending below” all things, in keeping with the effect that κατα has on λαμβάνω, if we read that verse as referring to John 1:5.
- “In the NT a point which has emerged already from this review comes out with particular clarity, namely, that κατά gives to the simple form the character either of intensity (to grasp with force, Mt. 9:18) or of suddenness (to surprise, 1 Th. 5:4 [Jn. 8:3 f. R D etc.; 6:17 ✕ D]; Jn. 12:35 of the time after the death of Jesus). The epistemological nature of the term (→ c. and I, 692) is not to be seen except in Lk. (Ac.).”
- “The act is used a. in the positive sense of ‘to attain definitively,’ in R. 9:30 in respect of the righteousness of faith, and paradoxically, without any effort (the element of lighting upon or overtaking is still discernible, as in the next passage), or in Phil. 3:12b, 13 in respect of close fellowship with Christ provisionally demonstrated in dying with Him and consummated by the resurrection (with the pneumatic body). The Christian must constantly seek this. He must strive to overtake it. He will finally possess it in the ἐξανάστασις. It must be affirmed afresh each day in the life of faith until it is finally consummated in the resurrection. Cf. also Phil. 3:12c, of the Christian whom Christ draws fully into this fellowship of death and resurrection, and 1 C. 9:24 of the Christian’s crown of victory, i.e., the consummation of this fellowship == ζωὴ αἰώνιος. It is also used in the negative sense ‘to overpower,’ Jn. 1:5: The darkness of separation from God has not succeeded in overcoming the light, the new religious life, which is present in the Logos, in the divine Christ. It has not been able to vanquish the power of His light. By the very existence of this light the whole sphere of night is overcome and deprived of its power.”
- “Corresponding is the use of the middle (only in the intellectual sphere): ‘to establish’ (Ac. 4:13; 25:25), ‘to grasp fundamentally,’ ‘to appropriate to oneself inwardly’ (Ac. 10:34; Eph. 3:18: the all-permeating greatness of the ἀγάπη τοῦ χριστοῦ.”

Some NT uses

John 1:5

Ephesians 3:18

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 4

Mosiah 4:9 (2)

Alma 26:35

Mormon 9:16

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 12

DC 6:21

DC 10:58

DC 34:2

DC 39:2

DC 45:7

DC 88:6

DC 88:41

DC 88:43

DC 88:48

DC 88:49 (2)

DC 88:67

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 2

Note that the second use in the PGP is to a JS-H note.

Abraham 4:4

CONDEMNATION

Joseph Smith

8 April 1843, Joseph Smith Diary (?) Knowledge does away darkness, suspense and doubt, for where Knowledge is there is no doubt nor suspense nor darkness. There is no pain so awful as the pain of suspense. this is the condemnation of the wicked; their doubt and anxiety and suspense causes weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth. (See my PDF WJS page 125 for this remark, not sure of the exact source.)

CONDESCENSION

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Condescension

- Voluntary descent from rank, dignity or just claims; relinquishment of strict right; submission to inferiors in granting requests or performing acts which strict justice does not require. Hence, courtesy.

Condescend

- 1 To descend from the privileges of superior rank or dignity, to do some act to an inferior, which strict justice or the ordinary rules of civility do not require. Hence, to submit or yield, as to an inferior, implying an occasional relinquishment of distinction.
- 2 To recede from ones rights in negotiation, or common intercourse, to do some act, which strict justice does not require.
- 3 To stoop or descend; to yield; to submit; implying a relinquishment of rank, or dignity of character, and sometimes a sinking into debasement.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 1

Romans 12:16 Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits.

Greek New Testament

συναπάγω

BDAG 858a

- in our literature only pasive and only figurative
- 1 to cause someone in conjunction with others to go astray in belief, lead away with
- 2 to adjust to a condition or circumstance, accommodate (BDAG lists Romans 12:16 under this meaning, but the discussion of meaning #3 leaves it open that the verse could be referring to people as well—it depends on whether you are taking the τοῖς ταπεινοῖς to refer to people or things. A gloss on the verse with meaning #2 for συναπάγω would be “accommodate yourself to humble ways,” which I like.)
- 3 to join the company of others, associate with

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 5

1 Nephi 11:16

1 Nephi 11:26
2 Nephi 4:26
2 Nephi 9:53
Jacob 4:7

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 0

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 1
JS-H Note 5

Commentary and Studies

“Condescension” in 1 Nephi 11

The word “condescension” appears twice in 1 Nephi 11, in verses 16 and 26. Here they are:

And he saith unto me: Knowest thou the condescension of God?

And the angel said unto me again: Look and behold the condescension of God!

Pretty brief verses, so we need the context to understand what is going on. Nephi is seeing an elaboration of Lehi’s dream about the tree. He learns about Christ being born with a mortal mother and then in verse 26 he is instructed to “Look and behold the condescension of God!” He looks and sees Christ doing a number of different things in the next three verses, including being baptized (27), ministering to people and being thrown out from their society (28), and gathering disciples (29). So the “condescension of God” has something to do with Christ doing those things, or actions like those.

Nephi speaks elsewhere, in 2 Nephi 31:5–7, about how extraordinary it is that Christ was baptized. So there’s a connection to make there between what he sees in chapter 11 and what he later teaches about the baptism in 2 Nephi 31. Maybe what he saw in the baptism really stuck with him.

Another thing to note is that the definitions of συναπάγω are not that helpful in understanding the term in 1 Nephi. “Condescension” only appears once in the KJV NT, and the definitions of συναπάγω have to do with accommodating yourself to new circumstances or being willing to associate with people that you normally wouldn’t. That isn’t what is being described in 1 Nephi 11, where it refers more to Christ giving something much more significant up to come down to Earth. It isn’t totally clear to me what he abandons; in Alma 5:50, for example, we learn that Christ comes “in his glory” (compare 1 Nephi 11:28), so he retained at least some of what he had before. This would be a topic to study in the future.

Condescension and Adam-God

The word “condescension” as it appears in 1 Nephi 11 could be a lens through which you could see Adam-God material there. The “condescension” is the losing of the glory, or part of the glory, that accompanies an exalted being.

CONDITION

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

The first five meanings here give a meaning of “condition” where it is synonymous with “situation” or “circumstance.” The other three meanings have a more legal flavor and are much more interesting for the scriptures.

- 1 State; a particular mode of being; applied to external circumstances, to the body, to the mind, and to things.
- 2 Quality; property; attribute.
- 3 State of mind; temper; temperament; complexion.
- 4 Moral quality; virtue or vice.
- 5 Rank, that is, state with respect to the orders or grades of society, or to property
- 6 Terms of a contract or covenant; stipulation; that is, that which is set, fixed, established or proposed.
- 7 A clause in a bond, or other contract containing terms or a stipulation that it is to be performed, and in case of failure, the penalty of the bond is to be incurred.
- 8 Terms given, or provided, as the ground of something else; that which is established, or to be done, or to happen, as requisite to another act

Intransitive verb

- To make terms; to stipulate.

Transitive verb

- To contract; to stipulate.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 1

1 Samuel 11:2 And Nahash the Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thrust out all your right eyes, and lay it for a reproach upon all Israel. (“Condition” is in italics here, and so are “a covenant” and “for” at the end.)

Hebrew Bible

The word “condition” in 1 Samuel 11:2 does not represent a Hebrew word, and is added just to make the passage more comprehensible in English. The Hebrew just says בְּזֶה, “by this” or “with this.”

Septuagint

In the part corresponding to “condition” in the KJV, 1 Samuel 11:2 in the LXX has ἐν ταύτῃ.

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 1

Luke 14:32 Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassage, and desireth conditions of peace.

Greek New Testament

Similarly to the OT in Hebrew and Greek, the NT Greek uses “conditions” to flesh out the meaning of Luke 14:32. The Greek just has τὰ πρὸς εἰρήνην.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 14

Mosiah 4:8 And this is the means whereby salvation cometh. And there is none other salvation save this which hath been spoken of; neither are there any conditions whereby man can be saved except the conditions which I have told you.

Mosiah 19:15 Therefore the Lamanites did spare their lives, and took them captives and carried them back to the land of Nephi, and granted unto them that they might possess the land, under the conditions that they would deliver up king Noah into the hands of the Lamanites, and deliver up their property, even one half of all they possessed, one half of their gold, and their silver, and all their precious things, and thus they should pay tribute to the king of the Lamanites from year to year.

Alma 5:10 And now I ask of you on what conditions are they saved? Yea, what grounds had they to hope for salvation? What is the cause of their being loosed from the bands of death, yea, and also the chains of hell?

Alma 17:15 Thus they were a very indolent people, many of whom did worship idols, and the curse of God had fallen upon them because of the traditions of their fathers; notwithstanding the promises of the Lord were extended unto them on the conditions of repentance.

Alma 27:24 And now behold, this will we do unto our brethren, that they may inherit the land Jershon; and we will guard them from their enemies with our armies, on condition that they will give us a portion of their substance to assist us that we may maintain our armies.

Alma 42:13 Therefore, according to justice, the plan of redemption could not be brought about, only on conditions of repentance of men in this probationary state, yea, this preparatory state; for except it were for these conditions, mercy could not take effect except it should destroy the work of justice. Now the work of justice could not be destroyed; if so, God would cease to be God.

Alma 44:11 Now I cannot recall the words which I have spoken, therefore as the Lord liveth, ye shall not depart except ye depart with an oath that ye will not return again against us to war. Now as ye are in our hands we will spill your blood upon the ground, or ye shall submit to the conditions which I have proposed.

Alma 54:11 But behold, it supposeth me that I talk to you concerning these things in vain; or it supposeth me that thou art a child of hell; therefore I will close my epistle by telling you that I will not exchange prisoners, save it be on conditions that ye will deliver up a man and his wife and his children, for one prisoner; if this be the case that ye will do it, I will exchange.

Helaman 5:11 And he hath power given unto him from the Father to redeem them from their sins because of repentance; therefore he hath sent his angels to declare the tidings of the conditions of repentance, which bringeth unto the power of the Redeemer, unto the salvation of their souls.

Helaman 14:11 And ye shall hear my words, for, for this intent have I come up upon the walls of this city, that ye might hear and know of the judgments of God which do await you because of your iniquities, and also that ye might know the conditions of repentance;

Helaman 14:18 Yea, and it bringeth to pass the condition of repentance, that whosoever repenteth the same is not hewn down and cast into the fire; but whosoever repenteth not is hewn down and cast into the fire; and there cometh upon them again a spiritual death, yea, a second death, for they are cut off again as to things pertaining to righteousness.

Helaman 16:11 And these were the conditions also, in the eighty and eighth year of the reign of the judges.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 11

- DC 18:12 And he hath risen again from the dead, that he might bring all men unto him, on conditions of repentance.
- DC 46:15 And again, to some it is given by the Holy Ghost to know the differences of administration, as it will be pleasing unto the same Lord, according as the Lord will, suiting his mercies according to the conditions of the children of men.
- DC 88:38–39 And unto every kingdom is given a law; and unto every law there are certain bounds also and conditions. 39 All beings who abide not in those conditions are not justified.
- DC 109:65 And cause that the remnants of Jacob, who have been cursed and smitten because of their transgression, be converted from their wild and savage condition to the fulness of the everlasting gospel;
- DC 113:10 We are to understand that the scattered remnants are exhorted to return to the Lord from whence they have fallen; which if they do, the promise of the Lord is that he will speak to them, or give them revelation. See the 6th, 7th, and 8th verses. The bands of her neck are the curses of God upon her, or the remnants of Israel in their scattered condition among the Gentiles.
- DC 132:5 For all who will have a blessing at my hands shall abide the law which was appointed for that blessing, and the conditions thereof, as were instituted from before the foundation of the world.
- DC 132:7 And verily I say unto you, that the conditions of this law are these: All covenants, contracts, bonds, obligations, oaths, vows, performances, connections, associations, or expectations, that are not made and entered into and sealed by the Holy Spirit of promise, of him who is anointed, both as well for time and for all eternity, and that too most holy, by revelation and commandment through the medium of mine anointed, whom I have appointed on the earth to hold this power (and I have appointed unto my servant Joseph to hold this power in the last days, and there is never but one on the earth at a time on whom this power and the keys of this priesthood are conferred), are of no efficacy, virtue, or force in and after the resurrection from the dead; for all contracts that are not made unto this end have an end when men are dead.
- DC 132:17 For these angels did not abide my law; therefore, they cannot be enlarged, but remain separately and singly, without exaltation, in their saved condition, to all eternity; and from henceforth are not gods, but are angels of God forever and ever.
- DC 138:19 And there he preached to them the everlasting gospel, the doctrine of the resurrection and the redemption of mankind from the fall, and from individual sins on conditions of repentance.
- DC OD1:16

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Key Phrases

condition(s) of repentance 7 | Alma 17:15; 42:13; Helaman 5:11; 14:11, 14:18; DC 18:12; DC 138:19
Commentary See this study below, and consider this idea in light of DC 88:38.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- The “conditions of repentance” are the terms on which repentance works. The scriptures mention several of these conditions—see below for citations:
 - Whoever repents “is not hewn down and cast into the fire.”
 - The promises of the Lord are extended to us when we repent.
 - The plan of redemption works only through repentance.
 - Mercy cannot take effect in our lives without repentance.
 - Repentance brings us to the power of the Redeemer.
 - Individual sins are resolved through repentance.
 -

Conditions of repentance

The word “condition” is part of a very important phrase in the scriptures, the “conditions of repentance.” This phrase occurs seven times in the scriptures, all in the BOM and DC. Here are a couple examples, first from Helaman 5:11:

And he hath power given unto him from the Father to redeem them from their sins because of repentance. Therefore he hath sent his angels to declare the tidings of the conditions of repentance, which bringeth unto the power of the Redeemer, unto the salvation of their souls.

The next is Helaman 14:17–18:

But behold, the resurrection of Christ redeemeth mankind, yea, even all mankind, and bringeth them back into the presence of the Lord. 18 Yea, and it bringeth to pass the conditions of repentance, that whosoever repenteth, the same is not hewn down and cast into the fire. But whosoever repenteth not is hewn down and cast into the fire. And there cometh upon them again a spiritual death, yea, a second death, for they are cut off again as to things pertaining to righteousness.

I think the word “condition” in this phrase is used in its more legal sense, corresponding to meanings #6, #7, and #8 above. All three of those definitions revolve around the idea of terms in a contract. So the conditions of repentance are the terms on which the repentance “agreement” or law works. Helaman 14:18 actually gives a statement of these terms, or at least one of them—it is that whoever repents “is not hewn down and cast into the fire.” That’s a condition, or term in the contract, according to which repentance works.

There are other conditions as well. Alma 17:15 gives one, that the promises of the Lord are extended to us when we repent. Alma 42:13 gives us two more: that the plan of redemption works only through repentance, and mercy cannot take effect in our lives without repentance. Helaman 5:11 adds that repentance brings us to the power of the Redeemer; DC 138:19 says that individual sins are resolved through repentance.

So the conditions are the terms according to which repentance works. Repentance is a rule- or law-governed activity, and the conditions are those rules or laws which govern it. When we know the rules, we can receive the good that comes from repentance (meaning #8 above). When we know the rules, we know how to repent.

We could probably add other conditions to the list as well. The frequent instruction to be baptized for repentance probably fits in here, especially as stated to clearly and forcefully in a place like 3 Nephi 27:20. See also the study on remission of sin and fulfilling the commandments, especially which commandments.

There’s also an interesting connection to be made from Helaman 5:11 and the idea of Christ receiving power to redeem from the Father. Christ receives this power and is able to do what he does. Moroni 7:27 says that Christ claims “of the Father his rights of mercy.” “Rights” is another legal-sounding term here. See the meanings of that word in 1828.

Conditions and laws

Specifically thinking of DC 88:38, you can combine the two groups of meanings of condition to understand that verse as referring to the specific situations in which the laws apply, or as giving the circumstances for application of the laws.

This topic deserves more study, however.

See also DC 132:5 and 7, plus other verses in that section;

CONSECRATION, CONSECRATE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Consecrate

- 1 To make or declare to be sacred, by certain ceremonies or rites; to appropriate to sacred uses; to set apart, dedicate, or devote, to the service and worship of God.
- 2 To canonize; to exalt to the rank of a saint; to enroll among the gods, as a Roman emperor.
- 3 To set apart and bless the elements in the eucharist.
- 4 To render venerable; to make respected; as, rules or principles consecrated by time.

Consecration

- 1 The act or ceremony of separating from a common to a sacred use, or of devoting and dedicating a person or thing to the service and worship of God, by certain rites or solemnities.
- 2 Canonization; the act of translating into heaven, and enrolling or numbering among the saints or gods; the ceremony of the apotheosis of an emperor.
- 3 The benediction of the elements in the eucharist; the act of setting apart and blessing the elements in the communion.

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 23

2 Nephi 1:7
2 Nephi 1:32
2 Nephi 2:2
2 Nephi 3:2
2 Nephi 5:26
2 Nephi 6:2
2 Nephi 10:19
2 Nephi 32:9
2 Nephi 33:4
Jacob 1:18
Mosiah 2:11
Mosiah 6:3
Mosiah 11:5
Mosiah 23:17
Alma 2:9
Alma 4:4
Alma 4:7
Alma 5:3
Alma 15:13
Alma 23:4
3 Nephi 20:19

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 42
DC 49:20

Restoration Usage

Temple Ordinances

Law of consecration We are instructed to give unto you the law of consecration as contained in the book of Doctrine and Covenants, in connection with the law of the gospel and the law of sacrifice, which you have already received. It is that you do consecrate yourselves, your time, talents, and everything with which the Lord has blessed you, or with which he may bless you, to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, for the building up of the kingdom of God on the earth and for the establishment of Zion.

CORRUPTION, CORRUPT

See also

Incorruption,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Corruption

- 1 The act of corrupting, or state of being corrupt or putrid; the destruction of the natural form of bodies, by the separation of the component parts, or by disorganization, in the process of putrefaction.
- 2 Putrid matter; pus.
- 3 Putrescence; a foul state occasioned by putrefaction.
- 4 Depravity; wickedness; perversion or deterioration of moral principles; loss of purity or integrity.
- 5 Debasement; taint; or tendency to a worse state.
- 6 Impurity; depravation; debasement; as a corruption of language.
- 7 Bribery. He obtained his suit by corruption.
- 8 In law, taint; impurity of blood, in consequence of an act of attainder of treason or felony, by which a person is disabled to inherit lands from an ancestor, nor can retain those in his possession, nor transmit them by descent to his heirs.

Corrupt (adjective)

- 1 Changed from a sound to a putrid state, as by natural decomposition.
- 2 Spoiled; tainted; vitiated; unsound; as corrupt air, or bread.
- 3 Depraved; vitiated; tainted with wickedness.
- 4 Debased; rendered impure; changed to a worse state; as corrupt language.
- 5 Not genuine; infected with errors or mistakes. The text is corrupt.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Corruption

Total occurrences in the NT 13

Acts 2:27 Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

Acts 2:31 He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption.

Acts 13:34 And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, I will give you the sure mercies of David.

Acts 13:35 Wherefore he saith also in another psalm, Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

Acts 13:36 For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption:

Acts 13:37 But he, whom God raised again, saw no corruption.

Romans 8:21 Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

1 Corinthians 15:42 So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:

1 Corinthians 15:50 Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

Galatians 6:8 For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

2 Peter 1:4 Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

2 Peter 2:12 But these, as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not; and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

2 Peter 2:19 While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

Greek New Testament

φθαρτός

BDAG 937b

- subject to decay/destruction, perishable
 - BDAG glosses τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο in 1 Corinthians 15:53 as “this perishable (nature).”

CGL 1460a, PDF 1500

- (of things) perishable (Aristotle); neuter substantive, that which is perishable (opposite the eternal Forms) (Aristotle)

LSJ 1927b, PDF 1998

- destructible, perishable, opposite αἰδιος

φθορά

BDAG 938b

- 1 breakdown of organic matter, dissolution, deterioration, corruption
- 2 destruction of a fetus, abortion
- 3 ruination of a person through an immoral act, seduction
- 4 inward depravity, depravity
- 5 total destruction of an entity, destruction

CGL 1462a, PDF 1502

- 1 destruction (of a city, camp, crops); death and destruction (especially caused by wars, floods, fires, or similar)
- 2 (generally) destruction, obliteration (of something) (philosophical often as a description of death, opposite birth and creation) (Aristotle, New Testament)
- 3 death (of a certain person)
- 4 loss of life (suffered by a population or army)
- 5 ruin, doom (of a race, a house)
- 6 disaster (referring to shipwreck)
- 7 pestilence, plague
- 8 wasting, squandering (of money)
- 9 decay (of a corpse, matter)
- 10 degeneration, corruption (of a form of government)
- 11 seduction (of a woman, a boy)

Total occurrences in the NT 9

Some NT uses

Romans 8:21 ὅτι καὶ αὐτὴ ἡ κτίσις ἐλευθερωθήσεται ἀπὸ τῆς δουλείας τῆς φθορᾶς εἰς τὴν ἐλευθερίαν τῆς δόξης τῶν τέκνων τοῦ θεοῦ.

1 Corinthians 15:42 Οὕτως καὶ ἡ ἀνάστασις τῶν νεκρῶν. σπείρεται ἐν φθορᾷ, ἐγείρεται ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ·

1 Corinthians 15:50 Τοῦτο δέ φημι, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα βασιλείαν θεοῦ κληρονομήσαι οὐ δύναται, οὐδὲ ἡ φθορὰ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν κληρονομεῖ.

Galatians 6:8 ὅτι ὁ σπείρων εἰς τὴν σάρκα ἑαυτοῦ ἐκ τῆς σαρκὸς θερίσει φθοράν, ὁ δὲ σπείρων εἰς τὸ πνεῦμα ἐκ τοῦ πνεύματος θερίσει ζωὴν αἰώνιον.

Colossians 2:22 ἃ ἔστιν πάντα εἰς φθοράν τῇ ἀποχρήσει, κατὰ τὰ ἐντάλματα καὶ διδασκαλίας τῶν ἀνθρώπων·

- 1 Peter 1:4 δι' ὧν τὰ τίμια καὶ μέγιστα ἡμῖν ἐπαγγέλματα δεδώρηται, ἵνα διὰ τούτων γένησθε θείας κοινωνοὶ φύσεως, ἀποφυγόντες τῆς ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ ἐν ἐπιθυμίᾳ φθορᾶς.
- 2 Peter 2:12 οὗτοι δέ, ὡς ἄλογα ζῶα γεγεννημένα φυσικὰ εἰς ἄλωσιν καὶ φθοράν, ἐν οἷς ἀγνοοῦσιν βλασφημοῦντες, ἐν τῇ φθορᾷ αὐτῶν καὶ φθαρήσονται,
- 2 Peter 2:19 ἐλευθερίαν αὐτοῖς ἐπαγγελλόμενοι, αὐτοὶ δοῦλοι ὑπάρχοντες τῆς φθορᾶς· ὃ γάρ τις ἥττηται, τούτῳ καὶ δεδούλωται.

Book of Mormon

Corruption

Total occurrences in the BOM 9

- 2 Nephi 2:11 For it must needs be, that there is an opposition in all things. If not so, my first-born in the wilderness, righteousness could not be brought to pass, neither wickedness, neither holiness nor misery, neither good nor bad. Wherefore, all things must needs be a compound in one; wherefore, if it should be one body it must needs remain as dead, having no life neither death, nor corruption nor incorruption, happiness nor misery, neither sense nor insensibility.
- 2 Nephi 9:7 Wherefore, it must needs be an infinite atonement—save it should be an infinite atonement this corruption could not put on incorruption. Wherefore, the first judgment which came upon man must needs have remained to an endless duration. And if so, this flesh must have laid down to rot and to crumble to its mother earth, to rise no more.
- Mosiah 16:10 Even this mortal shall put on immortality, and this corruption shall put on incorruption, and shall be brought to stand before the bar of God, to be judged of him according to their works whether they be good or whether they be evil—
- Alma 5:15 Do ye exercise faith in the redemption of him who created you? Do you look forward with an eye of faith, and view this mortal body raised in immortality, and this corruption raised in incorruption, to stand before God to be judged according to the deeds which have been done in the mortal body?
- Alma 11:45 Now, behold, I have spoken unto you concerning the death of the mortal body, and also concerning the resurrection of the mortal body. I say unto you that this mortal body is raised to an immortal body, that is from death, even from the first death unto life, that they can die no more; their spirits uniting with their bodies, never to be divided; thus the whole becoming spiritual and immortal, that they can no more see corruption.
- Alma 12:18 Then, I say unto you, they shall be as though there had been no redemption made; for they cannot be redeemed according to God's justice; and they cannot die, seeing there is no more corruption.
- Alma 40:2 Behold, I say unto you, that there is no resurrection—or, I would say, in other words, that this mortal does not put on immortality, this corruption does not put on incorruption—until after the coming of Christ.
- Alma 41:4 And if their works are evil they shall be restored unto them for evil. Therefore, all things shall be restored to their proper order, every thing to its natural frame—mortality raised to immortality, corruption to incorruption—raised to endless happiness to inherit the kingdom of God, or to endless misery to inherit the kingdom of the devil, the one on one hand, the other on the other—
- Mormon 6:21 And the day soon cometh that your mortal must put on immortality, and these bodies which are now moldering in corruption must soon become incorruptible bodies; and then ye must stand before the judgment-seat of Christ, to be judged according to your works; and if it so be that ye are righteous, then are ye blessed with your fathers who have gone before you.

Doctrine and Covenants

Corruption

Total occurrences in the DC 3

- DC 123:7 It is an imperative duty that we owe to God, to angels, with whom we shall be brought to stand, and also to ourselves, to our wives and children, who have been made to bow down with grief, sorrow, and care, under the most damning hand of murder, tyranny, and oppression, supported and urged on and upheld by the influence of that spirit which hath so strongly riveted the creeds of the fathers, who have inherited lies, upon the hearts of the children, and filled the world with confusion, and has been growing stronger and stronger, and is now the very mainspring of all corruption, and the whole earth groans under the weight of its iniquity.
- DC 134:12 We believe it just to preach the gospel to the nations of the earth, and warn the righteous to save themselves from the corruption of the world; but we do not believe it right to interfere with bond-servants, neither preach the gospel to, nor baptize them contrary to the will and wish of their masters, nor to meddle with or influence them in the least to cause them to be dissatisfied with their situations in this life, thereby jeopardizing the lives of men; such interference we believe to be unlawful and unjust, and dangerous to the peace of every government allowing human beings to be held in servitude.

DC 135:6 Hyrum Smith was forty-four years old in February, 1844, and Joseph Smith was thirty-eight in December, 1843; and henceforward their names will be classed among the martyrs of religion; and the reader in every nation will be reminded that the Book of Mormon, and this book of Doctrine and Covenants of the church, cost the best blood of the nineteenth century to bring them forth for the salvation of a ruined world; and that if the fire can scathe a green tree for the glory of God, how easy it will burn up the dry trees to purify the vineyard of corruption. They lived for glory; they died for glory; and glory is their eternal reward. From age to age shall their names go down to posterity as gems for the sanctified.

Pearl of Great Price

Corruption

Total occurrences in the PGP 1

JS-H Note 3 “No men, in their sober senses, could translate and write the directions given to the Nephites from the mouth of the Savior, of the precise manner in which men should build up His Church, and especially when corruption had spread an uncertainty over all forms and systems practiced among men, without desiring a privilege of showing the willingness of the heart by being buried in the liquid grave, to answer a ‘good conscience by the resurrection of Jesus Christ.’

Key Phrases

corruption/incorruption 13 | 1 Corinthians 9:25; 15:42, 50, 53, 54; 1 Peter 1:23; 2 Nephi 2:11; 9:7; Mosiah 16:10; Alma 5:15; 40:2; 41:4; Mormon 6:21

Bible anchor verses

1 Corinthians 15:42 Οὕτως καὶ ἡ ἀνάστασις τῶν νεκρῶν. σπείρεται ἐν φθορᾷ, ἐγείρεται ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ·

1 Corinthians 15:50 Τοῦτο δέ φημι, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα βασιλείαν θεοῦ κληρονομησαὶ οὐ δύναται, οὐδὲ ἡ φθορὰ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν κληρονομεῖ.

1 Corinthians 15:53 δεῖ γὰρ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀθανασίαν.

corrupt mind 4 | 2 Corinthians 11:3; 1 Timothy 6:5; 2 Timothy 3:8; DC 33:4

Bible anchor verses

2 Corinthians 11:3 φοβοῦμαι δὲ μή πως, ὡς ὁ ὄφις ἐξηπάτησεν Εὐάν ἐν τῇ πανουργίᾳ αὐτοῦ, φθαρῇ τὰ νοήματα ὑμῶν ἀπὸ τῆς ἀπλότητος καὶ τῆς ἀγνότητος τῆς εἰς τὸν Χριστόν.

1 Timothy 6:5 διαπατριβαὶ διεφθαρμένων ἀνθρώπων τὸν νοῦν καὶ ἀπεστερημένων τῆς ἀληθείας, νομιζόντων πορισμὸν εἶναι τὴν εὐσέβειαν.

- At the beginning of the verse, it's a passive form of διαφθεῖρω.

2 Timothy 3:8 ὃν τρόπον δὲ Ἰάννης καὶ Ἰαμβρῆς ἀντέστησαν Μωϋσεῖ, οὕτως καὶ οὗτοι ἀνθίστανται τῇ ἀληθείᾳ, ἄνθρωποι κατεφθαρμένοι τὸν νοῦν, ἀδόκιμοι περὶ τὴν πίστιν.

COUNT

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

λογίζομαι

BDAG 529b primarily a mathematical and accounting term, then of cognitive processes

- 1 to determine by mathematical process, reckon, calculate, frequently in a transferred sense
 - 1.a count, take into account τι something
 - 1.b as a result of a calculation evaluate, estimate, look upon as, consider
- 2 to give careful thought to a matter, think (about), consider, ponder, let one's mind dwell on τι something
- 3 to hold a view about something, think, believe, be of the opinion

CGL 877a, PDF 917

- 1 make an arithmetical calculation, calculate, count
- 2 (transitive) count —items...calculate —interest
- 3 reckon up the finances (of oneself or another); do one's accounts; (of officials) audit accounts
- 4 enter (a sum) in one's accounts (as a charge to another); debit, charge —a sum....reckon up an account...claim in one's account
- 5 employ rational calculation, think, reflect, reason...make a plan
- 6 (transitive) take into account, bear in mind, consider
- 7 reckon, consider
- 8 count on, expect...reckon (with future infinitive) that one will do something
- 9 (passive) (of an argument) be reasoned through or formulated

LSJ 1055b, PDF 1126

- I.1 properly of numerical calculation, count, reckon
- I.2 with accusative and infinitive, reckon or calculate that
- I.3.a set down to one's account
- I.3.b audit the accounts of a person
- II.1 without reference to numbers, take into account, calculate, consider
- II.2 with accusative and infinitive, reckon, consider that
- II.3 with infinitive also, count or reckon upon doing, calculate or expect that
- II.4 count upon
- II.5 conclude by reasoning, infer that
- II.6 absolute (examples of meaning given)
- III passive, mostly aorist and less frequently perfect
 - No other meanings are given under heading #III, but it does list the uses in Romans 4.

Total occurrences in the NT 40

Book of Mormon

Jacob 4:5

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 98:24

COVENANT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- 1 A mutual consent or agreement of two or more persons, to do or to forbear some act or thing; a contract; stipulation. A covenant is created by deed in writing, sealed and executed; or it may be implied in the contract.
- 2 A writing containing the terms of agreement or contract between parties; or the clause of agreement in a deed containing the covenant.
- 3 In theology, the covenant of works, is that implied in the commands, prohibitions, and promises of God; the promise of God to man, that man's perfect obedience should entitle him to happiness. This do, and live; that do, and die. The covenant of redemption, is the mutual agreement between the Father and Son, respecting the redemption of sinners by Christ. The covenant of grace, is that by which God engages to bestow salvation on man, upon the condition that man shall believe in Christ and yield obedience to the terms of the gospel.
- 4 In church affairs, a solemn agreement between the members of a church, that they will walk together according to the precepts of the gospel, in brotherly affection.

Intransitive verb

- To enter into a formal agreement; to stipulate; to bind ones self by contract. A covenants with B to convey to him a certain estate. When the terms are expressed ti has for before the thing or price.

Transitive verb

- To grant or promise by covenant.

Oxford English Dictionary

Noun

- 1a A mutual agreement between two or more persons to do or refrain from doing certain acts; a compact, contract, bargain; sometimes, the undertaking, pledge, or promise of one of the parties. Phrases, to make or enter into a covenant; to hold, keep, break covenant (No longer in ordinary use, except when coloured by legal or theological associations.)
- 1b to, on, upon, in, at (a or the) covenant: on a mutual stipulation, or understanding; on the condition that. Obsolete.
- 2 A promise made to oneself, a solemn personal resolve, a vow. Obsolete.
- 3 Each of the points or terms of an agreement. Obsolete except as in 4b.
- 4a A formal agreement, convention, or promise of legal validity; esp. in English Law, a promise or contract under seal. (The English equivalent of Latin conventio as technically used from the Norman Conquest onwards.)
- 4b esp. A particular clause of agreement contained in a deed; e.g. the ordinary covenants to pay rent, etc. in a lease.
- 5 The matter agreed upon between two parties, or undertaken or promised by either; hence, covenanted duty, service, wages, rent, etc. Obsolete.
- 6 Pledge, security. Obsolete. rare.
- 7a Scripture. Applied esp. to an engagement entered into by the Divine Being with some other being or persons.
 - (The Hebrew word בְּרִית is also the ordinary term for a contract, agreement, alliance, or league between men. It is constantly rendered in the Septuagint by διαθήκη 'disposition, distribution, arrangement', which occurs in Aristophanes in the sense 'convention, arrangement between parties', but usually in classical Greek meant 'disposition by will, testament'. Accordingly, the Old Latin translation of the Bible (Itala) appears to have uniformly rendered διαθήκη by testamentum, while Jerome translated the Hebrew by foedus and pactum indifferently. Hence, in the Vulgate, the Old Testament has the old rendering testamentum in the (Gallican) Psalter, but Jerome's renderings foedus, pactum elsewhere; the New Testament has always testamentum. In English Wyclif strictly followed the

Vulgate, rendering foedus, pactum, by boond, covenaut, rather indiscriminately, testamentum in the Psalter and New Testament always by testament. So the versions of Rheims and Douay. The 16th cent. English versions at length used covenant entirely in Old Testament (including the Psalter), and Tyndale introduced it into 6 places in the New Testament. These the Geneva extended to 23, and the Bible of 1611 to 22 (in 2 of which Genesis had testament), leaving testament in 14 (in 3 of which Genesis had covenant). The Revised Version of 1881 has substituted covenant in 12 of these, leaving testament in 2 only (Hebrew ix. 16, 17.)

- Thus בְּרִית, διαθήκη, foedus (pactum), covenant are applied to God's engagement with Noah and his posterity, Genesis vi. 18, ix. 9–17; to that made with Abraham and his posterity, Genesis xvii, of which the token was circumcision; to the institution of the Mosaic law, Exodus xxiv. 7, 8, and to that law or its observance itself, whence the expressions book of the covenant (i.e. of the law), ark of the covenant, blood of the covenant (i.e. of beasts ritually sacrificed), land of the covenant (= promised land, Canaan). The covenant with the Israelites, in its various phases, is commonly called the Old Covenant, in contrast to which the prophets made promise of a new covenant, Jeremiah xxxi. 31; and this name καινή διαθήκη (New Covenant or testament) was, according to St. Luke xxii. 20, applied by Jesus to the new relation to man which God had established in Him. In this sense it is also used by St. Paul and the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews, who contrast these two covenants (Galatians iv. 24, Hebrew viii. 13, ix. 15, etc.), also called by commentators the Temporal and the Eternal Covenant (cf. Hebrew xiii. 20).]

7b Hence covenant is sometimes used = Dispensation.

7c The two divisions of the Scriptures, belonging to the Mosaic and Christian dispensations respectively, are sometimes called the Books of the Old and the New Covenant, instead of the usual form Old and New Testament (Greek παλαιά and καινή διαθήκη).

7d (Greater) Book of the Covenant, Little Book of the Covenant: names given by Old Testament critics to certain portions of the Book of Exodus, viz. ch. xx. 22–xxiii, and ch. xxxiv. 11–26 respectively.

8 Theology.

8a Covenant of Works, Covenant of Grace: the two relations which are represented as subsisting between God and man, before and since the Fall.

8b Applied to the engagement with God which is entered into by believers at their baptism, or admission into the visible church.

9 Ecclesiastical.

9a Scottish History. The name given to certain bonds of agreement signed by the Scottish Presbyterians for the defence and furtherance of their religion and ecclesiastical polity.

9b church covenant. See "church" noun and adjective.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

Hebrew Bible

בְּרִית

See the reference information below.

HALOT 157a, PDF 214 agreement, covenant

A between persons

B contract, covenant with—

B1 God with animals

B2 with the stones of the fields, with death, through a sacrifice to a god of death

C a covenant between God and mankind

Ca a covenant which is made

Ca1 God made a covenant

Ca2 God made a covenant for the benefit of Ca3 God established his covenant with

Ca4 God enters into a covenant with

Ca5 God makes an everlasting promise

Ca6 as a representative of the community, a human individual makes a covenant with God

Ca7 to enter into a covenant with God

- Cb phrases connected with בְּרִית...
- Cc the maintenance of the covenant
- Cd neglecting, contravening the covenant
- C3 miscellaneous uses

BDB 136a, PDF 155 covenant; pact, compact, covenant

- I between men
 - I1 treaty, alliance
 - I2 constitution, ordinance
 - I3 agreement, pledge
 - I4 alliance of friendship
 - I5 alliance of marriage
- II between God and man
 - II1 alliance of friendship
 - II2 covenant, as a divine constitution or ordinance with signs and pledges
 - II2a with Noah
 - II2b with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob
 - II2c with Israel at Sinai = Horeb, with a covenant sacrifice...renewed in plains of Moab...with blessings and curses (Deuteronomy 29:20)...frequently referred to in other books...a divine constitution given to Israel with promises on condition of obedience and penalties for disobedience, in the form of tables of the covenant (Deuteronomy 9:9, 11, 15), inscribed with the ten words, placed in the ark of the covenant
 - II2d with Phinehas
 - II2e with Joshua and Israel
 - II2f with David
 - II2g Jehoiada and the people
 - II2h Hezekiah and the people
 - II2i Josiah and the people
 - II2j Ezra and the people
 - II2k the prophetic covenant, a divine promise through a series of prophets to establish a new constitution
- III Phrases...

DCH PDF 739 covenant; covenant, agreement, or obligation between individuals (for example, friends, spouses) or groups, ruler and subjects, deity and individual or people, etc.

- (The remainder of this entry gives examples of the uses of בְּרִית as subject, object, construct form, in prepositions, various phrases, and so on.)

Septuagint

διαθήκη

GELS 150b, PDF 150

- 1 compact, treaty, mutual agreement: God initiating and mediating in establishment of such between Israel and the animal kingdom...with humans...of a king proposing such with his subjects...
- 2a “covenant” between God and Israel: but spoken of as God’s
- 2b also with a human referent in the genitive

New Testament

Greek New Testament

διαθήκη

To understand this work in Greek and in the NT, you have to start with the fact that διαθήκη was the word to translate בְּרִית in the LXX. See BDAG meaning #2, and also the reference information below.

BDAG 202a

- 1 last will and testament

- 2 As a translation of בְּרִית in LXX, διαθήκη retains the component of legal disposition of personal goods while omitting that of the anticipated death of a testator. A Hellenistic reader would experience no confusion, for it was a foregone conclusion that gods were immortal. Hence a διαθήκη decreed by God cannot require the death of the testator to make it operative. Nevertheless, another essential characteristic of a testament is retained, namely that it is the declaration of one person's initiative, not the result of an agreement between two parties, like a compact or a contract. This is beyond doubt one of the main reasons why the LXX rendered בְּרִית by διαθήκη in the 'covenants' of God; it was God alone who set the conditions; hence covenant (see OED definition #7) can be used to translate διαθήκη only when that is kept in mind. So διαθήκη acquires a meaning in LXX which cannot be paralleled with certainty in extra-Biblical sources, namely 'decree', 'declaration of purpose', 'set of regulations', etc. Our literature, which is very strongly influenced by LXX in this area, seems as a rule to have understood the word in these senses...
- 3 The meaning compact, contract seems firmly established from Greco-Roman times...it remains doubtful whether this meaning has influenced our literature here and there...

CGL 345b, PDF 371

- 1 state, condition
- 2 document disposing of a deceased person's estate, will
- 3 deposits (apparently referring to sacred oracles, entrusted to the council of the Areopagus)
- 4 agreement, covenant (between individuals)
- 5 decree or covenant (of God) (New Testament)

LSJ 394b, PDF 465

- I disposition of property by will, testament
- II1 mystic deposits on which the common weal depended
- II2 name of an eyesalve, because the recipe was deposited in a temple
- III compact, covenant (This entry includes references to LXX and the NT.)
- IV = διάθεσις

Some NT uses

Matthew 26:28 τοῦτο γάρ ἐστιν τὸ αἷμά μου τῆς διαθήκης τὸ περὶ πολλῶν ἐκχυννόμενον εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν·

Mark 14:24 καὶ εἶπεν αὐτοῖς· Τοῦτό ἐστιν τὸ αἷμά μου τῆς διαθήκης τὸ ἐκχυννόμενον ὑπὲρ πολλῶν.

Luke 22:20 καὶ τὸ ποτήριον ὡσαύτως μετὰ τὸ δειπνῆσαι, λέγων· Τοῦτο τὸ ποτήριον ἡ καινὴ διαθήκη ἐν τῷ αἵματί μου, τὸ ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν ἐκχυννόμενον.

1 Corinthians 11:25 ὡσαύτως καὶ τὸ ποτήριον μετὰ τὸ δειπνῆσαι, λέγων· Τοῦτο τὸ ποτήριον ἡ καινὴ διαθήκη ἐστὶν ἐν τῷ ἐμῷ αἵματι· τοῦτο ποιεῖτε, ὡς ἂν πίνετε, εἰς τὴν ἐμὴν ἀνάμνησιν.

Book of Mormon

2 Nephi 30:2

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 22:1 BEHOLD, I say unto you that all old covenants have I caused to be done away in this thing; and this is a new and an everlasting covenant, even that which was from the beginning.

DC 40:1

DC 54:4–6 And as the covenant which they made unto me has been broken, even so it has become void and of none effect. 5 And wo to him by whom this offense cometh, for it had been better for him that he had been drowned in the depth of the sea. 6 But blessed are they who have kept the covenant and observed the commandment, for they shall obtain mercy.

DC 66:2

Key Phrases

new covenant 16 | Jeremiah 31:31; Hebrews 8:8, 13; 12:24; DC 22:1; DC 76:69; DC 84:57; DC 107:19; DC 131:2; DC 132:4, 6, 19, 26, 27, 41, 42

everlasting covenant 35 |

Commentary The “everlasting covenant” and the “fulness of the gospel” are equated in DC 66:2.

Commentary and Studies

The “new and everlasting” covenant

See JSP-J1:72–73 (18 October 1835) for a journal entry talking about blessing children with the blessings of the “new and everlasting covenant.” See also 1 November 1835; DC 22:1 (this verse is important because it makes it clear that the “new” covenant is really the original covenant, from the very beginning);

More reference information about Hebrew and Greek words

NIDNTT I:365–372

(Note that the editor of NIDNTT makes several clarifications and even challenges the author’s interpretation at some points, so this entry may be a bit idiosyncratic.)

Classical sources

The term diatheke occurs from Democritus and Aristoph. onwards in the sense of a will or testament. It is not thought to be derived from the act. diatithemi, distribute, allocate, regulate, but only from the mid. diatithemai, control persons and things (Xen.), and especially dispose of by will (so private legal documents among papyri). It denotes, therefore, an irrevocable decision, which cannot be cancelled by anyone. A prerequisite of its effectiveness before the law is the death of the disposer. Hence diatheke must be clearly distinguished from syntheke, an agreement. In the latter two partners engaged in common activity accept reciprocal obligations. diatheke is found only once with this meaning (Aristoph. Birds, 1,440). Elsewhere it always means a one-sided action.

Old Testament

1. In the LXX diatheke is the commonest rendering (270 times) for Heb. בְּרִית, covenant. This is the common OT word for a wide variety of agreements. (a) They include a covenant between two friends (1 Sam. 18: 3), which however was regarded as having legal force (1 Sam. 20: 8); a covenant between two rulers fixing their spheres of interest (Gen. 21: 22 ff.; 26: 26 ff.; 1 Ki. 5 :12, MT 5: 26), or terms of peace (1 Ki. 20: 34); the covenant between two kings which, of course, included their peoples. Two tribes could also make a covenant (Jos. 15: 9). It is even used for a covenant between Israel and its slaves (Jer. 34: 8 ff.). ([Tr.] The natural meaning of the Heb. is that it was a covenant between the king and the slave owners.)

(b) The situation was somewhat different when the king made a covenant with his subjects (2 Ki. 11 :4; [Tr.] this was probably a private agreement between Jehoiada and the royal guard); or when by the covenant a man became the subject of the other (1 Sam. 11 :1). The covenant made by Abner with David (2 Sam. 3 :12 f.) was intended to make all Israel (v. 21) subject to David, not merely Abner.

(c) Yahweh’s covenants with Noah (Gen. 6:18), Abraham (2 Ki. 13:23), or David (Jer. 33: 21) are similar. Here the covenant extends explicitly to their descendants (Gen. 9:8 ff.; 15:18; cf. 2 Sam. 7:12-16), and becomes a covenant with Israel (Exod. 6: 4 f.). But in Jer. 50: 5 the covenant can also be interpreted as a covenant of Israel with its God. Ezek. 16: 8 speaks of a covenant with Jerusalem. Linguistically the LXX might have used syntheke in the examples under (a) (cf. CL above). But in the latter cases berit is used to denote the one’s disposition of the many (Gen. 9 :12; 17: 7 f.; Jer. 31: 31-34, etc.). Hence the LXX translation diatheke has its full force. On the other hand, there are exceptional usages like Yahweh’s covenant with day and night (Jer. 33: 25), and Jerusalem’s with death (Isa. 28: 1418).

(d) Earlier scholars used to distinguish between secular and religious covenants but the variety of covenant conceptions, all using the same terminology, makes this impossible. Moreover, the most secular of covenants presupposes that it has been witnessed by God (Gen. 31 :44-50; 1 Sam. 23:18), while in the most religious covenants Yahweh remains comparable with a monarch making a covenant. For the aT a separation between religious and secular is unthinkable.

2. This situation has made many ask whether there was not some original and unambiguous idea of the covenant, from which the others developed. Modern research has produced four answers. (i) J. Pedersen considered that originally the two sides in the covenant stood on an equality. (ii) J. Begrich, on the other hand, maintained that the covenant started as something the stronger granted to the weaker. (iii) G. E. Mendenhall found the religio-historical background in the Hittite suzerainty treaties, and deduced that the treaty element was the most important in the covenant. (iv) M. Noth has drawn attention to the most recent textual finds, which show that the covenant was mediated by a third party between the two sides.

It is impossible to prove that anyone of these elements was original, or that any came later. God's covenant and the people's covenant are mentioned in Exod. 34; the individual and the royal covenant in 2 Sam. 3. We cannot at present decide on any original form for the covenant.

3. Since all these concepts were expressed by the one term berit, the Jews must have felt some unity behind them. Though neither the relationship of the covenant partners nor the contents of the covenant agreement provided this, it has been shown that there was a common pattern in the making of a covenant (Baltzer, see bibliography). There were 6 vital elements in such a ceremony: (i) "the preamble mentioning the names of the partners; (ii) a preliminary history of the relationship of those entering the covenant; (iii) a basic declaration about the future relationship of the partners; (iv) details of the new relationship; (v) an invocation of the respective gods worshipped by both sides to act as witnesses; (vi) a pronouncement of curse and blessing. Baltzer traced this outline right down to the Qumran documents, and even into and beyond the NT. This shows that at least outwardly the covenant conception is as fundamental an element in biblical thought as it is in the national existence of Israel.

4. When we approach them from the standpoint of the covenant, we see how very diverse elements in OT tradition belong together. The preamble is suggestive of the way in which Yahweh introduces himself (cf. Exod. 20:2, which, as in the covenant formula, is followed by a survey of past events). This seems to be the source of Israel's unique interest in its history, which is seen to be Yahweh's history with it, and hence covenant history and so salvation history. The third section reflects the thought which found its clearest expression in Isa. as proclamation of salvation, the promise of divine faithfulness and peace (Isa. 54: 10; 55: 3). Since this promise cannot be revoked because of the disobedience of the people, God has proclaimed himself bound and has renounced all arbitrariness. "The basis is thus laid for the Gospel" (G. Quell, TDNT II 123). When we compare these covenant promises and those in Jer. 31 with (e.g.) the formula of the Sinai covenant we realize that the details mentioned in 3 (iv) above are not to be understood as a condition to be first fulfilled which would be followed by a reward for achievement. This impression might be given by passages like Lev. 26:15 f. and Deut. 31 :20. They are rather the regulations for the new life that is made possible by God's covenant (cf. Gen. 9:9; 15:13-16; Jer. 31 :31). As in Deut. 26, Israel's reflection on its past history and the law belong together as instruction for its new life.

5. The relationship of the partners in the covenant is expressed by zeseq, God's covenant loyalty (RSV steadfast love; NEB love, loyalty, constancy). 1 Sam. 20: 8 understands it as protective action. Man's remembrance of the covenant expresses itself in action (Ps. 103: 17 f.). Both partners Yahweh and the covenant people, represented only by an individual face one another in the berit. They are thus in an active and real partnership (Pedersen), and so they both share in the covenant meal (Gen. 31: 54; Exod. 24:9 ff.). It goes without saying that this strengthens the $\rightarrow$ fellowship of those involved. This does not mean to say that the covenant and its renewal were purely cultic acts. It can hardly be denied that it had a place in the cultus (Ps. 50). This seems to have been especially the case in Shechem (Jos. 8: 3035; 23: 24). The relationship to Baal-berith or El-berith, formerly worshipped there, has never been satisfactorily explained (Jdg. 8: 33; 9: 4, 46). Nevertheless, the covenant belongs in the first place to the daily life of the tribes of the covenant people, which it seems to have steadily separated from the cultus. This may be seen in Deut. with its covenant theology and secularization of life. The cultus could not guarantee the continuance of an intact, everlasting covenant. Yahweh alone, as founder of this covenant, could guarantee its continuance and with it the cultus in its true meaning. Only he could renew the covenant broken by human disobedience.

This explains why in many prophets the thought of the covenant virtually vanishes in favour of the call to obedience. The early parts of Isa. avoided obviously deliberately the concept of covenant almost entirely, the only exceptions being 24:5; 33:8 and the covenant with death mentioned earlier (28:15, 18). Hosea probably felt the danger of a one-sided appeal to the legal character of the covenant, and so he preferred to describe God's relationship to his people by the picture of marriage. The berit is mentioned only as broken in 6: 7; 8: 1; in 10: 4; 12:1(2) it refers to human agreements. Jeremiah stressed his expectation of a completely new covenant in the place of the one that had been broken (31: 31-34). Whatever continuity there may be is created solely by Yahweh. It is completely other in that the direct working of God on human hearts through his Spirit takes the place of the demand for obedience. This shows how deep the break is, and prepares the way for the NT.

([Ed.] There is, however, an essential continuity, for Jeremiah does not speak of the abolition of the law. Rather, he declares: "But this is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel after those, says the Lord: I will put my law within them, and I will write it upon their hearts; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people" (Jer. 31: 33). There is here the same divine upholding of the covenant that is found elsewhere in the OT (see 4, above). The covenant relationship is summed up in the promise, "I will be your God, and you shall be my people" (cf. Exod. 6:7; Lev. 26:12; Jer. 7:23; 11 :4; 30:22; 32:38; 2 Cor. 6:16; Heb. 8:10; Rev. 21: 3). For Jeremiah, this relationship is to be realized not by setting aside the law but by a more personal application of it.)

6. The standard expression in the OT, kiiral berit, to cut, i.e. make, a covenant, is probably to be explained by Gen. 15:9 f., 17 and Jer. 34:18. ([Tr.] It is not the only expression used, and it does not seem to have been essential for the making of a covenant.) It is expressed in the LXX by diatheken diatithemai, to establish a diatheke. The Gk. understanding of the term diatheke suggests that the covenant was no longer an agreement between two parties with equal rights. It came about as an exclusively divine action, which men can only accept in the form in which it is given to them. However, the LXX is supported by the Heb. expression heqim berit, which occurs frequently after the exile, and means "to establish a covenant".

The apocryphal books carry this further. Philo worked out an allegorical exegesis of the thought of a will. The rabbis confined the covenant to the concept of an absolute law.

The Qumran community attributed great importance to the covenant. They considered that the promise of the new covenant (Jer. 31: 31-34) had been fulfilled in their midst and called themselves "the new covenant in the land of Damascus" (CD 6:19). While the Sinaitic covenant was for the whole people, the Qumran covenanters considered themselves to be its holy remnant, the pure, eschatological community of the age of salvation. This explains their strict rules for receiving new members and their commitment to the "laws of the covenant (i.e. the Law as it was expounded by the community) which characterized the community. The sect's eschatological thinking on the covenant distinguished them especially from the rabbis, who equated the covenant with circumcision and saw its preservation guaranteed by a rigorous keeping of the Mosaic Law, and who expected the fulfilment of Jer. 31: 31-34 only in the future. ([Tr.] In fact, probably owing to polemics against Qumran and Jewish Christianity, the new covenant plays virtually no role in Talmudic Jud.)

New Testament

It is noteworthy that while covenant is found almost 300 times in the OT, it occurs only 33 times in the NT. Almost half of these instances come in quotations from the OT, and another 5 clearly look back to OT statements. The few independent cases are almost exclusively in Heb., quite rarely in Paul (never in the Pastorals) and Acts, and never in the Johannine writings.

In accord with this, diatithemai (only mid.), order, enact, dispose, is found only twice in the Lukan writings and four times in Heb., each time clearly looking back to the T. In the 2 cases where the standard Gk. meaning of "will" plays a part (Heb. 9: 16; Gal. 3: 15) it is easy to recognize the intention of helping the Greeks to understand the OT concept. Paul makes this explicit.

These statistics are, however, misleading. The covenant question in the NT cannot be answered solely from the passages where the word is used. It involves a whole complex of theological ideas including covenant terminology. There are 3 groups of problems: (1) the question of the Lord's Supper; (2) the Pauline question about the relationship of the Christian church to Israel as the people of God; (3) the covenant theology in Heb.

1. In all 4 NT passages dealing with the Lord's Supper diatheke plays an important part: 1 Cor. 11: 25; Mk. 14: 24; Matt. 26: 28; Lk. 22: 20 (omitted in some MSS and RSV and NEB). Each time it is in connection with the cup, and only there. Paul and Lk. add the adj. "new". This gives a new stress, which hides to some extent the link with the blood, in contrast with the original formula preserved in Matt., Mk., "the blood of the covenant". The use of this formula together with "shed" or "poured out" makes clear beyond question the reference to the covenant blood of the OT (cf. Exod. 24: 5-8) and with it the covenant which Yahweh made with Israel. This means that, in the Christian kerygma and witness, the work of Jesus was, according to his own word, a taking up and fulfilling of the covenant statements of the T. Schniewind is, therefore, fully justified in pointing out that "Jer. 31: 31-34 can be heard in every variation of the words over the cup" and that the prophetic promise finds fulfilment here.

If the term covenant (diatheke) does not appear as often as one might expect, the reason is that the underlying thought has been taken over in the sayings about the kingdom of God. Linguistically we can see this perhaps most clearly in Lk. 22: 29 in the phrase diatithemai ... basileian, appoint a kingdom, which exactly expresses the formula diatithemai diatheken (see above OT 6). The new covenant and the kingdom of God are correlated concepts.

In the OT the common meal followed the completion of the covenant by the sprinkling of the people with blood after its pledge (Exod. 24:8 if.), because the covenant had been made with a people that was already united. In the NT such a single, united people cannot be presupposed. The new people of God is derived rather from that which until then was no people (Rom. 9: 25; 1 Pet. 2: 10, quoting Hos. 2: 23 (25)). It is composed of the "many" who have come to share the atoning power of Jesus' blood through his word and spirit (Matt. 20: 28; Mk. 10: 45). The fellowship of the early Christians based on the word found expression in the common meal (1 Cor. 10: 16b, 17; Acts 2:46), which has its counterpart in the first part of the Lord's Supper.

As in the old covenant curse and blessing played a part, so there is also in the new covenant an indication of the curse (1 Cor. 11: 27-32; cf. 12: 3). Just as one could keep the old covenant only if one knew its ordinances, so in the Lord's Supper repetition is expressly intended to produce remembrance (anamnesis, 1 Cor. 11: 25). Not long after this entire Christian writings like the Didache were moulded by the theology of the Lord's Supper and show the structure of the covenant ritual. It is only a development of a connection that is already obvious here.

2. It is not easy to formulate Paul's attitude to the old people of God.

(a) Paul himself can use only the term "mystery" (—+ mysterion, secret) for the Jewish rejection of Jesus and their enmity to the gospel and the church (Rom. 11: 25). He does so in "great sorrow and unceasing anguish" (Rom. 9: 2). He was so deeply moved by this subject, that his delineation of the righteousness of God given through Christ (Rom. 1-8) of necessity passed over to a presentation of the inexplicable hardening of Israel, which nevertheless is to lead to salvation in God's will (Rom. 9-11, especially 11: 11-16). This account reaches its climax in praise of the unfathomable depths of the divine action (Rom. 11: 33-36). In it Paul appeals to the fact that Israel's rejection and unfaithfulness cannot cancel God's covenant. He also knows that there is a fellowship between Israel and the church which cannot be removed, because it is based on the unity of the One who calls. In other words, God's people from now on includes the church and Israel.

(b) In the light of this, Paul considers the fact that a part of Israel has been hardened (Rom. 11: 25). The expression "a hardening has come upon Israel" (to Israel gegonen) suggests that it has happened through God's will. God promised Israel in his covenant that sin would be completely blotted out and that all obstacles between God and man would be removed without trace. This is the force of the quotation from Isa. 59: 20 f. in Rom. 11: 26 f. It is, therefore, obvious that the fulfilment of this covenant promise is still to be awaited, so long as the obstacle of the hardening still exists. Since God's covenant has not reached complete fulfilment or has been cancelled or repented of by him (Rom. 11: 29), the promise will be fulfilled with regard to the remnant of Israel.

(c) To make this clearer still, in Gal. 3: 15 Paul examined the Gk. concept of a will that could not be annulled. If a human will cannot be annulled, how much less can God's covenant with Israel (3: 17), through which it has such incomparable privileges (Rom. 9: 4 f.), of which Paul the Christian can boast again and again (Rom. 11:1; 2 Cor. 11: 22; Phil. 3: 5)?

If God's covenant with Abraham, which consists of the promise, has come into force (Gal. 3:16), something which came in later as an addition to it (Rom. 5:20), the law (Gal. 3:17), cannot narrow this promise or annul it. In the opinion of the present writer, Paul could hardly mean the law which according to OT conceptions belonged to the covenant by its very nature, and thus must be regarded as an ordinance (see above OT 4). Hence it is no more in contradiction with the covenant of grace as the OT is with the NT. Paul is thinking rather of the law as seen by late Jud., and the rabbis and understood as something in its own right and absolute (see above OT 6). This mass of inexplicable regulations, which simply have to be fulfilled, has been annulled by Christ (Rom. 10: 4), because it was only a paidagogos, custodian (RSV), tutor (NEB), "until Christ came" (Gal. 3: 24). The law of God itself is not evil, but "holy and just and good" (Rom. 7: 12). It belongs to the Sinaitic covenant (Gal. 4:24), not to the Abrahamic covenant (Gal. 4:23, the picture of the two women representing two covenants). Hence it cannot bring salvation. The one who clings to it remains a slave child (Gal. 4: 25). Christians, on the other hand, are children of the promise (Gal. 4:26 ff.) and hence free, and belong to Christ without any distinctions (Gal. 3: 26 ff.).

[Ed.] The identification of the law here with the elaborations of late Judaism is not the most obvious interpretation of the references cited. The argument about circumcision and keeping the law in Rom. and Gal. does not suggest that Paul is arguing against a particular rabbinic interpretation. Rather, he is arguing that man cannot use the ordinances of God to establish his own righteousness. Man is saved by the grace of God through Christ's atoning death. Paul does not attack the ordinances of the law as such, but the assumption that man becomes righteous through conformity with certain tenets. Such an attitude of mind implies that it is in man's power to keep the entire law. It betrays a profound lack of awareness of the deep-rooted character of sin and its seriousness in the eyes of God. The Christian, Paul argues, must not relapse into a legalistic frame of mind, for righteousness is the free gift of God in Christ.)

3. We have been seeing how the covenant concept stands in its relationship to the → Law, the → Promise, and the people of God, but we have to turn to Heb. for a developed covenant theology (diatheke is mentioned 17 times). Since the highpriestly office of Christ is "the prevailing conception of Hebrews' Christology", it expresses the new covenant in a cultic setting, which reflects the author's intense concern for "purification, sanctification, perfection" and also sacrifice, atonement and blood (W. G. Kimmell, Introduction to the New Testament, 1966, 277). He clearly contrasts the old and the new covenants. The new is the better covenant (cf. 7:22 kreitt6n, superior). Its guarantor and mediator is Christ (8:6; 12:24) through his death for the redemption from the sins of the old covenant (9: 5). It is against this background of blemish that the prophetic promise of Jer. 31: 31-34, twice quoted (8: 8-12; 10: 16 f.), becomes important and is developed. By the very promise of the new covenant the old has been declared obsolete by God himself, and so it is ready to vanish away (8: 13). This does not mean that it has been completely ruled out, but that it has been overtaken and fulfilled by the new. In Christ the pattern (typos, 8: 5) and "the true form" (eik6n, 10: 1) of the one covenant concept has become a reality. The new covenant is founded on better promises (8:6; 9:15), but like the old covenant it is a covenant in blood (10:29; 12:24; 13 : 20). It is not, however, the blood of a sacrificial animal, but the blood of the sacrificer himself, the high priest (9:13 ff.; 10:12 ff.). Hence the death of Christ was essential, for only through the death of the testator does his will become operative in law (9:16 f.; cf. above CL).

Seeing that the forgiveness of sins and renewal of heart promised in Jer. 31: 31-34 has become a reality in Christ (Heb. 10:16 ff.), the old covenant is explained as a shadow of that to come. In the new it has been annulled in the sense that it has become "obsolete" and "superfluous". On the other hand, the Pauline tension over the problem of Israel's hardening has disappeared here. That which Paul could only proclaim in his praise of God's mystery (Rom. 11: 33-36) is presented in Heb. in an almost rationalistic and comprehensive manner. This can be explained probably only because the author of Heb. faces the old covenant more theoretically, while Paul, in spite of all, knows and confesses that he belongs to it.

[Ed.] Many scholars would dissent from the writer's conclusions here. It is not that the author of Heb. presents everything more rationalistically than Paul. Indeed, he refrains from speculating about the future of Israel and does not discuss the problems that Paul wrestled with. Instead, his warnings against the danger of rejecting Christ come like a refrain throughout his work (3:7-19; 4:1-13; 6:4-8; 10:26 ff., 38 f.; 12:1-29). Conscious of the judgments which befell the rebellious and hardened in Israel, he warns his readers against deliberate, conscious sin. For him there is a point beyond which a man cannot return. That point cannot be defined in advance. The safeguard against falling into condemnation is summed up in the quotation from Ps. 95:7 f., "Today, when you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts" (Heb. 3:7, 15; 4:7).

TDOT II:253–279

The original meaning of the Heb. בְּרִית (as well as of Akkadian riksu and Hittite išhiul) is not "agreement or settlement between two parties," as is commonly argued. בְּרִית implies first and foremost the notion of "imposition," "liability," or "obligation," as might be learned from the "bond" etymology discussed above. Thus we find that the בְּרִית is commanded (tsivvah beritho, "he has commanded his covenant," Psalms 111:9, Judges 2:20), which certainly cannot be said about a mutual agreement. As will be shown below, בְּרִית is synonymous with law and commandment (cf., e.g., Deuteronomy 4:13; 33:9; Isaiah 24:5; Psalms 50:16; 103:18), and the covenant at Sinai in Exodus 24 is in its essence an imposition of laws and obligations upon the people (verses 3–8).

COVET

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Exodus 20:17 Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 56:17

CREATION, CREATE

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 45:1

DC 49:16–17

DC 59:20

DC 77:12 • This verse makes it seem as though God created people on the seventh day of the creation process, rather than on the sixth.

DC 88:5–13

Commentary and Studies

The idea of a “spiritual creation”

- DC 49:16–17

CURSE

Commentary and Studies

“The cursing” in the Book of Mormon

- 2 Nephi 5:19–25 • There are parts of this passage that do make it seem as though the cursing is being cut off from the presence of the Lord, and there are parts which make it seem that the cursing is the skin color.

DAMNATION, DAMN

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Damnation

- 1 Sentence or condemnation to everlasting punishment in the future state; or the state of eternal torments.
- 2 Condemnation.

Damn

- 1 To sentence to eternal torments in a future state; to punish in hell.
- 2 To condemn; to decide to be wrong or worthy of punishment; to censure; to reprobate.
- 3 To condemn; to explode; to decide to be bad, mean, or displeasing, be hissing or any mark of disapprobation; as, to damn a play, or a mean author.
- 4 A word used in profaneness; a term of execration.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

See below for some notes on these uses.

Total occurrences in the NT 15

Matthew 23:14 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation.

Matthew 23:33 Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?

Mark 3:29 But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation:

Mark 12:40 Which devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayers: these shall receive greater damnation.

Mark 16:16 He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.

Luke 20:47 Which devour widows' houses, and for a shew make long prayers: the same shall receive greater damnation.

John 5:29 And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation.

Romans 3:8 And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just.

Romans 13:2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

Romans 14:23 And he that doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for whatsoever is not of faith is sin.

1 Corinthians 11:29 For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body.

2 Thessalonians 2:12 That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

1 Timothy 5:12 Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

2 Peter 2:1 BUT there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.

2 Peter 2:3 And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you: whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

Greek New Testament

κρίσις

BDAG 504a

- 1 legal process of judgment, judging, judgment
- 1a of the activity of God or the Messiah as judge, especially on the Last Day
- 1a.α God's righteous judgment
- 1a.β The word often means judgment that goes against a person, condemnation, and the sentence that follows
- 1b of the judgment of one person upon or against another, in the nature of an evaluation
- 2 a board of judges, court
- 3 administration of what is right and fair, right in the sense of justice/righteousness

LSJ 997a, PDF 1068

- I.1 separating, distinguishing
- I.2 decision, judgement
- I.3 choice, election
- I.4 interpretation of dreams or portents
- II.1a judgement of a court
- II.1b result of a trial, condemnation
- II.2 trial of skill or strength
- II.3 dispute
- III.1 event, issue
- III.2 turning point of a disease, sudden change for better or worse
- IV middle of the spinal column

Some NT uses

- Matthew 23:33 ὅφεις γεννήματα ἐχιδνῶν, πῶς φύγητε ἀπὸ τῆς κρίσεως τῆς γεέννης· (This is going to be BDAG #1a.α, I'm suppose; the negative connotation is the key I guess?)
- Mark 3:29 ὃς δ' ἂν βλασφημήσῃ εἰς τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον, οὐκ ἔχει ἄφεσιν εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, ἀλλὰ ἔνοχός ἐστιν αἰωνίου ἁμαρτήματος. (There is an alternate text where you get κρίσεως instead of ἁμαρτήματος.)
- 2 Thessalonians 1:5 νδειγμα τῆς δικαίας κρίσεως τοῦ θεοῦ, εἰς τὸ καταξιωθῆναι ὑμᾶς τῆς βασιλείας τοῦ θεοῦ, ὑπὲρ ἧς καὶ πάσχετε,
- John 5:29 καὶ ἐκπορεύσονται οἱ τὰ ἀγαθὰ ποιήσαντες εἰς ἀνάστασιν ζωῆς, οἱ δὲ τὰ φαῦλα πράξαντες εἰς ἀνάστασιν κρίσεως.

κρίμα

BDAG 502a

- 1 legal action taken against someone, dispute, lawsuit
- 2 content of a deliberative process, decision, decree
- 3 action or function of a judge, judging, judgment
- 4 legal decision rendered by a judge, judicial verdict
- 4a generally
- 4b mostly in an unfavorable sense, of the condemnatory verdict and sometimes the subsequent punishment itself
- 5 proper recognition of someone's rights, justice
- 6 in John, κρίμα shows the same two-sidedness as the other members of the κρίνω family ("judgment" and "separation"), and means the judicial decision which consists in the separation of those who are willing to believe from those who are unwilling to do so. (Note that the separation being a "judicial decision" suggests that it is based in laws, which is what you would expect.)

LSJ 995b, PDF 1066

- I.1 decision, judgement
- I.2 decree, resolution
- I.3 legal decision
- II.1 matter for judgement, question
- II.2 law-suit
- III.1 = κρίσις, judging, judgement

Some NT uses

- Matthew 23:14 Οὐαὶ ὑμῖν, γραμματεῖς καὶ Φαρισαῖοι ὑποκριταί, ὅτι κατεσθίετε τὰς οἰκίας τῶν χηρῶν καὶ προφάσει μακρὰ

προσευχόμενοι· διὰ τοῦτο λήψεσθε περισσότερον κρίμα (This verse is removed in the critical edition.)

Mark 12:40 οἱ κατεσθίοντες τὰς οἰκίας τῶν χρηρῶν καὶ προφάσει μακρὰ προσευχόμενοι· οὗτοι λήμψονται περισσότερον κρίμα.

Luke 20:47 οἱ κατεσθίουσιν τὰς οἰκίας τῶν χρηρῶν καὶ προφάσει μακρὰ προσεύχονται· οὗτοι λήμψονται περισσότερον κρίμα.

Romans 3:8 καὶ μὴ καθὼς βλασφημούμεθα καὶ καθὼς φασὶν τινες ἡμᾶς λέγειν ὅτι Ποιήσωμεν τὰ κακὰ ἵνα ἔλθῃ τὰ ἀγαθὰ· ὧν τὸ κρίμα ἐνδικόν ἐστιν.

Romans 13:2 ὥστε ὁ ἀντιτασσόμενος τῇ ἐξουσίᾳ τῇ τοῦ θεοῦ διαταγῇ ἀνθέστηκεν, οἱ δὲ ἀνθεστηκότες ἑαυτοῖς κρίμα λήμψονται.

1 Corinthians 11:29 ὁ γὰρ ἐσθίων καὶ πίνων κρίμα ἑαυτῷ ἐσθίει καὶ πίνει μὴ διακρίνων τὸ σῶμα.

1 Timothy 5:12 ἔχουσαι κρίμα ὅτι τὴν πρώτην πίστιν ἠθέτησαν·

κατακρίνω

BDAG 460a

- pronounce a sentence after determination of guilt, pronounce a sentence on someone

LSJ 896a, PDF 967

I.1 give as sentence against

I.2 condemn

II in passive, simply to be judged, deemed

Some NT uses

Mark 16:16 ὁ πιστεύσας καὶ βαπτισθῆς σωθήσεται, ὁ δὲ ἀπιστήσας κατακριθήσεται.

Romans 14:23 ὁ δὲ διακρινόμενος ἐὰν φάγῃ κατακρίνεται, ὅτι οὐκ ἐκ πίστεως· πᾶν δὲ ὁ οὐκ ἐκ πίστεως ἁμαρτία ἐστίν.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- There is little to no specific evidence in the NT for supporting the traditional LDS understanding of “damnation” as “cessation of progress,” at least when you look at the uses of “damnation” in the NT and their Greek basis. You have to support it some other way.
- The Greek words underlying “damnation” in the NT don’t really carry with them any idea of eternal punishment; see below.

Damnation in the New Testament

It’s interesting to me that none of the words underlying “damnation” in the NT convey an idea of eternal punishment. They may—but definitely not in every case—have a sense that puts emphasis on a punishment, but they don’t specify what that punishment is nor its duration. You would have to gather something about the nature of the punishment from context or from some other source entirely.

Note that this is very different from the English word “damnation,” which as you can see from the 1828 definitions above, clearly does connote the idea of an eternal punishment. What this means is that interpretations of KJV verses involving “damnation” will almost inevitably be too harsh, as we read the force of the English word into the passage, even though the Greek word does not suggest the same force.

Of the two Greek words that I studied above, κρίμα in meaning #4b is the one closest to the English word “damnation,” but even that isn’t really the same thing. The other word, κρίσις, is a bit farther away, though meaning 1a.β is in the ballpark. This is important especially for a verse like John 5:29, which in the KJV reads as follows:

And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation.

Virtually all modern translations replace the word “damnation” at the end with something less harsh, like “condemnation” or even “judgment.” The Greek word is κρίσις so it’s the weaker of the two main Greek words, at least in relation to the idea of punishment.

John 5:29 is a very important verse from the perspective of the restoration, because it’s the one that JS and Rigdon were translating in their NT revision when they received the revelation in DC 76. There is no hint of “damnation” anywhere in that revelation, as it's almost all light and hope for everyone who is resurrected. The word "damnation" isn't even used in the discussion of sons of perdition early in the section.

Damnation as cessation of progress

- DC 58:29

DARKNESS

Key Phrases

outer darkness 6 | Matthew 8:12; Matthew 22:13; Matthew 25:30; Alma 40:13; DC 101:91; DC 133:73

DEATH

See also

Resurrection,

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 42:44–48

DC 45:2

Key Phrases

appointed to death/die 11 | Psalms 79:11, Psalms 102:20, 1 Corinthians 4:9, Hebrews 9:27, Alma 12:27, Alma 40:7–9, Alma 40:21, Alma 42:6, DC 29:43, DC 42:48, DC 63:50

Bible anchor verses

Psalms 79:11

Psalms 102:20

1 Corinthians 4:9

Hebrews 9:27

Commentary

second death 12 | Revelation 2:11; Revelation 20:6; Revelation 20:14; Revelation 21:8; Jacob 3:11; Alma 12:16; Alma 12:32; Alma 13:30; Helaman 14:18; Helaman 14:19; DC 63:17; DC 76:37

Bible anchor verses

Revelation 21:8 τοῖς δὲ δειλοῖς καὶ ἀπίστοις καὶ ἐβδελυγμένοις καὶ φονεῦσι καὶ πόρνοις καὶ φαρμάκοις καὶ εἰδωλολάτραις καὶ πᾶσι τοῖς ψευδέσιν τὸ μέρος αὐτῶν ἐν τῇ λίμνῃ τῇ καιομένῃ πυρὶ καὶ θείῳ, ὃ ἐστὶν ὁ θάνατος ὁ δεύτερος.

Commentary All the verses in Revelation are relevant here, not just the one I have above. I think one key to this phrase is in Alma 12:16 and elsewhere, that the second death is to “die as to things pertaining unto righteousness.”

DEGREE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A step; a distinct portion of space of indefinite extent; a space in progression; as, the army gained the hill by degrees; a balloon rises or descends by slow degrees; and figuratively, we advance in knowledge by slow degrees. Men are yet in the first degree of improvement. It should be their aim to attain to the furthest degree or the highest degree. There are degrees of vice and virtue.
- 2 A step or portion of progression, in elevation, quality, dignity or rank; as a man of great degree. We speak of men of high degree or of low degree; of superior or inferior degree. It is supposed there are different degrees or orders of angels.
- 3 In genealogy, a certain distance or remove in the line of descent, determining the proximity of blood; as a relation in the third or fourth degree.
- 4 Measure; extent. The light is intense to a degree that is intolerable. We suffer an extreme degree of heat or cold.
- 5 In geometry, a division of a circle, including a three hundred and sixtieth part of its circumference. Hence a degree of latitude is the 360th part of the earth's surface north or south of the equator, and a degree of longitude, the same part of the surface east or west of any given meridian.
- 6 In music, an interval of sound, marked by a line on the scale.
- 7 In arithmetic, a degree consists of three figures; thus, 270, 360, compose two degrees.
- 8 A division, space or interval, marked on a mathematical or other instrument; as on a thermometer, or barometer.
- 9 In colleges and universities, a mark of distinction conferred on students, as a testimony of their proficiency in arts and sciences; giving them a kind of rank, and entitling them to certain privileges. This is usually evidenced by a diploma. degrees are conferred pro meritis on the alumni of a college; or they are honorary tokens of respect, conferred on strangers of distinguished reputation. The first degree is that of Bachelor of Arts; the second, that of Master of Arts. Honorary degrees are those of Doctor of Divinity, Doctor of Laws, etc. Physicians also receive the degree of Doctor of Medicine.
- By degrees, step by step; gradually; by little and little; by moderate advances. Frequent drinking forms by degrees a confirmed habit of intemperance.

DENY

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- See my notes at DC 76:35 for scriptural references about (1) denying the Holy Spirit, and (2) denying Christ.

DEVILISH

See also

Carnal, Sensual

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Partaking of the qualities of the devil; diabolical; very evil and mischievous; malicious; as a devilish scheme; devilish wickedness.
- 2 Having communication with the devil; pertaining to the devil.
- 3 Excessive; enormous; in a vulgar and ludicrous sense; as a devilish cheat.

DOOM

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Judgment; judicial sentence.
- 2 Condemnation; sentence; decree; determination affecting the fate or future state of another; usually a determination to inflict evil, sometimes otherwise.
- 3 That state to which one is doomed, or destined. To suffer misery is the doom of sinners. To toil for subsistence is the doom of most men.
- 4 Ruin; destruction.
- 5 Discrimination. [Not used.]

DUST

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

- DC 63:51 • This is a clear example of “dust” as grave or death.
- DC 75:20 • “Shake off the dust of your feet”

Key Phrases

shaking dust off feet 7 | Matthew 10:14, Mark 6:11, Luke 9:5, Acts 13:51, DC 24:15, DC 60:15, DC 75:20
Commentary See also Luke 10:10–11, DC 84:92, DC 99:4,

EARNEST, EARNESTLY, EARNESTNESS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Earnest (noun)

- Seriousness; a reality; a real event; as opposed to jesting or feigned appearance.
- 1 First fruits; that which is in advance, and gives promise of something to come. Early fruit may be an earnest of fruit to follow. The first success in arms may be an earnest of future success. The christian's peace of mind in this life is an earnest of future peace and happiness. Hence earnest or earnest-money is a first payment or deposit giving promise or assurance of full payment. Hence the practice of giving an earnest to ratify a bargain.
- This sense of the word is primary, denoting that which goes before, or in advance. Thus the earnest of the spirit is given to saints, as a pledge or assurance of their future enjoyment of God's presence and favor.

Scriptural Usage

Total occurrences of "earnest" (noun) in the scriptures	3
Total occurrences of "earnest" (adjective) in the scriptures	6
Total occurrences of "earnestly" in the scriptures	27
Total occurrences of "earnestness" in the scriptures	2
Total occurrences in the scriptures	38

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences of "earnest" (noun) in the NT	3
Total occurrences of "earnest" (adjective) in the NT	5
Total occurrences of "earnestly" in the NT	8
Total occurrences of "earnestness" in the NT	0
Total occurrences in the NT	16

Earnest (noun)

2 Corinthians 1:22

2 Corinthians 5:5

Ephesians 1:14

Greek New Testament

ἄρραβών

Total occurrences in the NT 3

All NT uses

2 Corinthians 1:22

2 Corinthians 5:5

Ephesians 1:14

BDAG 117b

- payment of part of a purchase price in advance, first installment, deposit, down payment, pledge

† TDNT 1:475

- A loan word from the Semitic, Heb. עֲרָבוֹן. Gn. 38:17 ff. (LXX, ἀρραβών), Lat. arrha or arrhabo...the word is a commercial term (Isaeus 8:23); Aristot. Pol., I, 11, p. 1259a, 12; esp. pap.). It signifies a “pledge” which is later returned (only Gn. 38:17–20); a “deposit” which pays part of the total debt and gives a legal claim...“earnest-money” ratifying a compact...it always implies an act which engages to something bigger...
- Paul uses it figuratively at 2 C. 1:22: ὁ...δοὺς τὸν ἀρραβῶνα τοῦ πνεύματος ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν; 5:5: ὁ δοὺς ἡμῖν τὸν ἀρραβῶνα τοῦ πνεύματος. In the latter τοῦ πνεύματος is genitive appositive: “the earnest, i.e., the Spirit” (like ἀπαρχὴ τοῦ πνεύματος in R. 8:23). The Spirit whom God has given them is for Christians the guarantee of their full future possession of salvation. Similarly in Eph. 1:14: τῷ πνεύματι...ὃς ἐστὶν ἀρραβὼν τῆς κληρονομίας ἡμῶν.
- In 2nd century Christian literature it is found only in Pol., 8, 1: τῷ ἀρραβῶνι τῆς δικαιοσύνης ἡμῶν ὃς ἐστὶ Χριστὸς Ἰησοῦς, Christ by His death is a pledge that Christians will attain to righteousness at the last judgment.

EDIFICATION, EDIFY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Edification

- 1 A building up, in a moral and religious sense; instruction; improvement and progress of the mind, in knowledge, in morals, or in faith and holiness.
- 2 Instruction; improvement of the mind in any species of useful knowledge.

Edify

- 1 To build, in a literal sense. [Not now used.]
- 2 To instruct and improve the mind in knowledge generally, and particularly in moral and religious knowledge, in faith and holiness.
- 3 To teach or persuade. [Not used.]

Buck's Theological Dictionary (1833)

Edification

- 319 This word signifies a building up. Hence we call a building an edifice. Applied to spiritual things, it signifies the improving, adorning, and comforting the mind; and a Christian may be said to be edified when he is encouraged and animated in the ways and works of the Lord. The means to promote our own edification are, prayer, self-examination, reading the Scriptures, hearing the Gospel, meditation, attendance on all appointed ordinances. To edify others, there should be love, spiritual conversation, forbearance, faithfulness, benevolent exertions, and uniformity of conduct.

Scriptural Usage

Total occurrences of "edification" in the scriptures	6
Total occurrences of "edify" in the scriptures	25

Old Testament

KJV

Edification

Total occurrences in the OT 0

Edify

Total occurrences in the OT 0

New Testament

KJV

Edification

Total occurrences in the NT 4

Romans 15:2

1 Corinthians 14:3

2 Corinthians 10:8

2 Corinthians 13:10

Edify

Total occurrences in the NT 16

Acts 9:31

Romans 14:19

1 Corinthians 8:1

1 Corinthians 10:23

1 Corinthians 14:4 (2)

1 Corinthians 14:5

1 Corinthians 14:12

1 Corinthians 14:17

1 Corinthians 14:26

2 Corinthians 12:19

Ephesians 4:12

Ephesians 4:16

Ephesians 4:29

1 Thessalonians 5:11

1 Timothy 1:4

Greek New Testament

οἰκοδομή

BDAG 618a

1 process of building, building, construction

1.a literally

1.b figuratively, of spiritual strengthening, edifying, edification, building up

1.b.α active, with objective genitive

1.b.β passive

2 a building as result of a construction process, building, edifice

2.a literally

2.b [A comment on "Hermas."]

– Mentions 1 Corinthians 3:9, "you are God's building."

CGL 991b, PDF 1031

• (concrete) buildings

LSJ 1204a, PDF 1275 (Note that LSJ says that οἰκοδομή is the same as οἰκοδόμησις and gives the definition under the latter word.)

I act or manner of building

II = οἰκοδόμημα

– And οἰκοδόμημα is "building, structure."

Brill 1432, PDF 1496

• act of building, construction | building, construction | edification

– It lists NT uses under the second and third glosses, including 1 Corinthians 3:9 for the third one.

Total occurrences in the NT

Some NT uses

Romans 14:19
Romans 15:2
1 Corinthians 3:9
1 Corinthians 14:3
1 Corinthians 14:5
1 Corinthians 14:12
1 Corinthians 14:26
2 Corinthians 10:8
2 Corinthians 12:19
2 Corinthians 13:10
Ephesians 4:12
Ephesians 4:16
Ephesians 4:29

οἰκοδομέω

BDAG

•

CGL , PDF

•

LSJ , PDF

•

Brill , PDF

•

Total occurrences in the NT

Some NT uses

Acts 9:31
1 Corinthians 8:1
1 Corinthians 10:23
1 Corinthians 14:4 (2)
1 Corinthians 14:17
1 Thessalonians 5:11

οἰκονομία

BDAG

•

CGL , PDF

•

LSJ , PDF

•

Brill , PDF

•

Total occurrences in the NT

Some NT uses

1 Timothy 1:4

Book of Mormon

Edification

Total occurrences in the BOM 0

Edify

Total occurrences in the BOM 0

Doctrine and Covenants

Edification

Total occurrences in the DC 2

DC 88:137

DC 97:5

Edify

Total occurrences in the DC 9

DC 43:8

DC 50:22

DC 50:23

DC 52:16

DC 84:106

DC 84:110

DC 88:122

DC 107:85

DC 136-24

Pearl of Great Price

Edification

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Edify

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

ELECTION, ELECT

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Election

Total occurrences in the OT 0

Elect

Total occurrences in the OT 4

Isaiah 42:1

Isaiah 45:4

Isaiah 65:9

Isaiah 65:22

New Testament

KJV

Election

Total occurrences in the NT 6

Romans 9:11

Romans 11:5

Romans 11:7

Romans 11:28

1 Thessalonians 1:4

2 Peter 1:10

Elect (adjective, substantive adjective)

Total occurrences in the NT 16

Matthew 24:22

Matthew 24:24

Matthew 24:31

Mark 13:20

Mark 13:22

Mark 13:27

Luke 18:7

Romans 8:33

Colossians 3:12

1 Timothy 5:21

2 Timothy 2:10

Titus 1:1

1 Peter 1:2

1 Peter 2:6

2 John 1:1
2 John 1:13

Elected

Total occurrences in the NT 1

1 Peter 5:13

Greek New Testament

ἐκλεκτός

BDAG 271a

- 1 pertaining to being selected, *chosen generally of those whom God has chosen from the generality of mankind and drawn to himself...Hence of Christians in particular (as in the OT of the Israelites)
- 2 pertaining to being especially distinguished, *elect
 - 2.a generally of angels
 - 2.b of the Messiah
 - 2.c of David
- 3 pertaining to being considered best in the course of a selection, *choice, excellent

CGL 450a, PDF 476

- 1 (of soldiers, jurors) select, choice
- 2 masculine substantive, he who has been chosen by God (referring to Jesus Christ); plural, those chosen by God, the elect

LSJ 512a, PDF 583

- I.1 picked out, select
- I.2 choice, pure
- II chosen of God, elect

Total occurrences in the NT 22

Some NT uses

Matthew 22:14

Matthew 24:22

Matthew 24:24

Matthew 24:31

Mark 13:20

Mark 13:22

Mark 13:27

Luke 18:7

Luke 23:35

John 1:34 καὶ ἐώρακα, καὶ μεμαρτύρηκα ὅτι οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ ἐκλεκτός τοῦ θεοῦ.

- Note that this would actually be the twenty-third occurrence of ἐκλεκτός; it doesn't appear in the concordance. See notes at John 1:34.

Romans 8:33

Romans 16:13

Colossians 3:12

1 Timothy 5:21

2 Timothy 2:10

Titus 1:1

1 Peter 1:1

1 Peter 2:4

1 Peter 2:6

1 Peter 2:9

2 John 1:1

2 John 1:13

Revelation 17:14

ἐκλογή

BDAG 271a

- 1 a special choice, selection, choice, election active sense...especially of God's selection of Christians 2 Peter 1:10, 1 Thessalonians 1:4. κατ' ἐκλογὴν (the expression is capable of various interpretations, either = 'by choice' or adjectivally...κατ' ἐκλογὴν χάριτος according to selection out of generosity = selected out of generosity or by grace Romans 11:5. ἡ κατ' ἐ. πρόθεσις τ. θεοῦ the purpose of God which operates by selection 9:11. κατὰ τὴν ἐ. ἀγαπητοί as far as (their) selection or election (by God) is concerned, beloved 11:28
- 2 that which is chosen/selected, passive sense

CGL 450a, PDF 476

- 1 choice, selection (of persons or things)
- 2 elite nature (of troops)

LSJ 512b, PDF 583

- I.1 choice, selection
- I.2 levying of troops
- I.3 collection of tribute
- I.4 Theology, election
 - This entry mentions Romans 9:11 and Acts 9:14.
- I.5 balancing of accounts
- II.1 extract, quotation from a book
- II.2 choice collection of passages
- II.3 picked
- II.4 (a specialty use in a single author)

Total occurrences in the NT 7

Some NT uses

Acts 9:15
Romans 9:11
Romans 11:5
Romans 11:7
Romans 11:28
1 Thessalonians 1:4
2 Peter 1:10

συνεκλεκτός

BDAG 860b

- pertaining to being chosen together with, also chosen, only feminine and substantive. ἡ ἐν Βαβυλῶνι συνεκλεκτή the one in Babylon chosen the same as (you) 1 Peter 5:13. No individual woman is meant, least of all Peter's wife, but rather a congregation with whom Peter is staying.

CGL

- (Does not appear.)

LSJ 1706a, PDF 1777

- chosen along with or together
 - The entry just mentions 1 Peter 5:13 and nothing else.

Total occurrences in the NT 1

Some NT uses

1 Peter 5:13

Book of Mormon

Election

Total occurrences in the BOM 0

Elect (adjective, substantive adjective)

Total occurrences in the BOM 0

Elected

Total occurrences in the BOM 4

Alma 31:16 Holy God, we believe that thou hast separated us from our brethren. And we do not believe in the tradition of our brethren which was handed down to them by the childishness of their fathers, but we believe that thou hast elected us to be thy holy children, and also thou hast made it known unto us that there shall be no Christ.

Alma 31:17 (3) But thou art the same yesterday, today, and forever. And thou hast elected us that we shall be saved, whilst all around us are elected to be cast by thy wrath down to hell, for the which holiness, O God, we thank thee. And we also thank thee that thou hast elected us that we may not be led away after the foolish traditions of our brethren, which doth bind them down to a belief of Christ, which doth lead their hearts to wander far from thee, our God.

Doctrine and Covenants

Election

Total occurrences in the DC 2

DC 53:1

DC 84:99

Elect (adjective, substantive adjective)

Total occurrences in the DC 6

DC 25:3 Behold, thy sins are forgiven thee, and thou art an elect lady, whom I have called.

- Notice that this has “elect” and “called” in the same verse.

DC 29:7 (2) And ye are called to bring to pass the gathering of mine elect; for mine elect hear my voice and harden not their hearts;

- See verse 8 for more on the “elect,” although you don’t get that term there.

DC 33:6 And even so will I gather mine elect from the four quarters of the earth, even as many as will believe in me, and hearken unto my voice.

DC 35:20 And a commandment I give unto thee—that thou shalt write for him; and the scriptures shall be given, even as they are in mine own bosom, to the salvation of mine own elect;

- See verse 21 also, which continues to discuss these “elect” people.

DC 84:34 They become the sons of Moses and of Aaron and the seed of Abraham, and the church and kingdom, and the elect of God.

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 9

All nine occurrences in the PGP are “elect”; no other form appears. In addition, eight of those uses come from Joseph Smith-Matthew, which is part of the JST for Matthew 24. The only other use comes from Moses.

Moses 7:62 And righteousness will I send down out of heaven; and truth will I send forth out of the earth, to bear testimony of mine Only Begotten; his resurrection from the dead; yea, and also the resurrection of all men; and righteousness and truth will I cause to sweep the earth as with a flood, to gather out mine elect from the four quarters of the earth, unto a place which I shall prepare, an Holy City, that my people may gird up their loins, and be looking forth for the time of my coming; for there shall be my tabernacle, and it shall be called Zion, a New Jerusalem.

Key Phrases

calling and election 3 | 2 Peter 1:10; DC 25:3; DC 53:1

Bible anchor verses

2 Peter 1:10 διὸ μᾶλλον, ἀδελφοί, σπουδάσατε βεβαίαν ὑμῶν τὴν κλῆσιν καὶ ἐκλογὴν ποιεῖσθαι· ταῦτα γὰρ ποιοῦντες οὐ μὴ πταίσητέ ποτε·

Commentary See commentary on this idea in the studies section below.

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

Between circa 26 June and circa 2 July 1839 (Wilford Woodruff and Willard Richards give accounts of this discourse, where JS talks about the “doctrine of election.” See the studies section below for discussion and analysis.)

Commentary and Studies

Making one’s “calling and election sure”

(See the JS quote above.)

ELEMENT

See also

Native Element,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The first or constituent principle or minutest part or any thing; as the elements of earth, water, salt, or wood; the elements of the world; the elements of animal or vegetable bodies. So letters are called the elements of language.
- 2 An ingredient; a constituent part of any composition.
- 3 In a chymical sense, an atom; the minutest particle of a substance; that which cannot be divided by chymical analysis, and therefore considered as a simple substance, as oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen, etc.
- 4 In the plural, the first rules or principles of an art or science; rudiments; as the elements of geometry; the elements of music; the elements of painting; the elements of a theory.
- 5 In popular language, fire, air, earth and water, are called the four elements, as formerly it was supposed that these are simple bodies, of which the world is composed. Later discoveries prove air, earth and water to be compound bodies, and fire to be only the extrication of light and heat during combustion.
- 6 element in the singular, is sometimes used for the air.
- 7 The substance which forms the natural or most suitable habitation of an animal. Water is the proper element of fishes; air, of man. Hence,
- 8 The proper state or sphere of any thing; the state of things suited to one's temper or habits. Faction is the element of a demagogue.
- 9 The matter or substances which compose the world.
- 10 The outline or sketch; as the elements of a plan.
- 11 Moving cause or principle; that which excites action.

Restoration Usage

Temple Ordinances

Fifth day of creation Command the beasts, the fowls, the fishes, the insects, all creeping things, and other forms of animal life to multiply in their respective elements, each after its kind, and every kind of vegetation to multiply in its sphere, that every form of life may fill the measure of its creation and have joy therein. Call your labors the fifth day, and bring me word.

Garden Adam, we have created for you this earth, and have placed upon it all kinds of vegetation and animal life. We have commanded all these to multiply in their own sphere and element. We give you dominion over all these things and make you, Adam, lord over the whole earth and all things on the face thereof. We now command you to multiply and replenish the earth, that you may have joy and rejoicing in your posterity.

ELIAS

See also

JSR notes on DC 27;

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 27

Commentary and Studies

Scriptures relevant to “Elias”

Matthew 11:7–14 In this passage, Christ is talking about John the Baptist; see especially verses 10 and 14. 14 reads, καὶ εἰ θέλετε δεῖξασθαι, αὐτός ἐστιν Ἡλίας ὁ μέλλων ἔρχεσθαι.

DC 27:6–7 • See also the JSR notes on this section.

DC 77:14

ELIJAH

Commentary and Studies

The keys or power of Elijah

See Orson Pratt here, 21a bottom.

END (NOUN), ENDLESS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The extreme point of a line, or of anything that has more length than breadth; as the end of a house; the end of a table; the end of a finger; the end of a chain or rope. When bodies or figures have equal dimensions, or equal length and breadth, the extremities are called sides.
- 2 The extremity or last part, in general; the close or conclusion, applied to time.
- 3 The conclusion or cessation of an action.
- 4 The close or conclusion; as the end of a chapter.
- 5 Ultimate state or condition; final doom.
- 6 The point beyond which no progression can be made.
- 7 Final determination; conclusion of debate or deliberation.
- 8 Close of life; death; decease.
- 9 Cessation; period; close of a particular state of things; as the end of the world.
- 10 Limit; termination.
- 11 Destruction.
- 12 Cause of death; a destroyer.
- 13 Consequence; issue; result; conclusive event; conclusion.
- 14 A fragment or broken piece.
- 15 The ultimate point or thing at which one aims or directs his views; the object intended to be reached or accomplished by any action or scheme; purpose intended; scope; aim; drift; as private ends; public ends.
- 16 An end for on end upright; erect; as, his hair stands an end.
- 17 The ends of the earth, in scripture, are the remotest parts of the earth, or the inhabitants of those parts.

Scriptural Usage

Generally, I am not interested in any uses of this term that are similar to “made an end,” or that obviously refer to the extreme part of a physical object, like “end of the rod of iron.”

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 60

- Matthew 10:22 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that endureth to the end shall be saved.
- Matthew 13:39 The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.
- Matthew 13:40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world.
- Matthew 28:20 Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen.
- Mark 3:26 And if Satan rise up against himself, and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.
- Luke 1:33 And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.
- John 13:1 NOW before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end.
- John 18:37 Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice. (Here, “end” and “cause” are just τοῦτο.)
- Romans 4:16 Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; to the end the promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham; who is the father of us all, (Here, “to the end” is a purpose clause, εἰς τὸ εἶναι.)
- Romans 6:21 What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death.
- Romans 6:22 But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

Romans 10:4 For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.

Romans 14:9 For to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living.
("End" here is τοῦτο again, like John 18:37.)

1 Corinthians 15:24 Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power.

2 Corinthians 3:13 And not as Moses, which put a vail over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to the end of that which is abolished:

Philippians 3:18–19 (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ: 19 Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.)

1 Timothy 1:5 Now the end of the commandment is charity out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

Hebrews 7:3 Without father, without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a priest continually.

James 5:11 Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

1 Peter 1:9 Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

2 Peter 2:20 For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

Revelation 21:6 And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.

Greek New Testament

ἔσχατος

In the context of concept "end," in 2 Peter 2:20 τὰ ἔσχατα is just something like "the things at the end," or "the last things," as compared to the first ones. This would be meaning #1 or #2 in BDAG, I think.

BDAG 350b

- 1 pertaining to being at the farthest boundary of an area, farthest, last
- 2 pertaining to being the final item in a series, least, last
- 3 pertaining to furthest extremity in rank, value, or situation, last

LSJ 699b, PDF 770

- I.1 of space, farthest, uttermost, extreme
- I.2 of degree, uttermost, highest
- I.3 of persons, lowest, meanest
- I.4 of time, last

Some NT uses

2 Peter 2:20 εἰ γὰρ ἀποφυγόντες τὰ μιάσματα τοῦ κόσμου ἐν ἐπιγνώσει τοῦ κυρίου καὶ σωτῆρος Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ τούτοις δὲ πάλιν ἐμπλαχέντες ἡττῶνται, γέγονεν αὐτοῖς τὰ ἔσχατα χείρονα τῶν πρώτων.

συντέλεια

Notice how different the meanings are between BDAG and LSJ; it looks like only meaning III.1 in LSJ is related to the BDAG meaning. This word was commonly used for several things long before the NT but then its use and meaning narrowed considerably after that.

BDAG 866a

- a point of time marking completion of a duration, completion, close, end

LSJ 1725b, PDF 1796

- I.1 joint contribution for the public burdens
- I.2 instruction
- I.3 (compulsory) provision of recruits
- II.1 a body of citizens who contributed jointly to bear public burdens
- II.2 company
- II.3 union of communities
- III.1 the consummation of a scheme

- IV unjust gain
- V in grammar, completed action
- VI reality (LSJ only cites a single example)

Some NT uses

Matthew 13:39 ὁ δὲ ἐχθρὸς ὁ σπεῖρας αὐτὰ ἐστὶν ὁ διάβολος· ὁ δὲ θερισμὸς συντέλεια αἰῶνός ἐστιν, οἱ δὲ θεριστοὶ ἄγγελοί εἰσιν.

Matthew 13:40 ὥσπερ οὖν συλλέγεται τὰ ζιζάνια καὶ πυρὶ καίεται, οὕτως ἔσται ἐν τῇ συντελείᾳ τοῦ αἰῶνος·

Matthew 28:20 διδάσκοντες αὐτοὺς τηρεῖν πάντα ὅσα ἐνετειλάμην ὑμῖν· καὶ ἰδοὺ ἐγὼ μετ' ὑμῶν εἰμι πάσας τὰς ἡμέρας ἕως τῆς συντελείας τοῦ αἰῶνος.

τέλος

The uses in Romans seem to clearly be meaning #3 from BDAG; Philippians 3:18–19 as well; 1 Timothy 1:5 could be, though it could also be meaning

BDAG 887a

- 1 a point of time marking the end of a duration, end, termination, cessation
- 2 the last part of a process, close, conclusion
- 3 the goal toward which a movement is being directed, end, goal, outcome
- 4 last in a series, rest, remainder
- 5 revenue obligation, (indirect) tax, toll-tax, customs duties

LSJ 1772b, PDF 1843

- I.1 coming to pass, performance, consummation
- I.2 power of deciding, supreme power
- I.3 magistracy, office
- I.4 decision, doom
- I.5 something done or ordered to be done, task, service, duty
- I.6 plural, services or offerings due to the gods
- I.7 service rendered by a citizen in the Solonian constitution
- I.8 dues exacted by the state
- I.9 financial means, expenditure
- I.10 a military station or post with defined duties
- I.11 troops or columns thereof
- I.12 a territorial division
- II.1.a degree of completion or attainment
- II.1.b a length of time (or space), term, course
- II.2 state of completion or maturity
- II.3 to have reached the end of life, be dead
- II.4 end, cessation
- II.5 end of a word
- III.1 achievement, attainment
- III.2 winning-post, goal in a race
- III.3.a in philosophy, full realization, highest point, ideal
- III.3.b the end or purpose of action

Some NT uses

Matthew 10:22 καὶ ἔσεσθε μισούμενοι ὑπὸ πάντων διὰ τὸ ὄνομά μου· ὁ δὲ ὑπομείνας εἰς τέλος οὗτος σωθήσεται. (BDAG #1, #2 or #3)

Mark 3:26 καὶ εἰ ὁ Σατανᾶς ἀνέστη ἐφ' ἑαυτὸν καὶ ἐμερίσθη, οὐ δύναται στήναι ἀλλὰ τέλος ἔχει. (BDAG #1)

Luke 1:33 καὶ βασιλεύσει ἐπὶ τὸν οἶκον Ἰακώβ εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας, καὶ τῆς βασιλείας αὐτοῦ οὐκ ἔσται τέλος. (BDAG #1 or #2)

John 13:1 Πρὸ δὲ τῆς ἑορτῆς τοῦ πάσχα εἰδὼς ὁ Ἰησοῦς ὅτι ἤλθεν αὐτοῦ ἡ ὥρα ἵνα μεταβῇ ἐκ τοῦ κόσμου τούτου πρὸς τὸν πατέρα ἀγαπήσας τοὺς ἰδίους τοὺς ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ εἰς τέλος ἠγάπησεν αὐτούς. (BDAG #1 or #2)

Romans 6:21 τίνα οὖν καρπὸν εἶχετε τότε ἐφ' οἷς νῦν ἐπαισχύνεσθε· τὸ γὰρ τέλος ἐκεῖνων θάνατος· (BDAG #3)

Romans 6:22 νυνὶ δέ, ἐλευθερωθέντες ἀπὸ τῆς ἁμαρτίας δουλωθέντες δὲ τῷ θεῷ, ἔχετε τὸν καρπὸν ὑμῶν εἰς ἁγιασμόν, τὸ δὲ τέλος ζωὴν αἰώνιον. (BDAG #3)

Romans 10:4 τέλος γὰρ νόμου Χριστὸς εἰς δικαιοσύνην παντὶ τῷ πιστεύοντι. (BDAG #3, possibly #2)

1 Corinthians 15:24 εἶτα τὸ τέλος, ὅταν παραδιδῷ τὴν βασιλείαν τῷ θεῷ καὶ πατρί, ὅταν καταργήσῃ πᾶσαν ἀρχὴν καὶ πᾶσαν ἐξουσίαν καὶ δύναμιν, (BDAG #2)

- 2 Corinthians 3:13 καὶ οὐ καθάπερ Μωϋσῆς ἐτίθει κάλυμμα ἐπὶ τὸ πρόσωπον αὐτοῦ, πρὸς τὸ μὴ ἀτενίσαι τοὺς υἱοὺς Ἰσραὴλ εἰς τὸ τέλος τοῦ καταργουμένου. (BDAG #1, #2, or #3)
- Philippians 3:18–19 πολλοὶ γὰρ περιπατοῦσιν οὕς πολλάκις ἔλεγον ὑμῖν, νῦν δὲ καὶ κλαίων λέγω, τοὺς ἐχθροὺς τοῦ σταυροῦ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, 19 ὧν τὸ τέλος ἀπώλεια, ὧν ὁ θεὸς ἡ κοιλία καὶ ἡ δόξα ἐν τῇ αἰσχύνη αὐτῶν, οἱ τὰ ἐπίγεια φρονοῦντες. (BDAG #2 or #3)
- 1 Timothy 1:5 τὸ δὲ τέλος τῆς παραγγελίας ἐστὶν ἀγάπη ἐκ καθαρᾶς καρδίας καὶ συνειδήσεως ἀγαθῆς καὶ πίστεως ἀνυποκρίτου, (BDAG #3)
- Hebrews 7:3 ἀπάτωρ, ἀμήτωρ, ἀγενεαλόγητος, μήτε ἀρχὴν ἡμερῶν μήτε ζωῆς τέλος ἔχων, ἀφωμοιωμένος δὲ τῷ υἱῷ τοῦ θεοῦ, μένει ἱερεὺς εἰς τὸ διηνεκές. (BDAG #1 or #2)
- James 5:11 ἰδοὺ μακαρίζομεν τοὺς ὑπομεινάντας· τὴν ὑπομονὴν Ἰὼβ ἠκούσατε, καὶ τὸ τέλος κυρίου εἶδετε, ὅτι πολὺς-πλαγχνός ἐστιν ὁ κύριος καὶ οἰκτίρμων. (BDAG #3)
- 1 Peter 1:9 κομιζόμενοι τὸ τέλος τῆς πίστεως ὑμῶν σωτηρίαν ψυχῶν. (BDAG #3)
- Revelation 21:6 καὶ εἶπέν μοι· Γέγοναν. ἐγὼ τὸ Ἄλφα καὶ τὸ Ὠ, ἡ ἀρχὴ καὶ τὸ τέλος. ἐγὼ τῷ διψῶντι δώσω ἐκ τῆς πηγῆς τοῦ ὕδατος τῆς ζωῆς δωρεάν. (BDAG #1, #2, or #3)

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 191

- 1 Nephi 13:37 And blessed are they who shall seek to bring forth my Zion at that day, for they shall have the gift and the power of the Holy Ghost; and if they endure unto the end they shall be lifted up at the last day, and shall be saved in the everlasting kingdom of the Lamb; and whoso shall publish peace, yea, tidings of great joy, how beautiful upon the mountains shall they be. (See the key phrases section below for commentary on the phrase “endure to the end.”)
- 1 Nephi 14:3 And that great pit, which hath been digged for them by that great and abominable church, which was founded by the devil and his children, that he might lead away the souls of men down to hell—yea, that great pit which hath been digged for the destruction of men shall be filled by those who digged it, unto their utter destruction, saith the Lamb of God; not the destruction of the soul, save it be the casting of it into that hell which hath no end.
- 1 Nephi 15:30 And I said unto them that our father also saw that the justice of God did also divide the wicked from the righteous; and the brightness thereof was like unto the brightness of a flaming fire, which ascendeth up unto God forever and ever, and hath no end.
- 2 Nephi 2:7 Behold, he offereth himself a sacrifice for sin, to answer the ends of the law, unto all those who have a broken heart and a contrite spirit; and unto none else can the ends of the law be answered. (See the definitions of “answer” in the 1828 dictionary; I think the meaning here has to be definition #2, #3, or #6 from that list. In fact I think it has to be #3 or #6. See 2 Nephi 2:7 for more commentary. See also the key phrases section for “ends of the law”; the key verse in the NT is Romans 10:4, and the phrase is τέλος γὰρ νόμου Χριστός, though I’m still not sure how much help that phrase is here.)
- 2 Nephi 2:10 And because of the intercession for all, all men come unto God; wherefore, they stand in the presence of him, to be judged of him according to the truth and holiness which is in him. Wherefore, the ends of the law which the Holy One hath given, unto the inflicting of the punishment which is affixed, which punishment that is affixed is in opposition to that of the happiness which is affixed, to answer the ends of the atonement— (I think the way to understand “ends” here is as “purposes.” The “ends” of the law are the possible outcomes—and so in that sense maybe there is a bit of συντέλεια in there as well—and the atonement, as we read at the end, also has these “ends,” or purposes, or things that are brought about by the atonement. And in accordance with the first use, I think that the possible ends or outcomes are happiness and misery. But I also think it’s important to remember that the purpose or end of the atonement is to allow us to experience the things which our actions have already said we wish to receive. So I wouldn’t want to look at it is the atonement inflicting a punishment of misery or compelling us to be happy; instead, I think the atonement makes it possible to get a fuller version of what we really truly want or are comfortable with, in the spirit of DC 88:32.)
- 2 Nephi 2:12 Wherefore, it must needs have been created for a thing of naught; wherefore there would have been no purpose in the end of its creation. Wherefore, this thing must needs destroy the wisdom of God and his eternal purposes, and also the power, and the mercy, and the justice of God. (So how do we read this verse, given what I said about 2 Nephi 2:10 above? I think we can read it in a similar way. Our creation was an end in itself—it was a good or purpose that was worth achieving by itself. But it wasn’t the final end—there was further purpose as well, which is for us to eventually be exalted. There are “eternal purposes in the end of man,” as 2 Nephi 2:15 says below.)
- 2 Nephi 2:15 And to bring about his eternal purposes in the end of man, after he had created our first parents, and the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air, and in fine, all things which are created, it must needs be that there was an opposition; even the forbidden fruit in opposition to the tree of life; the one being sweet and the other bitter. (See 2 Nephi 2:12 above; there are eternal purposes in the end of man, or purposes that go beyond the mere creation of human beings. There is more to happen and be done.)

- 2 Nephi 2:22 And now, behold, if Adam had not transgressed he would not have fallen, but he would have remained in the garden of Eden. And all things which were created must have remained in the same state in which they were after they were created; and they must have remained forever, and had no end. (Here is a case in 2 Nephi where “end” does seem to be more of a straight συντέλεια. Especially given that it follows the “remained forever” bit immediately, there would be no end to their duration. But notice how important this is in light of ends as purposes. If “end” here is just more of συντέλεια, then there must be an end (συντέλεια) in order for the larger purposes to be accomplished.)
- 2 Nephi 9:16 And assuredly, as the Lord liveth, for the Lord God hath spoken it, and it is his eternal word, which cannot pass away, that they who are righteous shall be righteous still, and they who are filthy shall be filthy still; wherefore, they who are filthy are the devil and his angels; and they shall go away into everlasting fire, prepared for them; and their torment is as a lake of fire and brimstone, whose flame ascendeth up forever and ever and has no end.
- 2 Nephi 11:4 Behold, my soul delighteth in proving unto my people the truth of the coming of Christ; for, for this end hath the law of Moses been given; and all things which have been given of God from the beginning of the world, unto man, are the typifying of him.
- 2 Nephi 25:25 For, for this end was the law given; wherefore the law hath become dead unto us, and we are made alive in Christ because of our faith; yet we keep the law because of the commandments.
- 2 Nephi 25:27 Wherefore, we speak concerning the law that our children may know the deadness of the law; and they, by knowing the deadness of the law, may look forward unto that life which is in Christ, and know for what end the law was given. And after the law is fulfilled in Christ, that they need not harden their hearts against him when the law ought to be done away.
- 2 Nephi 29:9 And I do this that I may prove unto many that I am the same yesterday, today, and forever; and that I speak forth my words according to mine own pleasure. And because that I have spoken one word ye need not suppose that I cannot speak another; for my work is not yet finished; neither shall it be until the end of man, neither from that time henceforth and forever. (A powerful verse for “end.” God’s work will not be finished until “the end of man”—could be taken in the purpose sense but also in the temporal, συντέλεια sense. If you take it in the former sense, then it would be something like, “until the purpose of/in man has been accomplished.” But if you take it in the latter temporal sense, then there is a time when man will end, or be no more, since we will have been transformed into some other kind of being; even then, God’s work will not be finished. A powerful verse for thinking about exaltation.)
- 2 Nephi 31:20 Wherefore, ye must press forward with a steadfastness in Christ, having a perfect brightness of hope, and a love of God and of all men. Wherefore, if ye shall press forward, feasting upon the word of Christ, and endure to the end, behold, thus saith the Father: Ye shall have eternal life.
- 2 Nephi 31:21 And now, behold, my beloved brethren, this is the way; and there is none other way nor name given under heaven whereby man can be saved in the kingdom of God. And now, behold, this is the doctrine of Christ, and the only and true doctrine of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, which is one God, without end. Amen.
- 2 Nephi 33:9 I also have charity for the Gentiles. But behold, for none of these can I hope except they shall be reconciled unto Christ, and enter into the narrow gate, and walk in the strait path which leads to life, and continue in the path until the end of the day of probation.
- Jacob 2:21 Do ye not suppose that such things are abominable unto him who created all flesh? And the one being is as precious in his sight as the other. And all flesh is of the dust; and for the selfsame end hath he created them, that they should keep his commandments and glorify him forever.
- Omni 1:26 And now, my beloved brethren, I would that ye should come unto Christ, who is the Holy One of Israel, and partake of his salvation, and the power of his redemption. Yea, come unto him, and offer your whole souls as an offering unto him, and continue in fasting and praying, and endure to the end; and as the Lord liveth ye will be saved.
- Mosiah 4:6 I say unto you, if ye have come to a knowledge of the goodness of God, and his matchless power, and his wisdom, and his patience, and his long-suffering towards the children of men; and also, the atonement which has been prepared from the foundation of the world, that thereby salvation might come to him that should put his trust in the Lord, and should be diligent in keeping his commandments, and continue in the faith even unto the end of his life, I mean the life of the mortal body— (See also Mosiah 4:30, 5:8, and Alma 34:33.)
- Alma 12:27 But behold, it was not so; but it was appointed unto men that they must die; and after death, they must come to judgment, even that same judgment of which we have spoken, which is the end. (Another key verse—the judgment after death is “the end.” The end of the probationary period, maybe? Though it would be important to connect this with what Alma says later about the judgment and the spirit world in Alma 40; see also Alma 34:33 below.)
- Alma 34:33 And now, as I said unto you before, as ye have had so many witnesses, therefore, I beseech of you that ye do not procrastinate the day of your repentance until the end; for after this day of life, which is given us to prepare for eternity, behold, if we do not improve our time while in this life, then cometh the night of darkness wherein there can be no labor performed. (This verse is interesting in light of Alma 12:27, where “the end” is the judgment after death. Putting them together, the instruction is to not procrastinate the day of repentance until that day of judgment. So the end of “this day of life”—and that phrasing helps you combine these two verses with Mosiah 4:6—is the judgment, according to what we read here.)

Mormon 7:7 And he hath brought to pass the redemption of the world, whereby he that is found guiltless before him at the judgment day hath it given unto him to dwell in the presence of God in his kingdom, to sing ceaseless praises with the choirs above, unto the Father, and unto the Son, and unto the Holy Ghost, which are one God, in a state of happiness which hath no end.

Ether 13:8 Wherefore, the remnant of the house of Joseph shall be built upon this land; and it shall be a land of their inheritance; and they shall build up a holy city unto the Lord, like unto the Jerusalem of old; and they shall no more be confounded, until the end come when the earth shall pass away.

Moroni 7:28 For he hath answered the ends of the law, and he claimeth all those who have faith in him; and they who have faith in him will cleave unto every good thing; wherefore he advocateth the cause of the children of men; and he dwelleth eternally in the heavens.

Moroni 8:26 And the remission of sins bringeth meekness, and lowliness of heart; and because of meekness and lowliness of heart cometh the visitation of the Holy Ghost, which Comforter filleth with hope and perfect love, which love endureth by diligence unto prayer, until the end shall come, when all the saints shall dwell with God.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 91

DC 19:6 Nevertheless, it is not written that there shall be no end to this torment, but it is written endless torment.

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 26

Key Phrases

beginning and the end Revelation 1:8, 21:6, 22:13; 2 Nephi 27:7; Alma 11:39; 3 Nephi 9:18; DC 19:1; 35:1; 38:1; 45:7; 49:12; 54:1; 61:1; 84:120; 95:7; Moses 2:1

Bible anchor verses Revelation 1:8, 21:6, 22:13

Revelation 1:8 — (the critical text removes “the beginning and the ending” here, with a certainty rating of “A.”)

Revelation 21:6 ἡ ἀρχὴ καὶ τὸ τέλος

Revelation 22:13 ἡ ἀρχὴ καὶ τὸ τέλος

Commentary For the verses in Revelation 21 and 22, probably meanings #1–#3 of BDAG are in play, which makes them very rich. So I think we should see the uses in the BOM and DC in the same way. Those verses are speaking about Christ, so for the “beginning” part, you might think of Christ as the firstfruits, and for the end, you might think of how the culmination of our process in the plan of salvation is to become like Christ.

beginning of days, end of years 5 | Alma 13:7, 9; DC 84:17; Moses 1:3; Moses 6:67

Bible anchor verses It isn’t exact, but see Hebrews 7:3

Commentary Why “days” and “years,” two different measurements of time? There could be a lot of explanations, but I think of how days are the measure of time in the creation story, and we use years to mark how old we are. Days and years are also related in Genesis 1:14, Job 10:5, Psalms 77:5, Psalms 90:10, 2 Peter 3:8, and Abraham 3:5, among other places.

end from the beginning Isaiah 46:10; Abraham 2:8

Bible anchor verses Isaiah 46:10

Isaiah 46:10 מְרֵאשִׁית אֶחָדִית (See רֵאשִׁית at firstfruits) end(s) of the earth Deuteronomy 13:7 (2), 28:49, 28:64, 33:17; 1 Samuel 2:10; Job 28:24, 37:3, 38:13; Psalms 46:9, 48:10, 59:13, 61:2, 65:5, 67:7, 72:8, 98:3, 135:7; Proverbs 17:24, 30:4; Isaiah 5:26, 26:15, 40:28, 41:5, 41:9, 42:10, 43:6, 45:22, 48:20, 49:6, 52:10; Jeremiah 10:13, 16:19, 25:31, 25:33 (2), 51:16; Daniel 4:22; Micah 5:4; Zechariah 9:10; Acts 13:47; 1 Nephi 20:20, 21:6; 2 Nephi 15:26, 24:2, 26:25, 27:11, 29:2, 33:10, 33:13; Mosiah 12:24, 15:31; Alma 5:50, 29:7; 3 Nephi 9:22, 11:41, 16:20, 20:35, 27:20; Mormon 3:18, 3:22, 9:21, 9:25; Ether 3:25, 4:18; Moroni 7:34, 10:24; DC 1:11; 38:5; 43:21, 43:31; 45:26, 45:49; 58:45; 65:1, 65:2; 72:21; 88:101; 90:9; 105:39; 107:42; 109:23, 109:57, 109:67; 112:4; 122:1; 133:3; JS-M 1:55

Bible anchor verses Job 28:24; Psalms 72:8; Isaiah 40:28, 45:22; Zechariah 9:10; Acts 13:47

Job 28:24 לְקִצּוֹת־הָאָרֶץ

LXX Job 28:24 αὐτὸς γὰρ τὴν ὑπ' οὐρανὸν πᾶσαν ἐφορᾷ (This is pretty different from the Hebrew, and doesn't have a "ends of the earth"-type phrase.)

Psalms 72:8 עַד־סְפָאֵד

LXX Psalms 72:8 ἕως περάτων τῆς οἰκουμένης

Isaiah 40:28 עַד־הַיָּם

LXX Isaiah 40:28 τὰ ἄκρα τῆς γῆς

Isaiah 45:22 עַד־סְפָאֵד־לָךְ

LXX Isaiah 45:22 οἱ ἀπ' ἐσχάτου τῆς γῆς

Zechariah 9:10 עַד־סְפָאֵד

LXX Isaiah 45:22 καὶ κατάρξει ὑδάτων ἕως θαλάσσης καὶ ποταμῶν διεκβολὰς γῆς

Acts 13:47 ἕως ἐσχάτου τῆς γῆς

end(s) of the law Romans 10:4; 2 Nephi 2:7 (2), 2:10; Moroni 7:28

Bible anchor verses Romans 10:4

Romans 10:4 τέλος γὰρ νόμου Χριστὸς end(s) of the world Psalms 19:4, 22:27; Isaiah 62:11; Matthew 13:39, 13:49, 24:3, 28:20; Romans 10:18; 1 Corinthians 10:11;

Hebrews 9:26; 1 Nephi 14:22; Mosiah 4:7; DC 1:23; 19:3; 45:22; 132:49; Moses 6:7, 7:67; JS-M 1:4 (2)

endless torment 8 | 2 Nephi 9:19, 26; 2 Nephi 28:23; Jacob 6:10; Mosiah 3:25; Mosiah 28:3; Moroni 8:21; DC 19:6

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary See notes at and around DC 19:6.

endure to the end Matthew 10:22; 24:13; Mark 13:13; 1 Nephi 13:37; 22:31; 2 Nephi 9:24; 31:15, 31:16, 31:20; 33:3; Omni 1:26; Alma 32:13, 32:15; 38:2; 3 Nephi 15:9 (2); 27:6, 27:16; Mormon 9:29; DC 14:7; 18:22

Bible anchor verses Matthew 10:22

Matthew 10:22 ὁ δὲ ὑπομείνας εἰς τέλος

Commentary In this phrase, “endure” is fairly clear, though it would help to be clearer about what it means. But “end” is the key word—what is the “end” being spoken of? Just how long do we have to endure? The Book of Mormon suggests that “end” here has the meaning of συντέλεια and related meanings of τέλος, rather than the purpose/Aristotelian meanings of τέλος. The key verse is Mosiah 4:6, which speaks of people who “should be diligent in keeping his commandments, and continue in the faith even unto the end of his life, I mean the life of the mortal body.” We’re talking about continuing in the faith, which seems similar enough to “enduring,” and then we are told that the enduring needs to continue until the end of one’s mortal life. This verse really couldn’t be clearer. Mosiah 4:30 and 5:8 say similar things (“even unto the end of your lives” and “should be obedient unto the end of your lives,” respectively). This interpretation of the phrase “endure to the end” receives some support from Alma 34:32–34, which speaks multiple times of “this life” and then clarifies in verse 34 that it is talking about the life of the mortal body, since Amulek talks about a certain spirit possessing our bodies at the time that we go out of this (mortal) life. Another possible source of support is Alma 40:11–12, where we read that the spirits of righteous people enter a state of rest and peace after they die. It may be that once you get to this state, no more enduring is needed. So the meaning of the phrase “endure to the end,” at least in the Book of Mormon, appears to be enduring until the end of our mortal lives. I think that JS later adds on to this view with the idea that we can actually do salvation-worthy things after death, contra what Alma 34:33 suggests. I think BY adds on to this as well with the view that we are constantly changing and either progressing or regressing, and that these changes for good or bad happen at every stage of life, no matter what. I think this makes more sense in light of what else we know about the plan of salvation, and is more faithful to the subversive and universalist nature of the restoration, since the “endure until the end of the race, then rest if you’re righteous” view feels like a very traditional one.

world(s) without end Isaiah 45:17; Ephesians 3:21; DC 76:112

Bible anchor verses Isaiah 45:17; Ephesians 3:21

Isaiah 45:17 עד־עוֹלָמִי עַד

LXX Isaiah 45:17 ἕως τοῦ αἰῶνος

Ephesians 3:21 εἰς πάσας τὰς γενεὰς τοῦ αἰῶνος τῶν αἰώνων

ENDOWMENT

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 39:15

DC 43:16

DC 105:10–12, 18

DC 109:22

DC 109:35

DC 110:9

Commentary and Studies

Development of the endowment

It has roots in many DC sections that talk about the discerning of spirits—even early ones, like DC 50 and before.

ENDURE

See also

End,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 10:22

Mark 13:13

Greek New Testament

ὑπομένω

Almost all NT uses of this word are meaning #2.

BDAG 924b

- 1 to stay in a place beyond an expected point of time, remain/stay (behind)
- 2 to maintain a belief or course of action in the face of opposition, stand one's ground, hold out, endure
- 3 to wait for with persistence, wait for

LSJ , PDF

•

Some NT uses

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 50:5

DC 53:7

DC 63:20

DC 63:47

ENEMY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A foe; an adversary. A private enemy is one who hates another and wishes him injury, or attempts to do him injury to gratify his own malice or ill will. A public enemy or foe, is one who belongs to a nation or party, at war with another.
- 2 One who hates or dislikes; as an enemy to truth or falsehood.
- 3 In theology, and by way of eminence, the enemy is the Devil; the archfiend.
- 4 In military affairs, the opposing army or naval force in war, is called the enemy.

Key Phrases

enemy of all righteousness Acts 13:10; Mosiah 2:37; Mosiah 4:14; Alma 34:23; Moroni 9:6

Commentary Note that, of the four BOM uses, only Moroni 9:6 talks about “the enemy of all righteousness.” The other three refer to “an” enemy. I’m not sure that the Moroni 9:6 use refers to Satan or the devil, however; see Moroni 9:6.

enemy to God Mosiah 2:38; Mosiah 3:19; Mosiah 16:15 (2)

EPISTEMOLOGY OF REVELATION

This entry is for the theory and epistemology of revelation. For uses of the word “revelation,” see Revelation.

See also

Goodness and truth,

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Deuteronomy 8:3

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 4:4

The “good tree” verses from the sermon on the mount

Matthew 7:7–11

Matthew 7:15–20

Matthew 9:16–17

- These are the “new bottles” verses. See also Mark 2:18–22 and Luke 5:33–39. Verse 39 in Luke is particularly important.

Matthew 10:19–20

Matthew 10:26–27

Matthew 11:19

Matthew 11:25–27

Matthew 12:33–37

Matthew 13:1–9

- This is the parable of the sower—good for the principle of context. The ground matters. See also Mark 4:3–9 and Luke 8:4–8. Think also about Alma 32 in light of these verses.

Matthew 13:10–17

- This is what Christ says in response to the question, why do you speak to the people in parables? Notice the key verses 11–12 in particular.

Matthew 13:34–35

Matthew 16:13–20

Matthew 23:34

- Include philosophers on the list of people God sends to warn others? Maybe a bit of a stretch.

Matthew 24:45

- Reminds me of the distinction between milk and meat, and that makes me think of the verses in Alma 12 that talk about certain people receiving more and only being allowed to share a small amount.

Matthew 25:14–30

- With the different amounts of “talents” you could see something like the principle of Alma 12 here too. See also DC 82:3.
- And don’t forget about verse 29, either, which is a broad principle that can apply to epistemological stuff.

Mark 4:3–34

- There's a huge amount here—it's important to break this down into its various divisions and relate it to other verses, like Alma 32.
- Verse 11 may be a reference to Alma 12:9–11.

Mark 6:51–52

- I'm specifically thinking here of how they were not considering one event, or weren't considering it enough, and this affected how they responded to another event.

Mark 8:22–26

- A very interesting story to think about what Christ did to the man the first time he healed him, and what changes occurred the second time. Anything with concepts or something like that going on?

Mark 13:11

Luke 2:25–27

- You could consider up to and including verse 35 to be relevant here too.

Luke 8:4–18

- This is Luke's version of the parable of the sower.
- I wonder if Luke 9:44–45 is a clue about how to understand the bit here about "hearing they don't hear." Not sure though.

Luke 9:44–45

Luke 10:21–24

Luke 11:46–52

- You might want to expand this to the verses before 46 talking about the scribes and pharisees. In any case, the key verse is 52, but that has to be read in light of the ones before it and in light of the entire passage.

Luke 12:1–3

Luke 12:11–12

Luke 16:10

- This is part of an unusual parable, but the principle in this verse is particularly important.

Luke 18:34

- Requires a bit of context, but a very interesting example to look at.

Luke 19:12–27

- Not just about knowledge, also about other things.

Luke 21:14–15

Luke 24:16

- This verse is part of the story of the two men who don't recognize Jesus after the resurrection. See verses 31–32 for the culmination.

Luke 24:44–45

Luke 24:49

John 3:34

John 4:39–42

John 5:17–47

- Not every verse in this block is relevant, but many of them are.

John 7:16–18

John 15:26

John 16

- Not necessarily all of the verses in the chapter, but many of them have to do with epistemology, including the relationship between Christ's presence and the Comforter, and so on.
- See 13–16, for example.

John 20:5–18

- A few points here. First, Mary looks into the sepulchre and sees two angels that John and Peter apparently don't see.
- The second is that Mary doesn't recognize the Lord when she first sees him. Why not? And note that the answer might be as simple as, she's distracted and upset, and not looking at him carefully when he's talking (she "saw Jesus standing" in verse 14 though).

John 21:4–12

- This story is a bit similar to Mary's in the previous chapter.

Romans 3:5

- I'm specifically thinking of the "I speak as a man" part, though I'm not sure that it's necessarily a constructive/contextual thing.

Romans 3:20

Romans 6:19

- Originally brought to my attention by Kaija.

Romans 10:13–15, 17

- Don't forget verse 17 here!

Romans 11:33–36

Romans 14:13–14

- The verses following these also have more stuff about what is “pure,” and how it's up to each person.

Romans 15:4

- On the scriptures specifically.

Romans 15:20–21

1 Corinthians 2

2 Corinthians 3:3

2 Corinthians 3:18

2 Corinthians 4:3–7

2 Corinthians 12:1–7

- This also then leads into a discussion about weakness and strength, which mirrors many points in Ether 12.

2 Corinthians 13:1

Galatians 1:11–12

Galatians 1:15–16

Galatians 4:22–31

- Note how Paul is reading a particular story about Abraham as an allegory.

Ephesians 1:7–9

Ephesians 1:17–19

Ephesians 3:1–12

Ephesians 3:14–21

- Doesn't have as much meat as the previous set of verses in this chapter, but it still has some relevant things, including in a connection to an inner transformation.

Philippians 1:9–11

Colossians 1:9–13

Colossians 1:25–29

Colossians 2:2–3

Book of Mormon

1 Nephi 1:1

- Nephi here seems to equate the favor he's been shown with the knowledge he's received.

1 Nephi 1:2

- See also notes on this verse.
- Note the connection to 2 Nephi 25:5–6, where Nephi talks about being taught after the ways of the Jews.

1 Nephi 1:6

- See also notes on this verse. There are other verses relevant here—it's Lehi's original spiritual manifestation.
- His reaction in verse 14 is interesting, for example.

1 Nephi 2:16–19

- Compare these verses to DC 46:13–14.
- Also note in verse 19 the attitude with which Nephi seeks the Lord.

1 Nephi 4:6

1 Nephi 4:6–38

- This whole experience is very important and there's a lot to learn from it. There's a principle in verse 6, and then it plays out in a particular way for Nephi here.
- Another thing to pay attention to here is the apparent back and forth Nephi has with the Spirit before killing Laban. But is it an actual back and forth? Is he just remembering this stuff later and inserting the reasoning back into his actions as he reports the story? There's a lot to think about.

1 Nephi 5:4

1 Nephi 7:14

1 Nephi 7:15

- A pretty different thing from the previous verse—this is about the “constrain” part.

1 Nephi 10:11

1 Nephi 10:17–19

- Extremely important verses.
- Verse 22 also?

1 Nephi 11:1

- Nephi's vision begins in this verse, and continues for a long time. Some good stuff to study.
- Especially the way it comes about, and how it happens, with the Spirit speaking to him and everything.
- You also have to think about how he went from his experience in chapter 2, to learning more, and eventually having this manifestation, so there's a progression.
- Note 14:30 and 15:1 he says he was "carried away in the spirit."

1 Nephi 12:23–29

- This is about the scriptures specifically, but it also talks about the effect that these changes have on people.
- It would be interesting to try to figure out whether this view of the scriptures makes sense, given what we know now about the history of the transmission of the manuscripts. I'm not sure how tenable this is. It would make more sense if the taking away of the "plain and precious things" had to do with how the scriptures were interpreted, or something like that.
- See also verse 32, 14:23,

1 Nephi 13:37

- A way to receive the Holy Ghost.

1 Nephi 14:18–28

- Very interesting remarks about how John would be shown certain things that Nephi also saw, but John would be the one to write them.
- I'm especially interested in 25–26, where we learn that other people saw "all things." I assume they would have been shown them in a way that made sense to them, in their language, and so it would be different accounts or stories that would all in reality be about the same thing.

1 Nephi 15:2–4, 6–11

- So there's the important part about inquiring of the Lord.
- But there's also the fact that Nephi has just had this vision, this enlightenment, and he comes back to people squabbling about little things. Must have seemed very trivial to him, and very pointless.
- Make sure to see verses 6–11 here, very important. Verse 11 might be the most important of all.

1 Nephi 15:14

- Very important verse for pragmatism and truth and goodness; very important for the principles of revelation as well, for action.
- Compare DC 93:19.

1 Nephi 15:23–24

- About the word of God and the rod.

1 Nephi 16:10

- Along with everything connected to the Liahona. This is the verse where it first gets mentioned.
- Verses 27–29 of this chapter are particularly important; this is an extremely important passage to work out for epistemology of revelation stuff.
- Notice that the emphasis is on guiding their actions, on getting them to certain places, to perform certain actions, and so on.
- See also 1 Nephi 18, Mosiah 1:16–17,

1 Nephi 17:13

1 Nephi 17:45

1 Nephi 18:1–3

1 Nephi 18:12–13

- And other verses related to this ship journey.
- Related to the Liahona too.

1 Nephi 19:12

- An important example of context.

1 Nephi 19:20

1 Nephi 19:22–24

- Compare 2 Nephi 2:14?
- 2 Nephi 6:5
- 2 Nephi 11:2, 11:8

1 Nephi 22:1–2

2 Nephi 2:4–5

2 Nephi 21:2–5

2 Nephi 21:9

2 Nephi 25:4–7

- I'm thinking specifically of the discussion of plainness.
- See also verse 20 of this chapter.

2 Nephi 26:1

2 Nephi 26:11

2 Nephi 26:13

2 Nephi 26:22–24

- Note verse 33 here as well, related to the “doing thing in darkness” point.

2 Nephi 27:23

- The “according to their faith” part seems crucial. How have I missed this before? The Lord works with us according to our faith, which is basically our level of knowledge. Crucial.

2 Nephi 28:27–31

2 Nephi 29:3–14

- Not every verse in this block is relevant, but most are, including the important discussion about the Lord giving his word to basically everyone and commanding them to write it.

2 Nephi 30:15–18

2 Nephi 31:2–3

2 Nephi 31:12

- See also 31:17.

2 Nephi 31:19–20

2 Nephi 32

- This whole chapter. You can sort of divide it up into three parts: 1–6, 7, and 8–9. All three parts are relevant for the epistemology of revelation.

2 Nephi 33:1–2

2 Nephi 33:10

- See also verse 14; these verses relate to the idea of the words of Christ instructing us, that comes up in chapter 32.

Jacob 1:5–8

- 2:3 mentions “anxiety” too.

Jacob 2:5

Jacob 3:2

Jacob 4:5–18

- This is a big block of verses where most of them give some very interesting insights into epist-rev related issues.
- 13 is important for construction and context, and also other things; that verse is very important.

Jacob 6:8

Jacob 7:5

- There are other verses associated with this Sherem story too, like verses 8, 12,

Enos 1:2–11

- Really Enos’s whole experience, especially the initial part.

Jarom 1:4

Omni 1:20

Omni 1:25

Words of Mormon 1:7–9

Words of Mormon 1:16–18

- These verses are about prophets.

Mosiah 1:3–5

- This is about the importance of record-keeping.

Mosiah 2:9

Mosiah 2:33

Mosiah 2:36–37

Mosiah 3:2

- Here I’m specifically thinking of Benjamin’s interaction with this angel that delivers the information.

Mosiah 3:4

- Especially the part about Benjamin’s righteousness being judged before receiving answers.

Mosiah 4:9

Mosiah 4:11–12

Mosiah 5:2–4

Mosiah 8:6–21

- This is about translation and the idea of a “seer.”

Mosiah 12:25–27

Mosiah 13:32

Mosiah 18:10

Mosiah 18:26

Mosiah 21:28

Mosiah 26:1–3

Mosiah 26:10–13

- There’s more here than this, just wanted to note Alma’s experience in being really worried about something and asking the Lord for guidance about it.

Mosiah 27:10–18

- This is Alma jr.’s experience with the angel.
- Goes with what follows, which is Alma’s experience when he’s unconscious or whatever.
- For this passage, notice in particular that the angel says, I’m here to convince you of the power and authority of God, and not, I’m here to prove to you that God exists. And in verse 18 it seems that this appearance had the desired effect.

Alma 4:15

- The Spirit “failing” him because of his own despair or feelings?
- Compare to what happens at 8:14–15.

Alma 4:19–20

Alma 5:45–48

Alma 6:8

Alma 7:4–5

Alma 7:8–9

Alma 7:11–13

Alma 7:14–17

- Here I’m thinking specifically of how the Spirit is telling Alma these things he’s saying, including in verse 17.
- With 18–20, it seems like an example of construction, where Alma is looking around and seeing what the people and the Spirit is giving him revelation connected to what he is perceiving.
- See also verse 26.

Alma 8:10–11

- Notice how Alma’s prayer and desires interact with what other people choose to do.

Alma 8:14

- Not just this verse, but the following ones also—it’s a good example of revelation given for action, without knowing the entire picture, going one step at a time.
- Verse 18, for example, all of this is involved.

Alma 8:20

- And notice how Alma’s quest interacts with Amulek here, and the revelations that Amulek has received.
- Verses 29–31, etc.
- See Alma 10:7–10 for more of Amulek’s side of this story, and how he understands his own experiences.

Alma 8:24

Alma 8:31–32

Alma 9:19–21

- Note the distinction here between the spirit of prophecy and the spirit of revelation, which is expected elsewhere; would be interesting to look into at some point.
- Verse 23 as well.

Alma 10:5–6

Alma 10:12

Alma 10:17

Alma 10:25

Alma 11:22

Alma 12:3

- See verse 7 as well.

Alma 12:8–11

- Extremely important verses.
- See my notes on the change in pronouns in verse 10.
- Note also that we learn what the “chains of hell” are in verse 11: ignorance of God’s mysteries.

Alma 12:28

- This verse begins a discussion of how God disseminates knowledge into the world.
- See the verses following this for more. It extends into chapter 13.
 - You see it again in 13:22 and 13:24, for example, and 13:26.
- A similar discussion is in Moroni 7. The more I think about this stuff, the more important I realize this is.

Alma 12:30

Alma 13:3–10

- Still connected to the issues above about disseminating knowledge of the plan of salvation.

Alma 13:28

Alma 14:10–11

Alma 16:4–6

Alma 16:15–17

Alma 17:2–4

- Related to this, see verses 9–10 of the same chapter, and then the Lord begins speaking to them in verse 11.

Alma 18:2

- Here begins Ammon’s preaching to Lamoni. I think there are some examples of construction here, where the preaching and revelation occurs on the basis of what Lamoni already believes.
- Other verses relevant here are 18, 24–32, 36ff,
- And notice how this interacts with the ideas on the “traditions of the fathers” in DC 93.

Alma 18:16

- This is where Ammon begins to receive insight from the Holy Ghost in his preaching to Lamoni.
- Other verses that are relevant here include 18, 20,

Alma 18:35

- There are a few things to note here.
- One is that a portion of the Spirit dwells with him, and so we can have more or less of it.
- Another is that the way the Spirit is described here is similar to how the Liahona is described, which is important when you think of externalized sources of revelation, like the Liahona and seer stones.

Alma 19:6

Alma 19:16–17

- Notice Abish here acting as an “angel” or minister to share about Christ.

Alma 20:4–6

Alma 21:16–17

Alma 22

- Here begins the preaching of Aaron to Lamoni’s father.
- It involves the Spirit in various ways, including in Aaron being led there and also in the guy’s questions.
- It’s also a good example of construction, or building upon what is already there. Notice that Aaron doesn’t correct the king’s views, he just builds on them.

Alma 23:6

Alma 24:7–9

- I think I have notes on this elsewhere, but all the scriptures involving the “traditions of the fathers” are relevant for the epistemology of revelation; see DC 93, and also think about the maze of many starting-points.

Alma 24:14

- There is a reference here to the “angels” that make known the plan of salvation.
- Two other places that talk about this a lot are Alma 12 and Moroni 7.
- See also Alma 27:4.
- This is a major theme in different places of the Book of Mormon and I should write about it eventually. It’s like a big-picture view of how knowledge of Christ gets into the world in the first place.

Alma 24:29–30

Alma 25:15–16

- Important for construction and accountability.

Alma 26:14–15

- Note the “chains of hell” here and how it has to do with ignorance.

Alma 26:21–22

Alma 27:7–13

- Another experience of someone asking the Lord something on behalf of a bunch of other people, and the Lord responding in a particular way.

Alma 28:12

Alma 29:4–8

- There's kind of two blocks of verses here: 4–5, and 6–8. 8 in particular is important for the dissemination of gospel knowledge at population levels.

Alma 30:13–60

- Here begins Korihor's preaching, which has a lot to do with what can be known or not.
- There are many interesting points here, and Alma and Amulek pick up on so many of these issues in the next few chapters.

Alma 31:5

- Alma 32
- An extremely important chapter; one of the most important of all.
 - Compare the "sower sowing the word" parable from Christ.

Alma 33:19–21

Alma 34:33–39

Alma 36:4–5

Alma 36:18–26

- Could also be relevant for Alma 32.

Alma 37:4–5

- The "brightness" of the records matters; something that is bright gives off light.

Alma 37:6–12

- Lots about the scriptures, mysteries, and other things. Very rich passages.
- And repentance as learning, clearly stated in verse 9. There is a strong connection between repentance and learning or gaining knowledge.

Alma 37:13–37

- A long passage with very interesting details about how Helaman is instructed to disseminate knowledge relevant to the gospel.
- This is important for understanding things like Alma 12:9–11 and other passages.

Alma 37:38–47

Alma 38:6–10

- Verse 6 is probably most important here.

Alma 39:5–6

Alma 39:15–19

- More about dissemination, priesthood callings to share knowledge, etc. I'm noticing these patterns and need to explore them at some point.
- Here you can connect to the "angels" stuff through the word "ministry" in 16.
- And angels are mentioned in 19 too! Great passage.

Alma 40:3

- Make sure to see his follow-up to this in verses 9 and 11.

Alma 40:13

Alma 43:2

Alma 43:23–24

Alma 45:9–15

- Alma's prophecy is important here, but so is the fact that this looks like an instance of the principle in Alma 12:9–11, where certain people are commanded not to reveal particular things they know.
- 12 is also important, going against knowledge.

Alma 46:8–9

Alma 47:36

- See also 48:24 for a related idea.

Alma 48:11

Alma 49:30

Alma 55:1

Alma 57:21

Helaman 3:29

- See notes on this verse and the connection to Hebrews; very important for the maze of many starting-points and other issues.

Helaman 3:35

- Especially with the “faith” part.

Helaman 4:12–13

Helaman 4:20–26

Helaman 5:17–18

Helaman 5:29

- And verses after this one—the voice that comes, its nature and what it says.
- And verse 33, about words that can’t be uttered by a person.
- This entire story is full of interesting points to consider.
- 41 is important, and seems to go with the “particle of faith” remark in Alma 32. I wonder if you can impose that Alma 32 model on what happens to them in this chapter.
- This is also a helpful place to look at the role of angels in giving knowledge.
- Verses 49–50—to some it is given to know, to others it is given to believe on their words...

Helaman 6:34–36

Helaman 7:23–24

Helaman 7:23–29

Helaman 8:14–25

- Many different points made about many different issues here.

Helaman 9:1–5

Helaman 11:23

Helaman 12

- There’s a large stretch of verses in the middle of this chapter, about God commanding things to happen, that aren’t relevant for revelation or epistemology. But many of the other parts are. We basically get to decide what role we want God to play in our life, and this affects what knowledge we can receive.

Helaman 13:3–5

Helaman 13:7–8

- Note that these verses are here for different reasons—7 has to do with the angel/dissemination thing.
- In 8, notice that losing the word and the Spirit are two separate things.

Helaman 14:28–31

Helaman 15:4–17

Helaman 16:1–5

- Notice here the various things that convince people. What matters is just being convinced and acting—getting baptized—and not anything else.

Helaman 16:14

Helaman 16:15–23

3 Nephi 1:22

- I’m thinking specifically here of how the people react to the sign.
- This also goes with 3 Nephi 2:1–3 below.

3 Nephi 1:24–25

3 Nephi 1:29–30

3 Nephi 2:1–3

3 Nephi 3:19

3 Nephi 5:20

- Knowledge is given for salvation.

3 Nephi 6:18

- In other words, they knew what to do, which is the key knowledge.

3 Nephi 6:20

- Angels/dissemination stuff.

3 Nephi 7:15–16

- Very important for the seeing stuff—he sees the ministry of Christ, or something like that. In some way he knows about it.
- Then he goes and preaches.

3 Nephi 7:18–22

- Also important for seeing, since this is the result of Nephi’s preaching.
- This pattern is repeated throughout the Book of Mormon, and at some point I’d like to study it in detail.

3 Nephi 9:1

- Here the people begin to hear the voice of Christ.

3 Nephi 10:18–19

3 Nephi 11

- There are many important things here, including the voice, the number of times they hear it, the fact that Christ manifests himself to the people, the fact that they see him and touch him, their certainty, the fact that the text says that they will know by doing so, and so on. Lots of important things in this chapter.
- Including 31–40 in issues related to doctrine and receiving it.

3 Nephi 12:1–2

- More “see and know.”
- Notice also the connection here to DC 46.

3 Nephi 14:7–8

3 Nephi 14:24–

- On the importance of action.

3 Nephi 15:18

3 Nephi 15:22–24

3 Nephi 16:1–4

3 Nephi 16:6–7

3 Nephi 16:10–12

3 Nephi 17:2–3

3 Nephi 17:5–8

- Notice how Christ responds to what he sees the people wanting.

3 Nephi 17:15–18

3 Nephi 17:24–25

3 Nephi 18:7

- Also verse 11, which says something similar.

3 Nephi 18:25

3 Nephi 19:2–3

- Another example of DC 46 stuff, about people knowing and then sharing the knowledge.
- Verse 21 too, and possibly others. Verse 21 is actually a very important example of it.
- 28 also.

3 Nephi 19:9–36

- This is a whole episode that is worth looking at closely.

3 Nephi 20:8–9

3 Nephi 20:27

3 Nephi 21:2

3 Nephi 21:6

3 Nephi 26:6–12

- Very important application of other principles.
- And when we will know these things, if we’re faithful? I think the answer is, when Christ himself teaches them to us, either in person or through the Holy Ghost.

3 Nephi 26:14

- Also verses 16, 18

3 Nephi 27:1–2

3 Nephi 28:11

3 Nephi 28:12–16

3 Nephi 28:29

3 Nephi 28:30

3 Nephi 28:34–35

3 Nephi 29:6

4 Nephi 1:38–39

Mormon 1:14–17

- Several different important things in this block.

Mormon 2:26

Mormon 3:16

Mormon 3:20–21

Mormon 4:11

- Compare this to other descriptions of being not being able to say something; this one seems different.

Mormon 5:8–9

Mormon 5:12–15

- This is about the purpose of the scriptures.

Mormon 5:16–18

- Note particularly in verse 17, that it talks about being led by God the Father; see DC 84:48.

Mormon 8:12

Mormon 8:14–17

Mormon 8:34–36

Mormon 9:7–9

Mormon 9:21

Mormon 9:25–

- Very important, especially 25; I think the rest explains how the confirmation of his words is to take place. Goes with the kind of Schiller stuff in “Axioms as Postulates,” PDF 18.

Ether 2–3 (See the talk idea about the preparing of the stones as a metaphor.)

- There are also a lot of other things going on in these two chapters, that have to do with specific ways the Lord is interacting with people and instructing them.
- I’ve tried to get at some of them with the scriptures listed below.
- 3:4 starts when the Lord puts his hand out. This and the rest of the chapter are extremely important.

Ether 2:12

Ether 2:13–15

Ether 2:25–3:

- This is the specific story of the stones, with the Lord asking him what he wants to do, and Jared’s brother coming up with a plan where he makes the stones, and so on.

Ether 4:1–3

- Regarding how the records are going to be shared.

Ether 4–5

- Taken together with what happens in chapter 3, Ether 4 is one of the most important chapters about epistemological stuff. There are so many important points here.
- Chapter 5 is short but has some good stuff too, but I’m just wowed by chapter 4.

Ether 6:1–12

- It’s a nice story of being pushed in a general direction, even if it seems like it’s chaotic.

Ether 9:22

Ether 11:13

- The pattern of prophets is here, and elsewhere in Ether, you just have to search for “prophet” in the book.

Ether 12:3–41

- On faith, but I think there’s some very important things here about the principle of finding what you look for.
- Verse 35 is sneakily important, I think.
- Verse 39, for language stuff.

Ether 15:19

Moroni 2:2–3

Moroni 7:4–19

- This block of verses is all about discerning good from evil in order to allow us to act, and in particular, to act to “lay hold on every good thing.”
- So the whole first part of the chapter is about the way we make that particular discernment.

Moroni 7:22–39

- Very important passage for the issue of angels and dissemination of knowledge.
- 23 also includes the difference with prophets.
- 25 is crucial.
- This is so important; I just keep thinking about how these brief comments about it are made throughout the Book of Mormon, and I really need to tie them together at some point.
- It’s also very important to get the parts in here about faith and how it’s an active force that makes things happen and shapes what is possible for us to do in the world; verse 38 is a good example of this.

Moroni 7:44

Moroni 8:7–9

Moroni 8:22

- This is absolutely fundamental to what it means for the law to exist for someone; you have to KNOW ABOUT IT in order to be held accountable to it. This goes hand in hand with the restoration definition of truth in terms of knowledge.
- Verse 24 also, equally important.

Moroni 8:25–26

Moroni 8:28–29

Moroni 9:4

Moroni 9:20

Moroni 10:3–7

Moroni 10:8–19

- On spiritual gifts.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 1:24

- See related verses in the BOM about “weakness,” and how what they say connects to the revelatory process we see with JS.

DC 1:25–26, 28

- Humility given here as a key to receive knowledge.
- Notice especially the “receive knowledge from time to time” bit at the end of 28.

DC 1:33

DC 3:4–15

- See also the JSP version of some verses, including 12.
- This whole story is a powerful example of how setting aside righteous behavior turns off the fountain of revelation in our lives.

DC 5:11–14

- Note the JSP manuscript.
- Other verses in this section are relevant too, like 24–26; this entire experience of Martin Harris is a good lesson on revelation and some principles involved.

DC 5:16

- Interesting little principle here about believe and visitation.

DC 6:7

- A potentially very powerful principle.

DC 6:11

DC 6:14–16

- Need also to think of these verses in the context of Cowdery’s life at the time.
- With verse 15, Bednar said some things about it in the training that Brett showed us in December 2021 at a bishopric meeting.

DC 6:22–24

DC 6:28

- I am not totally sure what to make of the “two or three witnesses” principle. It might relate to social epistemology and sharing beliefs with others, rather than establishing the actual truth of something.

DC 7

- The changes over time to this section, from the JSP/BC version to now, are pretty interesting, and clearly reflect a growth of knowledge and understanding of other gospel principles that are then inserted later, into the 1835 DC version.
- Also, the weird thing about the “parchment” and the translation, which is not mentioned in the earliest versions.

DC 8

- First, look at the note at verse 6 on the use of “sprout,” “rod,” and “gift of Aaron” in successive versions—it’s possible to link the modern version of the verse into stuff about the priesthood and the ministering of angels (and therefore the epistemology of revelation).
- Another thing to look at here is this verse (6) itself and its evolution over time—could be another example of how JS’s (and everyone else’s) evolving understanding of the gospel led them to revise a revelation in order to better explain and correspond to that evolving understanding.
- And yet another thing is the fact that these people were using things like rods in order to get knowledge. The Lord is using what is there to instruct.
 - Verse 7, and its original (about “Nature”), is important here.
 - Verse 8 also, especially the original—what is the antecedent of “it”? Seems to be referring to the “thing of Nature” working in Cowdery’s hands.
- Verses 1–3 also have important principles about revelation that go beyond this section too. Connecting to the “spirit of revelation,” and the connection especially to Moses and his experience, is really interesting and there would be a lot to look at there.

- The later verses, 9–11, also have principles about revelation, including Cowdery being specifically instructed to ask in order to “know the mysteries.”

DC 9

- Verse 5, continuing as you commenced—this is probably a more general principle that isn’t unique to the process of receiving revelation. Though I think it’s relevant for revelation too.
- Verse 7, with my note.

DC 10

- Note especially the JSP background to this revelation—how it shares language in common with certain passages from the BOM, and it isn’t clear when it was received. There is a construction or production process for this revelation that takes place over time and has many different influences.
 - There are other aspects of this to note too, for example, the inclusion of a reference to the “Urim and Thummim” that was probably not there originally (it isn’t there in the BC).
 - There are other important differences too.
- The idea of re-translating is also interesting, when you think of translation as governed by the rules of revelation.
- Verse 45—some parts of scripture give you “greater views” of the gospel.

DC 11

- DC 11:12–14
- DC 11:21
 - Notice DC 23:3, where this promise appears to be fulfilled (or at least it’s followed up on).
- DC 11:22 This verse is very important as a complement to Alma 12, showing that there is a general amount of the word (or light) given to the world at large

DC 18

- DC 18:1–4
- DC 18:18
- DC 18:33–36
 - This is an interesting discussion of the voice of Christ, and its relation to the Spirit. Verse 35 in particular seems to suggest that, because the revelations have been given by the voice of Christ, the people who read them can then testify (verse 36) that they have heard the voice of Christ. Pretty interesting.
 - Also makes me think of 2 Nephi 32, especially verse 6, and how to take the bit at the end of that verse about the things which Christ will “say” unto us. If we go with this way of understanding these verses in DC 18, then you can see us as receiving the revelations and through them hearing the voice of Christ and finding out what he is saying to us. See also verse 47 in section 18.

DC 19

- DC 19:4–12
 - This is one of the most important passages in the scriptures when it comes to understanding the principles of revelation, because it very clearly explains that a certain phrase in the BOM does not mean what we would think it means, based on the most natural way of understanding the words. This is extremely important.
 - The Lord explains the meaning of the terms in question in 10–12, and that’s important. But I think the most important verse of all here is verse 7, where the Lord explains that he uses the phrase “eternal damnation” (and others) for a pragmatic purpose: with a somewhat harsh or even scary phrase, he wants to impress on people the seriousness of the situation, and work in them a desire to repent. Note what this means: in the revelations, including the BOM, the Lord is choosing words and terms for pragmatic purposes, even when, on a natural interpretation, those words and phrases communicate a false idea of some aspect of doctrine or the plan of salvation. This is a principle that is absolutely fundamental to the epistemology of revelation.
 - See my notes here, but also my notes on those verses too.
 - See also DC63-53 (the verse and below in this list).
- DC 19:38

DC 20:10

- See my notes on this verse—it’s support for the BY quotes about the translation of the BOM.

DC 20:35

DC 21:4–5

DC 21:9

DC 24:6

DC 25:4

DC 25:9

DC 27:5

- The BOM is a revelation, and so the principles which govern the giving and receiving of revelation apply to it.

DC 28

- The whole saga of this story with Page and the seer-stone is important for understanding revelation on Earth.
- Important verses include 1–4, 5, 7, 8, 11–12.

DC 28:7 – This verse belongs in a group that also includes DC 35:18, DC 64:5, and DC 84:19, where the revelations are talking about the “keys” and “mysteries” together.

DC 29

- See verses 33–34 especially, where the Lord explains that he is using certain language about beginnings and endings “that [we] may naturally understand.” But that language in fact does not really apply to him. Similar to the stuff at the beginning of DC 19. For verse 34 in 29, the distinction between “spiritual” and “temporal” doesn’t really mean anything to the Lord. Note also that in verse 35 the Lord specifically says that the commandments are not “natural”—but earlier he said that he said something in a certain way so that we would “naturally understand,” but since they aren’t “natural,” then our understanding is going to be wrong if we stay at that level (note that this line of reasoning requires a bit of equivocation with the terms “natural” and “naturally”).

DC 30:2–3

DC 32:4

- There are various things to note in this verse—one is the “pretend to no other revelation” part, and a second is the “pray always so God will unfold the revelations” part. But there’s another part here about things that are written—there are other places in the scriptures besides here that particular emphasis is given to that which is written down. I think there are divine engineering reasons why this is—it’s because we have a finite memory and so we need things written down for us, or we need to write them down to remember them. So if something is written down that makes it especially important. I should check this out elsewhere.

DC 33:16

- The scriptures are given of God “for our instruction.” What does this mean? And connect to other uses of “instruction”?

Historical background to DC 34, in the JSP, the bit about how the revelation was received

DC 35

- 17–19, what JS received
- 20, how the scriptures are “in mine own bosom,” for a particular purpose, the “salvation” of God’s elect; this also relates to translation, because Rigdon is going to do that
- 23, seems important but I’m not sure how yet

DC 36

- Verse 2, where a person receives the Comforter “which shall teach...the peaceable things of the kingdom”

DC 38

- Verse 2, which may relate to 130:7
- Verses 7–8
- Verse 13—though what exactly is the “mystery” the Lord is sharing here?
- DC 38:29–30—it the Lord kind of saying, you need to learn to discern these things on your own? Let them be revealed to you so that you can understand them?
- Another issue here, relating to the whole section, is the connection between this section (and possibly others from around this time) to Moses 7 (and possibly other parts of that early JST material, including Moses 6 and 8). They are going on around the same time; they influence each other; they build on each other. This is unavoidable.

DC 39

- DC 39:6; note comparison to 2 Nephi 32:5
- Verse 16, how God takes our prayers into account in his actions?

DC 42

- DC 42:3 (there are other examples of this principle elsewhere, like maybe DC 84:1)
- DC 42:8–9
- DC 42:13–14
- DC 42:15
- DC 42:16
 - “As seemeth me good”—related to pragmatism
- DC 42:56–59
- DC 42:61
- DC 42:65
 - Notice the connection to Alma 12:9–11.

- An important thing about all these DC 42 verses is what section of the section they are in—remember it was given in parts in response to specific questions. So you would want to look at what each question was that prompted the response, and ask how these epistemology-related points fit in with that question.

DC 43

- Like section 28 above, this whole section is important for revelation, including the historical background. It has to do with a woman named Hubble who claimed to be receiving revelations at the time.
- I think it's important to note that there's a lot of circularity here—you've got someone receiving a revelation which then says that no one else can receive revelations.
- Verse 5, "revelations" and "commandments" have some special status, above just regular "teachings"; see something like DC 88:118.
- Verse 6, I think there's some possible tension here with things like Moroni 7:13; it could be that, given the actual situations of the saints at this time, it was not good for them to believe Hubble's "revelations," because they were too fragile or just not experienced enough or something.
- Verse 7, so the "gate" metaphor here is being used as a way of talking about doing things in the correct manner or following the correct rules or guidelines for how to do something.
- DC 43:8–10 is a very important set of verses; see the JSP version especially, which and has very important differences, such as the beginning of verse 9. These are crucial.
- And notice that verse 10 contains the "if you don't do it, it will be taken away" principle, very similar to 2 Nephi 28:30.
- DC 43:11–14, very interesting principles here, about how JS is going to be the one who reveals the "glories" and "mysteries" of the kingdom, and everyone else has to provide for him to make that possible.
- DC 43:15–16, more stuff about receiving guidance of the spirit.
- DC 43:25, the Lord uses many means to speak.

DC 44

- Verse 2, about gathering and receiving the Spirit (note the attitude or the behavior that those gathering should have)

DC 46

- Verses 1–2, both the "profit and learning" part and the meetings part
- Verse 7, very interesting verse, especially the "doctrines" part
- Verses 8–9, which discuss the purpose of spiritual gifts, or for what they are given
- Verses 13–14, extremely important for many reasons.
 - How does the Holy Ghost teach them this, in verse 13? By showing them, I think; they see it.
 - Compare this function of the Holy Ghost with DC 21:9.
 - Note the beginning of verse 14—it says, "to others," not "to all others." So it seems like it means "to some others" or "to certain others."
 - Notice the very apparent difference between "know" in the one verse and "believe" in the other.
- Verse 15—note that this verse gives you a parallel to revelation. It's talking about God changing what he does in response to different circumstances in order to minister to people, and he does the same thing with revelation. It's parallel to the stuff BY says about translation.
 - In fact, you may even be able to see that idea about revelation as just a special case of this one, which would make this principle even more fundamental.
 - That is an idea that is worth exploring.
- Verse 22—note that some of the spiritual gifts listed here are relevant for epistemology, such as the one in this verse, the gift to prophesy. And notice that it's also relevant that different gifts are given to different people.
- Verses 28–33—important for asking, also connected to the temple and asking, probably.

DC 47:1, 4

- Don't forget verse 4—the Comforter is involved here

DC 48:4–5

- This could be an example of the need to "study it out in your own mind," which includes gathering information—it could be that the added perspectives and knowledge of other people played a role in getting JS and others to the revelation and understanding that they needed.
- Would need to look at the particulars of some of the history for this.

DC 49, the whole thing with the Shakers is interesting

- Verse 2, interesting in light of what JS later says about people saying things like, "That's enough truth for me, thank you." Goes with stuff like 2 Nephi 28:30. See also places like 1 Corinthians 13, where you get this "in part" phrase too.
- Verse 4, more "reasoning" stuff; see Reason.

DC 50

- See HDDC 647–648 for PPP’s discussion of how this revelation was received; this is an important topic in itself, and important more generally, not just for this section.
- This section is also important generally, for the “discerning of spirits” stuff, which comes up a lot throughout JS’s whole career and is important for the endowment ceremony stuff as well.
 - Connect here to DC 46:7 and maybe other verses around there.
 - Also, a connection I hadn’t really seen before now, connect to 2 Nephi 2:29 and stuff in the BOM about spirits, from places like Alma 34:34.
- Verse 1, an example of agreement among people and the affect it has on receiving revelation
- Verses 9–36—here begins one of the most remarkable passages in all of the DC. I have a lot of notes below and in the actual section itself; I’m sure I didn’t get everything that is worth looking at.
 - 9 Think of truth as goodness here, and righteousness as lawful behavior in the manner of δικαιοσύνη.
 - 10 The purpose of reasoning together is for us to understand.
 - 10–12 One of the most important sets of verses anywhere for the epistemology of revelation—the Lord will reason with us as a man. Compare 2 Nephi 31:3 and DC 1:24. Need to think more about the implications of these verses.
 - 14 The Comforter is “sent forth to teach the truth.” Compare to truth/goodness stuff and other scriptures on the Holy Ghost/Comforter. Compare verse 17 too.
 - 15 Need to think about what these “spirits” are—see above, on the “discerning of spirits” thing at the beginning of the notes on this section.
 - 17–22 There’s something about sharing the “spirit of truth” that makes preaching possible. See that phrase here. You have to preach and receive by the “spirit of truth.” Verse 21 in particular also makes me think of the “sower sows the word” parable given by Christ. Also notice that this way of doing it leads to mutual understanding (verse 22).
 - 22–24 Extremely important principles—lots of connections here about light and darkness. See also the connection to truth and goodness, with “edify”—23 is particularly important for this. Also, I have to see the principles in 24 as giving another version of the same principle taught elsewhere, such as DC 93:28 and 2 Nephi 28:30. It would be useful to round all those principles up into the same place in order to get the full picture.
 - 25 Knowledge and the truth chase darkness from us.
 - 27 This verse describes the “perfection” or the “perfect day” that results from getting so much light. This connects to laws, priesthood, and to the opening of DC 88.
 - 28–29 Personal righteousness is a big factor here.
 - 31 There is some stuff about spirits in and around this part that could be important, also possibly related to the endowment ceremony and later developments in 1842.
 - 34–35 Good verse, especially 35. More results of getting light and keeping it and continuing in God.
- And don’t forget about verse 40!

DC 51

- As discussed in HDDC 665, Orson Pratt, in late June 1874, gave a talk at a meeting where he spoke about the process of Joseph receiving this revelation—I don’t know the original conference minutes source, but see MS 36:497–499. The specific bit about this revelation is in the last two paragraphs on 498, but the whole thing is actually important for the epistemology of revelation.
- Verses 16–17, where the Lord says he isn’t going to say how long the people are going to be in a particular place, they just need to assume it’s going to be years and get to work, and it will be good for them. This is also related to gospel pragmatism and truth as goodness. Compare to Nephi getting to the coast and being like, what do we do now? And they stay there for eight years. See also the stuff in 52 below. Compare DC 64:21.

DC 52

- Verse 2—note how this goes along with DC 51:16–17, where the Lord is taking that pragmatic approach. This is a good example of line by line, precept by precept, and this would be a good essay topic to follow these revelations during this period as giving one step at a time. Compare to Nephi getting one step at a time. See also verses 4–5.
- Verse 9
- Verses 14–19—MORE stuff about discerning spirits, here the Lord is giving a “pattern” for making decisions about them.
 - There is a lot going on in these verses that needs to be looked at.
 - Look at 17, for example—is there a difference between “revelations” and “truths”? Why would the Lord mention them in a series like this if they are identical? Very interesting.
 - Lots of elements to this “pattern.”

DC 56

- Verses 2–4—you can see this as an expansion or commentary on the idea of receiving less light as you disobey. Note the timeframe in verse 3 is up to the Lord, and in verse 4 that’s clear too, with “seemeth [him] good.”
- In this whole section really, notice how the Lord is revoking commandments in response to different things. Why didn’t he just tell them what to do using his all-knowing powers? Why didn’t he just tell them the final thing that they would end up doing? This is relevant for many sections in this middle part of the DC.
- This goes with other sections around here, including 51 and 52 above.

DC 57

- Interesting to see all the times that the word “wisdom” is used here. The Lord gives very specific and very direct instruction here, as opposed to more general guidelines elsewhere, and he calls it “wisdom” several times.

DC 58

- Verses 3–4, especially the “natural eyes” part.
- Verse 5, remember in order to receive more

DC 59

- Verses 3–4

DC 61

- Verse 22, pragmatic
- Verses 27–28—verse 27 could be pointing to the relationship in the priesthood between power to do things and power to know things (see the 6 April 1837 from JS at Priesthood).

DC 62

- Verse 5, pragmatic (see also verses 7–8)
- Verse 6, the Lord can’t lie about the promises he makes

DC 63

- Verse 7–12—there’s something going on here with the experience of seeing a sign but it not leading to the right outcome, or change of behavior, or something (see also verse 11). See verses 8–12 too, especially the part about how “faith cometh not by signs.” This would be important to work out—what does it mean, and why is it true? And what does it mean that “signs follow those that believe” (9)?
- Pragmatic bit with verse 12.
- Verse 16, pretty clearly linking righteousness with having the Spirit (or at least getting it taken away or something).
- Verse 23, absolutely fundamental. One of the best examples of this principle in all the scriptures. Goes with Alma 12:10 too.
 - More and more I am sensing a relationship between the priesthood, righteousness (as lawful behavior), and revelation—they all go together. They are all different aspects of the same thing, or at least they are very intimately related in some ways.
 - Also related to the new birth.
 - On this point, note that many discussions of the priesthood include epistemological points about receiving revelation or having the right to it.
- Verse 26, definitely shows the pragmatic side, this is very important. (Note verse 40 too.)
- Verse 41, a specific power of discernment mentioned here, for a very specific purpose.
- Verse 53—now this is important. It’s another example of what goes on in the early part of DC 19. The Lord is explaining something but he explicitly says that he is “speaking after the manner of the Lord”—so we would be wrong to assume that we can bring our normal understanding of concepts or terms to what he is saying. He’s speaking in a different language, or with a different background of assumptions; incredibly important. See also 64:24.
- Verses 64–65, not totally sure what to make of this, at least in verse 64.

DC 64

- DC 64:5, also important for prophets
- DC 64:16
- DC 64:20, pragmatic (see also verses 27–28)
- DC 64:21, note the specific timeframe given here, compared to DC 51:17
- Verses 23–25, a couple things to note:
 - The Lord tells us something about time: “now it is called today.” So we’re using concepts in a figurative way here. Note the use of “tomorrow” in verse 24, in comparison to “today.”
 - Here’s another example of “speaking after the manner of the Lord,” in verse 24. Extremely important. See 63:53 too.
- Verse 34, getting the blessings of Zion (part of which will be the Spirit and revelation)

DC 65

- Verse 2, giving the keys involves both the priesthood and revelation; think of Matthew 16:18 too.

DC 66

- Verse 2, the everlasting covenant and the fulness of the gospel
- Verse 7, another use of “reasoning”

DC 67

- DC 67:1–9—In connection with this, see the HDDC discussion of DC 20 in the historical background section, especially HDDC 292. See also the historical background for section 67 and for section 1, which are extremely important, including the “testimony” of the elders about the revelations (discussed at 67). Note the discussion in the historical background to 67 about the conversation on “Revelations and language.” HDDC 21–26 has more.
 - Verse 4, the Lord himself is giving a testimony of their truth.
 - There’s really a lot going on here, especially starting in verse 5. That’s where it really gets interesting.
 - Notice that the language being spoken of in verse 5 is JS’s language. This is because the revelations had to be given in JS’s language, exactly as the Lord stated they would, in 2 Nephi 31:3. And for this exact reason, the Lord says in the preface to the DC, section 1, that he speaks in the language of the people (verse 24). (If the JSP dating is correct, it’s possible that DC 1 came before 67.)
 - 6–9 is the test the Lord is proposing; it’s an interesting test. Verse 7 delivers the promise of the test.
- DC 67:1, 3—Notice that the Lord says they “endeavored to believe,” rather than do something; they tried to hold on to that hope and faith.
- 10–14—extremely important verses, especially 10. One of the most important verses in the entire DC probably, in terms of epistemology stuff. We will see Christ! See notes at verse 10 for references to the phrases involving “mind.” Very important to think about this kind of perception and what it means.
 - These four verses are like a statement of everything you want from righteousness. Just beautiful and powerful.
 - Note the “in mine own due time,” at the end in verse 14. We don’t get to choose this.

DC 68

- Very important in this section is the addition made of 15–21 to the later EMS-R version of the section; that wasn’t in the original. So this is a case study of going back and making major changes, and what does that say about these revelations? What does it say about an evolving understanding? Very important to work this out. Use section 107 to think about this, because the stuff added to 68 comes after that. See the historical background to 68.
- Verses 3–4—not sure what to do with these ones, but verse 4 in particular is really important. Could relate also to pragmatic stuff.
- Verse 11, knowing signs
- Verse 21, following after many important verses about the priesthood (which were not in that form in the original), but here it says you could ascertain your lineage “by revelation.” Seems to be referring to patriarchal blessings, but it also talks about being a “literal descendent” (verse 18), and if that’s what we’re talking about here, then I don’t see how different people in different families could have different lineages. If that’s possible then we aren’t talking about “literal descendents.”
- Verse 25, important, note the “to understand” part. Also important for accountability.

DC 70

- Verses 1–2—note here that the Lord explicitly says that he is giving a commandment.
- Verses 12–15, mostly 12–14; the “abundance” these people get is in the “manifestations of the Spirit.” Sounds pretty amazing. Note also 14, about the relationship between these manifestations and your attitude toward your temporal possessions.

DC 71

- Verse 1, you get a portion of the “spirit and power” in order to expound the mysteries
- Verse 4, prepare the way in the minds of people for future commandments, because whatever we tell them later is going to be built on top of what we tell them now.
- Verses 5–6, a very interesting version of the “obey/get more” principle, relating to power; connect back to verse 1 here too. If you receive wisdom, you will get power. Connects to the “knowledge is power” principle too, in JS; see Knowledge.

DC71-8 Verse 8, reasoning and reasons.

DC 73

- Verse 5, one step at a time

DC 74

- Interesting story behind this section—it’s an explanation of a verse in the NT, 1 Corinthians 7:14. You could look at how JS is explicating it and what that means for the revelation he receives.
- Verse 5, crucial verse on the difference between a commandment “of the Lord” and one of a person (even an apostle). How can we tell the difference?

DC 75

- Verse 1—the Lord speaks by “the voice of his spirit.” Could be an interesting phrase to connect elsewhere.
- Verse 10, we get the Comforter to teach us “all things that are expedient”; has to do with pragmatism and also context
- Verse 27, similar to verse 10

DC 76

- The story of how this section was received is very important for the epist stuff too—see the accounts in the historical background. Lots to talk about there. Note verse 15—it’s while they were doing the translation.
- Verse 2, we can’t find out the extent of the Lord’s doings.
- Verses 5, righteousness is the key
- DC 76:7–10, extremely important verses, but make sure you pick up on verses 5–6 too, since those describe which people we are talking about here, or which people are going to receive this reward
- DC 76:12, it’s “by the power of the spirit” that their eyes were opened (see also verse 19)
- DC 76:45–48, about the torment and who gets to know about it
- 89, more about who can know this stuff
- DC 76:114–118—super important. Full of good stuff.

DC 77

- This whole explication of the NT is relevant for thinking about the translation stuff and for revelation.
- See verse 2 in particular, with the relation between spiritual and temporal things; this is only a symbolic relationship, remember, used to talk about the imagery in the scriptures.

DC 78

- DC 78:10, how Satan gets us away from what is true
- Verses 17–18, we’re children in our understanding but will be led along
- Note the “Ahman” stuff in this section, which isn’t in the original; this is a good example of later revisions.

DC 79

- verse 2, the Comforter does the teaching

DC 80

- verse 3, pragmatism, sometimes the place doesn’t matter.
- verse 4, distinction between hearing, believing, and knowing to be true

DC 81

- The historical introduction has some important material about how this revelation was later seen, given Jesse Gause’s later actions.
- See verse 4, which talks about doing the “greatest good.” This is a way of seeing the purpose of the instructions that the Lord gives us.

DC 82

- verses 3–4, very important, a general statement of this principle. Reminds me of DC 93 and the verses about agency. Verse 4 is also really important.
- Verse 7? Not sure if it bears on epistemology.
- verses 8–10, all three are very important in different ways. Things “turning to us” for our salvation is about as clear a description of the kind of “liquid luck” idea that you’re going to get.

DC 84

- verses 1–2, the story behind this revelation, and how it’s given to a group of people “as they united their hearts and lifted their voices on high.” It’s also interesting that it’s explicitly called a “revelation” in verse 1.
- verses 19–22, about the relationship between the priesthood and knowledge.
- verses 43–54, lots of good material here about living by the Spirit but also other things—this block of twelve verses has a lot of different things going on
- verse 57, on translation and whether the Lord is saying he wrote the Book of Mormon
- verse 60, very important relationship between “words” and “voice”; note how this changes how we should read earlier verses, like 52, in this section.
- verse 75, timing of effect
- In roughly the second half of this revelation, really starting in the 50’s of the verses, Christ begins giving instructions very similar to the ones that he gave to his followers during his time around the Jerusalem area.
- verse 85, good missionary scripture but also important for epist stuff
- verse 98, we’ll “see eye to eye”
- verses 106–110, I’m interested here in the teamwork aspect of this, and how we need everyone to keep the system “perfect”
- verse 117, see note there
- verse 119, see/know, compare DC 93:1; think of the knowledge growing over time as we progress

DC 85

- verse 6, on the “still small voice.” See notes there.
- verse 7, this verse appears to be a direct quotation of something given to JS through the Spirit.

DC 86

- I’m not sure what it is, but it seems like there is something significant about the wheat and the tares growing and existing together at once.

DC 87

- Interesting to see early events in South Carolina, and how those would have affected JS’s views on the United States—even back in 1832, as noted in the historical background to section 87, there were good reasons to think that South Carolina was going to be the root of the problem. But the war was still 28 years away, and so that can’t take away from this section, which really is marvelous.

DC 88

- Verse 32, this verse could apply to epistemology as well, in “enjoying that which you are willing to receive.”
- Verse 63, about Christ drawing near to us
 - Verses 64–68 are also important in connection with this.
- The parable about the laborers, including 46–61—see my note at verse 51.
- There are other verses that could work for epistemology too, since some of the section is about receiving light—but it’s not always referring to epistemology or knowledge, I think. There’s more going on here.
- verses 77–79
- verses 118–126

DC 89

- Verses 18–21

DC 90

- Verses 2–5, especially the “oracles” partsd
- Verse 9
- Verse 11, very important verse; connect back to 2 Nephi 31:3
- Verses 13–15
- Verse 24

DC 91

- Both the stuff about the Apocrypha at the beginning, and also the instructions for reading the scriptures, which start at verse 4.

DC 92

- Verse 1, “What I say unto one, I say unto all,” how often does this apply in the scriptures? How often does it not apply?

item[DC 93] This whole section is amazing, of course, one of the most important of all for the epistemology of the gospel and revelation; it might be the most important, in fact. The whole thing should be studied carefully but I’ve tried to break it down into its various parts below for a little guide.

- verses 1–3 A statement of a promise—do the five things listed in verse 1, and then you will have a certain experience and come to know certain things. The things you’ll come to know are listed in verses 1–3.
- verses 4–5, which are an explanatory comment either to the mentions of the Son and the Father, in verse 3, or perhaps an unspoken question about the sense in which Christ can be considered both the Father and the Son. It’s strange because the term “Son” hasn’t appeared yet until it’s involved in an explanation in verse 4. It could also be that verse 4 in particular is explainin the in-dwelling relationship of the Father and the Son in verse 3. Compare Mosiah 15:2–5.
- verse 6, new section, a short introduction to an account of John’s testimony regarding Christ. It could be that the account starting in verse 7 is the fulness of that account, as mentioned in verse 6.
- verse 7, begin John’s actual account
- verse 11, continuing John’s account, sort of a new emphasis here or a slightly new direction
- verses 12–14, a section which explains Christ’s progression and why he is called the son of God
- verses 15, one verse which appears to be about Christ’s baptism but it doesn’t explicitly say that so it doesn’t have to be
- verses 16–17, a statement of how Christ did end up receiving the fulness of the Father
- verses 18, a promise that we’ll get a fulness of John’s record
- verse 19, which tells you the purpose of everything that has come before it
- verse 20, a statement which says that we will progress in the same way Christ does
- verses 21–23, discussion of Christ’s identity along with our own (identity and history)
- verses 24–25, an important statement about truth; pairs with verse 25
- verses 26–28, a statement again about our progression
- verses 29–30, statements in intelligence and truth

- verses 31–32, statements about agency

DC 94:17 This verse, along with some others in this section, is a good example of “unfolding” revelation across time.

DC 95 DC 95:1–6 Especially verse 6.

DC 95:7 This is a really weird thing about “Sabaoth.”

DC 95:8–9 Getting endowed with power from on high; it’s a promise from the Father DC 95:12 Very interesting verse about the “love” of the Father not continuing with us if we don’t obey the commandments. See notes at 2 Nephi 4:21.

DC 95:17 See notes here; very strange stuff going on.

DC 96 There are various uses of “expedient” in here, as the Lord gives wisdom to “know how to act” (1).

DC 97

- verse 1, the Lord’s voice is the voice of his spirit; this could be important for unraveling certain passages elsewhere, including passages about “living by every word that proceeds from God’s mouth”

- verses 1–2, a good example of asking and then receiving
- verse 5, PPP is blessed to expound the scriptures and mysteries
- verses 12–14, building a house in order to instruct people

DC 98

- verse 11, live by every word that proceeds forth from the mouth of God; also, “cleave unto all good”

- verse 12, not separate from the previous verse, but it does have an elaboration, the idea of “line upon line.” Notice the “herewith” part.

- verse 20, we are to observe the “words of wisdom and eternal life”; pair with 21–22 to see the benefits

DC 99:2–4 About receiving an individual and therefore receiving Christ/the kingdom

DC 101

- verses 22–25, prepare for a revelation; note the connection to the ancient tabernacle

- verses 25–34—these verses are describing some sort of millennial period, it seems, and a number of them refer to special revelation or knowledge that will be available during this time. There will be other important things happening during this time, like Satan not being able to tempt people (verse 28).

- verse 95, the Lord’s work described as a “strange act” (need to look for biblical parallels)

DC 102

- verses 1–2, this high council was specifically appointed by revelation—very practical, emphasis on what needs to get done right now. See also verse 9 in this section.

- verse 23, getting instruction to clarify matters of doctrine and principle. Note that getting revelation on these sorts of cases seems to be the exception, rather than the rule.

DC 103

- verses 4–8, goes toward the “obey and receive more” idea

DC 104

- DC 104:80–81, extremely interesting description of how the Spirit affects other people—it has some kind of affect such that it is able to change the thoughts of other people in certain circumstances

DC 105

- DC 105:40, “according to the voice of the Spirit which is in you”

DC 107

- verses 18–20, relationship of the priesthood to revelation

- verses 30–31, making decisions in groups with a certain attitude leads to knowledge

- verse 71, about having knowledge by the spirit of truth

DC 109

- An interesting thing here with epistemology is that this “revelation” appears to have been written by multiple people—see Oliver Cowdery’s journal entry in the history background. Speaks to the constructive nature of revelation—so the “construction” here is the mental/cognitive construction, but also a collaborative construction process with others in some cases

- verses 12–13, about feeling the power and presence of the Lord

- verses 14–15, about maturing in the gospel and the light you receive as you go through that process. See my notes there and connections to other verses.

DC 110 The entire section is relevant, because of the nature of the manifestation, but a few verses are relevant in particular:

- verse 1, about the “veil” and “the eyes of our understanding”

- verse 2, it’s as though a camera is on the Lord and it’s showing a view of him from wherever he is, some other place, with a path of amber-colored gold.

- verses 7–8, the Lord will manifest himself to us and speak to us with his own voice—if we keep the commandments and don’t pollute the house

DC 111 This whole section could be an example of how the Lord uses what we already believe to lead us along to accomplish other purposes

- verse 8, nice description of how the Spirit indicates things to us

- verse 11, also very important for the pragmatic aspect of revelation and how it’s for action, not necessarily for gaining knowledge; the Lord is making use of follies to push us in the right direction eventually

DC 112

- verse 10, the Lord God will lead him by the hand—like one step along the way, and the prayers will be answered. Good for thinking about pragmatism. See also verse 19 here, and the idea of an “effectual” door.

DC 113

- There’s some interesting stuff in the historical background here about how this came about, and how some of it has “thus saith the Lord,” and other parts don’t.

- Also some good stuff here about how JS is using the OT—this is important to look at, I think. Important to see how he’s interpreting it and using it as a prophet who is intervening in new and non-traditional ways.
- DC 121 • Verses 26–32, about revelation and God giving us the Holy Ghost to know things that have never been revealed—see the notes to verse 26 in particular, because the original source has more here that is relevant that is not in the DC section.
- Verse 33, note that this is its own chunk, need to check out the context in the original
- DC 123 • Verses 11–14
- DC 124 • Verse 1, the purpose of raising JS up as a prophet was to show wisdom by means of the weak things of the earth—could be a more general principle about prophets
- Verses 4–5, special knowledge given about rulers and what is to come, and the emphasis is on the holy ghost
- Verse 9, God visiting people to change what they believe or how they receive something
- Verses 30–32—context. In this case, poverty allows the saints to do something that they normally wouldn’t be allowed to do.
- Verses 40–46, the Lord revealing things that haven’t been revealed before, here especially in connection with the temple.
- Verse 49, not really about epistemology, but important for contextual stuff
- Verses 91–97, important for temple stuff too
- Verses 119–120, about believing in the BOM and restricting certain activities to those who believe
- Verses 123–126, about roles in the priesthood and their relation to epistemology
- DC 128 •
- DC 128:20–21, especially verse 21
- DC 129 • There’s some extremely specific epistemology stuff here, on discerning spirits; I’m not sure if there are any larger principles, though it is interesting how JS interprets the scriptures that are relevant to this passage.
- DC 130 • Verse 3, the personal appearance of God and Christ
- Verses 6–11, which are not all one block, but talk about the Urim and Thummim and learning things that are manifest in different ways. These passages would require some study and thought.
- Verses 18–19, very important verses—see notes, and note that we gain knowledge and intelligence through “diligence and obedience.” These verses deserve some more serious thought.
- DC 131:5–6 Interesting verses, and interesting to think of what the “ignorance” spoken of is.
- DC 132 • There’s a huge amount to unpack here, including using the principles of the epistemology of revelation to unpack how this revelation could have been received in the first place, since the doctrine itself makes very little sense in the context of some other aspects of the theology.
- Verse 3, preparing your heart/receiving a law
- Verse 45
- DC 136 • DC 136:32–33
- DC 136:37
- DC 137 • This entire vision is important, as are all the manifestations had that day by many people.
- Note verse 1, the “body” thing, referring to the beginning of 2 Corinthians 12.
- DC 138 • Verses 1–5, 11 describe the setting and what was happening when he had this vision; this is a good template to draw some conclusions from.
- Verses 28–29, similar to the previous ones

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

21 April 1834 Bro. Joseph Smith Jun^r. read the 2nd. chapter of the prophecy of Joel & took the lead in prayer; after which, he commenced addressing the congregation, as follows. It is very difficult for us to communicate to the churches all that God has revealed to us, in consequence of tradition; for we are differently situated from any other people that ever existed upon this earth: Consequently those former revelations cannot be suited to our condition, because they were given to other people who were before us;

Between circa 26 June and circa 4 August 1839–A The devil may appear as an angel of light. Ask God to reveal it. if it be of the Devil. he it-be will of flee from you. if of God he will manifest himself or make it manifest. we may come to Jesus <& ask him> he will know all about it.— If he comes to a little child, he will adapt himself to the <Language &> capacity of a little child

28 April 1842 He said, if God has appointed him, and chosen him as an instrument to lead the church, why not let him lead it through? Why stand in the way, when he is appointed to do a thing? Who knows the mind of God? Does he not reveal things differently from what we expect?

9 July 1843 WR-b one [of] the grand fundamental principles of Mormonism <is> to receivee thruth [truth] let it come from where it may.

Brigham Young

18 April 1844, JSP-AR:119–121 We can form to ourselves independant of the word of the Lord the best system of government on the earth; but after all this, when we have done all the Lord will make it just right. He can form a constitution by which he is willing to be governed. He is willing to be ruled by the means which God will appoint. He dont believe we can adopt laws for the government of people in futurity. We can, for the time being, point out laws for present necessities. He supposed there has not yet been a perfect revelation given, because we cannot understand it, yet we receive a little here and a little there. He should not be stumbled if the prophet should translate the bible forty thousand times over and yet it should be different in some places every time, because when God speake, he always speaks according to the capacity of the people. The starting point for the government of the kingdom is in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, but he does not know how much more there is in the bosom of the Almighty. When he God sees that his people have enlarged upon what he has given us he will give us more. The sta[r]ting point is here, but God has not come here, He has sent his agent, his minister to act in his name. And if he has got an agent to dictate to us here the organization is here. When a man is clothed with authority to do all business for those who sent him, what he does [is?] right, and this is the kind of agent we have got, and God appointed him We did not appoint him...He would rather have the pure revelations of Jesus Christ as they now stand, to carry to the nations, than any thing else. He dont want the legs, nor the head, nor the back bones, nor any thing else of the old horse. We dont <want> to be like the sectarian churches, who, when they have seen errors would turn and run from the truth and run into deeper mud than before.

8 October 1854, CR 100 317 There are a great many persons who are so ancious to learn about eternity, Gods, Angels, heavens, and hells, that they neglect to learn the first lessons preparitory to learning the things they are reaching after. They will come short of them.

I wish to speak a few words about the bible as I have hinted at it. The ordenances of the kingdom of God on <the> earth are the same to the children of Adam from the commencement to the end of his posterity pertainig to the carnal state on this earth, and the winding up scene of this mortality. With regard to the Bible we frequently say, We beleive the Bible, but sercumstances alters cases, for what is now required of the <people,> may not be required of a people that may live a hundered years hence. But I wish you to understand, with regard to the ordenances of Gods house to save the people in the Celestial kingdom of <our> God there is no change from the days of Adam to the present time, neither will there be until the last of his posterity is gathered into the kingdom of God. (I transcribed this quote myself from the longhand report on 8/12/2021; see the manuscript here.)

13 July 1862, JD 9:311 When God speaks to the people, he does it in a manner to suit their circumstances and capacities. He spoke to the children of Jacob through Moses, as a blind, stiff-necked people, and when Jesus and his Apostles came they talked with the Jews as a benighted, wicked, selfish people. They would not receive the Gospel, though presented to them by the Son of God in all its righteousness, beauty and glory. Should the Lord Almighty send an angel to re-write the Bible, it would in many places be very different from what it now is. And I will even venture to say that if the Book of Mormon were now to be re-written, in many instances it would materially differ from the present translation. According as people are willing to receive the things of God, so the heavens send forth their blessings. If the people are stiff-necked, the Lord can tell them but little.

7 September 1864 I say to these Latter-day Saints some things I can tell you some things I can't tell you those things that you can't understand and will not use prudently I had better keep them myself the saints have got to be taught according to them they receive and improve upon but tell them a great many things that yet will be told the saints would be like casting pearls before swine this I don't like to do but we want the people who have received the gospel and wish to become saints indeed to receive a little here a little there and improve upon themselves little until they are perfection that is what we want and this is our labor as to the circular and what is in it it is right and still there is things in it that people don't understand [space] there is some things were not written they should understand [space] and I say to you as I can to the whole world there has not yet been a revelation given to this people from the time Joseph commenced to receive revelation but what would be [altered/ltrd?] provided the people were capable of receiving more [space] the Lord has to speak to the people according to their capacity not according to his capacity we are not prepared to receive all the heavens has for us the Lord gives revelation upon revelation here a little and there a little [space] those precepts he gives we should improve upon them as for selling of grain we take measures inasmuch as we can to have the people keep the grain still a great deal will be sold and the men that doesn't feel to sustain what the convention dictated they will sooner or later manifest their folly by going to the dark more and more more and more [sic] until they [love/lv?] the world and every project that is proposed by the leaders of this people and every plan adopted for the benefit of the people those that doesn't hear it will dwindle away sooner or later and finally will apostatize [space] I tell you some things in the circular meant to be in there that I understand you don't [space] I shall not tell it (This is from a transcript LaJean made of Watt shorthand, a record of BY's remarks on a Southern tour; see online here.)

Harold B. Lee

January 1971 Keep in mind that the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ are divine. Nobody changes the principles and doctrines of the Church except the Lord by revelation. But methods change as the inspired direction comes to those who preside at a given time.

Russell M. Nelson

October 2021 Under the Lord's direction and in answer to our prayers, recent procedural adjustments have been made. He is the One who wants you to understand with great clarity exactly what you are making covenants to do. He is the One who wants you to experience fully His sacred ordinances. He wants you to comprehend your privileges, promises, and responsibilities. He wants you to have spiritual insights and awakenings you've never had before. This He desires for all temple patrons, no matter where they live.

Current adjustments in temple procedures, and others that will follow, are continuing evidence that the Lord is actively directing His Church. He is providing opportunities for each of us to bolster our spiritual foundations more effectively by centering our lives on Him and on the ordinances and covenants of His temple. When you bring your temple recommend, a contrite heart, and a seeking mind to the Lord's house of learning, He will teach you.

Augustine

DDC I:22–23, 27 Let us consider this process of cleansing as a trek, or a voyage, to our homeland; though progress towards the one who is ever present is not made through space, but through goodness of purpose and character. 23. This we would be unable to do, if wisdom itself had not deigned to adapt itself to our great weakness and offered us a pattern for living; and it has done so actually in human form because we too are human. But because we act wisely when we come to wisdom, wisdom has been thought by arrogant people to have somehow acted foolishly when it came to us; and because we recover strength when we come to wisdom, wisdom has been reckoned as being somehow weak when it came to us. But 'the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men'. So although it is actually our homeland, it has also made itself the road to our homeland... The way to health is through medical care; God's care has taken it upon itself to heal and restore sinners by the same methods. When doctors bind wounds, they do this not just anyhow, but in an appropriate manner, so that the effectiveness of the ligature is matched by a kind of beauty; similarly the treatment given by wisdom was adapted to our wounds by its acceptance of human nature, healing sometimes by the principle of contrariety, sometimes by that of similarity.

DDC I:88 Anyone with an interpretation of the scriptures that differs from that of the writer is misled, but not because the scriptures are lying. If, as I began by saying, he is misled by an idea of the kind that builds up love, which is the end of the commandment, he is misled in the same way as a walker who leaves his path by mistake but reaches the destination to which the path leads by going through a field. But he must be put right and shown how it is more useful not to leave the path, in case the habit of deviating should force him to go astray or even adrift.

Commentary and Studies

Principles of revelation

- God speaks to us "according to our language" (2 Nephi 31:3), where a "language" comprises a conceptual scheme and an actual mode of communication (1 Nephi 1:2).
 - From chapter 1 of All Things Shining, by Hubert Dreyfuss and Sean Kelly—helpful for thinking about how far the "language" goes into culture and concepts: "The way of life of a culture is not an explicit set of beliefs held by the people living in it. It is much deeper than that. A person brought up in a culture learns its way of life the way he learns to speak in the language and with the accent of his family and peers. But a way of life is much broader than this. It involves a sense for how it is appropriate and inappropriate to act in each of the social situations one normally encounters; a familiarity with how to make sense of things and of how to act in the everyday world; and most general of all, a style, such as aggressive or nurturing, that governs the actions of the people in the culture although they are normally not aware of it. We can think of it as a cultural commitment that, to govern people's behavior, must remain in the background, unnoticed but pervasive and real."

ESTEEM

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Verb

- 1 To set a value on, whether high or low; to estimate; to value.
- 2 To prize; to set a high value on; to regard with reverence, respect or friendship.
- 3 To hold in opinion; to repute; to think.
- 4 To compare in value; to estimate by proportion. [Little Used.]

Noun

- 1 High value or estimation; great regard; favorable opinion, founded on supposed worth.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- “Esteem” as a noun does not appear in the scriptures; all instances of the word are verbs or verb forms.

ETERNITY, ETERNAL

“Eternity means that which is without beginning or End” (JS, 5 February 1840).

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

αἰδῖος

BDAG 22b

- eternal

CGL 30b, PDF 56

- 1 existing for all eternity or without limit of time; (of gods) everlasting, eternal; (of things, circumstances)
- 2 existing for all of a specified or implied time; (of officials, offices, circumstances, things) permanent

LSJ 36a, PDF 109

- everlasting, eternal

Total occurrences in the NT 2

Some NT uses

Romans 1:20

Jude 1:6

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 39:22

Key Phrases

eternal damnation 3 | Mark 3:29; DC 19:7; DC 29:44

Bible anchor verses

Mark 3:29 ὃς δ' ἂν βλασφημήσῃ εἰς τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον, οὐκ ἔχει ἄφεσιν εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, ἀλλὰ ἔνοχος ἐστὶν αἰωνίου ἁμαρτήματος.

Commentary The verse in Mark, as it appears in the critical edition of the Greek, does not include the word κρίσις, which would be translated as “damnation.” My Bible says that the reading without it is correct with a B level of certainty.

eternity to eternity 8 | Mosiah 3:5; Alma 13:7; Moroni 8:18; DC 39:1; DC 76:4; Moses 6:67; Moses 7:29; Moses 7:31

Bible anchor verses —

riches of eternity 7 | DC 6:7; DC 11:7; DC 38:39; DC 43:25; DC 67:2; DC 68:31; DC 78:18

Bible anchor verses —

words of eternal life 3 | John 6:68; DC 84:43; Moses 6:59

Bible anchor verses John 6:68 ἀπεκρίθη αὐτῷ Σίμων Πέτρος· Κύριε, πρὸς τίνα ἀπελευσόμεθα· ῥήματα ζωῆς αἰωνίου ἔχεις,

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

5 February 1840 I believe that God is Eternal. That he had no beginning and can have no End. Eternity means that which is without beginning or End. I believe that the Soul is Eternal. It had no beginning; it can have no End.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- On 5 February 1840, JS said, “I believe that God is Eternal. That he had no beginning and can have no End. Eternity means that which is without beginning or End. I believe that the Soul is Eternal. It had no beginning; it can have no End.”

Examples of the Lord promising eternal life in revelations

DC 5:22, DC 14:7, DC 18:8,

EVE

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- In the temple, Eve is called “the mother of all living” before she gives birth to a child or does anything else, really.

EVIL

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

πονηρός

BDAG 755a

- 1 pertaining to being morally or socially worthless, wicked, evil, bad, base, worthless, vicious, degenerate
 - 1.a as adjective
 - 1.a.α of humans or transcendent beings
 - 1.a.β of things
 - 1.b as substantive
 - 1.b.α wicked or evil-intentioned person, evildoer
 - 1.b.β ὁ πονηρός the evil one = the devil (who is not defined as a sinner but as one who is morally destructive)
 - 1.b.γ τὸ πονηρόν (that which is) evil
- 2 pertaining to being so deficient in quality in a physical sense as to be worthless, of poor quality, worthless
- 3 pertaining to being in an unhealthy condition physically
 - 3.a in reference to a part of the body sick
 - 3.b in reference to the status of some ailment painful, virulent, serious

φαῦλος

BDAG 934b

- 1 pertaining to being low-grade or morally substandard, base
- 2 pertaining to being relatively inferior in quality, ordinary

EXALTATION

See also

Fulness,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 10:25

Matthew 13:43

Commentary and Studies

Scriptures from the Bible that suggest an LDS view of exaltation or becoming like God

Matthew 10:24–25 24 Οὐκ ἔστιν μαθητῆς ὑπὲρ τὸν διδάσκαλον οὐδὲ δοῦλος ὑπὲρ τὸν κύριον αὐτοῦ. 25 ἄρκετόν τῳ μαθητῇ ἵνα γένηται ὡς ὁ διδάσκαλος αὐτοῦ, καὶ ὁ δοῦλος ὡς ὁ κύριος αὐτοῦ. εἰ τὸν οἰκοδεσπότην Βεελζεβοὺλ ἐπεκάλεσαν, πόσω μᾶλλον τοὺς οἰκιακοὺς αὐτοῦ.

EXCEPT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Passive participle

- Contracted from excepted. Taken out; not included. All were involved in this affair, except one; that is, one excepted, the case absolute or independent clause. except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish; that is, except this fact, that ye repent, or this fact being excepted, removed, taken away, ye shall all likewise perish. Or except may be considered as the imperative mode. except thou or ye, this fact, ye shall all likewise perish. Hence except is equivalent to without, unless, and denotes exclusion.

FAITH

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

John 20:24–29

- Compare 3 Nephi 11:15.

Romans 8:24–25

Book of Mormon

2 Nephi 26:13

2 Nephi 27:23

Alma 32

Mormon 3:12

- Compare Mormon 5:2.

Mormon 8:24

Mormon 9:20–21

Ether 12

Moroni 7

- Various verses in this chapter talk about it, and they're important.

Moroni 10:7

Moroni 10:19–26

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 42:43–52

- Notice that in both verse 43 and verse 52, the Lord draws a distinction between having faith (or maybe having a sufficient amount of faith) and believing in him.

DC 46:13–14

DC 46:19–20

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- Possibly see faith in a more Aristotelian way, as a habit or pattern of behavior? See my note at 2NEPHI-9-23, and also see the thought below from Roger Johnson.

Faith, hope, and charity

A list of relevant scriptures:

- Romans 4:18
- DC 18:19
- DC 67:3

Faith and works

See the following places:

- Notes on Romans 4 at Righteousness

Thoughts from other people

27 December 2020, Roger Johnson Having/exercising faith involves seeing the world in a certain way, seeing ourselves in a certain way. It may involve completely reworking how you understand the world because some people (I am one of these) are so accustomed to depending on themselves and doing things in a certain way, and exercising faith may require you not to depend on yourself, and may require you to change how you see things working in the world, or change how you assume they work. It usually means you will have to trust more.

THE FALL (OF ADAM AND EVE, PLUS OTHER USES OF “FALL”)

Commentary and Studies

Useful scriptures about the fall

- DC 29:39–44

Why was the fall necessary?

See item #1 on this list. See also 17b, second new paragraph of Orson Pratt here.

FAVOR

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- 1 Kind regard; kindness; countenance; propitious aspect; friendly disposition.
- 2 Support; defense; vindication; or disposition to aid, befriend, support, promote or justify.
- 3 A kind act or office; kindness done or granted; benevolence shown by word or deed; any act of grace or good will, as distinguished from acts of justice or remuneration.
- 4 Lenity; mildness or mitigation of punishment.
- 5 Leave; good will; a yielding or concession to another; pardon.
- 6 The object of kind regard; the person or thing favored.
- 7 A gift or present; something bestowed as an evidence of good will; a token of love; a knot of ribbons; something worn as a token of affection.
- 8 A feature; countenance. [Not used.]
- 9 Advantage; convenience afforded for success.
- 10 Partiality; bias.

Verb

- 1 To regard with kindness; to support; to aid or have the disposition to aid, or to wish success to; to be propitious to; to countenance; to befriend; to encourage.
- 2 To afford advantages for success; to facilitate.
- 3 To resemble in features.
- 4 To ease; to spare.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 0

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 0

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 34

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 6

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 2

Moses 6:31 And when Enoch had heard these words, he bowed himself to the earth, before the Lord, and spake before the Lord, saying: Why is it that I have found favor in thy sight, and am but a lad, and all the people hate me; for I am slow of speech; wherefore am I thy servant?

JS-H Note 2

FIRE

Key Phrases

lake of fire and brimstone #times | list

FIRSTBORN

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

πρωτότοκος

BDAG 793a

- 1 literally pertaining to birth order, *firstborn...the special status enjoyed by a firstborn son as heir apparent in Israel is an implicit component of πρωτότοκος in reference to such a son and plays a dominant role in [definition #2]
- 2 pertaining to having special status associated with a firstborn, *firstborn, figurative extension of definition #1
 - 2.a of Christ, as the firstborn of a new humanity which is to be glorified, as its exalted Lord is glorified πρωτότοκος ἐν πολλοῖς ἀδελφοῖς (Romans 8:29). Also simply πρωτότοκος (Hebrews 1:6); compare Revelation 2:1. This expression, which is admirably suited to describe Jesus as the one coming forth from God to found the new community of believers, is also used in some instances where the force of the element -τοκος appears at first glance to be uncertain...
 - 2.b of ordinary humans
 - 2.b.α of God's people...of the assembly of the firstborn (see Exodus 4:22) in heaven ἐκκλησία πρωτοτόκων (Hebrews 12:23)
 - 2.b.β of a notorious dissident πρωτότοκος τοῦ Σατανᾶ
 - This last one is some special use in certain Christian writers, it has no bible references associated with it.

CGL 1235b, PDF 1275

- (of a woman, cow, goat) that has given birth for the first time; (of a thinker, figuratively referring to having produced a doctrine) (Plato)
- —πρωτότοκος (of a child) first-born (NT)

LSJ 1545b, PDF 1616

- I bearing or having borne her first-born
- II.1 first-born
- II.2 metaphorical, πρωτότοκος πάσης κτίσεως (Colossians 1:15)

Key Phrases

church of the firstborn See this phrase at here.

FIRSTFRUITS

See also

End, Intercession, New Birth, Reconciliation, Temple,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The fruit or produce first matured and collected in any season. Of these the Jews made an oblation to God, as an acknowledgment of his sovereign dominion.
- 2 The first profits of any thing. In the church of England, the profits of every spiritual benefice for the first year.
- 3 The first or earliest effect of any thing, in a good or bad sense; as the first-fruits of grace in the heart, or the first-fruits of vice.

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1 The first agricultural products of a season, esp. with reference to the custom of making offerings of these to God or the gods.
- 2 figurative and in extended use.
- 2.a In plural. The earliest products or results of anything; the first products of a person's work or endeavour. Also (with singular reference): something representative of a greater quantity that is expected later.
- 2.b In singular. A first product or result; something representative of a greater quantity that is expected later.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 26

Exodus 23:16 And the feast of harvest, the firstfruits of thy labours, which thou hast sown in the field: and the feast of ingathering, which is in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field.

Exodus 23:19 The first of the firstfruits of thy land thou shalt bring into the house of the LORD thy God. Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.

Leviticus 2:12 As for the oblation of the firstfruits, ye shall offer them unto the LORD: but they shall not be burnt on the altar for a sweet savour.

Numbers 18:12-15 All the best of the oil, and all the best of the wine, and of the wheat, the firstfruits of them which they shall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee. 13 And whatsoever is first ripe in the land, which they shall bring unto the LORD, shall be thine; every one that is clean in thine house shall eat of it. 14 Every thing devoted in Israel shall be thine. 15 Every thing that openeth the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men or beasts, shall be thine: nevertheless the firstborn of man shalt thou surely redeem, and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem.

2 Chronicles 31:5 And as soon as the commandment came abroad, the children of Israel brought in abundance the firstfruits of corn, wine, and oil, and honey, and of all the increase of the fields; and the tithe of all things brought they in abundantly.

Nehemiah 10:35-37 And to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD 36 Also the firstborn of our sons, and of our cattle, as it is written in the law, and the firstlings of our herds and of our flocks, to bring to the house of our God, unto the priests that minister in the house of our God: 37 And that we should bring the firstfruits of our dough, and our offerings, and the fruit of all manner of trees, of wine and of oil, unto the priests, to the chambers of the house of our God; and the tithes of our ground unto the Levites, that the same Levites might have the tithes in all the cities of our tillage.

Proverbs 3:9 Honour the LORD with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thine increase:

Jeremiah 2:3 Israel was holiness unto the LORD, and the firstfruits of his increase: all that devour him shall offend; evil shall come upon them, saith the LORD.

Ezekiel 20:40 For in mine holy mountain, in the mountain of the height of Israel, saith the Lord GOD, there shall all the house of Israel, all of them in the land, serve me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings, and the firstfruits of your oblations, with all your holy things.

Ezekiel 48:14 And they shall not sell of it, neither exchange, nor alienate the firstfruits of the land: for it is holy unto the LORD.

Hebrew Bible

בְּכֹרִים

Very important to note the connection of this word to בְּכֹר, “to be born first, to bear early.” Christ is spoken of as the “firstfruits unto God” in the BOM, and we ourselves are spoken of as the “first-fruits of Christ unto God.” I think these uses of “firstfruits” are related to בְּכֹרִים, which is related to בְּכֹר. See this study.

HALOT 1204, PDF 583

- early fruits, first-fruits (of grapes, seed, fields, trees, wheat, and more generally as well; Exodus 23:16

BDB 1061, PDF 334

- first-fruits; the first of grain and fruit that ripened and was gathered and offered to God according to the ritual

DCH PDF 647

- firstfruits; first portion of gathered cereal and fruit crops, offered to God

Some OT uses

Exodus 23:16 firstfruits

Exodus 23:19 firstfruits

Numbers 18:13 whatsoever is first ripe

Nehemiah 10:36 firstfruits

רֵאשִׁית

HALOT 8618, PDF 2465

- 1 what comes first, beginning
- 2 beginning, starting point
- 3 the first and best
- 3.b the first and best part (position)
- 3.b.i. [the first and best part] of the produce
- 4 in the context of ritual, first-fruit, choicest portion (Leviticus 2:12)

BDB 7225, PDF 2216

- beginning, chief
- 1.a beginning
- 1.b first of fruits (Leviticus 2:12)
- 2 first, chief

DCH PDF 4538

- beginning, first
- 1 beginning
- 2 first (one), first (thing), firstfruits (Leviticus 2:12)
- 3 first, i.e. chief (one, thing, part), choice(st thing, part), choice produce

Some OT uses

Leviticus 2:12 firstfruits

Numbers 18:12 firstfruits

2 Chronicles 31:5 firstfruits

Proverbs 3:9 firstfruits

Jeremiah 2:3 firstfruits

Ezekiel 20:40 firstfruits

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 8

Romans 8:23 And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body.

Romans 11:16 For if the firstfruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root be holy, so are the branches.

Romans 16:5 Likewise greet the church that is in their house. Salute my wellbeloved Epænetus, who is the firstfruits of Achaia unto Christ.

1 Corinthians 15:20 But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept.

1 Corinthians 15:23 But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming.

1 Corinthians 16:15 I beseech you, brethren, (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is the firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to the ministry of the saints,)

James 1:18 Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

Revelation 14:4 These are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb.

Greek New Testament

ἀπαρχή

BDAG 85b

1 first fruits, first portion of any kind

2 birth-certificate

LSJ 180b, PDF 253

1 beginning of a sacrifice, primal offering

2 firstlings for sacrifice or offering, first-fruits

7 birth-certificate of a free person

Some NT uses

Romans 8:23 οὐ μόνον δέ, ἀλλὰ καὶ αὐτοὶ τὴν ἀπαρχὴν τοῦ πνεύματος ἔχοντες ἡμεῖς καὶ αὐτοὶ ἐν ἑαυτοῖς στενάζομεν, υἱοθεσίαν ἀπεκδεχόμενοι τὴν ἀπολύτρωσιν τοῦ σώματος ἡμῶν.

Romans 11:16 εἰ δὲ ἡ ἀπαρχὴ ἁγία, καὶ τὸ φύραμα· καὶ εἰ ἡ ῥίζα ἁγία, καὶ οἱ κλάδοι.

Romans 16:5 καὶ τὴν κατ' οἶκον αὐτῶν ἐκκλησίαν. ἀσπάσασθε Ἐπαίνετον τὸν ἀγαπητόν μου, ὃς ἐστὶν ἀπαρχὴ τῆς Ἀσίας εἰς Χριστόν.

1 Corinthians 15:20 Νυνὶ δὲ Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται ἐκ νεκρῶν, ἀπαρχὴ τῶν κεκοιμημένων.

1 Corinthians 15:23 ἕκαστος δὲ ἐν τῷ ἰδίῳ τάγματι· ἀπαρχὴ Χριστός, ἔπειτα οἱ τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐν τῇ παρουσίᾳ αὐτοῦ·

1 Corinthians 16:15 Παρακαλῶ δὲ ὑμᾶς, ἀδελφοί· οἴδατε τὴν οἰκίαν Στεφανᾶ, ὅτι ἐστὶν ἀπαρχὴ τῆς Ἀχαΐας καὶ εἰς διακονίαν τοῖς ἁγίοις ἔταξαν ἑαυτούς·

2 Thessalonians 2:13 Ἡμεῖς δὲ ὀφείλομεν εὐχαριστεῖν τῷ θεῷ πάντοτε περὶ ὑμῶν, ἀδελφοί ἡγαπημένοι ὑπὸ κυρίου, ὅτι εἴλατο ὑμᾶς ὁ θεὸς ἀπαρχὴν εἰς σωτηρίαν ἐν ἁγιασμῷ πνεύματος καὶ πίστει ἀληθείας, from the beginning (The KJV translation may be wrong. It takes the word as ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, which it apparently is in some manuscripts. But the NRSV translation of this verse, for example, reads "But we must always give thanks to God for you, brothers and sisters beloved by the Lord, because God chose you as the first fruits for salvation through sanctification by the Spirit and through belief in the truth." See note at 2 Thessalonians 2:13.)

James 1:18 βουληθεὶς ἀπεκύησεν ἡμᾶς λόγῳ ἀληθείας, εἰς τὸ εἶναι ἡμᾶς ἀπαρχὴν τινὰ τῶν αὐτοῦ κτισμάτων.

Revelation 14:4 οὗτοί εἰσιν οἱ μετὰ γυναικῶν οὐκ ἐμολύνθησαν, παρθένοι γάρ εἰσιν· οὗτοι οἱ ἀκολουθοῦντες τῷ ἀρνίῳ, ὅπου ἂν ὑπάγῃ· οὗτοι ἠγοράσθησαν ἀπὸ τῶν ἀνθρώπων ἀπαρχὴ τῷ θεῷ καὶ τῷ ἀρνίῳ,

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 2

2 Nephi 2:9 Wherefore, he is the firstfruits unto God, inasmuch as he shall make intercession for all the children of men; and they that believe in him shall be saved. (See notes at 2 Nephi 2:9.)

Jacob 4:11 Wherefore, beloved brethren, be reconciled unto him through the atonement of Christ, his Only Begotten Son, and ye may obtain a resurrection, according to the power of the resurrection which is in Christ, and be presented as the first-fruits of Christ unto God, having faith, and obtained a good hope of glory in him before he manifesteth himself in the flesh.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 0

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Key Phrases

firstfruits unto God Revelation 14:4; 2 Nephi 2:9; Jacob 4:11

Commentary and Studies

Firstfruits unto God

Both Christ and we, as God's children, are spoken of as "firstfruits" in various places in the scriptures:

Christ 1 Corinthians 15:20, 23; 2 Nephi 2:9

God's children Romans 16:5; James 1:18; Revelation 14:4; Jacob 4:11

If you think of "firstfruits" as the first mature product of some process, then I think it is possible to see two different processes in play here, both of which produce "firstfruits":

1. The process Christ is currently undergoing, or underwent and finished with the atonement and resurrection;
2. The process we are currently undergoing, this stage of which will end with our exaltation in the celestial kingdom.

I like the idea of separating the processes because, even though we and Christ are both referred to as the "firstfruits unto God," it is clear that we have different roles to play, and very different things are required of us. I think this is an indication of the two different processes: Christ is the firstfruits of his process "inasmuch as he shall make intercession for all the children of men" (2 Nephi 2:9), and we are the firstfruits of our process through the redemption, reconciliation, and new birth (Revelation 14:4, Jacob 4:11, James 1:18).

I think these two different processes also speak to the different sources of power: Christ's power is directly through Heavenly Father (John 5:26, though that isn't the best verse for it, I think), and ours is through Christ (DC 35:2).

FLESH

Key Phrases

according to the flesh Commentary I'm wondering if this isn't basically the same as temporal in the BOM; I won't go into it now, but check out 1N 22:1–6 for example. See also John 3:4–6 for a distinction between flesh and spirit.

according to men in the flesh 5 | 1 Peter 4:6; DC 76:73; DC 88:99; DC 138:10, 34

Bible anchor verses

1 Peter 4:6 κατὰ ἀνθρώπους σαρκί

all flesh 68 |

FORGIVENESS

See also

Remission (a lot of the notes on “Remission” are about forgiveness);

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 27

Enos 1:5 And there came a voice unto me, saying: Enos, thy sins are forgiven thee, and thou shalt be blessed.

Mosiah 4:2 And they had viewed themselves in their own carnal state, even less than the dust of the earth. And they all cried aloud with one voice, saying: O have mercy, and apply the atoning blood of Christ that we may receive forgiveness of our sins, and our hearts may be purified; for we believe in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, who created heaven and earth, and all things; who shall come down among the children of men.

Mosiah 26:29–31

Alma 24:10 And I also thank my God, yea, my great God, that he hath granted unto us that we might repent of these things, and also that he hath forgiven us of those our many sins and murders which we have committed, and taken away the guilt from our hearts, through the merits of his Son.

Alma 39:6 For behold, if ye deny the Holy Ghost when it once has had place in you, and ye know that ye deny it, behold, this is a sin which is unpardonable; yea, and whosoever murdereth against the light and knowledge of God, it is not easy for him to obtain forgiveness; yea, I say unto you, my son, that it is not easy for him to obtain a forgiveness.

3 Nephi 13:11–15 11 And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. 12 And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. 13 For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen. 14 For, if ye forgive men their trespasses your heavenly Father will also forgive you; 15 But if ye forgive not men their trespasses neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Moroni 6:8 But as oft as they repented and sought forgiveness, with real intent, they were forgiven.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 56

DC 1:32 Nevertheless, he that repents and does the commandments of the Lord shall be forgiven;

DC 42:25–26

DC 58:42 Behold, he who has repented of his sins, the same is forgiven, and I, the Lord, remember them no more.

DC 60:7

DC 61:2

DC 64:3–13 There are those among you who have sinned; but verily I say, for this once, for mine own glory, and for the salvation of souls, I have forgiven you your sins. 4 I will be merciful unto you, for I have given unto you the kingdom. 5 And the keys of the mysteries of the kingdom shall not be taken from my servant Joseph Smith, Jun., through the means I have appointed, while he liveth, inasmuch as he obeyeth mine ordinances. 6 There are those who have sought occasion against him without cause; 7 Nevertheless, he has sinned; but verily I say unto you, I, the Lord, forgive sins unto those who confess their sins before me and ask forgiveness, who have not sinned unto death. 8 My disciples, in days of old, sought occasion against one another and forgave not one another in their hearts; and for this evil they were afflicted and sorely chastened. 9 Wherefore, I say unto you, that ye ought to forgive one another; for he that forgiveth not his brother his trespasses standeth condemned before the Lord; for there remaineth in him the greater sin. 10 I, the Lord, will forgive whom I will forgive, but of you it is required to forgive all men. 11 And ye ought to say in your hearts—let God judge between me and thee, and reward thee according to thy deeds. 12 And him that repenteth not of his sins, and confesseth them not, ye shall bring before the church, and do with him as the scripture saith unto you, either by commandment or by revelation. 13 And this ye shall do that God may be glorified—not because ye forgive not, having not compassion, but that ye may be justified in the eyes of the law, that ye may not offend him who is your lawgiver—

- These verses are absolutely crucial to understanding the idea of “forgiveness” in the restoration.
- The key is to forgive people in our hearts, or truly and sincerely, and not just on the outside.

DC 76:34

DC 82:1

DC 84:61

DC 95:1–3

DC 98:39–48 • These verses seem to have a contradiction in them, about the number of times you’re supposed to forgive—verse 40 says the “seventy times seven” thing from Matthew 18:22, but then verse 44 appears to say something different, or at least tell about a different way of handling it.

DC 108:1

DC 109:34

DC 132:27

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 2

Moses 6:53

Commentary and Studies

Forgiveness of sins and remission of sins

See this study at Remission.

Sins for which there is no forgiveness

- Matthew 12:32
- Matthew 18:21–22
- Matthew 18:23–35
- Luke 12:10
- DC 42:18
- DC 64:7
- DC 76:32–35
- DC 132:27

FOUNTAIN

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A spring, or source of water; properly, a spring or issuing of water from the earth. This word accords in sense with well, in our mother tongue; but we now distinguish them, applying fountain to a natural spring of water, and well to an artificial pit of water, issuing from the interior of the earth.
- 2 A small basin of springing water.
- 3 A jet; a spouting of water; an artificial spring.
- 4 The head or source of a river.
- 5 Original; first principle or cause; the source of any thing.

FULNESS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The state of being filled, so as to leave no part vacant.
- 2 The state of abounding or being in great plenty; abundance.
- 3 Completeness; the state of a thing in which nothing is wanted; perfection.
- 4 Repletion; satiety; as from intemperance.
- 5 Repletion of vessels; as fullness of blood.
- 6 Plenty; wealth; affluence.
- 7 Struggling perturbation; swelling; as the fullness of the heart.
- 8 Largeness; extent.
- 9 Loudness; force of sound, such as fills the ear.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

πληρώω

BDAG 734b

- 1 to make full, fill (full)
 - 1.a of things
 - 1.b of persons fill with powers, qualities, etc.
- 2 to complete a period of time, fill (up), complete
- 3 to bring to completion that which was already begun, complete, finish
- 4 to bring to a designed end, fulfill a prophecy, an obligation, a promise, a law, a request, a purpose, a desire, a hope, a duty, a fate, a destiny, etc.
 - 4.a of the fulfillment of divine predictions or promises
 - 4.b a prayer...a command(ment)...τὸ δικαίωμα τοῦ νόμου...πᾶσαν δικαιοσύνην
 - Matthew 3:15 is listed here.

πλήρωμα

BDAG 736a

- 1 that which fills
 - 1.a that which fills (up)
 - 1.b that which makes something full/complete, supplement, complement
- 2 that which is full of something
- 3 that which is brought to fullness or completion
 - 3.a full number
 - 3.b sum total, fullness, even (super)abundance
 - John 1:16 is glossed here.
- 4 act of fulfilling specifications, fulfilling, fulfillment
- 5 the state of being full, fullness of time

CGL 1143b, PDF 1183

- 1 that which fills (a receptable); contents (of mixing-bowls, baskets, or similar)
- 2 (periphrastic with genitive) abundance (of a feast, i.e. a feast that fills)
- 3 (collectively) body of men filling a ship, crew
- 4 completed whole, full complement (of a state, referring to the citizen body)

- 5 full complement, total (of ships)
- 6 that which fills a gap; patch (with genitive for a garment) (NT)
- 7 full period of time; span (of a person's life, referring to eighty years)
- 8 action of filling, filling up (of cups, referring to a task)
- 9 filling of an auditorium; performance, show
- 10 fullness (of God or Christ, i.e. perfection or bountifulness) (NT)

LSJ 1420a, PDF 1491

- I.1 that which fills, complement
- I.2 satiety of the feast
- I.3 of ships, full number; but of single ships, complement, crew
- I.4 of number, sum
- I.5 piece inserted to fill up
 - Matthew 9:16 appears here.
- I.6 fullness, full and perfect nature
 - This entry lists Romans 11:12, Ephesians 3:19, Ephesians 4:13, Colossians 1:19, and Colossians 2:9
- I.7 reserves of troops
- I.8 mass, complex
- I.9 duties of an office
- I.10 freight, cargo
- II.1 filling up, completing
- II.2 fulfilment
 - Romans 13:10 listed here.

Key Phrases

fulness of the gospel See this phrase at Gospel.

fulness of my gospel See this phrase at Gospel.

GARMENT (TEMPLE)

This entry is for notes on the temple garment and its use, not on the term “garment” as it appears in the scriptures.

Commentary and Studies

Scriptural passages related to the garment and temple clothing

- Numbers 15:38–39
- John 19:2
- DC 29:12

GARDEN OF EDEN

Commentary and Studies

What is the Garden of Eden?

- A symbolic representation of being in the presence of God: DC 29:41.

GIFTS, SPIRITUAL (SPIRITUAL GIFTS)

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Romans 1:11–12

- This passage is a bit confusing but verse 12 tells what the spiritual gift is, I think.

Romans 12:6–21

- I'm not sure whether the entire rest of the chapter is supposed to be a list of spiritual gifts, but definitely the early verses in this passage are talking about that.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 46:8–33

GLORY

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

2 Corinthians 3:6–11

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 93:36 The glory of God is intelligence, or, in other words, light and truth.

DC 124:18 • An unusual verse which talks about “begetting” glory and honor.

Key Phrases

glory of God 30 | list

weight of glory 3 | 2 Corinthians 4:17; DC 63:66; DC 132:16

Bible anchor verses

2 Corinthians 4:17 τὸ γὰρ παραυτίκα ἐλαφρὸν τῆς θλίψεως ἡμῶν καθ’ ὑπερβολὴν εἰς ὑπερβολὴν αἰώνιον βάρους δόξης κατεργάζεται ἡμῖν,

Commentary —

GODLINESS, GODLY, UNGODLY

See also Mystery,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Godliness

- Piety; belief in God, and reverence for his character and laws.
- 1 A religious life; a careful observance of the laws of God and performance of religious duties, proceeding from love and reverence for the divine character and commands; christian obedience.
- 2 Revelation; the system of christianity.

Godly

- Pious; reverencing God, and his character and laws.
- 1 Living in obedience to God's commands, from a principle of love to him and reverence of his character and precepts; religious; righteous; as a godly person.
- 2 Pious; conformed to God's law; as a godly life.

Oxford English Dictionary

Godliness

- 1 The quality of being godly; devout observance of the law of God; piety.
- 2 With possessive adjective (as your Godliness), used as a title of respect.

Godly (adjective)

- 1 Of or relating to God; coming from God; divine; spiritual. Now somewhat archaic.
- 2 Devoutly observant of the laws of God; religious, pious.
- 2a Of conduct, speech, etc. Now somewhat archaic.
- 2b Of a person.
- 2b(a) In general use.
- 2b(b) Designating puritan supporters, typically Presbyterians and Independents (Congregationalists), of the parliamentary cause in the English Civil War, who gained political ascendancy during the period of the Commonwealth and the Cromwellian Protectorate with the aim of spiritually and morally reforming the nation; (later, by extension) designating zealous Nonconformists or Low Church Anglicans who followed similar principles and practices. Now historical.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 4

Psalms 4:3

Psalms 12:1

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 26

2 Corinthians 1:12

2 Corinthians 7:9

2 Corinthians 7:10

2 Corinthians 7:11

2 Corinthians 11:2

1 Timothy 1:4

1 Timothy 2:2

1 Timothy 2:10

1 Timothy 3:16

1 Timothy 4:7

1 Timothy 4:8

1 Timothy 6:3

1 Timothy 6:5

1 Timothy 6:6

1 Timothy 6:11

2 Timothy 3:5

2 Timothy 3:12

Titus 1:1

Titus 2:12

Hebrews 12:28

2 Peter 1:3

2 Peter 1:6

2 Peter 1:7

2 Peter 2:9

2 Peter 3:11

3 John 1:6

Greek New Testament

ἀσεβής

BDAG 123b

- 1 pertaining to violating norms for a proper relation to deity, irreverent, impious, ungodly
- 1.a of persons
- 1.b of human characteristics

εὐσέβεια

BDAG 363b

- in our literature and in the LXX only of awesome respect accorded to God, devoutness, piety, godliness

CGL 630a, PDF 656

- 1 reverent conduct (towards gods or parents), reverence, piety
- 2 (as a deity) Piety

LSJ , PDF

-

Some NT uses

1 Timothy 2:2

1 Timothy 3:16
1 Timothy 4:7
1 Timothy 4:8
1 Timothy 6:3
1 Timothy 6:5
1 Timothy 6:6
1 Timothy 6:11
2 Timothy 3:5
Titus 1:1
2 Peter 1:3
2 Peter 1:6
2 Peter 1:7
2 Peter 3:11

θεοσέβεια

In the NT, the only use of this word is at 1 Timothy 2:10.

BDAG 400a

- reverence for God or set of beliefs and practices relating to interest in God, piety, godliness

CGL 679b, PDF 705

- reverence for the gods, piety

LSJ , PDF

-

Some NT uses

1 Timothy 2:10

θειότης

BDAG 395b (of a divinity: the term in such description is not tautologous but usually refers to performance that one might properly associate with a divinity)

- the quality or characteristic(s) pertaining to deity, divinity, divine nature, divineness

Total occurrences in the NT 1

Some NT uses

Romans 1:20

θεότης

BDAG 400b

- the state of being god, divine character/nature, deity, divinity, used as abstract noun for θεός

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 1

Moroni 7:30

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 6

DC 4:6

DC 19:10

DC 20:69

DC 84:20 Therefore, in the ordinances thereof, the power of godliness is manifest.

DC 84:21 And without the ordinances thereof, and the authority of the priesthood, the power of godliness is not manifest unto men in the flesh;

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 1
JS-H 1:19

Key Phrases

mystery of godliness 2 | 1 Timothy 3:16; DC 19:10

Bible anchor verses

1 Timothy 3:16 καὶ ὁμολογουμένως μέγα ἐστὶν τὸ τῆς εὐσεβείας μυστήριον· Ὃς ἐφανερώθη ἐν σαρκί, ἐδικαιώθη ἐν πνεύματι, ὤφθη ἀγγέλοις, ἐκηρύχθη ἐν ἔθνεσιν, ἐπιστεύθη ἐν κόσμῳ, ἀνελήμφθη ἐν δόξῃ.

Commentary See this study below.

power of godliness

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

9 June 1842 It is one evidence that men are unacquainted with the principle of godliness, to behold the contraction of feeling and lack of charity. The pow’r and glory of Godliness is spread out on a broad principle to throw out the mantle of charity. God does not look on sin with allowance, but when men have sin’d there must be allowance made for them.

Temple Ordinances

Newer lecture at the veil These are what are termed the mysteries of godliness—that which will enable you to understand the expression of the Savior, made just prior to his betrayal: “This is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou has sent.”

The “mystery of godliness”

GOD'S NATURE (NATURE OF GOD)

See also

Godliness,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Mark 10:8

Book of Mormon

Helaman 13:38

Mormon 9:19

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 62:6

DC 63:34 • Thinking specifically of how Christ is in the Father's presence here.

DC 66:12 • The only place in the scriptures that explicitly says that the Father is full of "grace and truth."

DC 93

DC 109:77

DC 121:28

DC 121:32

DC 132:20

Augustine

DDC I:15–16 Now although he alone is thought of as the god of gods, he is also thought of by those who imagine, invoke, and worship other gods, whether in heaven or on earth, in so far as their thinking strives to reach a being than which there is nothing better or more exalted. They are, to be sure, inspired by various ideas of excellence, of which some relate to the senses, and others to the intellect, and accordingly those who are devoted to the bodily senses⁸⁵ think that either the sky itself, or the brightest element that they see in the sky, or the world itself, is the god of gods. If they try to pass beyond the visible world, they envisage something bright, and in their futile imaginations represent it either as an infinite being or as one endowed with what they see as ultimate beauty; or else they think of the figure of a human body, if they value that above all else. 16. If they do not believe in a single god of gods, but rather in many gods, or gods without number, all of them having equal status, then for these too they form a mental picture which corresponds to their various ideas of bodily excellence. Those who strive to behold the nature of God through their intellect⁸⁶ place him above all visible and corporeal beings, indeed above all intelligible and spiritual beings, and above all beings that are subject to change. But they all vigorously contend for the excellence of God; it is impossible to find anyone who believes that God is a thing than which there exists something better. All, then, are agreed that what they value above all other things is God.

- This is one reason why JS's conception of God is very different; a hierarchy of Gods—they have to differ in some respect if they are to differ in glory or power or whatever. This is one point against the sort of McConkie idea that God has to be omniscient—knowledge is one of the ways that gods can differ in the hierarchy.

Commentary and Studies

Key points to consider

- DC 39:1
 - The “eternity to eternity” bit. It appears elsewhere in restoration scripture but not in the Bible.

The in-dwelling relationship of Christ and the Father

See this topic here.

Omniscience

For God’s omniscience, see:

- Alma 18:32
- Alma 26:35
- DC 38:2

I read an interesting idea in a paper by Kass Gorton in spring semester 2022. Here are some excerpts from that paper:

God is designed to foreknow all of His children futures; it is assumed before you knew it, God knew you where going to pick the bag of Doritos instead of the burrito. Does God’s foreknowledge take away your freedom to choose what you really wanted for lunch? There is one more factor to add, good and evil. Good and evil spin the world round and round; any given choice always comes down to the question of right or wrong. Should you eat the burrito or the bag of Doritos? Freedom to choose exist because evil fogs God’s all knowing glasses.

God created all things to be good; we are created from God; therefore, we are good. We are good, but there is evil in the world; the causes of evil was not given from God himself, and He does not encourage the action of evil. Saint Augustine, an ancient theologian and philosopher, argued in his book De Libero Arbitrio (On The Free Will) why God is not the man behind the evil. He said “God foreknows everything of which He is the cause, but He is not Himself the cause of everything He foreknows. He is not the cause of evil actions, but He is their just avenger” (Armstrong 336). Augustine believed God does know everything an individual will do, but he is not the cause of the individuals evil actions.

This begs the question once more, if God knows all things then how do we have freedom to choose? God is the creator of all good things; therefore, He knows all things that are good, but does He foresee the evil which He did not cause? Adam and Eve could possibly prove God does foresee evil doings because He foresaw the fall of Adam and Eve. The Christian interpretation of the fall describes the event as evil; although, latter-day scripture contradicts the assumption Adam and Eve’s transgressions were done in evil; instead the scriptures describes the action as wrongful, but justified in goodness. Written in The Book of Mormon, a latter-day scripture, it states, “If Adam had not transgressed he would not have fallen... All things which were created must have remained in the same state in which they were after they were created... Adam fell that men might be; and men are, that they might have joy” (The Book of Mormon, 2 Ne. 2:22,25). Adam’s transgression were done in good doing not evil doing; thus, God foresaw Adam and Eve’s transgressions because they where good. If Adam and Eve eating the fruit was evil God could not have fully foreseen it because God knows everything He causes; since He is not the cause of evil He could have not foreknow their transgressions. The same can be said for every single individual created by God. Take the burrito for example, lets assume the burrito is good because it provides all 5 food groups need to fuel your body; while the bag of Doritos could be evil because it encourages the body to be sluggish and lazy. God can foresee you eating the burrito because He is the cause of good, and God foresee what He causes; on the other hand, God’s foreknowledge of the Doritos is blurred because the Doritos is the cause of evil, and God cannot foresee things He does not cause. Creating freedom to choose because you can choose between good and evil with God’s foreknowledge of the good.

The freedom of choice could be put into question if it where assumed God does know the evil; it is would also be assumed Adam and Eve’s transgression was truly evil. He knew you where going to choose the Doritos over the burrito; He knew you where going to give into the evil. More importantly he knew the Doritos where evil. If that where true then your freedom to choose could not exist because God already knew your decision about the burrito and Eve’s decision about the fruit...

Just and merciful is a characteristic Augustine and the Christian faith give to God. In the Book of Mormon, Alma, a prophet of the Lord, explains, "All his judgments are just; that he is just in all his works, and that he has all power to save every man that believe on his name" (The Book Of Mormon, Alma 12.15). How is God a just and merciful god if He foresees everything? God foresees that which is good but cannot foresee that which is evil; that is proved in latter-day scripture through revelation about the fall of Adam and Eve. God can foresee us eating the burrito in the future because it is good; God cannot foresee you eating the bag of Doritos because it is the cause of evil. This gives God justification to punish you because you chose the evil over God's foreseen good. For example, eating the bag of Doritos may lead to you being less productive throughout your day, due to the fact you did not get the proper nutrition at lunch. God is able to reward and punish because his foreknowledge of evil is blurred and his foreknowledge of good is clear.

It all comes down to a bag of Doritos and one burrito. Does God know what you will choose to eat? Does he take away your freedom of choice? There is no one simple answer to that difficult question, but God cannot take away our freedom of choice. Evil, in a sense, is the good that keeps free will from not existing. God foresees everything that He causes; God created all good thing, so he causes good thing; God did not create evil, so he cannot cause evil things. Since he cannot cause evil thing he can not foresee evil. God can foresee us choosing the burrito due to it goodness, but it is difficult for Him to see us choose in the bag a Doritos; due to evil you are given agency, the power to choose right from wrong. It is up to yourself to choose the path God foresees for you.

GOODLY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

x

- Being of a handsome form; beautiful; graceful; as a goodly person; goodly raiment; goodly houses.
- Pleasant; agreeable; desirable; as goodly days.
- Bulky; swelling; affectedly turgid.

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1a Of good or pleasing appearance; handsome, beautiful, good-looking; comely, fair.
- 1b Of speech, words, etc.: pleasing, delightful.
- 2 Of good, noble, or valiant character; virtuous, honourable; (also) of distinguished attainments or bearing. (It tags this meaning as "obsolete" and the last instance cited comes from around 1600.)
- 3 Gracious, courteous; friendly; gentle, kind. (Last instance cited here is around 1540.)
- 4a Of a good quality or high standard; splendid, excellent, fine. (Instances cited through the 1800's and one in 1994.)
- 4b In ironic use.
- 5 Notable or considerable in respect of size, quantity, or number; fairly large, sizeable.
- 6 Convenient, proper; due, appropriate.

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 2

- 1 Nephi 1:1 I Nephi having been born of goodly parents, therefore I was taught somewhat in all the learning of my father...
- Mosiah 18:7 And it came to pass after many days there were a goodly number gathered together to the place of Mormon to hear the words of Alma...

GOODNESS, GOOD

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ἀγαθός

BDAG 2b

- 1 pertaining to meeting a relatively high standard of quality, of things
 - 1.a adjective useful, beneficial
 - 1.b used as a pure substantive
 - 1.b.α quite generally
 - I think it just means of “things” generally; it cites the use in Luke 16:25.
 - 1.b.β possessions, treasures
 - 1.b.γ possessions of a higher order
- 2 pertaining to meeting a high standard of worth and merit, good
 - 2.a as adjective
 - 2.a.α of humans and deities (the primary focus is on usefulness to humans and society in general)
 - 2.a.β of things characterized especially in terms of social significance and worth
 - 2.b as substantive, singular
 - 2.b.α that which is beneficial or helpful
 - 2.b.β τὰ ἀγαθὰ good deeds (John 5:29)

CGL 3b, PDF 29

- 1 (of persons, especially in the performance of a specific role or duty) good, capable
- 2 (with connotation of high birth) noble; (with connotation of morality) good
- 3 (of persons) trustworthy, loyal (to family, friends, political allies, or similar)
- 4 (of thoughts, words, advice, or similar) good, useful
- 5 (of a deity) without wickedness, beneficent, benevolent
- 6 (as the title of a deity, to whom a toast was made at the end of a meal) good
- 7 (ironically, of a ruler) esteemed, worthy
- 8 (in vocative address, friendly or sarcastic) my good man

LSJ 4b, PDF 77

- I of persons
 - I.1 well-born, gentle
 - I.2 brave, valiant, since courage was attributed to Chiefs and Nobles
 - I.3 good, capable, in reference to ability
 - I.4 good, in moral sense
 - I.5 my good friend, as a term of gentle remonstrance
- II of things
 - II.1 good, serviceable
 - II.2 of outward circumstances
 - II.3 morally good
 - It lists Romans 2:7 as an example.
 - II.4 neuter substantive, good, blessing, benefit, of persons or things
- III comparative and superlative are usually supplied from other stems
- IV adverb usually εὖ

καλός

BDAG 447a

- 1 pertaining to being attractive in outward appearance, beautiful, handsome, fine in outward appearance
- 2 pertaining to being in accordance at a high level with the purpose of something or someone, good, useful
- 2.a of things
- 2.b of moral quality (opposite αἰσχροῦς) good, noble, praiseworthy, contributing to salvation
 - James 4:17 is listed here.
 - This use often appears with ἔργον; BDAG lists many examples.
- 2.c in any respect unobjectionable, blameless, excellent
- 2.c.α of persons
- 2.c.β of things
- 2.d the term καλόν (ἔστιν) in the general sense it is good qualifies items that fit under one of the preceding classifications
- 2.d.α it is pleasant, desirable, advantageous
- 2.d.β it is morally good, pleasing to God, contributing to salvation
- 2.d.γ (constructions with μᾶλλον)

CGL 739b, PDF 779

- 1 beautiful, handsome, good-looking
- 2 (of places, features of the natural world) beautiful, fair
- 3 (of created things, such as clothes, weapons, buildings) beautiful, handsome, fine
- 4 (of a voice, singing or similar) beautiful
- 5 (as a term of general commendation, of things or circumstances) good (in terms of quality, practice usefulness or capacity to satisfy or give pleasure), good, excellent, fine
- 6 (specifically, of a wind) favourable; (of sacrifices or omens) good, auspicious, propitious; (of coinage) genuine
- 7 neuter impersonal, it is a good time —with infinitive to do something
- 8 (prepositional phrase) in a good place, in the right spot
- 9 (with moral connotation, of things said or done) good, noble, honourable, fitting, proper
- 10 (phrase, of a man combining moral excellence with good birth or social status, frequently as substantive) fine and good, upstanding, decent

LSJ 870a, PDF 941

- A.I.1 beautiful of outward form
- A.I.2.a in Attic added to a name in token of love or admiration
- A.I.2.b as epithet
- A.I.2.c of divinities
- A.I.3 beauty (neuter substantive)
- A.II.1 with reference to use, good, of fine quality
- A.II.2 of sacrifices, auspicious
- A.III.1 in a moral sense, beautiful, noble, honourable
- A.III.2 (neuter substantive) moral beauty, virtue, honour, opposite αἰσχροῦς
- A.III.3 of persons, in early writers coupled with ἀγαθός
- A.IV in Attic and Tragedy frequently ironically, fine, specious
- B degrees of comparison
- C.I adverbial:—Poets frequently use neuter καλόν as adverb
- C.II regular adverb καλῶς
 - Many definitions for the adverb καλῶς follow here.
- D (certain compounds)
- E (discussion of syllabic quantity for poetry)

TDNT: καλός (3:536–556)

“κινδυνεύει κατὰ τὴν ἀρχαίαν παροιμίαν τὸ καλὸν φίλον εἶναι, Plato Lysis 216c.¹ This ancient Greek proverb adopted by Plato brings out the significance of the term καλός for human life” (536).

Book of Mormon

3 Nephi 4:5

- This is the nature of evil: to despoil and ruin, and not to grow.

¹In my complete works translation: “Maybe the old proverb is right, and the beautiful is a friend” (PDF 700).

- Goes with verse 14 too, the end of evil.
- And verses 19–20, 29, etc.
- Compare what happens to the robbers who want to repent in 3 Nephi 6:3.
- Compare Mormon 4:4–5

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 98:3

Restoration Usage

Brigham Young

2 February 1860 In the evening the President discoursed to a few present upon the subject, that goodness resulted in eternal lives; and wickedness gradually became weaker and smaller until it was lost in element.

Commentary and Studies

The pragmatic gospel: goodness and truth

Remember that you can't separate this stuff from the epistemology stuff, it's all bound together. But the following is a list of verses that have stuck out to me particularly regarding goodness stuff—see special note of these verses (for all of them, check the actual verses for other notes and connections):

Note that, in the meeting where they discussed publishing the Book of Commandments, those who signed the “Testimony” about them described them as “profitable for all men.” See that document here.

Matthew 7:11 The Father knows how to give good gifts and good things to those who are asking.

Matthew 7:15–20 Here, you're trying to judge who the ψευδοπροφήτης is, and you do it by looking at whether a person is a ἄγαθός tree who brings forth καλός fruit.

Matthew 12:10–12 Especially verse 12, “doing well.” Compare to the verse about sin in James?

Matthew 12:33–35

Matthew 13:1–9 The parable of the sower—note the quality of the ground especially in verse 8 (and note Christ's explanation of this parable later in the chapter, where he brings this up again—in fact, there's a huge amount of “goodness” talk throughout this chapter; see also the use of a form of σαπρός in verse 48). See also Mark 4:3–9 and Luke 8:4–8. Think about Alma 32 in light of these verses.

Luke 3:8–9

Luke 6:6–11

Luke 6:43–45

Luke 7:31–35

John 3:17–21 Check out the Greek words for “evil,” and note that it talks about “doing the truth” in verse 21. Some interesting stuff here.

2 Nephi 2:5 People are “instructed sufficiently” to make a basic judgment: discerning between good and evil, not between something like “true” and “false.” Why would this be?

- It could be that the choice between good and evil is the choice that really matters most.
- It could be that the choice between good and evil is much easier to make than the one between true and false (a lot of the time).

2 Nephi 9:28

A few verses in 2 Nephi 26:

- Verse 24
- Verse 28
- Verse 33

2 Nephi 33:4

Romans 2:4

- This isn't really about truth/goodness, but it does seem a somewhat pragmatic attitude for God to have.

Romans 2:25–29

- These verses are more closely related to the truth as goodness thing, though there's still some basic pragmatist stuff here too.

Romans 3:7–8

Ether 8:26

Alma 18:34

- Mentions what is “just and true.”

Alma 32:27–43

- Note that this sermon is an expansion of the parable of the sower, so make sure to compare with that parable and Christ's explanation of it to see what Alma is doing. Luke 8:4–18,

Helaman 7:26

Helaman 12:26

- It's about doing, not believing.
- Also verse 24, before this one.

Jacob 5

- They judge all the fruit in terms of whether it's good or bad.

Omni 1:25

Ether 3:4, the “benefit” stuff

Ether 4:11–12, golden stuff

Moroni 10:18; see also 10:25 here; also 10:30

Mosiah 4:11–12—here I'm thinking of trying to tie to Alma 32, since at the beginning of this verse it talks about coming to a knowledge of the glory of God, but then seems to explain what that means in terms of having had certain experiences.

- Note also the connection here with Moroni 10:6 and “just and true,” which is another important thing to bring up about this verse.

Moroni 7:5–26 Verses 5–19 are the core of this passage, but the discussion goes on for a little longer.

1 Nephi 19:23 “profit and learning” (note the other times it occurs)

DC 6:33

DC 11:12

DC 46 , the discussion of spiritual gifts, they are given for “profit” and “benefit,” not necessarily truth; worth looking into at some point, or using in favor of some argument

DC 50:22–23 Compare to Alma 32, especially the verse which says something like, “it is light, because it is discernible,” or whatever—the “darkness” in verse 23 here in DC 50 is a foil to that “light.”

DC 56:2–4 Especially verse 4, “as it seemeth me good.”

- In this whole section really, notice how the Lord is revoking commandments in response to different things. Why didn't he just tell them what to do using his all-knowing powers? Why didn't he just tell them the final thing that they would end up doing? This is relevant for many sections in this middle part of the DC.

DC 58:25 (This one involves people “counseling” between themselves and the Lord to figure out what is best to do.)

DC 58:26–33

- We just need to be out there, doing good.

DC 67:9 relationship between righteousness and goodness?

DC 68:4 pragmatic stuff?

DC 81:4 pragmatic stuff, including talk of the “greatest good”

DC 82 there is a lot about goodness and things turning out in the right way in this section

DC 84:73

JD 14:152, from BY, talking about the name “Mormon”; there is a way of seeing the “more good” thing not as the meaning of the name Mormon (although JS thought of it that way), and seeing it more as the slogan captured in the name “Mormon” or “Mormonism.” Very interesting idea.

DC 97:7–9

DC 98:11

GOSPEL

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 72

Romans 1:16

Greek New Testament

εὐαγγέλιον

BDAG 355a originally ‘a reward for good news’, then simply ‘good news’

1 God’s good news to humans, good news as proclamation

1.a absolute

1.a.α τὸ εὐαγγέλιον

1.a.β in gen., dependent on another noun ὁ λόγος τοῦ εὐ....τὸ μυστήριον τ. εὐ....ἡ ἀλήθεια τοῦ εὐ....etc.

1.a.γ in certain combinations with verbs τὸ εὐ. κηρύσσειν...καταγγέλλειν...etc.

1.b in combination

1.b.α with adjective

1.b.β with genitive

1.b.β.κ objective genitive

1.b.β.ζ subjective genitive

2 details relating to the life and ministry of Jesus, good news of Jesus

3 a book dealing with the life and teaching of Jesus, a gospel account that deals with the life and teaching of Jesus

Key Phrases

fulness of * gospel

fulness of my gospel

fulness of the gospel

law of the gospel See especially the endowment. #times | list

Commentary and Studies

Scriptural definitions of the gospel

Romans 1:16

3 Nephi 27:13–15

3 Nephi 27:16–21

- This really goes with the one before, but 16–21 tell us more about the gospel and then in 21 he says, “This is my gospel,” and it seems like he’s talking about the things he just said.

DC 10:67

DC 11:24

DC 33:12

- See verses 10–13 here.

DC 39:6

DC 42:12
DC 66:2
DC 76:13–14
DC 76:40–42
DC 79:1

GRACE

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Mosiah 27:5

Moroni 10:32–33

Key Phrases

full of grace and truth For this phrase, see Truth.

grace and truth For this phrase, see Truth.

grace for grace 5 | John 1:16; Helaman 12:24; DC 93:12, DC 93:13, DC 93:20

Bible anchor verses John 1:16

John 1:16 ὅτι ἐκ τοῦ πληρώματος αὐτοῦ ἡμεῖς πάντες ἐλάβομεν, καὶ χάριν ἀντὶ χάριτος·

Commentary For ἀντί see here, especially meaning #2. In Scriptures → Bible → New Testament → Exegetical resources, I have passages by authors Harris and Waltke on ἀντί in John 1:16. See also Luke 6:32–34 for the idea of having grace after doing good things (or not having it after doing only the basics). See also 2 Corinthians 3:18 (“from glory to glory”),

Restoration Usage

Temple Ordinances

Preacher’s speech Do you believe in a God who is without body, parts, or passions; who sits on the top of a topless throne; whose center is everywhere and whose circumference is nowhere; who fills the universe, and yet is so small that he can dwell in your heart; who is surrounded by myriads of beings who have been saved by grace, not for any act of theirs, but by his good pleasure? Do you believe in such a great being? (This story of the preacher was removed in the 1990 revision.)

Commentary and Studies

Grace for grace

See my notes in the phrases section.

HAND

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Luke 4:40

Commentary and Studies

Laying on hands

- Alma 31:36
- Note DC 36:2, where the Lord states explicitly that this is an action meant to model the Lord himself placing his hands on us.
 - In connection with this, think about Luke 6:19, where people touch Christ and “virtue” (δύναμις) goes out of him.
 - Connect also the righteousness demanded in 3 Nephi 8:1, or Nephi in 1 Nephi 17:48.
- DC 42:44
- DC 55:1
- JS, 28 April 1842: “Pres^t. Smith continued the subject by adverting to the commission given to the ancient apostles “Go ye into all the world” &c.— no matter who believeth; these signs, such as healing the sick, casting out devils &c. should follow all that believe whether male or female. He ask’d the Society if they could not see by this sweeping stroke, that wherein they are ordaind, it is the privilege of those set apart to administer in that authority which is confer’d on them— and if the sisters should have faith to heal the sick, let all hold their tongues, and let every thing roll on....Respecting the female laying on hands, he further remark’d, there could be no devil in it if God gave his sanction by healing— that there could be no more sin in any female laying hands on the sick than in wetting the face with water— that it is no sin for any body to do it that has faith, or if the sick has faith to be heal’d by the administration...Pres^t. S. then offered instruction respecting the propriety of females administering to the sick by the laying on of hands— said it was according to revelation &c. said he never was plac’d in similar circumstances, and never had given the same instruction.”

HEARKEN

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To listen; to lend the ear; to attend to what is uttered, with eagerness or curiosity.
- 2 To attend; to regard; to give heed to what is uttered; to observe or obey.
- 3 To listen; ; to attend; to grant or comply with.

Oxford English Dictionary

Etymology: “Old English hercnian, heorcnian, hyrcnian, formed with suffix -n- < heorci-an*, the Old English type of HARK v.
“The spelling harken, which agrees with that of HARK v., and is at once more regular and of earlier standing, is the accepted one in modern American Dictionaries, and is preferred by some good English writers; but in current English use it is much less frequent than hearken. The preference for the latter spelling is probably due to association with HEAR v., supported by the analogy of heart and hearth.”

- 1 intransitive. To apply the ears to hear; to listen, give ear.
- 2 intransitive. To listen privily; to play the eavesdropper; to eavesdrop. Obsolete.
- 3.a intransitive. To apply the mind to what is said; to attend, have regard; to listen with sympathy or docility. Const. to.
- 3.b with on. Obsolete.
- 4.a transitive. To hear with attention, give ear to (a thing); to listen to; to have regard to, heed; to understand, learn by hearing; to hear, perceive by the ear. Now only poetic.
- 4.b With personal object (originally dative as in 1; but this afterwards levelled with the accusative or objective). Obsolete exc. dialect.
- 5 intransitive. hearken to: Listen, give ear.
- 6 intransitive. To seek to hear tidings; to make inquiries, to inquire after, ask for. Obsolete.
- 7 intransitive. To lie in wait; to wait. Obsolete.
- 8 transitive. To get to hear of; to search out or find by inquiry. Obsolete.
- 9 intransitive. To have regard or relation. Obsolete. rare.
- 10 To talk in one's ear, to whisper. Obsolete exc. Scottish.

HEART

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A muscular viscus, which is the primary organ of the blood's motion in an animal body, situated in the thorax. From this organ all the arteries arise, and in it all the veins terminate. By its alternate dilatation and contraction, the blood is received from the veins, and returned through the arteries, by which means the circulation is carried on and life preserved.
- 2 The inner part of any thing; the middle part or interior; as the heart of a country, kingdom or empire; the heart of a town; the heart of a tree.
- 3 The chief part; the vital part; the vigorous or efficacious part.
- 4 The seat of the affections and passions, as of love, joy, grief, enmity, courage, pleasure etc. The heart is deceitful above all things. Every imagination of the thoughts of the heart is evil continually. We read of an honest and good heart and an evil heart of unbelief, a willing heart a heavy heart sorrow of heart a hard heart a proud heart a pure heart The heart faints in adversity, or under discouragement, that is, courage fails; the heart is deceived, enlarged, reprov'd, lifted up, fixed, established, moved, etc.
- 5 By a metonymy, heart is used for an affection or passion, and particularly for love.
- 6 The seat of the understanding; as an understanding heart.
- 7 The seat of the will; hence, secret purposes, intentions or designs. There are many devices in a man's heart. The heart of kings is unsearchable. The Lord tries and searches the heart David had it in his heart to build a house of rest for the ark.
- 8 Person; character; used with respect to courage or kindness.
- 9 Courage; spirit; as, to take heart; to give heart; to recover heart.
- 10 Secret thoughts; recesses of the mind.
- 11 Disposition of mind.
- 12 Secret meaning; real intention.
- 13 Conscience, or sense of good or ill.
- 14 Strength; power of producing; vigor; fertility. Keep the land in heart.
- 15 The utmost degree.

Oxford English Dictionary

There are more definitions for "heart" in the OED; this is just a selection.

- I.2 The heart considered as the centre of the vital or life-maintaining functions of the body; the seat of life; the vital part or principle; (in some contexts) life itself.
- II.5 The bodily organ considered or imagined as the seat of feeling, understanding, and thought.
- II.5.a In the most general sense: the mind (including the functions of feeling and volition as well as intellect).
- II.6.a The seat or repository of a person's inmost thoughts, feelings, inclinations, etc.; a person's inmost being; the depths of the soul; the soul, the spirit.
- II.7 (One's) intent, will, purpose; inclination, desire.
- II.9.a The heart considered as the seat of the emotions generally; a person's emotional nature (often contrasted with the intellectual or rationalizing nature located in the head).
- II.11.a The heart considered as the seat of courage or morale.
- II.12 The heart considered as the seat of perception or of the intellectual faculties generally; (also) understanding, intellect, mind; (in later use esp.) memory.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 777

Hebrew Bible

DCH and TDOT both say that there is no difference in meaning between לֵב and לִבָּב (for DCH, see below; see also TDOT 7:407, which says “There is no discernible semantic difference; on the contrary, לֵב and לִבָּב appear to be totally synonymous and interchangeable”).

לֵב

The overwhelming majority of instances of “heart” in the KJV are translations of לֵב.

HALOT 513b, PDF 569 the quivering, pumping organ, the heart

- 1 the organ
- 2 seat of vital force (Psalms 22:27 [in the KJV this is actually verse 26]), of illness (Isaiah 1:5)
- 3 one’s inner self, seat of feeling and emotions
- 4 inclination, disposition
- 5 determination, courage
- 6 will, intention
- 7 attention, consideration, reason
- 8 mind in general and as a whole
- 9 conscience
- 10 metaphorical inside, middle
- 11 the organised strength of נֶפֶשׁ
- 12 God’s heart
- 13 miscellaneous

BDB 524a, PDF 543 inner man, mind, will, heart

- inner part, midst
 - I seldom of things
 - II elsewhere of men
- II.1 the inner man in contrast with outer
- II.2 the inner man, indefinite, soul, comprehending mind, affections and will, with occasional emphasis of one or the other by means of certain verbs
- II.3 specific reference to mind
 - II.3.a of one’s own mind, destitute of mind, etc.
 - II.3.b knowledge, wise mind
 - II.3.c thinking, reflection
- II.4 specifically referring to inclinations, resolutions and determinations of the will
- II.5 specifically referring to conscience
- II.6 specifically referring to moral character
- II.7 for the man himself
- II.8 as seat of appetites
- II.9 as seat of the emotions and passions
- II.10 seat of courage

DCH PDF 2056 heart. Distinctions among [the following] meanings often unclear; a physical sense (#4) is often possible in #1–#3. לֵב with possessive suffix (especially לִבִּי) may often refer to the whole person. Apparently not different in meaning from לִבָּב.

- 1 mind, thinking, intention, understanding, in reference to primarily intellectual processes of human beings or of cities, nations, etc. spoken of in human terms
 - 1.a thought, reason, knowledge, counsel, of human beings
 - 1.b wisdom, common sense
 - 1.c attention, memory, of human beings
 - 1.d ability, skill
- 2 feelings of human beings. Especially as sensitive to:
 - 2.a joy
 - 2.b pain, grief, sadness
 - 2.c weakness, anxiety, fear
 - 2.d courage, strength, of human beings
 - 2.e irritation, anger

- 2.f contempt
- 2.g jealousy
- 2.h conscience
- 3 will, inclination, disposition, personality, of human beings
- 4 physical heart, chest of human being
- 5 middle, depth, height

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 15:18–19 (2)

Commentary and Studies

Reference information

לֵב in TLOT, PDF 823–824

...Physical, psychological, and intellectual functions are attributed to the human לֵב...

...The psychological aspect of the לֵב is evidenced in that it accommodates the most varied emotions...

... The intellectual functions of the לֵב include, first of all, perception...Recognition or remembrance also occurs in the לֵב...Strictly intellectual capacities are also a matter of the לֵב: insight, the capacity to evaluate a matter critically, and juristic equilibrium. This aspect of the לֵב is especially significant for wisdom thought...The לֵב of the sage enables sound speech, he gains insight in the nature of the time and its events...

...Finally, the לֵב is also the seat of the will and deliberation...

...The לֵב, then, encompasses all dimensions of human existence...The expression בְּלֵב (with a personal suffix) and a verb of thought or speech indicates thoughts that one keeps to oneself and does not wish to communicate. The dream too, which reveals the most hidden and inaccessible regions of a person, plays out in the לֵב...

(Starting on PDF 825, TLOT discusses the theological significance of לֵב.)

לֵב in TDOT, 7:412, 419–420

...The לֵב functions in all dimensions of human existence and is used as a term for all the aspects of a person: vital, affective, noetic, and volutative. The prescientific anthropology of the OT does in fact view the human person as composite, although the analysis is not everywhere the same. This analysis is never the primary focus, since the OT texts seek to know men and women only as they stand before God...

...The documents of the OT look on the human לֵב as the noetic seat of a wide range of activities. While the senses engage in “sense perception”...within the לֵב take place intellectual visualization (cognition and memory), thought, understanding, and attention. Finally, wisdom is pictured as residing in the heart.

Initially, cognition in the לֵב is related to sense perception: it is prior to seeing with the eyes and hearing with the ears, because it initiates the operation of the senses...Then it comes to mean the preservation and internalization of what the senses perceive for the purpose of making judgments and decisions. Thus cognition in the לֵב is always understood as a compact whole, in that it denotes the total noetic ability of an individual. Its opposite, therefore, is not a failure of sensory perception, but inattention, heedlessness, and confusion to the point of ethically negative duplicity. Perception and cognition in the לֵב are directed accordingly: initially toward concrete objects like the land of Canaan, parental instruction, the words of the wise; then increasingly (especially in the context of Deuteronomy) toward theological objects like Torah, God’s promise, or signs and wonders. In prophet contexts, the object may be a vision, the word of God, or his grace and mercy...

...If the לֵב lacks wisdom, it is in the grip of “folly.” Folly shows itself as heedlessness, willfulness, and failure to see the larger picture...Folly as the absence of לֵב leads to disorientation and senselessness, adultery, and contempt for one’s neighbor; in a youth, “lack of heart” manifests itself as stupidity, pleasure in worthless pursuits, and delight in foolishness. The לֵב of the fool loses control over the tongue and even goes so far as to deny God...

...Numbers 15:39 commands the Israelites to let the tassels on their garments constantly remind them of the danger of being misled by the לִבִּי. A particularly extreme and dangerous form of deception by the לִבִּי is the phenomenon of false prophets, who prophesy out of their own לִבִּי and not as commanded by Yahweh...

HEAVENLY MOTHER

Commentary and Studies

Scriptures that could refer to Heavenly Mother

Ephesians 5:31–32

- The idea here would be, Christ left father and mother in order to be joined to his wife, the church.

HEED

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Transitive verb

- To mind; to regard with care; to take notice of; to attend to; to observe.

Noun

- 1 Caution; care; watch for danger; notice; circumspection; usually preceded by take.
- 2 Notice; observation; regard; attention; often preceded by give.
- 3 Seriousness; a steady look.

HEIR

See also

Inheritance; Law;

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 70:8

HOLY GHOST

See also

Holy Spirit of Promise,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

John 20:22

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

30 January 1842, WW Jan 30^[th] [1842] Joseph the Seer taught the following principles that the God & father of our Lord Jesus Christ was once the same as the Son or Holy Ghost both having [both having] redeemed a world became the eternal God of that world he had a son Jesus Christ who redeemed this earth the same as his father had a world which made them equal & the Holy Ghost would do the same in his turn & so would all the Saints who inherited a Celestial glory so their would be Gods many & Lords many their were many mansions even 12 from the abode of Devils to the Celestial glory All Spirits that have bodies have power over those that have not hence men have power over Devils &c

27 August 1843, FR Joseph also said that the Holy Ghost is now in a state of Probation which if he should perform in righteousness he may pass through the same on a similar course of things that the son has

Commentary and Studies

Identity and character of the Holy Ghost

Here are some thoughts I've gathered:

- The Holy Ghost is sometimes perceived in the form of a person 1 Nephi 11:11.

Functions of the Holy Ghost

- Enlighten our minds (DC 11:13)
- Fill our souls with joy (DC 11:13)
- Entice us (Mosiah 3:19)
- The spirit of freedom (Alma 61:15)
- Strive with us (1 Nephi 7:14)
 - I find this one and the “entice” one really interesting, since it speaks to the very different ways that the Holy Ghost is trying to work with us in order to get us where we need to go.
 - See also 2 Nephi 26:11,
- Constrain us (1 Nephi 7:15)
 - See also 2 Nephi 28:1
- Bear testimony of Christ (1 Nephi 12:18)

HOLY SPIRIT OF PROMISE

See also

Holy Ghost,

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 0

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 1

The only occurrence of the phrase “holy Spirit of promise” is in Ephesians, but the Acts verse is interesting too, especially in how its use of the “shed” language relates to DC 76:53.

Acts 2:33

Galatians 3:14

- Has similar language involving the Spirit and a “promise.”

Ephesians 1:13

- See σφραγίζω.

Ephesians 4:30

- Similar language about being sealed. There’s also a clear connection here to DC 124 and DC 132.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 0

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 7

DC 76:53

DC 88:3

DC 100:8 • This one isn’t “holy spirit of promise” strictly speaking, but it’s related.

DC 124:124

DC 132:7

DC 132:18

DC 132:19

DC 132:26

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Key Phrases

Holy Spirit of Promise 8 | (See list of references above.)

HONOR, HONORABLE

See also

Priesthood,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- 1 The esteem due or paid to worth; high estimation.
- 2 A testimony of esteem; any expression of respect or of high estimation by words or actions; as the honors of war; military honors; funeral honors; civil honors.
- 3 Dignity; exalted rank or place; distinction.
- 4 Reverence; veneration; or any act by which reverence and submission are expressed, as worship paid to the Supreme Being.
- 5 Reputation; good name; as, his honor is unsullied.
- 6 True nobleness of mind; magnanimity; dignified respect for character, springing from probity, principle or moral rectitude; a distinguishing trait in the character of good men.
- 7 An assumed appearance of nobleness; scorn of meanness, springing from the fear of reproach, without regard to principle; as, shall I violate my trust? Forbid it, honor.
- 8 Any particular virtue much valued; as bravery in men, and chastity in females.
- 9 Dignity of mien; noble appearance.
- 10 That which honors; he or that which confers dignity; as, the chancellor is an honor to his profession.
- 11 Privileges of rank or birth; in the plural.
- 12 Civilities paid.
- 13 That which adorns; ornament; decoration.
- 14 A noble kind of seignory or lordship, held of the king in capite.

Verb

- 1 To revere; to respect; to treat with deference and submission, and perform relative duties to.
- 2 To reverence; to manifest the highest veneration for, in words and actions; to entertain the most exalted thoughts of; to worship; to adore.
- 3 To dignify; to raise to distinction or notice; to elevate in rank or station; to exalt. Men are sometimes honored with titles and offices, which they do not merit.
- 4 To glorify; to render illustrious.
- 5 To treat with due civility and respect in the ordinary intercourse of life. The troops honored the governor with a salute.
- 6 In commerce, to accept and pay when due; as, to honor a bill of exchange.

Buck's Theological Dictionary (1833)

462–427 HONOUR, a testimony of esteem or submission, expressed by words and an exterior behaviour, by which we make know the veneration and respect we entertain for any one, on account of his dignity or merit. The word is also used in general for the esteem due to virtue, glory, reputation, and probity; as also, for an exactness in performing whatever we have promised; and in this last sense we use the term, a man of honour....In order, then to discern where true honour lies, we must not look to any adventitious circumstance, not to any single sparkling quality, but to the whole of what forms a man; in a word, we must look to the soul. It will discover itself by a mind superior to fear, to selfish interest, and corruption; by an ardent love to the Supreme Being, and by a principle of uniform rectitude. It will make us neither afraid nor ashamed to discharge our duty, as it relates both to God and man. It will influence us to be magnanimous without being proud; humble without being mean; just without being harsh; simple in our manners, but manly in our feelings.

- The second part of this quotation, after the ellipse, comes from some other source, but it isn't cited clearly.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

John 4:44

John 5:23

John 8:49

Hebrews 5:4

Greek New Testament

τιμή

BDAG 893b

- 1 the amount at which something is valued, price, value...especially selling price...Also concrete the price received in selling something
- 2 manifestation of esteem, honor, reverence
 - 2.a active, the showing of honor, reverence, or respect as an action...usually as a commendation for performance...In 1 Thessalonians 4:4 τιμή may well be understood in this sense, if σχεῖνος refers to a female member of the household
 - 2.b passive the respect that one enjoys, honor as a possession
 - There are many examples of this use, along with its combination with other words, including δόξα
 - 2.c as a state of being, respectability
 - 2.d place of honor, (honorable) office...οὐχ ἑαυτῷ τις λαμβάνει τὴν τιμὴν no one takes the office of his own accord Hebrews 5:4
- 3 honor conferred through compensation, honorarium, compensation
- 4 a right that is specially conferred, privilege 1 Peter 2:7

CGL 1380a, PDF 1420

- 1 honour, esteem (paid by men to gods or superiors, or by gods to men as a reward for services)...plural, honours or marks of honour
- 2 (often plural) honour, prerogative, privilege (attaching to a specific position or office, especially that of a god or king)...plural, honoured powers (of underworld gods); honours or privileges (metonymy for those who hold them, i.e. rulers and gods)
- 3 office (civic or other)
- 4 price, value, worth (of things)...return, profit (from an activity)
- 5 assessment of value (of material or abstract things); (referring to wealth) criterion or standard of valuation (with genitive for things)
- 6 recompense, compensation (especially for damage to one's personal honour)

TDNT

8:170–171 τιμή has in the first instance a strong material orientation. Odysseus' honour is inseparably bound up with the restoration of control of his possessions, Hom.Od., 1, 117. Achilles' honour is functionally dependent on the number of gifts brought to him to persuade him to take part in the battle, II. 9, 605. Here bodily soundness, the undisputed exercise of social influence and unfringed enjoyment of one's property are the basis of esteem. Later the noun is used in a more strongly ethical context. A certain type of moral conduct is prerequisite for the esteem a man enjoys. Gradually τιμή detaches itself from real possessions and becomes an abstract concept of honour. That the original elements in the meaning of the word were never wholly lost can be seen in the fact that in the koine τιμή can mean both 'honour' and 'price.' If in the early Greek period honour as esteem by society on account of concrete circumstances was one of the highest values among the nobility of the 8th cent. B.C. (Hom.), in the city states, esp. Sparta and Athens, the honour of the individual was also that of the polis. When under the influence of Sophism the individual came to be increasingly detached from the polis the concept of honour became much more individualistic, esp. in Isocrates. But Plato was the first to establish the personal ethical element in honour, or 'inward honour,' though without absolutely rejecting 'outward honour' (the distinctions accorded a man by the world around). In relation to this wise moderation is to be commended. Plato, then, finally anchored honour in the moral person. The most significant attempt to provide a scientifically grounded ethics of honour was that made by Aristot. The discussion in Eth. Nic., IV, 7, p. 1123b, in which he speaks of μεγαλοψυχία, is basic here. The high-minded man must be virtuous, for there is no honour without virtue. He thus possesses honour on the basis of inner worth. By reason of his ἀρετή honour is then shown him from without, by his fellow-citizens. If at bottom the high-minded man can only give himself the honour worthy of his virtue, he is in the last analysis above 'outward honour.' But there is no honour worthy of perfect virtue. In the Aristot. concept of honour, there is thus a strong individualistic tendency, though the solidarity of the polis is not destroyed, for man is by nature a creature destined for political society. Finally Stoicism brought the individualistic concept of honour to its full development. In it 'inward honour,' the sense of one's own worth, is decisive. Stoic philosophy was not against every kind of outward honour, but the wise man is relaxed in relation to it; he does not chase it and can do without it. This attitude corresponds to the inner freedom which rules his thought. From the various standpoints the teaching of honour was of great importance among the Greeks and Romans.

8:175 The combining of τιμή and δόξα, which is a familiar one in Hellenistic thought and usage (→ 172, 35 f.; 173, 21 ff., 40), occurs in christological statements in 2 Pt. and Hb. 2 Pt. 1:17 speaks of the transfiguration of Jesus. While the two terms do not occur in Mk. 9:2–8 and Mt. 17:1–8—Lk. alone has ἐν δόξῃ in 9:31—a decisive statement in 2 Pt. is that at the transfiguration on the mount Jesus received honour and glory from the Father. τιμή and δόξα are associated in Hb. 2:7, 9 and 3:3. Hb. 2:6–8a is a quotation from Ps. 8:5–7 LXX, where man's position in creation is denoted by the words δόξα and τιμή. But that which according to the wording of the Ps. must be applied to man generally or to the individual (υἱὸς ἀνθρώπου) is related by the author of Hb. to Christ, 2:9 (→ III, 1089, 26 ff.). Christ's passion is the presupposition of His crowning with glory and honour. This crowning is obviously His institution into the high-priestly office. The terms δόξα and τιμή thus refer not so much to the glorifying and exalting of Christ as to His high-priestly dignity. The reference might well be to the position of honour which He assumes as the heavenly High-priest. In Hb. 3:3 Christ and Moses are compared in respect of their δόξα and τιμή. As the Son of God Christ is far superior to the representative of the old covenant. Certainly the position of Moses was most honourable. To him was entrusted the guiding of the "house" of Israel, and of his faithfulness as a servant of God there is no doubt. But since he himself was only part of the house, he is far behind its founder in glory (dignity), → V, 125, 16 ff. 30 The superiority of Christ over Moses may be deduced from the very wording of Nu. 12:7. When δόξα and τιμή are associated, δόξα is the higher term. τιμή in the sense of a position of honour constitutes only one part of δόξα. In Hb. 5:4 τιμή has very plainly the sense of "dignity of office." Aaron did not take his high-priestly "dignity" to himself but received it by divine calling, Ex. 28:1 f. In the same way Christ was instituted in the high-priestly office by God (→ III, 275, 19 ff.; 277, 17 ff.). But this is an eternal priesthood after the order of Melchisedec.

TDNTA

1072 τιμή has at first a strong material orientation to possessions, strength, or social influence. Later, moral conduct plays a bigger part. The fact that τιμή can also mean "price" upholds the material connection, but τιμή as honor increasingly becomes inner worth as distinct from outward esteem. For Aristotle there is no honor without virtue; only on the basis of virtue should outward honor be shown. No honor is enough for perfect virtue, and the person of inner worth is finally above outward honor. In Stoicism inner honor is what counts. The sage, enjoying inward freedom, can live without external honor and can thus be relaxed in relation to it.

NIDNTTE

4:496 In Heb. 5:4 τιμή denotes either the honor attached to a position or the position itself...We may say that τιμή is regularly used to denote high valuation based on position in an organized whole. This whole is God's world of human beings, animals, and things. The distinctive distribution of honor among entities of varying worth is important. The resultant order and grades of honor must be respected not only by the one placed in a "lower" position, but also by the one placed "higher."

4:497 The honor of a human being and the honor of office are not mutually exclusive any more than are the honor of a human being and the honor of God.

4:497 The NT does not reduce the ground for honor, as did the Stoics, to an inner quality, such as virtue or wisdom.

- See TDNTA 1072 above. I think in God we see the unification of both the inward and outward senses of "honor" here, which helps us make sense not only of the Hebrews use but also of DC 29.

Total occurrences in the NT 41/42

Some NT uses

Hebrews 5:4 καὶ οὐχ ἑαυτῷ τις λαμβάνει τὴν τιμὴν, ἀλλὰ καλούμενος ὑπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ, καθὼς περ καὶ Ἀαρών.

Book of Mormon

Honor (noun)

Total occurrences in the BOM 2

Alma 1:16

Alma 60:36

Honor (verb)

Total occurrences in the BOM 3

1 Nephi 17:55

2 Nephi 27:25

Mosiah 13:20

Honorable

Total occurrences in the BOM 3

Note that all three of these uses are quotations of Isaiah.

2 Nephi 13:3

2 Nephi 13:5

2 Nephi 15:13

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 29:36

DC 124:18

- An unusual verse which talks about “begetting” glory and honor.

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 1

Moses 4:1

Key Phrases

honor, power, glory 7 | Alma 60:36; DC 20:36; DC 65:6; DC 84:102; DC 109:77; DC 128:21; DC 128:23

Bible anchor verses —

HOPE

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Romans 8:24–25

Colossians 1:5–6

Book of Mormon

Alma 22:16

- Notice that Lamoni’s father does not mention “hope” in verse 15, though Aaron mentions it in verse 14. What I’m wondering here is if we can get a clue about a scriptural meaning for the term “hope” by looking at the things Lamoni’s father asks for in verse 15.

Commentary and Studies

Faith, hope, and charity

See this study at Faith.

HUMILITY, HUMBLE

See also

Lowliness,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Humility

- 1 In ethics, freedom from pride and arrogance; humbleness of mind; a modest estimate of one's own worth. In theology, humility consists in lowliness of mind; a deep sense of one's own unworthiness in the sight of God, self-abasement, penitence for sin, and submission to the divine will.
- 2 Act of submission.

Humbleness

- The state of being humble or low; humility; meekness.

Humble (adjective)

- 1 Low; opposed to high or lofty.
- 2 Low; opposed to lofty or great; mean; not magnificent; as a humble cottage.
- 3 Lowly; modest; meek; submissive; opposed to proud, haughty, arrogant or assuming. In an evangelical sense, having a low opinion of one's self, and a deep sense of unworthiness in the sight of God.

Humble (verb)

- To abase; to reduce to a low state.
- 1 To crush; to break; to subdue.
 - 2 To mortify.
 - 3 To make humble or lowly in mind; to abase the pride of; to reduce arrogance and self-dependence; to give a low opinion of one's moral worth; to make meek and submissive to the divine will; the evangelical sense.
 - 4 To make to condescend.
 - 5 To bring down; to lower; to reduce.
 - 6 To deprive of chastity.
- To humble one's self, to repent; to afflict one's self for sin; to make contrite.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 15

Matthew 18:4 Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

Matthew 23:12 And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.

Acts 20:19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews:

Philippians 2:8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. (Note that this verse is speaking of Christ.)

Colossians 2:18 Let no man beguile you of your reward in a voluntary humility and worshipping of angels, intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind,

Colossians 3:12 Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering;

1 Peter 5:6 Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

Greek New Testament

ΤΑΠΕΙΝΩ

BDAG 880a

- 1 to cause to be at a lower point, lower
- 2 to cause someone to lose prestige or status, humble, humiliate, abase
- 2a with focus on reversal of status ταπ. ἑαυτὸν humble oneself
- 2b with focus on shaming, with accusative of person or thing treated in this manner
- 2c with focus on punitive aspect
- 3 to cause to be or become humble in attitude, humble, make humble
- 4 to subject to strict discipline, constrain, mortify

LSJ 1757a, PDF 1828

- I lower, reduce, decrease
- II.1 lessen
- II.2a humble, abase
- II.2b violate a woman
- II.3 in moral sense, make lowly, humble
 - Mentions verses in Matthew and 1 Peter, the latter of which is a passive; according to the LSJ, the passive can mean “humble oneself,” but there are many instances in the NT where you get the word with the reflexive pronoun.
- II.4 especially of fasting or abstinence

Some NT uses

Matthew 18:4

Matthew 23:12

Philippians 2:8

1 Peter 5:6

ταπεινοφροσύνη

BDAG 880a

- humility, modesty

LSJ 1757a, PDF 1828

- humility (The example given here is Ephesians 4:2.)

Some NT uses

Acts 20:19

Ephesians 4:2 μετὰ πάσης ταπεινοφροσύνης καὶ πραύτητος, μετὰ μακροθυμίας, ἀνεχόμενοι ἀλλήλων ἐν ἀγάπῃ, (This is translated as “lowliness” in the KJV.)

Colossians 2:18

Colossians 3:12

Philippians 2:3 μηδὲν κατ' ἐριθείαν μηδὲ κατὰ κenoδοξίαν, ἀλλὰ τῇ ταπεινοφροσύνῃ ἀλλήλους ἡγούμενοι ὑπερέχοντας ἑαυτῶν,

ΤΑΠΕΙΝΟΣ

BDAG 879b

- 1 pertaining to being of low social status or to relative inability to cope, lowly, undistinguished, of no account
- 2 pertaining to being servile in manner, pliant, subservient, abject a negative quality that would make one lose face in the Greco-Roman world, opposite of a free person's demeanor
- 3 pertaining to being unpretentious, humble

LSJ 1756b, PDF 1827

- 1 of place, low-lying
- 2 of persons, humbled, abased in power, pride
- 3 of the spirits, downcast, dejected
- 4 in moral sense, either bad, mean, base, abject, or good, lowly, humble (Here it also mentions that this meaning occurs frequently in the NT, and gives Matthew 11:29 and 2 Corinthians 7:6 as examples.)
- 5 of things, mean, low, poor

Some NT uses

Matthew 11:29 ἄρατε τὸν ζυγόν μου ἐφ' ὑμᾶς καὶ μάθετε ἀπ' ἐμοῦ, ὅτι πραῖς εἰμι καὶ ταπεινὸς τῇ καρδίᾳ, καὶ εὐρήσετε ἀνάπαυσιν ταῖς ψυχαῖς ὑμῶν·

2 Corinthians 7:6 ἀλλ' ὁ παρακαλῶν τοὺς ταπεινοὺς παρεκάλεσεν ἡμᾶς ὁ θεὸς ἐν τῇ παρουσίᾳ Τίτου·

Book of Mormon

Mosiah 21:13–17

Helaman 3:35

3 Nephi 6:13

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 63:55

Key Phrases

truly humble 6 | Alma 27:18; Alma 32:6; Alma 32:14; Alma 32:15; DC 54:3; DC 97:1

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary The phrase “true humility” doesn’t appear at all.

Commentary and Studies

Humbling yourself versus being compelled to be humble

Alma 32:14 and the scriptures around there are key for this. See also:

- DC 61:37

IDLE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Not employed; unoccupied with business; inactive; doing nothing.
- 2 Slothful; given to rest and ease; averse to labor or employment; lazy; as an idle man; an idle fellow.
- 3 Affording leisure; vacant; not occupied; as idle time; idle hours.
- 4 Remaining unused; unemployed; applied to things; as, my sword or spear is idle.
- 5 Useless; vain; ineffectual; as idle rage.
- 6 Unfruitful; barren; not productive of good.
- 7 Trifling; vain; of no importance; as an idle story; an idle reason; idle arguments.
- 8 Unprofitable; not tending to edification. Every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give an account thereof in the day of judgment (Matthew 12:36).
- Idle differs from lazy; the latter implying constitutional or habitual aversion or indisposition to labor or action, sluggishness; whereas idle in its proper sense, denotes merely unemployed. An industrious man may be idle but he cannot be lazy.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 7

All the occurrences of English "idle" in the NT are ἄργός except for Luke 24:11, which is λῆρος, a noun, meaning "nonsense, idle talk."

Matthew 12:36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.

Matthew 20:3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the marketplace,

Matthew 20:6 (2) And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

Luke 24:11 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

- "Idle tales" here is λῆρος, "nonsense, idle talk."

1 Timothy 5:13 (2) And withal they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.

Greek New Testament

ἄργός

BDAG 112a

- 1 pertaining to being without anything to do, unemployed, idle
 - Matthew 20:3, 6 listed here, with 1 Timothy 5:13.
- 2 pertaining to being unwilling to work, idle, lazy
 - The only NT use mentioned here is Titus 1:12.
- 3 pertaining to being unproductive, useless, worthless
 - James 2:20 is listed here, along with 2 Peter 1:8 and Matthew 12:36.

CGL 212b, PDF 238

•

LSJ 236a, PDF 309

•

Total occurrences in the NT 8

Some NT uses

Matthew 12:36 λέγω δὲ ὑμῖν ὅτι πᾶν ῥῆμα ἄργόν ὃ λαλήσουσιν οἱ ἄνθρωποι, ἀποδώσουσιν περὶ αὐτοῦ λόγον ἐν ἡμέρᾳ κρίσεως·

Matthew 20:3

Mathew 20:6

1 Timothy 5:13 (2)

Titus 1:12 εἶπέν τις ἐξ αὐτῶν, ἴδιος αὐτῶν προφήτης, Κρηῖτες αἰὶ ψεῦσται, κακὰ θηρία, γαστέρες ἀργαί·

James 2:20 θέλεις θέλεις δὲ γινῶναι, ὦ ἄνθρωπε κενέ, ὅτι ἡ πίστις χωρὶς τῶν ἔργων ἀργή ἐστιν·

- The KJV translates νεκρά here instead of ἀργή; see this note.

2 Peter 1:8 ταῦτα γὰρ ὑμῖν ὑπάρχοντα καὶ πλεονάζοντα οὐκ ἀργοὺς οὐδὲ ἀκάρπους καθίστησιν εἰς τὴν τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐπίγνωσιν·

IMAGINATION

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Conception; image in the mind; idea.
- 2 Contrivance; scheme formed in the mind; device.
- 3 Conceit; an unsolid or fanciful opinion.
- 4 First motion or purpose of the mind.

IMMORTALITY

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 5

Romans 2:7 To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honour and immortality, eternal life:

1 Corinthians 15:53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

1 Corinthians 15:54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.

1 Timothy 6:16 Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; whom no man hath seen, nor can see: to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen.

2 Timothy 1:10 But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel:

Greek New Testament

ἀθανασία

BDAG 20b

- immortality

LSJ 30b, PDF 103

- immortality

Some NT uses

1 Corinthians 15:53 δεῖ γὰρ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀθανασίαν.

1 Corinthians 15:54 ὅταν δὲ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσῃται ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσῃται ἀθανασίαν, τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος· Κατεπόθη ὁ θάνατος εἰς νίκος.

1 Timothy 6:16 ὁ μόνος ἔχων ἀθανασίαν, φῶς οἰκῶν ἀπρόσιτον, ὃν εἶδεν οὐδεὶς ἀνθρώπων οὐδὲ ἰδεῖν δύναται· ὃ τιμὴ καὶ κράτος αἰώνιον· ἀμήν.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 81:6

INASMUCH

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

(This definition is for “insomuch,” and is not as helpful as you would want.)

1. So that; to that degree.

Oxford English Dictionary

For “inasmuch as”:

- I.1 In so far as, to such a degree as, in proportion as, according as.
- I.2 In that; in view of the fact that; seeing that; considering that; on the ground or for the reason that; since, because.

INCORRUPTION

See also

Corruption,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Incapacity of being corrupted.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 4

1 Corinthians 15:42 So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:

1 Corinthians 15:50 Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

1 Corinthians 15:53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

1 Corinthians 15:54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.

Greek New Testament

ἀφθαρσία

BDAG 136a

- the state of not being subject to decay/dissolution/interruption, incorruptibility, immortality

CGL 254b, PDF 280

- imperishability

LSJ 289a, PDF 362

I incorruption, immortality

II integrity, sincerity

Some NT uses

Romans 2:8 τοῖς μὲν καθ' ὑπομονὴν ἔργου ἀγαθοῦ δόξαν καὶ τιμὴν καὶ ἀφθαρσίαν ζητοῦσιν ζωὴν αἰώνιον·

- This word gets translated as “immortality” in the KJV.

1 Corinthians 15:42 Οὕτως καὶ ἡ ἀνάστασις τῶν νεκρῶν. σπείρεται ἐν φθορᾷ, ἐγείρεται ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ·

1 Corinthians 15:50 Τοῦτο δέ φημι, ἀδελφοί, ὅτι σὰρξ καὶ αἷμα βασιλείαν θεοῦ κληρονομήσαι οὐ δύναται, οὐδὲ ἡ φθορὰ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν κληρονομεῖ.

1 Corinthians 15:53 δεῖ γὰρ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσασθαι ἀθανασίαν.

1 Corinthians 15:54 ὅταν δὲ τὸ φθαρτὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσῃται ἀφθαρσίαν καὶ τὸ θνητὸν τοῦτο ἐνδύσῃται ἀθανασίαν, τότε γενήσεται ὁ λόγος ὁ γεγραμμένος· Κατεπόθη ὁ θάνατος εἰς νίκος.

Ephesians 6:24 ἡ χάρις μετὰ πάντων τῶν ἀγαπώντων τὸν κύριον ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ.

- Translated as “sincerity” in the KJV; see meaning #II in the LSJ above.

2 Timothy 1:10 φανερωθεῖσαν δὲ νῦν διὰ τῆς ἐπιφανείας τοῦ σωτῆρος ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, καταργήσαντος μὲν τὸν θάνατον φωτίσαντος δὲ ζωὴν καὶ ἀφθαρσίαν διὰ τοῦ εὐαγγελίου,

- Also translated as “immortality” here in the KJV.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 6

2 Nephi 2:11 For it must needs be, that there is an opposition in all things. If not so, my first-born in the wilderness, righteousness could not be brought to pass, neither wickedness, neither holiness nor misery, neither good nor bad. Wherefore, all things must needs be a compound in one; wherefore, if it should be one body it must needs remain as dead, having no life neither death, nor corruption nor incorruption, happiness nor misery, neither sense nor insensibility.

2 Nephi 9:7 Wherefore, it must needs be an infinite atonement—save it should be an infinite atonement this corruption could not put on incorruption. Wherefore, the first judgment which came upon man must needs have remained to an endless duration. And if so, this flesh must have laid down to rot and to crumble to its mother earth, to rise no more.

Mosiah 16:10 Even this mortal shall put on immortality, and this corruption shall put on incorruption, and shall be brought to stand before the bar of God, to be judged of him according to their works whether they be good or whether they be evil—

Alma 5:15 Do ye exercise faith in the redemption of him who created you? Do you look forward with an eye of faith, and view this mortal body raised in immortality, and this corruption raised in incorruption, to stand before God to be judged according to the deeds which have been done in the mortal body?

Alma 40:2 Behold, I say unto you, that there is no resurrection—or, I would say, in other words, that this mortal does not put on immortality, this corruption does not put on incorruption—until after the coming of Christ.

Alma 41:4 And if their works are evil they shall be restored unto them for evil. Therefore, all things shall be restored to their proper order, every thing to its natural frame—mortality raised to immortality, corruption to incorruption—raised to endless happiness to inherit the kingdom of God, or to endless misery to inherit the kingdom of the devil, the one on one hand, the other on the other—corruption/incorruption See here.

INFINITE

See also

Atonement,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Without limits; unbounded; boundless; not circumscribed; applied to time, space and qualities.
- 2 That will have no end. Thus angels and men, though they have had a beginning, will exist in infinite duration.
- 3 That has a beginning in space, but is infinitely extended; as, a line beginning at a point, but extended indefinitely, is an infinite line.
- 4 infinite is used loosely and hyperbolically for indefinitely large, immense, of great size or extent.

Key Phrases

infinite atonement See here.

INFLICT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- To lay on; to throw or send on; to apply; as, to inflict pain or disgrace; to inflict punishment on an offender.

INIQUITY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Injustice; unrighteousness; a deviation from rectitude; as the iniquity of war; the iniquity of the slave trade.
- 2 Want of rectitude in principle; as a malicious prosecution originating in the iniquity of the author.
- 3 A particular deviation from rectitude; a sin or crime; wickedness; any act of injustice.
- 4 Original want of holiness or depravity.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 21

2 Thessalonians 2:7 For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

Greek New Testament

ἀνομία

See also ἁμαρτία, παράβασις, ἀδικία,

BDAG and LSJ note that the opposite of ἀνομία is δικαιοσύνη. νομία is listed in LSJ (1179a, PDF 1250), but it's a "nonce-word" or a word created for a single occasion and so has just a tiny number of uses. So the lexicons are right to say the proper opposite of ἀνομία is δικαιοσύνη.

Remember, though, that BDAG also lists ἀδικία as an opposite of δικαιοσύνη.

BDAG 74b

- 1 state or condition of being disposed to what is lawless, lawlessness, opposite δικαιοσύνη
- 2 the product of a lawless disposition, a lawless deed

CGL 134a, PDF 160

- 1 conduct contrary to law, lawlessness (in a region or as a characteristic of an individual or group)...plural, crimes or transgressions (For the plural meaning, CGL mentions the NT.)
- 2 non-existence or antithesis of law, lack or negation of law

LSJ 146b, PDF 219

- 1 lawlessness, lawless conduct, opposite δικαιοσύνη
- 2 the negation of law, opposite νόμος

Total occurrences in the NT 15

All NT uses

Matthew 7:23

Matthew 13:41

Matthew 23:28

Matthew 24:12

Romans 4:7

Romans 6:19

2 Corinthians 6:14

2 Thessalonians 2:3

2 Thessalonians 2:7

Titus 2:14

Hebrews 1:9

Hebrews 10:17

INNOCENCE, INNOCENT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Innocence

- 1 Properly, freedom from any quality that can injure; innoxiousness; harmlessness; as the innocence of a medicine which can do no harm. In this sense, the noun is not obsolete, though less used than the adjective.
- 2 In a moral sense, freedom from crime, sin or guilt; untainted purity of heart and life; unimpaired integrity.
- 3 Freedom from guilt or evil intentions; simplicity of heart; as the innocence of a child.
- 4 Freedom from the guilt of a particular sin or crime. This is the sense in which the word is most generally used, for perfect innocence cannot be predicated of man. A man charged with theft or murder may prove his innocence
- 5 Freedom from the guilt of a particular sin or crime. This is the sense in which the word is most generally used, for perfect innocence cannot be predicated of man. A man charged with theft or murder may prove his innocence

Innocent

- 1 Properly, not noxious; not producing injury; free from qualities that can injure; harmless; innoxious; as an innocent medicine or remedy.
- 2 Free from guilt; not having done wrong or violated any law; not tainted with sin; pure; upright. In this general sense, no human being that is a moral agent, can be innocent. It is followed by of.
- 3 Free from the guilt of a particular crime or evil action; as, a man is innocent of the crime charged in the indictment.
- 4 Lawful; permitted; as an innocent trade.
- 5 Not contraband; not subject to forfeiture; as innocent goods carried to a belligerent nation.

INTERCESSION

See also

Atonement, Reconciliation,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

1. The act of interceding; mediation; interposition between parties at variance, with a view to reconciliation; prayer or solicitation to one party in favor of another, sometimes against another.

Oxford English Dictionary

- I.1.a The action of interceding or pleading on behalf of (rarely against) another; entreaty, solicitation, or prayer for another; mediation.
- I.1.b. spec. in religious use: Intercessory prayer.
- I.1.b. Loosely used for a petition or pleading on one's own behalf. Obsolete.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 4

Isaiah 53:12 Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; because he hath poured out his soul unto death: and he was numbered with the transgressors; and he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors.

Jeremiah 7:16 Therefore pray not thou for this people, neither lift up cry nor prayer for them, neither make intercession to me: for I will not hear thee.

Jeremiah 27:18 But if they be prophets, and if the word of the LORD be with them, let them now make intercession to the LORD of hosts, that the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem, go not to Babylon.

Jeremiah 36:25 Nevertheless Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah had made intercession to the king that he would not burn the roll: but he would not hear them.

Hebrew Bible

פָּנַע

In Isaiah 53:12 the verb is in hiphil form; the appropriate definition seems to be #2 below from HALOT. Note the parallel between this verb in Isaiah 53:6 and then again in 53:12 (meanings #1 and #2 below), and note with that the connection to DC 19:16ff and 2 Nephi 2:9.

HALOT 7456, PDF 2051

- 1 to let something hurt someone (Isaiah 53:6)
- 2 to look after someone, intercede for, with פָּנַע and פָּנַע (Isaiah 53:12)
- 3 to urge someone

BDB 6293, PDF 1935

- 1 cause to light upon (Isaiah 53:6)
- 2 cause one to entreat

- 3 make entreaty
- 4 interpose (Isaiah 53:12)

DCH PDF 3806

- 1 cause to come upon, visit (Isaiah 53:6)
- 2 make entreaty (Isaiah 53:12)
- 3 cause to entreat

Some OT uses

Jeremiah 7:16 make intercession
Jeremiah 27:18 make intercession
Jeremiah 36:25 make intercession

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 6

Romans 8:26 Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what we should pray for as we ought: but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

Romans 8:27 And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God.

Romans 8:34 Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us.

Romans 11:2 God hath not cast away his people which he foreknew. Wot ye not what the scripture saith of Elias? how he maketh intercession to God against Israel, saying,

1 Timothy 2:1 I EXHORT therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

Hebrews 7:25 Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.

Greek New Testament

ὑπερεντυγχάνω

BDAG 919a

- to intercede in behalf of another, plead, intercede

Some NT uses

Romans 8:26 Ὡσαύτως δὲ καὶ τὸ πνεῦμα συναντιλαμβάνεται τῇ ἀσθενείᾳ ἡμῶν· τὸ γὰρ τί προσευζόμεθα καθὼς δεῖ οὐκ οἶδαμεν, ἀλλὰ αὐτὸ τὸ πνεῦμα ὑπερεντυγχάνει στεναγμοῖς ἀλαλήτοις, ἐντυγχάνω

BDAG 301b

- to make an earnest request through contact with the person approached, approach or appeal to someone

Some NT uses

Romans 8:27 ὁ δὲ ἐραυνῶν τὰς καρδίας οἶδεν τί τὸ φρόνημα τοῦ πνεύματος, ὅτι κατὰ θεὸν ἐντυγχάνει ὑπὲρ ἁγίων. (BDAG says that this verse is speaking about intercession by the Holy Spirit, but the opening of the verse is a masculine participle, so I don't see why it couldn't be talking about Christ here, expanding on his role as going beyond the Spirit's role, which clearly is spoken of in Romans 8:26. In addition, the verses which clearly do speak of Christ's intercession—like Romans 8:34 and Hebrews 7:25—use ἐντυγχάνω, not ὑπερεντυγχάνω, though in fairness they're clearly related, and the former construction uses ὑπὲρ.)

Romans 8:34 τίς ὁ κατακρινῶν· Χριστὸς ὁ ἀποθανών, μᾶλλον δὲ ἐγερθεὶς, ὃς καὶ ἐστὶν ἐν δεξιᾷ τοῦ θεοῦ, ὃς καὶ ἐντυγχάνει ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν·

Romans 11:2 οὐκ ἀπόσωτο ὁ θεὸς τὸν λαὸν αὐτοῦ ὃν προέγνω. ἡ οὐκ οἶδατε ἐν Ἡλίᾳ τί λέγει ἡ γραφή, ὡς ἐντυγχάνει τῷ θεῷ κατὰ τοῦ Ἰσραήλ· (This verse goes with others, like Jeremiah 27:18, where a prophet is spoken of as making intercession for a people.)

Hebrews 7:25 ὁθεν καὶ σῶζειν εἰς τὸ παντελὲς δύναται τοὺς προσερχομένους δι' αὐτοῦ τῷ θεῷ, πάντοτε ζῶν εἰς τὸ ἐντυγχάνειν ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν. (Again of Christ's intercession. A beautiful verse; reminiscent of DC 45:3–5.)

ἘΝΤΕΥΞΙΣ

BDAG 300a

- 1 a formal request put to a high official or official body, petition, request
- 2 prayer
- 2.a intercessory prayer
- 2.b generally, prayer
- 2.c prayer of thanksgiving
- 2.d power of intercession (only in certain contexts)

Some NT uses

1 Timothy 2:1 Παρακαλῶ οὖν πρῶτον πάντων ποιεῖσθαι δεήσεις, προσευχάς, ἐντεύξεις, εὐχαριστίας, ὑπὲρ πάντων ἀνθρώπων,

1 Timothy 4:5 ἀγιάζεται γὰρ διὰ λόγου θεοῦ καὶ ἐντεύξεως.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 4

2 Nephi 2:9 Wherefore, he is the firstfruits unto God, inasmuch as he shall make intercession for all the children of men; and they that believe in him shall be saved.

2 Nephi 2:10 And because of the intercession for all, all men come unto God; wherefore, they stand in the presence of him, to be judged of him according to the truth and holiness which is in him. Wherefore, the ends of the law which the Holy One hath given, unto the inflicting of the punishment which is affixed, which punishment that is affixed is in opposition to that of the happiness which is affixed, to answer the ends of the atonement—

Mosiah 14:12 Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; because he hath poured out his soul unto death; and he was numbered with the transgressors; and he bore the sins of many, and made intercession for the transgressors. (This verse is taken from Isaiah 53:12. There are only slight differences—here, a “;” after “death” instead of a “:” as in Isaiah, and a bit later, Isaiah has “and he bare the sin of many” instead of “and he bore the sins of many.” This is slightly changed in Yale; see the note at Mosiah 14:12.)

Mosiah 15:8 And thus God breaketh the bands of death, having gained the victory over death; giving the Son power to make intercession for the children of men—

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 0

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- The Son receives “power to make intercession for the children of men” (Mosiah 15:8), apparently when the will of the Son is “swallowed up in the will of the Father” (Mosiah 15:7).
 - In the will being swallowed up, God also thus “breaketh the bands of death, having gained the victory over death” (Mosiah 15:8).

INTEREST

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- Concern; advantage; good; as private interest; public interest
- 1 Influence over others. They had now lost their interest at court.
- 2 Share; portion; part; participation in value. He has parted with his interest in the stocks. He has an interest in a manufactory of cotton goods.
- 3 Regard to private profit.
- 4 Premium paid for the use of money; the profit per cent derived from money lent, or property used by another person, or from debts remaining unpaid. Commercial states have a legal rate of interest. Debts on book bear an interest after the expiration of the credit. Courts allow interest in many cases where it is not stipulated. A higher rate of interest than that which the law allows, is called usury.
- 5 Any surplus advantage.

JEHOVAH

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 6

DC 109:34

DC 109:42

DC 109:56

DC 109:68

DC 110:3

DC 128:9

JOY

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Alma 27:16–19

Alma 28:8

Alma 29:9–10

Alma 29:13–14

Alma 29:16

3 Nephi 27:30–31

3 Nephi 28:10

JUDGE, JUDGMENT

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Romans 2:1–11

2 Corinthians 5:10

Greek New Testament

κρίνω

BDAG 502b

- 1 to make a selection, select, prefer
- 2 to pass judgment upon (and thereby seek to influence) the lives and actions of other people
- 2a judge, pass judgment upon, express an opinion about
- 2b especially pass an unfavorable judgment upon, criticize, find fault with, condemn
- 3 to make a judgment based on taking various factors into account, judge, think, consider, look upon
- 4 to come to a conclusion after a cognitive process, reach a decision, decide, propose, intend
- 5 to engage in a judicial process, judge, decide, hale before a court, condemn, also hand over for judicial punishment
- 5a of a human court
- 5aα active and passive absolute
- 5aβ middle and passive: “dispute, quarrel, debate”
- 5b of the divine tribunal
- 5bα occupied by God or Christ: absolute administer justice, judge
- 5bβ occupied by those who have been divinely commissioned to judge
- 6 to ensure justice for someone, see to it that justice is done

CGL 835a

- The sections of meanings are grouped as: (1–3) separate, distinguish, divide, (4–5) choose, (6–10) determine (especially the outcome of a dispute), (11–18) make a decision or judgment, (19–21) give a legal judgment, (22) interrogate.
- 1 separate (from each other)
- 2 distinguish (from each other)—
- 19 be judge, give judgment
- 20 bring to trial
- 21 pass judgment on, judge—someone (CGL lists the NT uses of the term under this meaning.)

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

Matthew 7:1 Μὴ κρίνετε, ἵνα μὴ κριθῆτε.

κρίσις

See this word at Damnation.

Book of Mormon

3 Nephi 27:23–27

Mormon 3:18–22

Mormon 6:21–22

Mormon 7:5–7

Mormon 9:12–14

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 43:33

DC 58:14–20 • These verses talk about Edward Partridge, a bishop, being a “judge in Israel.” I should check the earlier manuscripts though; I believe it is there.

DC 63:54

DC 75:21

DC 137:7–10

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- In the scriptures, “judgment” can sometimes mean “consequence of the law,” as in 2 Nephi 9:7; it doesn’t have to be a verdict given by a person or God. See also 2 Nephi 9:25 and Alma 42:17–22, especially 22: “Otherwise justice claimeth the creature and executeth the law, and the law inflicteth the punishment” (that is, the punishment occurs in accordance with the law).
 - You can see this meaning of “judgment” as a verdict given by someone in an indirect way, if that person set up or established the law; but this meaning of “judgment” calls attention to the consequence of the law, rather than the giving of the verdict by a judge.
- We are instructed to “judge righteously”
 - DC 11:12;

Potentially related scriptures

- 2 Corinthians 8:11–12—I am not sure whether this is about judging or judgment but verse 12 is interesting.

JUSTIFICATION, JUSTIFY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Justification

- The act of justifying; a showing to be just or conformable to law, rectitude or propriety; vindication; defense. The court listened to the evidence and arguments in justification of the prisoner's conduct. Our disobedience to God's commands admits no justification
- Absolution.
- In law, the showing of a sufficient reason in court why a defendant did what he is called to answer. Pleas in justification must set forth some special matter.
- In theology, remission of sin and absolution from guilt and punishment; or an act of free grace by which God pardons the sinner and accepts him as righteous, on account of the atonement of Christ.

Justify

- To prove or show to be just, or conformable to law, right, justice, propriety or duty; to defend or maintain; to vindicate as right. We cannot justify disobedience or ingratitude to our Maker. We cannot justify insult or incivility to our fellow men. Intemperance, lewdness, profaneness and dueling are in no case to be justified.
- In theology, to pardon and clear from guilt; to absolve or acquit from guilt and merited punishment, and to accept as righteous on account of the merits of the Savior, or by the application of Christ's atonement to the offender.
- To cause another to appear comparatively righteous, or less guilty than one's self.
- To judge rightly of.
- To accept as just and treat with favor.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Justification

Total occurrences in the NT 3

Romans 3

- Various verses in this chapter.

Romans 4:25

Romans 5:16

Romans 5:18

Justify

Total occurrences in the NT 37

Luke 16:15

Galatians 2:16–21

Greek New Testament

δικαίω

BDAG 220b

- 1 to take up a legal cause, show justice, do justice, take up a cause
- 2 to render a favorable verdict, vindicate
 - 2.a as activity of humans justify, vindicate, treat as just
 - 2.b of experience or activity of transcendent figures, especially in relation to humans
 - 2.b.α of wisdom
 - 2.b.β of God be found in the right, be free of charges...Paul, who has influenced later writers...uses the word almost exclusively of God's judgment. As affirmative verdict, Romans 2:13. Especially of persons δικαιούσθαι be acquitted, be pronounced as treated as righteous and thereby become δίκαιος, receive the divine gift of δικαιοσύνη through faith in Christ Jesus and apart from νόμος as a basis for evaluation...since Paul views God's justifying action in close connection with the power of Christ's resurrection, there is sometimes no clear distinction between the justifying action of acquittal and the gift of new life through the Holy Spirit as God's activity in promoting uprightness in believers. Passages of this nature include Romans 3:26, 30, 4:5 (on δικαιούν τὸν ἄσεβῃ compare the warning against accepting δῶρα to arrange acquittal [Exodus 23:7 and Isaiah 5:23]; δικαιούμενοι δωρεάν [Romans 3:24 is therefore all the more pointed); 8:30, 33 (Isaiah 50:8); Galatians 3:8.
- 3 to cause someone to be released from personal or institutional claims that are no longer to be considered pertinent or valid, make freepure... in our literature passive δικαιοῦμαι be set free, made pure ἀπό from...ἀπὸ πάντων ὧν οὐκ ἠδυνήθητε ἐν νόμῳ Μωϋσέως δικαιοθῆναι from everything from which you could not be freed by the law of Moses (Acts 13:38); compare verse 39 ὁ ἀποθανὼν δεδικαίωται ἀπὸ τ. ἁμαρτίας the one who died is freed from sin (Romans 6:7)...In the context of 1 Corinthians 6:11 ἐδικαιώθητε means you have become pure.—In the language of the mystery religions...δικαιοῦσθαι refers to a radical inner change which the initiate experiences...and approaches the sense 'become deified'. Some are inclined to find in 1 Timothy 3:16 a similar use; but see under #4.
- 4 to demonstrate to be morally right, prove to be right, passive of God is proved to be right (Romans 3:4).

Some NT uses

Luke 16:15

δικαίωσις

BDAG 221b

- justification, vindication, acquittal...as a process as well as its result
 - This entry glosses Romans 5:18 as “acquittal that brings life.”

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 98 The words “justification” and “justify” appear a number of times in this section; they seem to have a more strongly legal sense here, as opposed to a theological sense with a legal flavor, than in other places.

KEY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 16:19

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 42:69

DC 90:2–4, 6–7

DC 90:6–7

DC 112:15–17

DC 128:8–18

Commentary and Studies

The “keys of hell and of death” (Revelation 1:18)

Luke 12:5 ὑποδείξω δὲ ὑμῖν τίνα φοβήθητε· φοβήθητε τὸν μετὰ τὸ ἀποκτεῖναι ἔχοντα ἐξουσίαν ἐμβαλεῖν εἰς τὴν γέενναν· ναί, λέγω ὑμῖν, τοῦτον φοβήθητε. (Some being here possesses ἐξουσία to throw someone into hell.)

Revelation 1:18 καὶ ὁ ζῶν— καὶ ἐγενόμην νεκρὸς καὶ ἰδοὺ ζῶν εἰμι εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας τῶν αἰώνων— καὶ ἔχω τὰς κλεῖς τοῦ θανάτου καὶ τοῦ ᾗδου.

KINGDOM

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 42:69

DC 130:9–11

Commentary and Studies

Progress between kingdoms or degrees of glory

DC 19:1–12

DC 29:27–30 • The key here is 29–30—Christ says, I’ve never said they would return, and then he adds, but you don’t know all my judgments.

Joseph Smith, 5 February 1840 I believe that God is Eternal. That he had no beginning and can have no End. Eternity means that which is without beginning or End. I believe that the Soul is Eternal. It had no beginning; it can have no End...He said very little of rewards and punishments. But one conclusion, from what he did say, was irresistible. He contended throughout, that every thing which had a beginning must have an Ending; and consequently, if the punishment of man commences in the next world, it must, according to his logic and belief have an End

Hyrum Smith, 1 August 1843 Those of the Terrestrial Glory either advance to the {e}Celestial or recede to the Telestial else the moon could not be a type “It waxes & wanes”

Brigham Young, 5 August 1855 In conversing upon various principles President Young thought none would inherit this Earth when it became celestial & translated into the presence of God but those who would be Crowned as Gods & able to endure the fulness of the Presence of God ex[cept?] they might be permitted to take with them some servants for whom they would be held responsible. All others would have to inherit another kingdom even that kingdom agreeing with the law which they had kept. Yet He thought they would eventually have the privilege of proving themselves worthy & advanceing to a Celestial kingdom but it would be a slow progress. (WWJ 4:333–334)

Against progression between kingdoms • DC 132:17

KNOWLEDGE, KNOW

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Note that definition #1 here is taken straight from Locke, who defines knowledge in the Essay this way: “the perception of the connexion and agreement, or disagreement and repugnancy of any of our Ideas” (4.1.2; see Yolton’s Locke Dictionary, 109, PDF 59). So the second part of the definition is taken straight from Locke’s Essay without modification. Here is part of Yolton’s discussion in the Dictionary:

Each of the terms in this definition is important for understanding the concept of knowledge with which Locke worked. ‘Perception’ tells us that knowledge is dependent upon one’s awareness. Knowledge does not exist apart from us, waiting to be discovered. We tend to say books contain knowledge, we may speak of the book of knowledge, but what books contain is information (or misinformation). Once we have understood that information, we have acquired some knowledge. Similarly for acquiring knowledge about the world from our observation and experience of objects and events: it is our acquisition of ideas about the world which leads to knowledge. Just having ideas is not sufficient for knowledge; we must perceive ‘the connexion and agreement, or disagreement and repugnancy’ of our ideas. It is the relations of and between ideas, when we are aware of those relations, that constitute our knowledge, our knowing this or that. In some cases, we need the help of demonstration before we can perceive the relations between ideas, e.g., the relation between (the ideas of) any three angles of a triangle, equality, and two right angles. In this example, Locke leaves out the phrase ‘the ideas of, speaking directly of perceiving that the ‘Equality to two right [angles] does necessarily agree to, and is inseparable from the three Angles of a Triangle’. We may wonder what it is that we perceive when we acquire knowledge: do we perceive ideas or figures? (cf. 4.2.2, 3). In other cases, demonstration is not necessary; we perceive immediately and intuitively without help that, e.g., white is not black (4.1.2; 4.2.1). Here, ideas are present in his example: we perceive that the ideas of white and black do not agree (109).

It makes me wonder what other definitions in the 1828 dictionary are taken from Locke or others writers like him.

- 1 A clear and certain perception of that which exists, or of truth and fact; the perception of the connection and agreement, or disagreement and repugnancy of our ideas. We can have no knowledge of that which does not exist. God has a perfect knowledge of all his works. Human knowledge is very limited, and is mostly gained by observation and experience.
- 2 Learning; illumination of mind. Ignorance is the curse of God, knowledge the wing wherewith we fly to heaven.
- 3 Skill; as a knowledge of seamanship.
- 4 Acquaintance with any fact or person. I have no knowledge of the man or thing.
- 5 Cognizance; notice. Ruth 2:10.
- 6 Information; power of knowing.
- 7 Sexual intercourse. But it is usual to prefix carnal; as carnal knowledge.

Restoration Lexicon

- The cognitive faculties of a human being, referred to either before or after the resurrection. 2 Nephi 9:13.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

οἶδα

BDAG 615a

- 1 to have information about, know
- 1.a with accusative of person know someone, know about someone

- 1.b with accusative of thing
- 1.c with accusative of person and participle in place of the predicate...also without a participle
- 1.d followed by accusative and infinitive
- 1.e followed by ὅτι
- 1.f with indirect question following
- 1.g followed by a relative
- 1.h followed by περί τίνος know about something
- 1.i absolute
- 2 be intimately acquainted with or stand in a close relation to, know
- 3 to know/understand how, can, be able with infinitive following
 - James 4:17 is listed as an example of this sense. It also lists Matthew 7:11, Luke 11:13, Luke 12:56, Philippians 4:12, 1 Thessalonians 4:4, 1 Timothy 3:5, and 2 Peter 2:9.
 - The entry notes that Matthew 27:65 is a related sense but is used absolutely.
- 4 to grasp the meaning of something, understand, recognize, come to know, experience
- 5 to remember, recollect, recall, be aware of
- 6 to recognize merit, respect, honor
 - Under this sense the entry lists 1 Thessalonians 5:12 and Ephesians 5:5.

CGL 988b, PDF 1028

- 1 have seen or been made aware (of something); know (transitive or intransitive)
- 2 (specifically) be aware of (an event, circumstance, item of information, from report or one's own observation); know, know about
- 3 be aware (of something) intuitively or through divine revelation; know
- 4 be aware of (someone or something) as existing (especially under a certain name); know of or about
- 5 be familiar with (the nature or character of someone or something) through experience or acquaintance; have experience of, know about, know
- 6 recognise (someone or something) as having authority or requiring obligation; acknowledge
- 7 recognize (something) as very important or certain (frequently imperative); know or understand for sure
- 8 have understanding or insight; (of a person or god, their mind) know
- 9 hold in one's mind (thoughts which are typical of one's character or disposition) think
- 10 have practical knowledge or skill (through study or practice); be skilled in —crafts, songs, prophecies, deeds of war, athletic contests, medicines (Homer, Alcmaeon); be skilled —with genitive in crafts, use of a weapon, a style of fighting, portents, or similar (Homer); (of hounds) —in the hunt; have the skill or knowledge —with infinitive to do or say something; understand —a subject or topic

LSJ 483a, PDF 554 I see with the mind's eye, i.e. I know, used a present: pluperfect, I knew, used as imperfect

- I.1 know, have knowledge of, be acquainted with
- I.2 with infinitive, know how to do...also, to be in a condition, be able, have the power
- I.3 with participle, to know that such and such is the fact, the participle being in nominative when it is a predicate of the Subject of the Verb
- I.4 less frequently with accusative and infinitive
- I.5 with accusative followed by [words for "that"]
- I.6 to express disbelief or doubt
- I.7 in similar ellipses with other Conjunctions
- I.8 sometimes parenthetical

Some NT uses

ἐπιγινώσκω

BDAG 325b

- 1 to have knowledge of something or someone, know
- 1a with the preposition making its influence felt, know exactly, completely, through and through
- 1b with no emphasis on the preposition, essentially = γινώσκω
- 2 to ascertain or gain information about something, with no emphasis on the preposition
- 2a learn, find out
- 2b learn to know
- 2c notice, perceive, learn of, ascertain
- 3 to connect present information or awareness with what was known before, acknowledge acquaintance with,

recognize, know again

4 to indicate that one values the person of another, acknowledge, give recognition to

5 to come to an understanding of, understand, know

CGL 549b, PDF 575

1 understand the identity of, recognise

2 understand the nature or implications of, understand, recognise

3 have knowledge of, be familiar with, understand...know of

4 observe, watch, see...detect, find

5 find out, discover, detect, recognise

6 come to a judgement on, decide on...decide further

LSJ , PDF

•

Some NT uses

Key Phrases

perfect knowledge 20 | Acts 24:22; 2 Nephi 9:13 (2), 14 (2); Jacob 4:12; 7:4; Alma 32:21, 26 (3), 29, 34 (2), 35; 55:1; Ether 3:20; Moroni 7:15, 16, 17

Bible anchor verses

Acts 24:22 Ἀνεβάλετο δὲ αὐτοὺς ὁ Φῆλιξ, ἀκριβέστερον εἰδὼς τὰ περὶ τῆς ὁδοῦ, εἶπας· Ὅταν Λυσίας ὁ χιλιάρχος καταβῇ διαγνώσομαι τὰ καθ' ὑμᾶς·

Commentary I don't think the Acts usage of "perfect knowledge" is very helpful.

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

14 May 1843 WW-a The principl of knowledge is the principle of Salvation the Principle can be comprehended, for any one that cannot get knowledge to be Saved will be damned. The Principl of Salvation is given to us through the knowledge of Jesus Christ Salvation is nothing more or less than to triumph over all our enemies & put them under our feet & when we have power to put all enemies under our feet in this world & a knowledge to triumph over all evil spirits in the world to come then we are saved as in the case of Jesus he was to reign untill he had put all enemies under his feet & the last enemy was death

LANGUAGE

Commentary and Studies

Nephi's use of "language"

here; here; here;

LAW

See also ἀνομία, Priesthood, Covenant (especially the TDOT reference material),

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Luke 16:16–17

Romans 3

Romans 4

- There's really material throughout Romans on this, clearly.

Romans 7–8

Romans 10:1–10

Romans 13:8–10

1 Corinthians 15:56 The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law.

Greek New Testament

ἀνόμως

BDAG 75a

- without participation in an organized legal system, lawlessly
 - This entry glosses Romans 2:12 as “those who sin without law will also be lost without law, i.e. those who sin without awareness of the Mosaic law (expressed from the vantage point of Israel’s chosen status) will also perish without reference to it.”
 - See also Romans 7:9.

LSJ, PDF

•

Total occurrences in the NT 2

Some NT uses

Romans 2:12 (2)

Book of Mormon

2 Nephi 9:17

Alma 42

- Not every verse talks about laws, but the entire thing is important.

Helaman 6:24

- Gives you an idea of what consequence-based laws for agents would be like in a system of law.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 194

DC 20:20 But by the transgression of these holy laws man became sensual and devilish, and became fallen man.

DC 29:34 Wherefore, verily I say unto you that all things unto me are spiritual, and not at any time have I given unto you a law which was temporal; neither any man, nor the children of men; neither Adam, your father, whom I created.

DC 38:21–22

DC 38:32

DC 41:3–5

DC 41:10

DC 42

- Notice verse 2 of this section—Christ delivers a specific law to them and tells them to obey. In this “law” stuff with the DC I keep thinking of 2 Nephi 32:6. See DC 42:13 for example.)
- Verse 87

DC 43:8–9

- Make sure to note the JSP versions, which are different.

DC 44:4–6

DC 45:54

DC 51

- This section talks a lot about “laws” and the people organizing themselves according to the laws; it means specifically something like consecration.

DC 58:17–23

DC 64:12–13

DC 68:14–21

- Notice the “legal right” stuff in talking about the priesthood; notice also that a lot of this was not in the original version of this revelation.
- Verses 16 and 20 are particularly important for thinking about laws.

DC 70:8

DC 82:3–4

DC 98:4–8

DC 98:32–33

DC 101:77–78

DC 102:4

DC 105:4–5

DC 130:20–21

DC 132:5

DC 132

- Lots of stuff in this section relevant to the priesthood and laws; too much to discuss here, at least for now.

Key Phrases

law of Christ 7 | Romans 8:2; 1 Corinthians 9:21; Galatians 6:2; 2 Nephi 25:27; 26:1; DC 88:21; DC 132:24

Bible anchor verses

Galatians 6:2 ἀλλήλων τὰ βάρη βαστάζετε, καὶ οὕτως ἀναπληρώσετε τὸν νόμον τοῦ Χριστοῦ.

Commentary See below.

law of death

law of faith Bible anchor verses

Romans 3:27

law of the gospel See here.

law of heaven 1 | DC 102:4

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary See also DC 130:20.

law of sin

spiritual law 4 | Romans 7:14; 8:2; 2 Nephi 2:5; DC 29:34

Bible anchor verses

Romans 7:14 Οἶδαμεν γὰρ ὅτι ὁ νόμος πνευματικός ἐστίν· ἐγὼ δὲ σάρκινός εἰμι, πεπραμένος ὑπὸ τὴν ἁμαρτίαν.

Romans 8:2 ὁ γὰρ νόμος τοῦ πνεύματος τῆς ζωῆς ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ ἠλευθέρωσέν σε ἀπὸ τοῦ νόμου τῆς ἁμαρτίας καὶ τοῦ θανάτου.

temporal law 2 | 2 Nephi 2:5; DC 29:34

Restoration Usage

Brigham Young

8 October 1865 and now I don't wish to be at the trouble of quoting scripture passage after passage but suffice it to say when the celestial law is upon the earth the people believe that law and abide it they will be prepared and that law prepares them to inherit celestial glory in the presence of the Father and the Son who else will inherit it none of all the posterity of Adam upon the earth ever has been or ever will be none except those to whom the law of celestial kingdom is delivered and they that abide it can saved there in they will be crowned with glory immortality and eternal lives now we differ a little from the Christian world with regard to this what will we say of them are they going to be thrust into hell yes will they dwell there forever and forever they will dwell somewhere unless they sin against the Holy Ghost will they become angels to the devil no they will not except they sin against the Holy Ghost will they reap the reward of those that do sin against the Holy Ghost no what will become of the inhabitants of the earth that have and now live all they that don't sin against the Holy Ghost will be saved in a kingdom somewhere and they fare better than ever imagined and Father Wesley get a greater glory [than] ever entered into his heart but [when/one/won't?] go where the Father and Son are and so it will be with others if the celestial law been in possession of John Wesley and reformers and they had abided the law of the celestial kingdom they would have become heirs to it otherwise they [can't?]

Commentary and Studies

The "law of Christ"

See also BY, 6 October 1867: "let that pure holy divine influence that is born in the heavens begotten of the Father given to the tabernacle placed within it let it rule prominent control until this sinful man is perfectly subdued and brought under subjection to the law of Christ"; and the endowment ceremony, where Lucifer says, "By what authority?" and Peter responds, "In the name of Jesus Christ, our Master." There is some relationship between the priesthood, Christ, and the law of Christ.

See also BY, 19 June 1859: "if people would hearken to the whispering of that spirit they would be led in the paths of truth and righteousness if they would overcome the temptations of evil that is sin not in the spirit but in the flesh and let the spirit overcome the flesh this would bring into subjections the whole man to the law of Christ and make the children of man saints...we wish to see the kingdom of God and its fullness on the earth whose eyes do behold it will see a kingdom of purity a kingdom of holiness a people that is filled with the power of the upper world the power of God and sin will be overcome and this independent organization to mankind will be brought into subjection to that law we call it the law of Christ in [word/heart?] day [by] day it is the law of eternal life when we speak of law of Christ it is the pure and holy law that is calculated to keep matter in its organization go on the other hand you read of the first and second death what will be the result we witness it day by day the dissolution of the body but there is a second death still the other law [of the] gospel this law that is called the law of Christ the law of eternal lives that is set forth in Bible and Book of Mormon and all the revelations God gave to days of Adam until now let any man or people [follow?] out these laws it pertains to life it will not save their bodies from death that is the decree of Almighty but they will be made pure and holy and brought in celestial kingdom by this body being made pure by falling back to dust."

The BY quote above, from 8 October 1865.

See:

- John 5:26
- Romans 8:2
- Galatians 6:2
- Ephesians 4:6–16
 - And the stuff after this is about the new birth, so there's clearly a relationship here. We're supposed to grow up to becoming like Christ.
- 2 Nephi 9:5—is it part of the law of Christ that he has to allow himself to be subject to man, so that others will be subject to him? See also 3 Nephi 27:14 for a related idea.
- 2 Nephi 26:1
 - See also 3 Nephi 18:14 and probably other related verses.
- 2 Nephi 32:6 (and 2 Nephi 26:1)
- 3 Nephi 11

- Starting around 31. I would say, see if you can make a connection between the law of Christ and the “doctrine” of Christ, as explained here and at 2 Nephi 31 and in other places. Maybe also connect to definitions of the gospel.
 - Also 3 Nephi 12:19–20?
- 3 Nephi 15:9–10
- DC 88:5–13
- DC 105:4–5
- DC 107:3
- DC 132:24

LEST

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- That not; for fear that.
- Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. Genesis 3:3.
 - The phrase may be thus explained. Ye shall not touch it; that separated or dismissed, ye die. That here refers to the preceding command or sentence; that being removed or not observed, the fact being not so, ye will die.
- Sin no more, lest a worse thing come to thee. John 5:14.
 - Sin no more; that fact not taking place, a worse thing will happen to thee.

LIFE, LIVE

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

John 5:26

Greek New Testament

ζάω

BDAG 375a

- 1 to be alive physically, live
- 1a of physical life in contrast to death
- 1aα generally
- 1aβ of dead persons who return to life become alive again
- 1aγ of sick persons, if their illness terminates not in death but in recovery be well, recover
- 1aδ also of healthy persons, live on, remain alive
- 1aε of beings that in reality, or as they are portrayed, are not subject to death
- 1b with mention of that upon which life depends
- 1c with more precise mention of the sphere
 - 2 to live in a transcendent sense, live, of the sanctified life of a child of God
- 2a in the world
- 2b in the glory of the life to come
- 2bβ more specifically εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα have eternal life
 - 3 to conduct oneself in a pattern of behavior, live
 - 3a used with adverbs or other modifiers
 - 3b live for someone or something, for the other's benefit
 - 4 to be full of vitality, be lively
 - 5 to be life-productive, offer life participle used with respect to things

CGL , PDF

•

LSJ , PDF

•

Some NT uses

John 4:10

ψυχή

Some NT uses

Matthew 10:39

BDAG 979a It is oft. impossible to draw hard and fast lines in the use of this multivalent word. Generally it is used in reference to dematerialized existence or being, but, apart from other data, the fact that ψυχή is also a dog's name suggests that the primary component is not metaphysical...Without ψυχή a being, whether human or animal, consists merely of flesh and bones and without functioning capability. Speculations and views respecting the fortunes of ψυχή and its relation to the body find varied expression in our literature.

1 life on earth in its animating aspect making bodily function possible

- 1.a (breath of) life, life-principle, soul...when it leaves the body death occurs Luke 12:20...The soul is delivered up to death (the pass. in reference to divine initiative), i.e. into a condition in which it no longer makes contact with the physical structure it inhabited 1 Cl 16:13 (Is 53:12), whereupon it leaves the realm of earth and lives on in Hades...Ac. 2:27 (Ps 15:10), 31 v.l. or some other place outside the earth Revelation 6:9; 20:4

1.b the condition of being alive, earthly life, life itself

1.c by metonymy, that which possesses life/soul

2 seat and center of the inner human life in its many and varied aspects, soul

2.a of the desire for luxurious living...the soul as the seat of enjoyment of the good things in life...

2.b of evil desires

2.c of feelings and emotions

2.d as the seat and center of life that transcends the earthly...Opp. Tat. 13, 1, who argues the state of the ψυχή before the final judgment and states that it is not immortal per se but experiences the fate of the body οὐκ ἔστιν ἀθάνατος. As such it can receive divine salvation σώζου σὺ καὶ ἡ ψυχή σου be saved, you and your soul...Humans cannot injure it, but God can hand it over to destruction Matthew 10:28ab...There is nothing more precious than ψυχή in this sense Mt 16:26b; Mk 8:37. It stands in contrast to σῶμα, in so far as that is σάρξ...

2.e Since the soul is the center of both the earthly (1a) and the transcendent (2d) life, pers. can find themselves facing the question concerning the wish to ensure it for themselves...The contrast betw. τὴν ψυχὴν εὐρεῖν and ἀπολέσαι is found in Mt 10:39ab...

2.f On the combination of ψυχή and πνεῦμα in 1Th 5:23; Hb 4:12...

2.g In var. Semitic languages the reflexive relationship is paraphrased with שָׁפַךְ...the corresp. use of ψυχή may be detected in certain passages in our lit., esp. in quotes. fr. the OT and in places where OT modes of expr. have had considerable influence...

3 an entity with personhood, person

TDNTA PDF 1221–1230

•

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 66:2

LIGHT

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

λύχνος

BDAG 537b

- lamp (of metal or clay)
 - a literally Lk 11:36...light of a lamp Rv 22:5...The believers are to pay attention to the prophetic word ὥς λύχνα φαίνοντι 2 Pt 1:19
 - b as metaphorical ὁ λ. τοῦ σώματος ἐστὶν ὁ ὀφθαλμός the lamp of the body is the eye Mt 6:22; Lk 11:34

φῶς

BDAG 954a

- 1 light in contrast to darkness, light
 - 1a in the physical realm
 - 1b in a transcendent sense
- 1bα the passages in the central portion of 1a above show that light is the element and sphere of the divine
- 1bβ light, that illuminates the spirit and soul of humans
- 1bγ bearers or bringers of this kind of light
- 1bδ by metonymy, one who is illuminated or filled with such light, or who stands in it
 - 2 that which gives/bears light, torch, lamp, lantern, etc.
 - 3 that which is illuminated by light (The only verse listed under this definition is Ephesians 5:14.)

Some NT uses

John 3:19–21

φωτίζω

BDAG 955b

- 1 intransitive, to function as a source of light, shine
- 2 transitive, to cause to be illuminated, give light to, light (up), illuminate
- 3 transitive, to make known in reference to the inner life or transcendent matters and thus enlighten, enlighten, give light to, shed light upon
 - 3a in imagery of the heavenly light that is granted the “enlightened one”
 - 3b bring to light, reveal something

Key Phrases

Father of lights 2 | James 1:17; DC 67:9

Bible anchor verses

James 1:17

Commentary Compare Ether 4:12?

light and life 22 | Psalms 36:9; Proverbs 16:15; John 1:4; John 8:12; Mosiah 16:9; Alma 19:6; Alma 26:36; Alma 28:14; Alma 38:9; 3 Nephi 9:18; 3 Nephi 11:11; 3 Nephi 15:9; Ether 4:12; DC 10:70; DC 11:28; DC 12:9; DC 34:2; DC 39:2; DC 45:7; DC 50:27; DC 88:13; DC 93:9

light of Christ 4 | Alma 28:14, Moroni 7:18, Moroni 7:19, DC 88:7

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary See this study below.
light and truth For this phrase, see Truth.
light of truth For this phrase, see Truth.

Commentary and Studies

The “light of Christ” (and “spirit of Christ”)

Some points:

- The “light of Christ” is somewhat equated with the “Spirit of Christ” in Moroni 7:16 and Moroni 7:18–19. Note especially that verse 16 says that we get the spirit of Christ that we “may know good from evil,” and verse 19 says we should “search diligently in the light of Christ that [we] may know good from evil.”
 - See the occurrences of “Spirit of Christ.”
- See DC 29:30 and 31 and notes there, and DC 88:7–13.
 - More evidence, though somewhat indirect, that the “light of Christ” and the “spirit of Christ” are the same thing—again just different terms used to call attention to different aspects of its function or different ways we experience it.
 - It is some kind of power or force—note places like 2 Nephi 2:8 which connect this with particular things Christ did—see also DC 33:16, DC 76:12, and DC 76:116 and 118.
- See the “law of the spirit of life” at Romans 8:2? Reminds me of the beginning of DC 88.

LIKEN

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- To compare; to represent as resembling or similar.

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1a intransitive. With to (also till). To resemble, be like; (also) to become like. Obsolete.
- 1b transitive. To symbolize, represent. rare.
- 2a transitive. To regard or represent as similar to; to compare. Also with into, unto, with, and in to liken together.
- 2b transitive. To make analogies (esp. derogatory analogies) about (a person). Obsolete. rare.
- 2c transitive. To represent or depict as (being or doing something). With infinitive. Obsolete.
- 2d transitive. To associate (a person) with (another person or thing) by repute (esp. in the context of an illicit relationship).
Chiefly in passive with to or to be. Obsolete (Scottish in later use).
- 3 transitive. To make like. Also reflexive (usually with to): to make oneself resemble. Somewhat rare.

Commentary and Studies

What does it mean to “liken” the scriptures “unto us”?

LIST (VERB)

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Intransitive verb

- Properly, to lean or incline; to be propense; hence, to desire or choose.

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 7

Mosiah 2:32

Mosiah 2:33 (2)

Mosiah 2:37

Alma 3:26

Alma 3:27

Alma 26:6

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 3

DC 29:45

DC 49:6

DC 98:21

LIVELY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

1 Brisk; vigorous; vivacious; active

2 Gay; airy.

3 Representing life; as a lively imitation of nature.

4 Animated; spirited; as a lively strain of eloquence; a lively description.

5 Strong; energetic; as a lively faith or hope; a lively persuasion.

LOVE

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 95:12 If you keep not my commandments, the love of the Father shall not continue with you, therefore you shall walk in darkness.

- This is a verse that you could use to talk about the idea of unconditional love, or the lack of it, as I think President Nelson did years ago when he was an apostle. See my notes there.

Commentary and Studies

On the commandment to “love one another”

Augustine, DDC I:40–43

(See also I:67–69.)

It is therefore an important question, whether humans should enjoy one another or use one another, or both. We have been commanded to love one another, but the question is whether one person should be loved by another on his own account or for some other reason. If on his own account, we enjoy him; if for another reason, we use him. In my opinion, he should be loved for another reason. For if something is to be loved on its own account, it is made to constitute the happy life, even if it is not as yet the reality but the hope of it which consoles us at this time. But ‘cursed is he who puts his hope in a man’. 41. Neither should a person enjoy himself, if you think closely about this, because he should not love himself on his own account, but only on account of the one who is to be enjoyed. A person is at his best when in his whole life he strives towards the unchangeable form of life and holds fast to it wholeheartedly. But if he loves himself on his own account, he does not relate himself to God, but turns to himself and not to something unchangeable. And for this reason it is with a certain insufficiency that he enjoys himself, because when totally absorbed and controlled by the unchangeable good he is a better man than when his attention leaves it, even if it turns to himself. 42. So if you ought to love yourself not on your own account but on account of the one who is the most proper object of your love, another person should not be angry if you love him too on account of God. For the divinely established rule of love says ‘you shall love your neighbour as yourself’ but God ‘with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind’, so that you may devote all your thoughts and all your life and all your understanding to the one from whom you actually receive the things that you devote to him. 43. And when it says ‘all your heart, all your soul, all your mind’, it leaves no part of our life free from this obligation, no part free as it were to back out and enjoy some other thing; any other object of love that enters the mind should be swept towards the same goal as that to which the whole flood of our love is directed. So a person who loves his neighbour properly should, in concert with him, aim to love God with all his heart, all his soul, and all his mind. In this way, loving him as he would himself, he relates his love of himself and his neighbour entirely to the love of God, which allows not the slightest trickle to flow away from it and thereby diminish it.

LOWLINESS

See also

Humility, Meekness,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Lowliness

- 1 Freedom from pride; humility; humbleness of mind.
- 2 Meanness; want of dignity; abject state. [In this sense Little Used.]

Lowly

- 1 Having a low esteem of one's own worth; humble; meek; free from pride.
- 2 Mean; low; wanting dignity or rank.
- 3 Not lofty or sublime; humble.
- 4 Not high; not elevated in place.

Key Phrases

meek and lowly See this phrase at Meekness.

LUST

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ἐπιθυμέω

BDAG 327b

- 1 to have a strong desire to do or secure something, desire, long for with genitive of the thing desired
- 2 to have sexual interest in someone, desire, with accusative of person

LSJ 636b, PDF 705

- set one's heart upon a thing, long for, covet, desire, with genitive of the thing...also with genitive of person...later with accusative of person

Some NT uses

Matthew 5:28 ἐγὼ δὲ λέγω ὑμῖν ὅτι πᾶς ὁ βλέπων γυναῖκα πρὸς τὸ ἐπιθυμῆσαι αὐτήν ἤδη ἐμοίχευσεν αὐτήν ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ αὐτοῦ.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 63:16

LUSTER

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Brightness; splendor; gloss; as the luster of the sun or stars; the luster of silk.
- 2 The splendor of birth, of deeds or of fame; renown; distinction.
- 3 A sconce with lights; a branched candlestick of glass.
- 4 The space of five years. [Latin lustrum.]

MAGNIFY

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 6

Thinking of objects for the verb “magnify” here, Acts 19 has “name,” and Romans 11 has “office.”

Luke 1:46

Acts 5:13

Acts 10:46

Acts 19:17

Romans 11:13

Philippians 1:20

Greek New Testament

δοξάζω

BDAG 228b

- 1 to influence one’s opinion about another so as to enhance the latter’s reputation, praise, honor, extol
 - In discussion of this entry, they gloss Romans 11:13 as I take pride in my ministry or I take my assignment seriously.
- 2 to cause to have splendid greatness, clothe in splendor, glorify, of the glory that comes in the next life...it is a favorite term in John..., in which the whole life of Jesus is depicted as a glorifying of the Son by the Father: John 8:54; 12:28; 13:31; 17:1, 4...and, at the same time, of the Father by the Son: 13:31f; 14:13; 17:1. The glorifying of the Son is brought about by the miracles which the Father has him perform (11:4)...through the working of the Paraclete (16:14) and through ‘his own’ (17:10), who also glorify the Father (15:8), esp. in martyrdom (21:19).
 - This entry later glosses Hebrews 5:5 as he did not presume for himself the prestige of the high priesthood.

Some NT uses

Romans 11:13 Ὑμῖν δὲ λέγω τοῖς ἔθνεσιν. ἐφ’ ὅσον μὲν οὖν εἰμι ἐγὼ ἐθνῶν ἀπόστολος, τὴν διακονίαν μου δοξάζω, μεγαλύνω

BDAG 552b

- 1 cause to be large, of either physical or nonphysical entities, make largellong, make great
- 2 to cause to be held in greater esteem through praise or deeds, exalt, glorify, magnify, speak highly of

Some NT uses

Luke 1:46

Acts 5:13

Acts 10:46

Acts 19:17

Philippians 1:20

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 5

Of these five uses, one has the reflexive object of a “saw” (2 Nephi 20:15; see Isaiah 10:15); one has an object of a “name” (2 Nephi 25:13); two have “office” (the Jacob uses); and one has “these things which ye shall write” (Ether).

2 Nephi 20:15

2 Nephi 25:13

Jacob 1:19

Jacob 2:2

Ether 3:24

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 6

Of those six uses, there are three total objects: an “office” (the first three uses), a “calling” (the ones in 84 and 88), and God’s “name” (132).

DC 24:3

DC 24:9

DC 66:11

DC 84:33

DC 88:80

DC 132:64

MANIFEST

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Verb

- 1 To reveal; to make to appear; to show plainly; to make public; to disclose to the eye or to the understanding.
- 2 To display; to exhibit more clearly to the view.

Adjective

- 1 Plain, open, clearly visible to the eye or obvious to the understanding; apparent; not obscure or difficult to be seen or understood. From the testimony, the truth we conceive to be manifest.
- 2 Detected; with of.

Oxford English Dictionary

Verb

- 1.a To make (a quality, fact, etc.) evident to the eye or to the understanding; to show plainly, disclose, reveal.
- 1.b Of a thing: to be evidence of, prove, attest.
- 1.c With clause as object, or with object and infinitive or complement.
- 2.a To display (a quality, condition, feeling, etc.) by action or behaviour; to give evidence of possessing, reveal the presence of, evince.
- 2.b (reflexive or in passive). To be seen to be, or reveal itself as existing or operative.
 - 3 To expound, unfold, clear up (a matter), as in a manifesto or public declaration. Obsolete.
 - 4 Chiefly Nautical. To record or enumerate in a manifest. Frequently in passive.
 - 5 In Spanish law: to protect (a person) by a 'manifestation'. Obsolete, rare.
 - 6 Originally Spiritualism. Of a ghost or spirit: to reveal its presence, make an appearance.
 - 7 = "Demonstrate" (verb, meaning #7). (This is the sense of "demonstrate" that means to show out in support of cause, like "The picketers were demonstrating in front of the building.")

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- The past participle of "manifest" is "manifested," not "manifest"; see below.

"Manifest" as adjective in DC 84:20–21

MEEKNESS, MEEK

See also

Humility, Lowliness,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Meek

- 1 Mild of temper; soft; gentle; not easily provoked or irritated; yielding; given to forbearance under injuries.
- 2 Appropriately, humble, in an evangelical sense; submissive to the divine will; not proud, self-sufficient or refractory; not peevish and apt to complain of divine dispensations. Christ says, 'Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest to your souls.' Matthew 11:29.

Meekness

- Softness of temper; mildness; gentleness; forbearance under injuries and provocations.
- 1 In an evangelical sense, humility; resignation; submission to the divine will, without murmuring or peevishness; opposed to pride, arrogance and refractoriness. Galatians 5:23.
- I beseech you by the meekness of Christ. 1 Corinthians 10:1.
- Meekness is a grace which Jesus alone inculcated, and which no ancient philosopher seems to have understood or recommended.

Oxford English Dictionary

Meek

The “A” definitions are for “meek” as an adjective; the “B” definition is for the word as a noun.

- A.1 Gentle, courteous, kind. Of a social superior: merciful, compassionate, indulgent. Obsolete.
- The last entry given here is one from Shakespeare in 1616, so this is an old use, but one that helps us understand its roots.
- A.2 Humble, submissive; frequently collocated with mild.
- A.2.a Not proud or self-willed; piously humble; patient and unresentful under injury or reproach; (esp. of a woman) demure, quiet. Frequently connoting the gentleness (esp. towards the weak, the humble, and the poor) consonant with a Christian virtue; cf. post-classical Latin mansuetus (Vulgate), Hellenistic Greek πραῦς (New Testament). Use of meek as a noun is predominantly in this sense: see branch B. The distinction between this and sense A. 2b is not always clear, since more or less similar qualities of meekness have often been regarded as laudable in certain contexts (as in Christian humility, or, formerly, in women's or servants' characters) but as weak or effeminate in others.
- A.2.b Humble, submissive (occasionally with to). Esp. (depreciative): inclined to submit tamely to oppression or injury, easily imposed upon or cowed, timid, biddable.
- A.2.c In extended use, esp. of flowers: not obtrusively conspicuous, unassuming, modest.
- A.3 Of an animal: tame, domesticated, docile; not fierce. (In early use esp. common in Scottish)
- A.4 Of an object, substance, the weather, etc.: weak, lacking strength or violence; mild, gentle, soft, light; †supple, pliant (obsolete).
- A.5 Proverbial phrases (chiefly in senses A. 1 and A. 2), as as meek as a lamb (also a maid, etc.), as meek as Moses, etc.
- B With plural agreement. Now usually with the: meek people as a class. Frequently with allusion (sometimes ironic) to Matthew 5:5.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

πραῦς

BDAG 764a

- pertaining to not being overly impressed by a sense of one's self-importance, gentle, humble, considerate, meek in the older favorable sense (cp. OED s.v. 1b; Pind., P. 3, 71 describes the ruler of Syracuse as one who is π. to his citizens, apparently the rank and file [Gildersleeve]), unassuming
 - “OED 1b” here seems to refer to OED #A.1 or #A.2.a above, I’m not sure.

LSJ, PDF

I mild, soft, gentle

I.1 of things

I.2 of persons, mild, gentle, meek

I.3 of actions, feelings, etc., mild

II making mild, taming

III Adverb πράως, mildly, gently

TDNT ...The adv. πραῦς is often used for the quiet and friendly composure which does not become embittered or angry at what is unpleasant, whether in the form of people (Epict. Ench., 42) or fate. This is an active attitude and deliberate acceptance, not just a passive submission, cf. Epict. Diss., III, 10, 6: ἂν ἔτι ἐγὼ παρασκευάσωμαι πρὸς τὸ πράως φέρειν τὰ συμβαίνοντα, ὃ θέλει γινέσθω IV, 7, 12...

- Enchiridion 42: “Whenever anyone does you wrong or speaks ill of you, remember that he acts and speaks as he does because he thinks it’s appropriate for him. He can only conform to his own views, not to yours. So if his views are wrong, he’s the one who’s harmed, because he’s also been deceived. If someone takes a true conjunctive statement to be false, it’s not the conjunctive statement that has been harmed but the person who’s mistaken. If your inclinations to act are based on these principles, you’ll be gentler with anyone who maligns you [ὀρώμενος πράως ἔξεις πρὸς τὸν λοιδοροῦντα], because whenever that happens you’ll tell yourself: ‘That’s what he thought it best to do.’”
- Discourses III.10.6: “What is it to do philosophy? Isn’t it to prepare oneself for whatever happens? Don’t you see, then, that what you’re saying amounts to: ‘It’s out of my hands whether or not I ever again prepare myself to calmly accept whatever happens [πρὸς τὸ πράως φέρειν τὰ συμβαίνοντα]’? This is no different from someone giving up the pancratium because he keeps being hit!”
- Discourses IV.7.12: “If someone understands all this, is there anything that could stop him living in a carefree and relaxed way, calmly consenting to everything that might happen to him [πάντα τὰ συμβαίνειν δυνάμενα πράως ἐκδεχόμενον] and accepting what has already happened?”

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 97:2

Key Phrases

meek and lowly 12 | Matthew 11:29; Ephesians 4:2; Alma 37:33; Alma 37:34; Moroni 7:43; Moroni 7:44 (2); Moroni 8:26 (2); DC 32:1; DC 107:30; DC 118:3

Bible anchor verses

Matthew 11:29 ἄρατε τὸν ζυγὸν μου ἐφ’ ὑμᾶς καὶ μάθετε ἀπ’ ἐμοῦ, ὅτι πραῦς εἰμι καὶ ταπεινὸς τῇ καρδίᾳ, καὶ εὐρήσετε ἀνάπαυσιν ταῖς ψυχαῖς ὑμῶν·

Ephesians 4:2 μετὰ πάσης ταπεινοφροσύνης καὶ πραύτητος, μετὰ μακροθυμίας, ἀνεχόμενοι ἀλλήλων ἐν ἀγάπῃ,

Commentary —

MELCHIZEDEK

MEMBER

Commentary and Studies

“Member” as an office in the priesthood

See JS speaking of Sidney Rigdon in this letter; here; also here; here; here; here; here; here; DC 107, near the beginning; DC 20:38; DC 38:40; possibly DC 72:24; DC 102:5;

See also (these are from the old concepts doc):

DC 42:70

DC 58:60

DC 107:10 High priests after the order of the Melchizedek Priesthood have a right to officiate in their own standing, under the direction of the presidency, in administering spiritual things, and also in the office of an elder, priest (of the Levitical order), teacher, deacon, and member.

CDBY 61 The kingdom is first organized with putting a head to it then the various members belonging to the body. First Joseph, then the twelve, then the high priests, then the seventy and elder, then the lesser priesthood, then the teachers, then the deacons, then the members. This fills the whole body, and if we take any of these offices away the body has a vacancy, or a chasm is in the body.

WWJ 5:55–56 Brigham Young Said Joseph taught that when a womans affections was entirly weaned from her husband that was Adultery in spirit. Her Affections were Adulterated from his. He also said that there was No law in Heaven or on Earth that would Compel a woman to stay with a man either in time or Eternity. This I think is true (but I do not know) that if a man that is a High priest takes a woman & she leaves him & goes to one of a lesser office say the Lesser priesthood or member I think in the resurrection that that High Priest Can Claim her. “Joseph. What if she should not want to go with him? I should not want a woman under those Circumstances. Brigham. I will tell you what you will find. That all those evil traditions & affections or passions that Haunt the mind in this life will all be done away in the resurrection. You will find then that any man who gets a glory & exaltation will be so beautiful that any woman will be willing to have him if it was right & wharever it is right for the woman to go there she will be willing to go for all those evils will vanish to which we are subject in this life.

MERCY

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

Hebrew Bible

חֶסֶד

HALOT 336b, PDF 393

- 1 joint obligation between relatives, friends, host and guest, mater and servant; closeness, solidarity, loyalty
- 1.a חֶסֶד and בְּרִית; בְּרִית comes about by a ceremony חֶסֶד results from the closer relationship between two people, the obligations are largely the same...lasting loyalty, faithfulness
- 1.b חֶסֶד exists between a son and a dying father Gen 47:29, a wife and a husband Gn 20:13, relatives Ru 2:20...[and others]
- 2 חֶסֶד in God's relationship with the people or an individual, faithfulness, goodness, graciousness
- 2.a חֶסֶד יְהוָה
- 2.b חֶסֶד עָשָׂה to show faithfulness...
- 3 plural חֲסִדִּים, חֲסִדִּי etc. the individual actions resulting from solidarity
- 3.a (of people) godly action, achievements
- 3.b (God's) proofs of mercy

BDB 338b, PDF 357

- goodness, kindness
- I of man
- I.1 kindness of men towards men, in doing favours and benefits
- I.2 kindness (especially as extended to the lowly, needy and miserable), mercy
- I.3 (rarely) affection of Israel to יְהוָה, love to God, piety
- I.4 lovely appearance
- II of God: kindness, lovingkindness in condescending to the needs of his creatures. He is חֲסִדִּים [or] their goodness, favour Jon 2:9...
- II.1 specifically lovingkindness
- II.1.a in redemption from enemies and troubles
- II.1.b in preservation of life from death
- II.1.c in quickening of spiritual life
- II.1.d in redemption from sin
- II.1.e in keeping the covenants
- II.2 חֶסֶד is grouped with other divine attributes: חֶסֶד ואֱמֶת kindness (loving-kindness) and fidelity Gn 24:27...
- II.3 the kindness of God is
- II.3.a abundant: רַב־חֶסֶד abundant, plenteous in kindness (goodness)...it is kept for thousands Ex 34:7...for 1000 generations Dt 7:9...
- II.3.b great in extent
- II.3.c everlasting
- II.3.d good
- II.4 plural mercies, deeds of kindness, the historic displays of loving-kindness to Israel

DCH PDF 1412

- loyalty—loyalty, faithfulness, kindness, love, mercy, plural mercies, (deeds of) kindness, of Y. to humans...of humans to Y...between humans...of things.

TDOT (See my annotated PDF here.)

TLOT

PDF 596 The word חֶסֶד...is only insufficiently rendered by the Eng. term "kindness."

PDF 598, 600 According to Glueck, חֶסֶד does not refer to a spontaneous, ultimately unmotivated kindness, but to a mode of behavior that arises from a relationship defined by rights and obligations (husband-wife, parent-child, prince-subjects). When חֶסֶד is attributed to God, it concerns the realization of the promises inherent in the covenant.

When חֶסֶד does assume connotations of kindness, it is the result of a secondary assimilation to רַחֲמִים...Furthermore, this view means that the formulation חֶסֶד וְאֱמֶת should be construed as a hendiadys...To the extent, then, that one can speak of a blurring of the linguistic boundaries between חֶסֶד and רַחֲמִים, it seems to have resulted in more of a limitation than an expansion of meaning.

PDF 601 The observations offered to this point concerning the occurrence of the term, its development and delimitation, and elucidating supplementations of it allow the conclusion, for the present still indefinite, that חֶסֶד means some special reciprocal behavior, something that exceeds the matter of course. This conclusion may be demonstrated and substantively illustrated in detail by a survey of passages, esp. in narrative literature, in which חֶסֶד is exercised in the interpersonal realm.

PDF 604 It is not possible to convey precisely חֶסֶד's semantic range as encountered in profane usage with one Eng. word. חֶסֶד is not "grace," and the often suggested "favor" is insufficient. First, חֶסֶד occurs tangibly in concrete situations and at the same time transcends the individual demonstration and envisions the actor. In this regard, the term exhibits affinities with Eng. "kindness," and with "goodness" as well (see 3c). חֶסֶד does occur in relation to particular social forms; its configuration may even be governed by them, but it is never the obvious, the obligatory. It is a human demeanor that alone can fill a form with life and is in some cases (not always) the very requirement for the birth of a community. Jepsen (op. cit. 269) attempted to describe the intention as good will that becomes good deed. This notion is certainly included but is alone insufficient. I suggest an expression for magnanimity, for a sacrificial, humane willingness to be there for the other (Stoebe, diss. 67; id., VT 2 [1952]: 248). It is a given that חֶסֶד always has to do in some way with the life of the other, and that one expects and hopes from the recipient of such חֶסֶד a similar willingness that in turn surpasses the obligatory.

PDF 607–608 Concerning the question of the reciprocity of חֶסֶד, one should first of all refer to Hos 10:12: "Sow righteousness and harvest חֶסֶד." צִדְקָה and חֶסֶד will be given by God, on the one hand, and are, on the other, to be actualized by people, so that God's חֶסֶד is both requirement and example of the proper human attitude toward him...

Hos 12:7 belongs here too. The demand "practice חֶסֶד and justice" is included in a call to return to God and should be understood in this context. Although the emphasis here seems to lie more pronouncedly on the behavior of people toward each other, the two are still not to be strictly distinguished. Hos 6:6 also demonstrates this duality in its juxtaposition of חֶסֶד and sacrifice (cf. 1 Sam 15:22). The alternative of חֶסֶד toward God or only among people is falsely posed because, for the OT, both belong together. That חֶסֶד and the sacrificial cult are so juxtaposed should be understood against the background of the fact that sacrifice need not exclude human devotion, but that it can also be understood as a duty with necessary consequences for behavior toward others too (cf. Amos 8:4–6).

Esp. interesting in this respect is Hos 4:1. The reversal of the sequence in which the terms from 2:21f. appear in the demand directed at people is intentional: they form a descending climax. Yahweh contends on his own behalf: if the people have no constancy, they should at least have חֶסֶד devotion; if this, too, is lacking, they should at least have an awareness of what Yahweh has done and given. Hos 6:4 illustrates that these thoughts are not otherwise unknown to Hosea. The influence of God's punitive act engenders something like a חֶסֶד attitude (contra Jepsen, op. cit. 269). One at least takes him into account. But this attitude has as little duration as dew or morning fog.

TWOT

305–306 For centuries the word חֶסֶד was translated with words like mercy, kindness, love. The LXX usually uses eleos "mercy," and the Latin misericordia. The Targum and Syriac use frequently a cognate of חֶסֶד. The root is not found in Akkadian or Ugaritic. The lexicons up through BDB and GB (which said Liebe, Gunst, Gnade, love, goodness, grace) are similar. KB however is the "mutual liability of those...belonging together."

In 1927 Nelson Glueck, shortly preceded by I. Elbogen, published a doctoral dissertation in German translated into English by A. Gottschalk, Hesed in the Bible with an introduction by G. A. LaRue which is a watershed in the discussion. His views have been widely accepted. In brief, Glueck built on the growing idea that Israel was bound to its deity by covenants like the Hittite and other treaties. He held that God is pictured as dealing basically in this way with Israel. The Ten Commandments, etc. were stipulations of the covenant, Israel's victories were rewards of covenant keeping, her apostasy was covenant violation and God's חֶסֶד was not basically mercy, but loyalty to his covenant obligations, a loyalty which the Israelites should also show. He was followed substantially by W. F. Lofthouse (1933), N. H. Snaith (1944), H. W. Robinson (1946), Ugo Masing (1954), and many others.

There were others, however, who disagreed. F. Assensio (1949) argued for mercy, basing his views on the OT versions. H. J. Stoebe (doctoral dissertation 1951, also articles in 1952 VT and in THAT) argued for good-heartedness, kindness [this is the TLOT entry above, Stoebe is the author]. Sidney Hills and also Katherine D. Sakenfeld...held in general that חֶסֶד denotes free acts of rescue or deliverance which in prophetic usage includes faithfulness...

The writer [of this entry in TWOT] would stress that the theological difference is considerable whether the Ten Commandments are stipulations to a covenant restricted to Israel to which God remains true and to which he demands loyalty, or whether they are eternal principles stemming from God's nature and his creation to which all men are obligated and according to which God will judge in justice or beyond that will show love, mercy and kindness...

Glueck makes something of I Sam 20:8, 14, 15 where David and Jonathan swore friendship. This covenant, says G[lueck], was the basis of the דָּבָר. Here, perhaps, is G's major mistake. He forgets that covenants arise on the basis of a relationship and that the obligations are often deeper than the covenant.

307 So, it is obvious that God was in covenant relation with Israel, also that he expressed this relation in דָּבָר, that God's דָּבָר was eternal (Note the refrain of Ps 136)—though the דָּבָר of Ephraim and others was not (Hos 6:4). However, it is by no means clear that דָּבָר necessarily involves a covenant or means fidelity to a covenant. Stoebe argues that it refers to an attitude as well as to actions. This attitude is parallel to love, רַחוּם goodness, טוֹב etc. It is a kind of love, including mercy, חַנּוּן, when the object is in a pitiful state. It often takes verbs of action, "do," "keep," and so refers to acts of love as well as to the attribute. The word "lovingkindness" of the KJV is archaic, but not far from the fulness of meaning of the word.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 97:2 • The whole first half of this section is a good place to look at how the Lord extends mercy.

Key Phrases

arm of mercy 7 | Jacob 6:5; Mosiah 16:12 (2); Mosiah 29:20; Alma 5:33; 3 Nephi 9:14; DC 29:1

right(s) of mercy 1 | Moroni 7:27

Commentary See the definitions of right in the 1828.

tender mercy 16 | Psalms 25:6; Psalms 40:11; Psalms 51:1; Psalms 69:16; Psalms 77:9; Psalms 79:8; Psalms 103:4; Psalms 119:77; Psalms 119:156; Psalms 145:9; Proverbs 12:10; Luke 1:78; James 5:11; 1 Nephi 1:20; 1 Nephi 8:8; Ether 6:12

Bible anchor verses

Psalms 25:6 ...רַחֲמֵיךָ

Psalms 103:4 ...רַחֲמִים

Proverbs 12:10 ...רַחֲמֵיךָ

Luke 1:78 ...σπλάγχνα ἐλέους

James 5:11 ...οἰκτίρμων

Commentary —

MESSIAH

See also

Christ,

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 2

Daniel 9:25 Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times.

Daniel 9:26 And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself: and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war desolations are determined.

Hebrew Bible

מָשִׁיחַ

HALOT 5800, PDF 1622

- 1 the king of Israel, Saul, David and his descendants
- 2 Cyrus
- 3 priest, the anointed priest, the high priest
- 4 the patriarchs
- 5 “Messiah” (Hellenism from מָשִׁיחַ), but not an eschatological saviour in OT (1 Samuel 2:10, Psalms 2:2, Daniel 9:25ff), first in Judaism, Χριστός in NT

BDB 4899, PDF 1457

- anointed
- 1 king of Israel anointed by divine command
- 2 high priest of Israel
- 3 Cyrus as commissioned by Yahweh
- 4 Messianic prince
- 5 patriarchs, regarded as anointed kings

DCH PDF 2721

- anointed one
- 1 in reference to king
- 2 in reference to priest
- 3 in reference to prophets
- 4 in reference to eschatological figure, a “messiah,” whether royal or priestly (Comparing this meaning and HALOT #5, I’m not sure whether the passages cited in DCH include the sense of a “saviour,” or just an end-of-days figure who is coming. But if such a figure had no power to save, or to at least do something, I’m not sure why you’d be very interested in that person.)

Some OT uses

MIGHT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Auxiliary verb

- noun preterit tense of may. Had power or liberty. He might go, or might have gone.
- 1 It sometimes denotes was possible, implying ignorance of the fact in the speaker. Orders might have been given for the purpose.

MIND

Key Phrases

carnal mind 6 | Romans 8:6, 7; Alma 30:53; Alma 36:4; DC 67:10, 12

Bible anchor verses

Romans 8:6

Romans 8:7

natural mind 2 | DC 67:10, 12

Bible anchor verses —

spiritual mind #times | Romans 8:6; Alma 36:4; DC 67:10;

Bible anchor verses

Romans 8:6

Commentary See also Romans 8:27, Ephesians 4:23, DC 6:15, DC 11:13, and DC 88:11.

MYSTERY

See also Godliness,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 27

Matthew 13:11 He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

Mark 4:11 And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables:

Luke 8:10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

Romans 11:25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.

Romans 16:25 Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret since the world began,

1 Corinthians 2:7 But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God ordained before the world unto our glory:

1 Corinthians 4:1 LET a man so account of us, as of the ministers of Christ, and stewards of the mysteries of God.

1 Corinthians 13:2 And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

1 Corinthians 14:2 For he that speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries.

1 Corinthians 15:51 Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed,

Ephesians 1:9 Having made known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure which he hath purposed in himself:

Ephesians 3:3 How that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery; (as I wrote afore in few words, Ephesians 3:4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ)

Ephesians 3:9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ:

Ephesians 5:32 This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the church.

Ephesians 6:19 And for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel,

Colossians 1:26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints:

Colossians 1:27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory:

Colossians 2:2 That their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgement of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ;

Colossians 4:3 Withal praying also for us, that God would open unto us a door of utterance, to speak the mystery of Christ, for which I am also in bonds:

2 Thessalonians 2:7 For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

1 Timothy 3:9 Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

1 Timothy 3:16 And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory.

Revelation 1:20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

Revelation 10:7 But in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

Revelation 17:5 And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

Revelation 17:7 And the angel said unto me, Wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.

Greek New Testament

μυστήριον

BDAG 586b 'secret, secret rite, secret teaching, mystery' a religious technical term (predominantly plural) applied in the Greco-Roman world mostly to the mysteries with their secret teachings, religious and political in nature, concealed within many strange customs and ceremonies. The principal rites remain unknown because of a reluctance in antiquity to divulge them.

1 the unmanifested or private counsel of God, (God's) secret, the secret thoughts, plans, and dispensations of God

1a In the gospels μυστήριον is found only in one context, where Jesus says to the disciples who have asked for an explanation of the parable(s)

1b The Pauline literature has μυστήριον in 21 places. A secret or mystery, too profound for human ingenuity, is God's reason for the partial hardening of Israel's heart (Romans 11:25)...

1c In Revelation μυστήριον is used in reference to the mysterious things portrayed there.

2 that which transcends normal understanding, transcendent/ultimate reality, secret, with focus on Israelite/Christian experience

2a 1 Timothy uses μυστήριον as a formula...τὸ τῆς εὐσεβείας μυστήριον, the secret of (our) piety (1 Timothy 3:16) (See below for this verse in Greek.)

2b In Ignatius: the death and resurrection of Jesus as μυστήριον

2c Quite difficult is the saying about the tried and true prophet...

2d μυστήριον occurs often in Diognetus...

CGL 953a, PDF 993

1 mystery or secret rites, mysteries (Heraclitus, Herodotus, Plutarch)

2 Mysteries (especially of Demeter and Kore at Eleusis)

3 (figurative, referring to arcane teachings or philosophical doctrines) mysteries

4 mysteries, secrets (with genitive of the Kingdom of Heaven) New Testament (also singular)

LSJ 1156b, PDF 1227

I.1 mystery or secret rite

I.2a mystic implements and ornaments

I.2b later, object used in magical rites, talisman

I.3 generally, mystery, secret

I.4 secret revealed by God, i.e. religious or mystical truth (This is the sense applicable to the New Testament.)

I.5 superstition

II Dionysius the tyrant called mouse-holes μυστήρια

Some NT uses

Matthew 13:11

Mark 4:11

Luke 8:10

Romans 11:25

Romans 16:25

1 Corinthians 4:1

1 Corinthians 15:51

Ephesians 3:3

Ephesians 3:4

Ephesians 3:9

2 Thessalonians 2:7

1 Timothy 3:16 καὶ ὁμολογουμένως μέγα ἐστὶν τὸ τῆς εὐσεβείας μυστήριον· Ὃς ἐφανερώθη ἐν σαρκί, ἐδικαιώθη ἐν πνεύματι, ὥφθη ἀγγέλοις, ἐκηρύχθη ἐν ἔθνεσιν, ἐπιστεύθη ἐν κόσμῳ, ἀνελήμφθη ἐν δόξῃ.

Revelation 17:7

Key Phrases

mystery of godliness (See this phrase and commentary here, at Godliness.)

NATIVE ELEMENT

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 0

Matthew 7:13–14

Matthew 10:28

Luke 12:5

Commentary and Studies

Scriptures which can be interpreted as describing the returning or destruction of something into native element

2 Nephi 1:22 that ye may not be cursed with a sore cursing; and also that ye may not incur the displeasure of a just God upon you unto the destruction—yea, the eternal destruction—of both soul and body.

Alma 12:36

Matthew 10:28 καὶ μὴ φοβεῖσθε ἀπὸ τῶν ἀποκτενόντων τὸ σῶμα τὴν δὲ ψυχὴν μὴ δυναμένων ἀποκτεῖναι· φοβεῖσθε δὲ μᾶλλον τὸν δυνάμενον καὶ ψυχὴν καὶ σῶμα ἀπολέσαι ἐν γένει. (Someone, the one we are supposed to fear, is able to destroy both body and soul.)

DC 76:37

DC 76:45–48

DC 132:22–25 • I’m thinking specifically of the “lives” and “deaths” language of these verses.

NATURAL, NATURE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Pertaining to nature; produced or effected by nature, or by the laws of growth, formation or motion impressed on bodies or beings by divine power. Thus we speak of the natural growth of animals or plants; the natural motion of a gravitating body; natural strength or disposition; the natural heat of the body; natural color; natural beauty. In this sense, natural is opposed to artificial or acquired.
- 2 According to the stated course of things. Poverty and shame are the natural consequences of certain vices.
- 3 Not forced; not far fetched; such as is dictated by nature. The gestures of the orator are natural.
- 4 According to the life; as a natural representation of the face.
- 5 Consonant to nature. Fire and warmth go together, and so seem to carry with them as natural an evidence as self-evident truths themselves.
- 6 Derived from nature, as opposed to habitual. The love of pleasure is natural ; the love of study is usually habitual or acquired.
- 7 Discoverable by reason; not revealed; as natural religion.
- 8 Produced or coming in the ordinary course of things, or the progress of animals and vegetables; as a natural death; opposed to violent or premature.
- 9 Tender; affectionate by nature.
- 10 Unaffected; unassumed; according to truth and reality. What can be more natural than the circumstances of the behavior of those women who had lost their husbands on this fatal day?
- 11 Illegitimate; born out of wedlock; as a natural son.
- 12 Native; vernacular; as one's natural language.
- 13 Derived from the study of the works of nature; as natural knowledge.
- 14 A natural note, in music, is that which is according to the usual order of the scale; opposed to flat and sharp notes, which are called artificial.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 14

Romans 1:26 For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:

Romans 1:27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

Romans 1:31 Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:

Greek New Testament

ψυχικός

BDAG 980b

- 1 pertaining to the life of the natural world and whatever belongs to it, in contrast to the realm of experience whose central characteristic is πνεῦμα, natural, unspiritual, worldly
- 1.a adjective ψυχικός ἄνθρωπος an unspiritual person, one who merely functions bodily, without being touched by the Spirit of God (1 Corinthians 2:14). σῶμα ψυχικόν, a physical body (1 Corinthians 15:44). The wisdom that does not come from above is called ἐπίγειος, ψυχική (unspiritual), δαιμονιώδης (James 3:15).
- 1.b substantive
- 1.b.α τὸ ψυχικόν the physical in contrast to τὸ πνευματικόν (1 Corinthians 15:46).

- 1.b.β Jude 19 calls the teachers of error ψυχικοί, πνεῦμα μὴ ἔχοντες worldly (literally “psychic”) people, who do not have the Spirit, thereby taking over the terminology of gnostic...opponents, but applying to gnostics the epithets that they used of orthodox Christians.

CGL 1521b, PDF 1561

- 1 relating to the soul (opposite the body); (of pleasures, achievements, or similar) of the soul
- 2 (of inclinations, boldness) of the mind

LSJ 2027b, PDF 2098

- I1 of the soul or life, spiritual opposite σωματικός
- I2 of the animal life, animal (The use in 1 Corinthians 2:14 is listed here, along with the Jude use; they gloss 1 Corinthians 2:14 as “the natural man.”)
- I3 brave
 - II for the soul or spirit of one deceased
 - III cooling

Some NT uses

- 1 Corinthians 2:14 Ψυχικός δὲ ἄνθρωπος οὐ δέχεται τὰ τοῦ πνεύματος τοῦ θεοῦ, μωρία γὰρ αὐτῷ ἐστίν, καὶ οὐ δύναται γινῶναι, ὅτι πνευματικῶς ἀνακρίνεται·
- 1 Corinthians 15:44 σπείρεται σῶμα ψυχικόν, ἐγείρεται σῶμα πνευματικόν. Εἰ ἔστιν σῶμα ψυχικόν, ἔστιν καὶ πνευματικόν.
- 1 Corinthians 15:46 ἀλλ’ οὐ πρῶτον τὸ πνευματικόν ἀλλὰ τὸ ψυχικόν, ἔπειτα τὸ πνευματικόν.
- James 3:15 οὐκ ἔστιν αὕτη ἡ σοφία ἄνωθεν κατερχομένη, ἀλλὰ ἐπίγειος, ψυχική, δαιμονιώδης·
- Jude 19 οὗτοί εἰσιν οἱ ἀποδιόριζοντες, ψυχικοί, πνεῦμα μὴ ἔχοντες.

Key Phrases

natural eye 4 | DC 58:3; Moses 1:11 (2); Moses 6:36

Bible anchor verses —

natural man 6 | 1 Corinthians 2:14; Mosiah 3:19 (2); Alma 26:21; DC 67:12; Moses 1:14

Bible anchor verses

1 Corinthians 2:14 Ψυχικός δὲ ἄνθρωπος οὐ δέχεται τὰ τοῦ πνεύματος τοῦ θεοῦ, μωρία γὰρ αὐτῷ ἐστίν, καὶ οὐ δύναται γινῶναι, ὅτι πνευματικῶς ἀνακρίνεται·

Commentary See below.

natural mind For this phrase, see Mind.

Commentary and Studies

What is the “natural man”?

See my notes at Mosiah 3:19 and 1 Corinthians 2:14.

See BY’s remarks in the sermon he gives on 19 June 1859 (a good place to find it is in the readings I prepared for the BY class in fall semester 2021; it’s in “BY Sermons 05” on righteousness, sin, and salvation. Make sure to read LaJean’s transcription, not the JD.

NEW BIRTH

The phrase “new birth” doesn’t occur in the scriptures, and neither do any of its possible permutations with other forms. It’s just the idea of being born again and being changed. The scriptures call it so many different things that I’m just using the term “new birth” to keep track of them all.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 18:3–6

Matthew 19:13–15

Mark 8:1–9

- One way of viewing these stories about the food is to see them as a display of the abundance that Christ creates in us, where there was little before.

Luke 6:31–35

John 1:6–13

John 3:1–21

John 4:9–15

- See also John 7:38–39 here.

John 5:17–47

John 6

- This is Christ’s discussion of the bread of life. A lot of what he says is relevant to the new birth.

Romans 12:1–2

Romans 6:3–10

2 Corinthians 3:6

2 Corinthians 3:18

- Make sure to check out my note about “beholding as in a glass,” which creates some connections to Alma 5.

2 Corinthians 4:10–12

2 Corinthians 4:16

2 Corinthians 5:17–21

Galatians 4:1–7

Galatians 4:29

Galatians 6:15

Ephesians 2:1–10

Ephesians 2:13–22

- Probably just all over chapter 2 really.

Ephesians 3:14–21

- Especially verse 16, but other verses too.

Ephesians 4:17–32

- The verses at the end of this passage describe things we should be doing after the new birth.

Philippians 3:20–21

Colossians 1:9–29

Book of Mormon

Mosiah 5:2–15

Mosiah 18:7–22

Mosiah 27:23–31

Mosiah 28:1–4

Alma 5

- Many verses in this chapter reference the new birth.
- They go as far into it as 54, which is an interesting verse too.

Alma 7:14–16

Alma 13

Alma 18:41–19:36

- Lamoni's experience.

Alma 22:15–27

Alma 26:3

Alma 26:14–15

Alma 36:6–26

Mormon 9:6

Moroni 6:1–4

Moroni 8:10–

- Note what it means to be “alive in Christ.”
- See verse 19 as well, and 22

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 60:7

DC 61:33–34

DC 84:33

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- Patterns characteristic of the new birth
 - Being able to show forth wonders (Matthew 14:2).
 - A clear vision of yourself as evil, wicked, or otherwise unworthy (Mosiah 4:2).
 - Crying out to Christ and/or God for mercy (Mosiah 4:2).
 - A declaration of faith in Christ and/or God (Mosiah 4:2).
 - A visitation of the Spirit (Mosiah 4:3, 5:3).
 - Receiving a remission of sin (Mosiah 4:3); see Remission for more.
 - Feelings of joy, peace, and other positive things (Mosiah 4:3).
 - A changed heart (Mosiah 5:2, 5:7, Alma 5, Alma 19:33)
 - An absence of the desire to do evil or wrong (Mosiah 5:2, Alma 19:33, Alma 22:15)

Becoming the sons/children of God

- (See the discussion of the “children of Christ” below.)
- Deuteronomy 32:5
- Romans 8:14–17
- 2 Corinthians 6:18
- Galatians 3:26–29
- Galatians 4:1–7
- Philippians 2:15
- Mosiah 5:2–15
- Mosiah 18:22
- 3 Nephi 9:17
 - Also verse 20.
- 3 Nephi 12:44–45
- Moroni 7:48
- DC 11:30
- DC 25:1

- Note the older versions of this verse, where this bit about being “sons and daughters” in the kingdom doesn’t appear.
- DC 34:3
 - This is an interesting verse because it suggests that, in sometimes referring to people as “sons” or “daughters,” Christ is speaking of them in their capacity as people who have been changed by the Atonement or who have adopted this new relationship with him.
- DC 35:2
 - Note that this also speaks to the priesthood—we acquire more power in it by being able to adopt this in-dwelling relationship with Christ (who in turn has an in-dwelling relationship with the Father).
 - See my notes at 35:2; this verse is fundamental in understanding this extremely important connection.
- DC 39:4–5
- DC 41:6
- DC 42:52
- DC 45:8
- DC 50:43

Becoming like a child

Mosiah 3:19

Mosiah 3:19, among other scriptures, instructs us to become “as a child” in our effort to reconcile ourselves with God. Following that instruction is a list of qualities which apparently expand on the idea of what it is to be as a child (though see here for a different reading). The qualities listed in that verse are:

- submissive
- meek
- humble
- patient
- full of love
- willing to submit to what the parents “inflict” on him

Only recently (late 2020) has the strangeness of this list really hit me. It is strange in a number of ways. First, when you think of children, these are not at all the qualities that come immediately to mind. If I were to describe my own children, the first things I would say are energetic, loud, happy, emotional, funny, strong-willed, silly, curious, growing, learning, and so on. Of the list in Mosiah 3:19 the only one which might make my list would be “full of love.” So this list is strange because the qualities are not the ones most people associate with children.

Another reason it’s strange is that it’s simply false most of the time that my kids have the qualities on this list. My kids are not submissive to what I want, at least most of the time, and they are not patient really at all. Meekness and humility seem to be a little different. When I think about my kids, I don’t think the words “meek” and “humble” apply to them at all, not in the sense that they don’t have those qualities, but in that the terms just are not appropriate for describing children in general; it’s almost like a category mistake. I’m not sure I want meek children, in any case. I’d much rather they have some fire in them which they learn to temper as they grow, than that they’re just mild and gentle all the time. So this list is strange because it’s false in general that at least some of these qualities are characteristic of children. They aren’t.

So what’s going on with this part of the verse then? There is the alternative reading of the qualities, which may explain it. It could also be that there is a way of being as a child when you are actually an adult that is different from being as a child when you are actually a child. In the former case a person has many years of experience that children lack, and so is much more knowledgeable about the way the world works, and will (possibly) have a long history of interactions with the Lord. In those cases (to me at least) it would make more sense to use terms like “meek” and “humble” and “patient” to describe that person, and in fact I can see why an adult would want to develop those qualities, and how it would feel to them (an adult) that in developing those qualities they are becoming more childlike.

Another point to mention is that there are times when children do show the qualities listed in the verse more, and that’s when they are scared, hurt, or otherwise unsure of themselves. In situations like that I think they do then become submissive, are more willing to be patient, and maybe it even becomes more appropriate to describe them as being meek and humble. Seeing the verse like this is a useful way of understanding when the new birth can have its greatest impact on us, but we also stand to gain from being submissive to the will of the Lord even when we aren’t scared or hurt.

All this said, I still strongly believe (and this is something I have come to believe somewhat recently) that it is important to develop the other more energetic qualities as part of the new birth. They’re going to make us better disciples of Christ, they’re going to have an uplifting impact on those around us, and, perhaps most importantly of all, they are going to make us happier. We ourselves are going to enjoy our life more when we develop those qualities. We are going to have more fun, look forward to things more, be more playful, more spontaneous, and all of this is going to lead to a life that is just more full of goodness and happiness.

Finally, just as a side note, I do wonder about the “inflict” language at the end of the verse. The connotation of that word is fairly negative and so is the actual definition in the 1828 dictionary, so I’m not totally sure what to think about that.

Children of Christ

Mosiah 5:7 reads as follows:

And now because of the covenant which ye have made, ye shall be called the children of Christ, his sons and his daughters; for behold, this day he hath spiritually begotten you, for ye say that your hearts are changed through faith on his name; therefore ye are born of him and have become his sons and his daughters.

Here the people are called the children of Christ “because of the covenant” which they have made. The covenant is what gives them the title of “children of Christ.”

Compare just receiving the title of “children of Christ” to actually being children of Christ—here is Moroni 7:19:

Wherefore I beseech of you, brethren, that ye should search diligently in the light of Christ that ye may know good from evil. And if ye will lay hold upon every good thing and condemn it not, ye certainly will be a child of Christ.

Here the text says we won’t just be called a child of Christ, we’ll be a child of Christ. The reason isn’t the covenant but the action of “laying hold upon every good thing.” (2/22/2024: Actually I think this is incomplete—they become his sons and daughters at the end of Mosiah 5:7. It’s not just being called that.)

There is a similarity in temple ordinances. In the endowment people are anointed to become kings and priests, queens and priestesses, but in the second anointing, people are anointed to be those things.

The phrase “child of Christ” also appears at 4 Nephi 1:17 and Mormon 9:26.

See also:

- The parts in Mosiah 14–15 about being the “seed” of Christ.
 - 15:11, for one
- Ether 3:14

u

OBEDIENCE

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

1 Samuel 15:22 And Samuel said, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams.

Hebrew Bible

שָׁמַע

HALOT 1570a, PDF 1626

QAL

- 1 to hear with the ears
 - 1.a seldom used absolutely
 - 1.b with accusative of the thing
 - 1.c corresponding to an Akkadian form, a witness to what he had heard, witness to a statement
 - 1.d to hear about
 - 1.e with אֶל to listen to someone
 - 1.f with מֵאֵת יְהוָה to hear something from Yahweh
 - 1.g with פִּי to hear that
 - 1.h with לְאָמַר a direct question
- 2 to listen to
 - 2.a with accusative of the thing
 - 2.b with accusative of the person, to attend to someone's words carefully, or alternatively to hearken to someone
- 3 to hear and accept a request
- 4.a to hear → to listen to, meaning to hearken → to obey...used absolutely, to be obedient 1 Samuel 15:22 2 Kings 14:11 and elsewhere.
- 4.b with אֶל of the person to satisfy, obey
 - A few other possible meanings are listed here.
- 5 to hear, meaning to understand
 - 5.a with accusative of the thing
 - 5.b followed by מָה
 - 5.c used absolutely
 - 5.d לֵב שָׁמַע a listening heart 1 Kings 3:9 (compare verse 12), a familiar expression in Egyptian wisdom literature, and probably taken over from there
- 6 special instances; within the sense of hearing is also included
 - 6.a to appreciate with one's spiritual hearing
 - 6.b in judicial proceedings
 - 6.c שָׁמַע הַטוֹב וְהָרַע 2 Samuel 14:17 to hear out, to sense what is good and what is bad...NRSV: discerning good and evil; REB: decide between right and wrong; a looser rendering of שָׁמַע here would be to decide
 - 7.a (isolated special instances)

Some OT uses

1 Samuel 15:22

Dictionaries, Lexicons, and Encyclopedias

TWOT: שָׁמַע (938–939; #2412)

“The verb שָׁמַע is used 1050 times in the Qal, Niphal, Piel (twice), and Hiphil. Cognates are found in Akkadian, Aramaic, Arabic, Ugaritic, and Ethiopic. The basic idea is that of perceiving a message or merely a sound...

“שָׁמַע has the basic meaning ‘to hear.’ This is extended in various ways, generally involving an effective hearing or listening: 1) ‘listen to,’ ‘pay attention,’ 2) ‘obey’ (with words such as ‘commandment’ etc.), 3) ‘answer prayer,’ ‘hear,’ 4) ‘understand’ and 5) ‘hear critically,’ ‘examine (in court).’ The derived stems have appropriately modified meanings.

“Instances of the basic use of the verb are numerous. Examples are Num 12:2 (the Lord heard Miriam’s and Aaron’s grumbling), Deut 4:12 (the Israelites heard the sound of God’s voice but saw no form) and Gen 3:8 (Adam and Eve heard the voice of God in the garden). The object of the hearing may be expressed in a dependent clause, such as in Gen 37:17 ‘heard (them) saying,’ Gen 14: 14 ‘heard that his brother had been taken captive,’ Jud 7:11 ‘hear what they say.’

“The meaning ‘listen to’ is illustrated in Gen 3:17 (Adam, to the voice of his wife, i.e. he followed her lead), ‘Kgs 22:19, ‘Hear thou the word of the Lord,’ Ps 81:11 [H 12]. ‘My people would not listen to my voice’ and Prov 12: 15, ‘He that listens to counsel is wise.’ This usage shades into that of ‘to obey,’ such as in Ex 24:7; Isa 42:24 ‘obey his law’: Neh 9:16, ‘They did not obey Thy commandments’; and Jer 35:18, ‘You have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab’...

“In connection with answered prayer, God states a very important and sobering principle in Jer 11:10–11. Because Israel has refused to listen to the words of God when he spoke to them, they will find that when they cry to him in time of trouble he will not hear (respond to) their cry. Micah 7:7 expresses the confidence of the righteous, the one who himself heeds the voice of God, that God will indeed hear his prayer. A further strong word of encouragement is given us in Ps 94:9, ‘He who planted the ear, will he not hear?’

“Effective hearing involves also the idea of ‘understanding.’ Thus in Gen 11:7, after the confusion of languages at Babel, men could no longer ‘hear’ (i.e. ‘understand’) one another.”

TDOT: שָׁמַע (15:253–279)

“Social interaction takes place primarily in the form of linguistic communication; without language, speech, and hearing, the constitution of human society is inconceivable. This explains why suspension of hearing or refusal to hear is associated with chaos...for the OT we may cite Gen. 11:7: Yahweh dissolves the human society that is attempting to build the tower of Babel by making communication impossible: the people can no longer understand one another (שָׁמַע; the verb also has this meaning elsewhere, e.g., Gen 42:23; Dt. 28:49; 2 K. 18:26 // Isa. 36:11; Jer. 5:15; Ezk. 3:6).

“Dt 21:18–21 decrees the death penalty for someone who refused to listen to his parents (שָׁמַע, twice in v. 18); the pitiless harshness of the sentence points to the antisocial nature of the offense, which endangers society...

“Hearing is critical for the interaction between God and human beings; the medium through which God makes his will known among his people (in commandments or mediated by the prophets) is the audible word...to exaggerate the point: one who cannot hear does not exist; one who can no longer hear, no longer communicate, is doomed (Ps. 38:14–15 [Eng. 13–14]).

Septuagint

ἀκοή

GELS 21a, PDF 62

- 1.a that which is heard: ‘message’ ... ‘report’ ... ‘rumour’
- 1.b that which is publicly announced, proclaimed
- 1.c verbal noun of ἀκούω
 - The use in 1 Kings (1 Samuel 15:22) is listed here
- 2 ear: sense organ

GELSLEH 21

- sound; report, tidings, news; ear; obedience
 - The “obedience” meaning lists 1 Samuel 15:22.

Total occurrences in the OT 51

Some OT uses

1 Samuel 15:22

New Testament

KJV

2 Corinthians 10:6

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 64:34

OFFEND, OFFENSE, OFFENDER, OFFENSIVE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Offend (transitive)

- 1 To attack; to assail. [Not used.]
- 2 To displease; to make angry; to affront. It expresses rather less than make angry, and without any modifying word, it is nearly synonymous with displease. We are offended by rudeness, incivility and harsh language. Children offend their parents by disobedience, and parents offend their children by unreasonable austerity or restraint.
- 3 To shock; to wound; as, to offend the conscience.
- 4 To pain; to annoy; to injure; as, a strong light offends weak eyes.
- 5 To transgress; to violate; as, to offend the laws. But we generally use the intransitive verb in this sense, with against; to offend against the law.
- 6 To disturb, annoy, or cause to fall or stumble.
- 7 To draw to evil, or hinder in obedience; to cause to sin or neglect duty.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Offend

Total occurrences in the NT 35

Matthew 11:6

Matthew 18:6–9

Greek New Testament

σκανδαλίζω

BDAG 823a

- 1 to cause to be brought to a downfall, cause to sin (the sin may consist in a breach of the moral law, or in the acceptance of false teachings)
 - 1a τινα someone...Passive, be led into sin...The absolute passive can also mean let oneself be led into sin, fall away
 - 1b Passive with ἐν τινι, be led into sin, be repelled by someone [said] of Jesus; by refusing to believe in him or by becoming apostate from him a person falls into sin Mt 11:6; 13:57; 26:31, 33
- 2 to shock through word or action, give offense to, anger, shock

CGL 1268, PDF 1308

- 1 cause (with accusative someone) to offend or sin; passive, be led into sin
- 2 give offence to, offend —someone; passive, take offence

LSJ, PDF

•

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 59:7

DC 59:21

OFFICE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A particular duty, charge or trust conferred by public authority and for a public purpose; an employment undertaken by commission or authority from government or those who administer it.
- 2 A duty, charge or trust of a sacred nature, conferred by God himself; as the office of priest, in the Old Testament; and that of the apostles, in the New Testament.
- 3 Duty or employment of a private nature; as the office of a midwife.
- 4 That which is performed, intended or assigned to be done by a particular thing, or that which any thing is fitted to perform; answering to duty in intelligent beings.
- 5 Business; particular employment.
- 6 Act of good or ill voluntarily tendered; usually in a good sense; as kind offices; offices of pity; pious offices.
- 7 Act of worship.
- 8 Formulary of devotion.
- 9 A house or apartment in which public officers and others transact business; as the register's office; a lawyer's office.
- 10 In architecture, an apartment appropriated for the necessary business or occasions of a palace or nobleman's house.
- 11 In the canon law, a benefice which has no jurisdiction annexed to it.
- 12 The person or persons entrusted with particular duties of a public nature.

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 63

DC 25:5 And the office of thy calling shall be for a comfort unto my servant, Joseph Smith, Jun., thy husband, in his afflictions, with consoling words, in the spirit of meekness.

- This verse is important to show the relationship between an “office” and a “calling.”

OPPOSITION

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Situation so as to front something else; a standing over against; as the opposition of two mountains or buildings.
- 2 The act of opposing; attempt to check, restrain or defeat.
- 3 Obstacle.
- 4 Resistance; as the opposition of enemies.
- 5 Contrariety; repugnance in principle; as the opposition of the heart to the laws of God.
- 6 Contrariety of interests, measures or designs.
- 7 Contrariety or diversity of meaning; as one term used in opposition to another.
- 8 Contradiction; inconsistency.
- 9 The collective body of opposers; in England, the party in Parliament which opposed the ministry; in America, the party that opposed the existing administration.
- 10 In astronomy, the situation of two heavenly bodies, when distant from each other 180 degrees.

OR

Commentary and Studies

The disjunctive vs. explanatory “or”

In the BOM and possibly in other scriptures of the restoration, the word “or” is used with at least two distinct and important meanings:

1. A disjunctive meaning, usually with exclusive force, to indicate one or two possibilities or options.
2. An explanatory meaning, where “or” is short for “or, in other words,” and glosses or further explains what was just said.

I am most interested in uses of the explanatory meaning.

Possible explanatory uses of “or” in the BOM

- | | | |
|---|--|--------------------------------|
| • 1 Nephi 10:4 (This is a particularly good example because it actually says “or in other words”) | • 2 Nephi 2:5 | note) |
| | • Mosiah 3:6 | • Mosiah 4:11 |
| | • Mosiah 3:11 | • Mosiah 4:12 |
| • 1 Nephi 10:5 | • Mosiah 3:16 (not clear, see my | • Mosiah 15:11 |

ORDINATION, ORDAIN

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Ordain

- 1 Properly, to set; to establish in a particular office or order; hence, to invest with a ministerial function or sacerdotal power; to introduce and establish or settle in the pastoral office with the customary forms and solemnities; as, to ordain a minister of the gospel. In America, men are ordained over a particular church and congregation, or as evangelists without the charge of a particular church, or as deacons in the episcopal church.
- 2 To appoint; to decree.
- 3 To set; to establish; to institute; to constitute.
- 4 To set apart for an office; to appoint.
- 5 To appoint; to prepare.

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 25:7 And thou shalt be ordained under his hand to expound scriptures, and to exhort the church, according as it shall be given thee by my Spirit.

ORDER

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- 1 Regular disposition or methodical arrangement of things; a word of extensive application; as the order of troops or parade; the order of books in a library; the order of proceedings in a legislative assembly. order is the life of business.
- 2 Proper state; as the muskets are all in good order When the bodily organs are in order a person is in health; when they are out of order he is indisposed.
- 3 Adherence to the point in discussion, according to established rules of debate; as, the member is not in order that is, he wanders from the question.
- 4 Established mode of proceeding. The motion is not in order.
- 5 Regularity; settled mode of operation. This fact could not occur in the order of nature; it is against the natural order of things.
- 6 Mandate; precept; command; authoritative direction. I have received an order from the commander in chief. The general gave orders to march. There is an order of council to issue letters of marque.
- 7 Rule; regulation; as the rules and orders of a legislative house.
- 8 Regular government or discipline. It is necessary for society that good order should be observed. The meeting was turbulent; it was impossible to keep order
- 9 Rank; class; division of men; as the order of nobles; the order of priests; the higher orders of society; men of the lowest order; order of knights; military orders, etc.
- 10 A religious fraternity; as the order of Benedictines.
- 11 A division of natural objects, generally intermediate between class and genus. The classes, in the Linnean artificial system, are divided into orders, which include one or more genera. Linne also arranged vegetables, in his natural system, into groups of genera, called order In the natural system of Jussieu, orders are subdivisions of classes.
- 12 Measures; care. Take some order for the safety and support of the soldiers.
- 13 In rhetoric, the placing of words and members in a sentence in such a manner as to contribute to force and beauty of expression, or to the clear illustration of the subject.
- 14 The title of certain ancient books containing the divine office and manner of its performance.
- 15 In architecture, a system of several members, ornaments and proportions of columns and pilasters; or a regular arrangement of the projecting parts of a building, especially of the columns, so as to form one beautiful whole.

Key Phrases

holy order #times | 2 Nephi 6:2

ORDINANCE

Key Phrases

outward ordinance 2 | DC 107:14, 20

Commentary See the 1828 definitions for “outward.” Definition #7 makes the most sense here, especially since the contrast with “outward” drawn in DC 107 is with “spiritual,” as in verse 18 of that section. See also “outward” in the NT.

Commentary and Studies

The internal orientation required for ordinances to be valid

I’m interested in DC 27:2, which says that the exact food and water we use for the sacrament isn’t as important as what is going on inside us when we perform the ordinance. So, at least in this case—and I think this probably applies to at least some other ordinances—what matters is our internal attitude or orientation toward what we are doing.

OUTWARD, OUTWARDLY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 External; exterior; forming the superficial part
- 2 External; visible
- 3 Extrinsic; adventitious
- 4 Foreign; not intestine
- 5 Tending to the exterior part
- 6 In Scripture, civil; public; as opposed to religious
- 7 In theology, carnal; fleshly; corporeal; not spiritual; as the outward man

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 7

Matthew 23:27 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.

Matthew 23:28 Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

Romans 2:28 (2) For he is not a Jew, which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh:

2 Corinthians 4:16 For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

2 Corinthians 10:7 Do ye look on things after the outward appearance? If any man trust to himself that he is Christ's, let him of himself think this again, that, as he is Christ's, even so are we Christ's. (The Greek here doesn't have anything that corresponds to "outward"—the bit at the start is Τὰ κατὰ πρόσωπον βλέπετε, and other translations give this as "You are judging by appearances" (NIV) or "Look at what is before your eyes" (NRSV) (which are themselves very different interpretations—only one has to do with outward appearances).)

1 Peter 3:3 Whose adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel;

Greek New Testament

ἔξω

BDAG 312b

•

CGL, PDF

•

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

2 Corinthians 4:16 Διὸ οὐκ ἐγκακοῦμεν, ἀλλ' εἰ καὶ ὁ ἔξω ἡμῶν ἄνθρωπος διαφθείρεται, ἀλλ' ὁ ἔσω ἡμῶν ἀνακαινοῦται ἡμέρα καὶ ἡμέρα.

ἔξωθεν

BDAG 313a

•

CGL, PDF

•
LSJ , PDF

•
Some NT uses

Matthew 23:27 Οὐαὶ ὑμῖν, γραμματεῖς καὶ Φαρισαῖοι ὑποκριταί, ὅτι παρομοιάζετε τάφοις κεκονιαμένοις, οἵτινες ἔξωθεν μὲν φαίνονται ὡραῖοι ἔσωθεν δὲ γέμουσιν ὀστέων νεκρῶν καὶ πάσης ἀκαθαρσίας·

Matthew 23:28 οὕτως καὶ ὑμεῖς ἔξωθεν μὲν φαίνεσθε τοῖς ἀνθρώποις δίκαιοι, ἔσωθεν δὲ ἐστε μεστοὶ ὑποκρίσεως καὶ ἀνομίας.

1 Peter 3:3 ὣν ἔστω οὐχ ὁ ἔξωθεν ἐμπλοκῆς τριχῶν καὶ περιθέσεως χρυσίων ἢ ἐνδύσεως ἱματίων κόσμος, φανερός

BDAG 932a

•
CGL , PDF

•
LSJ , PDF

•
Some NT uses

Romans 2:28 οὐ γὰρ ὁ ἐν τῷ φανερῷ Ἰουδαῖός ἐστιν, οὐδὲ ἡ ἐν τῷ φανερῷ ἐν σαρκὶ περιτομή·

Key Phrases

outward ordinance See this phrase here.

OVERCOME

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

νικάω

BDAG 596b

- 1 to win in the face of obstacles, be victor, conquer, overcome, prevail, intransitive
 - 1.a in a battle or contest
 - 1.b in a legal action
- 2 to overcome someone, vanquish, overcome, transitive
 - 2.a active with the object in the accusative τινά overcome someone...of Christ νενίκηκα τὸν κόσμον I have overcome the world (i.e. the sum total of everything opposed to God; see κόσμος 7b) (John 16:33)
 - 2.b passive be conquered, beaten
- 3 to surpass in ability, outstrip, excel, transitive with the superior power added in the dative

νίκη

BDAG 597a

- victory, then as abstraction for concrete means for winning a victory (but compare also the custom of speaking of the emperor's νίκη; "victoria" as attribute of the emperor on coinage)...(1 John 5:4)

PATIENCE

See also

Endure,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Romans 5:3–4

- Note the connection here, where “patience” is ὑπομονή, with the various times that ὑπομένω shows up.

PEACEABLE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Free from war, tumult or public commotion.
- 1 Free from private feuds or quarrels.
- 2 Quiet; undisturbed; not agitated with passion.
- 3 Not violent, bloody or unnatural; as, to die a peaceable death.

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1.a Of a person, animal, etc.: inclined to or in favour of peace; avoiding or inclined to avoid strife, violence, etc.; of a peaceful character; not aggressive or quarrelsome. Also, of an action, intention, etc.: not involving or tending towards aggression, argument, strife, violence, etc.
- 1.b Not noisy or talkative; not restless; restrained or disciplined in behaviour. Obsolete.
- 2.a Characterized by peace; free from disturbance; quiet, tranquil.
- 2.b Of the sea, weather, etc.: calm, peaceful; not stormy. Obsolete (archaic in later use).

PERFECTION, PERFECT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Perfect

- 1 Finished; complete; consummate; not defective; having all that is requisite to its nature and kind; as a perfect statue; a perfect likeness; a perfect work; a perfect system. As full, as perfect in a hair as heart.
- 2 Fully informed; completely skilled; as men perfect in the use of arms; perfect in discipline.
- 3 Complete in moral excellencies. Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father who is in heaven is perfect Matthew 5:48.
- 4 Manifesting perfection. My strength is made perfect in weakness. 2 Corinthians 12:9. perfect chord, in music, a concord or union of sounds which is perfectly coalescent and agreeable to the ear, as the fifth and the octave; a perfect consonance. A perfect flower, in botany, has both stamen and pistil, or at least another and stigma.

Perfection

- The state of being perfect or complete, so that nothing requisite is wanting; as perfection in an art or science; perfection in a system of morals.
- 1 Physical perfection is when a natural object has all its powers, faculties or qualities entire and in full vigor, and all its parts in due proportion.
 - 2 Metaphysical or transcendental perfection is the possession of all the essential attributes or all the parts necessary to the integrity of a substance. This is absolute, where all defect is precluded, such as the perfection of God; or according to its kind, as in created things.
 - 3 Moral perfection is the complete possession of all moral excellence, as in the Supreme Being; or the possession of such moral qualities and virtues as a thing is capable of.
 - 4 A quality, endowment or acquirement completely excellent, or of great worth. In this sense, the word has a plural. What tongue can her perfections tell?
 - 5 An inherent or essential attribute of supreme or infinite excellence; or one perfect in its kind; as the perfections of God. The infinite power, holiness, justice, benevolence and wisdom of God are denominated his perfections.
 - 6 Exactness; as, to imitate a model to perfection.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

τέλειος

BDAG 995b, PDF 542

- 1 pertaining to meeting the highest standard
 - 1.a of things, perfect
 - 1.a.α as acme of goodness, as adjective
 - 1.a.β as acme of badness
 - 1.b of persons who are fully up to standard in a certain respect and not satisfied with half-way measures perfect, complete, expert
- 2 pertaining to being mature, full-grown, mature, adult
 - 2.a adjective
 - 2.b substantive
- 3 pertaining to being a cult initiate, initiated. As a technical term of the mystery religions, τέλειος refers to one initiated into mystic rites

4 pertaining to being fully developed in a moral sense

4.a of humans perfect, fully developed

4.b of God perfect

CGL 1366a, PDF 1406

1 having reached one's appointed end; (of persons, animals) complete in growth, full-grown, adult, mature

2 (of persons) complete in quality, accomplished, perfect...perfect in goodness (NT)

3 (of sacrificial goats) perfect, unblemished

4 (generally, of objects, activities) complete in extent or quality; (of a piece of weaving) complete, finished...

5 (of values, relationships, abstract qualities) complete in every respect;

6 having reached fulfillment

7 relating to fulfillment of marriage

8 (of gods) bringing fulfillment (of their own purposes or the prayers of others)

9 (of an eagle, as a bird of augury) bringing fulfillment

LSJ 1769b, PDF 1840

I.1.a perfect, of victims, entire, without spot or blemish

I.1.b in Dialects, fully constituted, valid

I.2 of animals, full-grown

I.3.a of persons, accomplished, perfect in his kind

I.3.b of things

I.4 of prayers, vows, etc., fulfilled, accomplished

I.5.a of numbers, full, complete

I.5.b in arithmetic, of perfect numbers, which are equal to the sum of their divisors

I.6 (special use about a bowl with Zeus?)

II of the gods, having power to fulfil prayer, all-powerful

III = τελευταῖος, last

IV (special use for a banquet)

V (more special uses in various areas)

VI name of a month at Epidaurus

VII (uses of the adverb τελέως)

VIII (comparative and superlative uses)

Some NT uses

Matthew 5:48

τελειότης

BDAG 885b

• perfection, completeness...of maturity in contrast to the stage of elementary knowledge (Hebrews 6:1).

CGL 1366b, PDF 1406

• completeness (of someone's life, in terms of its achievements)

LSJ 1770a, PDF 1841

• completeness, perfection

Some NT uses

Colossians 3:14 ἐπὶ πᾶσιν δὲ τούτοις τὴν ἀγάπην, ὃ ἐστὶν σύνδεσμος τῆς τελειότητος.

τελειόω

BDAG 885b

1 to complete an activity, complete, bring to an end, finish, accomplish

2 to overcome or supplant an imperfect state of things by one that is free from objection, bring to an end, bring to its goal/accomplishment

2.a of Jesus

2.b bring to full measure, fill the measure of τι something

2.c fulfill of prophecies, promises, etc., which arouse expectation of events or happenings that correspond to their wording

2.d of the perfect of upright persons who have gone on before, passive.

2.e make perfect

- 2.e.α someone
- 2.e.β something

3 As a term of mystery religions consecrate, initiate, passive become consecrated, become a τέλειος

CGL 1366b, PDF 1406

- 1 complete successfully, accomplish...(of a prophecy) be fulfilled (NT); (of a person) be finished, reach one's goal (NT)
- 2 come to the end of, complete
- 3 (of activities, emotions, seen as complete in themselves) make perfect...be perfected (NT)
- 4 (of portents) put the final seal on, validate

LSJ 1770a, PDF 1841 make perfect, complete

- I.1.a of things, acts, works, time, make perfect, complete, accomplish
- I.1.b execute a legal instrument
- I.2 in logic...complete, make perfect the form or species
- I.3 passive, of prophecies, to be fulfilled
- II.1 bring to perfection or consummation
- II.2 in passive also
- II.3 passive, to be made perfect, of true Christians (Hebrews 11:40, 12:23)
- III intransitive, bring fruit to maturity, come to maturity

τελείωσις

BDAG 886a

- 1 perfection
- 2 fulfillment of a promise

CGL 1366b, PDF 1406

- 1 state of perfection or completion, perfection
- 2 fulfillment (of something foretold) (NT)

LSJ 1770a, PDF 1841

- I.1.a development, completion, of physical growth
- I.1.b execution of a legal instrument by completing it
- I.2 in logic...
- II.a attainment of manhood
- II.b marriage
- III of events, accomplishment, fulfilment

τελειωτής

BDAG 886a

- one who brings something to a successful conclusion, perfecter (opposite ἀρχηγός...Jesus is both)
 - Hebrews 12:2 is listed under this here.

CGL, PDF

- —
- τελειωτής doesn't appear in CGL.

LSJ 1770a, PDF 1841

- accomplisher, finisher...(Hebrews 12:2)
 - The verse in Hebrews is the only use mentioned of this word.

Total occurrences in the NT 1

Some NT uses

Hebrews 12:2

POOR

Scriptural Usage

Greek New Testament

πτωχός

BDAG 795a

- 1 pertaining to being economically disadvantaged, originally “begging” ...dependent on others for support, but also simply poor
- 2 pertaining to being thrust on divine resources, poor
- 3 lacking in spiritual worth, figurative extension of 1 (The discussion of this meaning references meaning #3b for πνεῦμα, which is “as the source and seat of insight, feeling, and will, generally as the representative part of human inner life.” This meaning of πτωχός includes Matthew 5:3, so if we go with BDAG here, that verse would be referring to people who are poor with respect to that source of spiritual insight and spiritual feeling; or people who are dependent on others for that source of spiritual insight and feeling. That does not seem like a desirable state to be in.)
- 4 pertaining to being extremely inferior in quality, miserable, shabby

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

PORTION

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- 1 In general, a part of any thing separated from it. Hence,
- 2 A part, though not actually divided, but considered by itself.
- 3 A part assigned; an allotment; a dividend.
- 4 The part of an estate given to a child or heir, or descending to him by law, and distributed to him in the settlement of the estate.
- 5 A wife's fortune.

Verb

- To divide; to parcel; to allot a share or shares.
- 1 To endow.

POWER

See also

Authority, Priesthood,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

δύναμις

BDAG 232b

- generally ‘capability’, with emphasis on function
- 1 potential for functioning in some way, power, might, strength, force, capability
- 1.a generally
- 1.b specifically, the power that works wonders
- 2 ability to carry out something, ability, capability
- 3 a deed that exhibits ability to function powerfully, deed of power, miracle, wonder
- 4 something that serves as an adjunct of power, resource
- 5 an entity or being, whether human or transcendent, that functions in a remarkable manner, power as a personal transcendent spirit or heavenly agent/angel
- 6 the capacity to convey thought, meaning

CGL 397b, PDF 423

- 1 physical strength, power, strength (of persons or gods)
- 2 power or ability (to do something), ability, capacity
- 3 outward power (of persons or things), influence, authority
- 4 (specifically) power (of rules, nations, politicians)
- 5 military power, forces
- 6 resources (of a country); quantity, abundance (of wealth possessed by a people)
- 7 natural property or capacity (of a river, plants, the earth, mines); effect (of an embalming fluid); (generally) practical effect (of action, opposite theoretical importance)
- 8 capacity (inherent in or exercised by a person); faculty (of sight, or belonging to some part of the body)
- 9 meaning (of a word); phonetic value, sound (of a letter of the alphabet)
- 10 financial value, worth, value (of things)
- 11 (philosophy) potentiality (opposite actuality or activity)
- 12 (mathematics) number multiplied by itself (twice or three times), power; (specifically) square number or square
- 13 square root (especially as an irrational number)

LSJ 452a, PDF 523

- I.1 power, might, in Homer, especially of bodily strength...generally, strength, power, ability to do anything
- I.2 outward power, influence, authority
- I.3 force for war, forces
- I.4 a power, quantity
- I.5 means
- II.1 power, faculty, capacity...absolute, any natural capacity or faculty, that may be improved and may be used for good or ill
- II.2.a elementary force, such as heat, cold, etc.
- II.2.b property, quality
- II.2.c in plural, agencies
- II.2.d function, meaning, of part in whole
- II.2.e in Music, function, value, of a note in the scale

- II.3 faculty, art, or craft
- II.4.a a medicine
- II.4.b action of medicines
- II.5 magically potent substance or object
- III.1.a force or meaning of a word
- III.1.b phonetic value of sounds or letters
- III.2 worth or value of money
- IV capability of existing or acting, potentiality, opposite actuality
- V.1.a Mathematics, power...usually second power, square
- V.1.b square number
- V.1.c square of an unknown quantity
- V.2 square root of a number which is not a perfect square
- V.3 product of two numbers
- VI concrete, powers, especially of divine beings
- VII manifestation of divine power, miracle
 - It cites Matthew 11:21 here.

Some NT uses

Mark 5:30

Luke 8:46

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 103:15

Key Phrases

power of darkness 4 | Luke 22:53; Colossians 1:13; DC 21:6; DC 38:11

Bible anchor verses

Luke 22:53

Colossians 1:13

power of heaven 9 | Matthew 24:29; Luke 21:26; 3 Nephi 20:22; 3 Nephi 21:25; 3 Nephi 28:7; DC 84:119; DC 121:36 (2); Moses 7:27

Bible anchor verses

Matthew 24:29

Luke 21:26

power of * spirit 17 | Romans 15:19, 2 Nephi 2:8, Moroni 8:23, DC 18:47, DC 29:30, DC 29:31, DC 33:16, DC 35:13, DC 42:5, DC 42:6, DC 43:15, DC 76:12, DC 76:116, DC 76:118, DC 109:79, DC 111:8, DC 133:59

PRACTICE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Practice (transitive verb)

- 1 To do or perform frequently, customarily or habitually; to perform by a succession of acts; as, to practice gaming; to practice fraud or deception; to practice the virtues of charity and beneficence; to practice hypocrisy.
- 2 To use or exercise any profession or art; as, to practice law or medicine; to practice gunnery or surveying.
- 3 To use or exercise for instruction, discipline or dexterity. [In this sense, the verb is usually intransitive.]
- 4 To commit; to perpetrate; as the horrors practiced at Wyoming.
- 5 To use; as a practiced road. [Unusual.]

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 38:24

DC 46:33

PRECIOUS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Of great price; costly.
- 2 Of great value or worth; very valuable.
- 3 Highly valued; much esteemed.
- 4 Worthless; in irony and contempt.

PRIESTCRAFT

See 2 Nephi 26:29 and notes there.

PRIESTHOOD

See also

Law, ὑποτάσσω,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 1:17

- See notes here also.

Matthew 5:5

- The language of “inheriting” makes me think of having a right to something by your connection to the original possessor, and that makes me think of the priesthood.

Matthew 6:33

- Note also other verses about the “kingdom.”

Matthew 7:24

- See the footnote to “rock” especially.

Matthew 8:8–10

- See Luke 7:6–9 (including the use of τασσόμενος in 8)

Matthew 8:16

Matthew 8:24–27

Matthew 12:22–30

- See also Mark 3:22–27 and Luke 11:14–23.

Matthew 13:37–43

- Notice the use of certain key words here, including “good,” δίκαιος, ἀνομία, and so on.

Matthew 13:57

- Notice the use of ἄτιμος; perhaps connect to other verses that talk about “honor” in the sense of priesthood. It’s a bit of a stretch, I think.

Matthew 14:15–21

- See this story as symbolizing the way that the priesthood and covenants are disseminated in a world: from the Father (Christ looks up into heaven), through Christ, to his disciples, and then to everyone else. Everyone benefits, but it happens in a particular order.
- Reminds me also of the new birth, where everyone is filled.
- This is worth exploring in a talk or CtR essay.

Matthew 16:18–19

Matthew 17:14–21

- I’m specifically wondering about the reason the disciples couldn’t help the boy—I’m wondering if it’s a lack of δύναμις, which they might have remedied by “prayer and fasting.” This is a little speculative but it’s interesting. See my notes at 17:21 and also note Luke 9:43, ἐξεπλήσσαντο δὲ πάντες ἐπὶ τῇ μεγαλειότητι τοῦ θεοῦ.
- Compare Mark 9:14–29 and Luke 9:38–42. Note the different ways that the “prayer and fasting” bit is different in the Greek.

Matthew 21:18–22

- Important for the relationship between priesthood and faith.

Matthew 21:19–27

- An important discussion of ἐξουσία.

Matthew 23:15

- Kind of a weird connection but I was thinking of “child of hell” as like somewhat of a real relationship to the powers of hell.

Mark 3:31–35

- The connection here is to the covenant/family relationship with Christ. He says something similar to this elsewhere too.

Mark 5:24–34

- This is an important story because it shows that there is some sort of relationship between Christ's power and our faith. At least some of the time, that power is responsive to our faith. Christ says in verse 34, it's your faith that healed you, but that's not entirely true—it's his power that carried out the healing. But his power, at least some of the time, is responsive to our faith. He and his clothing were being touched by many people while he was walking through the crowd, but only one person approached him and touched him with the intent to be healed—only she exercised her faith in this way—and it was done. This is a really important story. In what ways are we "touching" Christ, rubbing shoulders with him and thronging him and even following him, without doing it with faith to make something happen?
- Compare the restriction on what Christ was able to do in Mark 6:5–6.
- See also Mark 6:55–56.

Mark 7:32–35

- Another example where a healing involved a lot of physical touch. But note in the story before this one, Christ casts out a spirit from afar.

Mark 14:62

Luke 4:36

- See also other verses in event #30 of Christ's life.

Luke 5:17–26 • I think the key question is in verse 23—which of these is actually easier? They require different powers, and note that we have gained enough knowledge to make some of the healing power available to ourselves now.

Luke 7:2–10

Luke 8:4–18

- This is Luke's version of the parable of the sower. The fact that the seed is the λόγος and gets planted in us (compare Alma 32) could be relevant to the priesthood, since Christ as λόγος.

Luke 10:17–20

- Note verse 19 in particular, where Christ gives them ἐξουσία over the δύναμις of the "enemy." Important passage.

Luke 10:22

Luke 11:33–36

- See my footnotes on these verses, and compare to DC 88:5ff.

Luke 12:42–44

Luke 17:20–21

Luke 20:14

- Plus other aspects of this parable.

Luke 22:53

Luke 22:69

Luke 24:49

John 4:7–14

John 5:17–47

- This is a long block of verses, and not all of them are equally important; some, like verse 26 for example, are extremely important.

John 6:32–35

- More verses besides these are relevant here—the entire bread of life discussion is important, and especially verses 56–57. But the entire discussion deserves some study in relation to the priesthood.

John 10:17–18

John 14:6–11

John 14:16–20

John 15:1–11

- Some of this just seems to be so clearly talking about the covenant relationship we enter into with Christ, and the structure of the priesthood relationship we create with him through covenants. Look at 15:4, for example, or verse 10.
- Now that I'm reading the rest of the chapter, I think other parts are relevant, too, like verses 15–16.
 - Though note that "ordained" in 16 is ἐθνηκα, a form of τίθημι, so you'd have to check this out carefully.
 - But 16 clearly relates to what Christ says earlier in the chapter about being part of him and having that relationship.
- It's almost like, if there is anything like an oath and covenant of the priesthood in the NT, it looks like this chapter.

John 16:15

- Goes with the previous chapter too.

John 17:2

- There are other verses in this chapter that are also relevant to priesthood, including a few things about the indwelling relationship.

John 19:10–11

John 20:21–22

Romans 1:16–20

Romans 8:7

Romans 13:1–5

- Very interesting verses, especially the first three. Possible connections to DC 88 as well as to the structure of the priesthood, with God at the top, and everything lined up below him. The word τάσσω gets used in these verses and that word is important—notice also that the KJV translation of verse 2 is misleading. The second and third “resist”s are ἀνθίστημι, but the first is a participle of ἀντιτάσσω. That word does mean “resist” but Paul is clearly picking up on the use of τάσσω in the first verse. Then “ordinance” is διαταγή, which obviously comes from διατάσσω, picking up again on that idea.
- For studying the priesthood more generally, it would be helpful to pick up the importance of τάσσω in various places, to see if we could make a connection. Actually, now that I’m looking, I think τάσσω only appears around eight times in the NT, but the use I was thinking of is important—it’s Luke 7:8.

2 Corinthians 3:6–11

2 Corinthians 12:9–10

2 Corinthians 13:4

- There are other verses around here that talk about other things connected to δύναμις, in various forms of the word family.

2 Corinthians 13:10

- And here you get a reference to ἐξουσία.

Galatians 3:19

Ephesians 1:17–23

Ephesians 2:18

Ephesians 3

- Not every verse, but δύναμις appears and so does ἐξουσία, and it talks about God’s “workings.” I’d have to go through it more carefully to pull out the specific verses but there is some relevant stuff here.

Ephesians 4:6–16

- This is a very powerful set of verses when read carefully, in the light of the law of Christ and the priesthood.

Philippians 2:5–11

- I’m not sure what to make of these verses.
- The interpretation of these verses among scholars is controversial and very little is settled.

Philippians 3:8–14

- Mentions the power of the resurrection.

Colossians 1:9–29

- Especially verse 13, which mentions ἐκ τῆς ἐξουσίας τοῦ σκότους.
- Also verse 17; there are a lot of verses relevant to the priesthood here.

Book of Mormon

1 Nephi 2:14

1 Nephi 14:14

1 Nephi 15:15

- There’s a way of understanding the “true vine” stuff that connects you to the parts in John about the vine. I think you can understand all of that discussion as being about the way that power comes from God to Christ to us.

1 Nephi 17:47–54

2 Nephi 6:2

2 Nephi 19:6–7

Jacob 4:6–9

- Not really verse 8, but it picks up again in verse 9.

Mosiah 3:17

- I want to read this verse in light of λόγος-type stuff, where there’s some fundamental connection between Christ and reality, and that's the reason why there will be no other way nor means for achieving salvation.

Mosiah 15:1–5

Mosiah 15:11

- And possibly other verses here and in chapter 14 about Christ's "seed." To be his seed is to be the heir of the kingdom of God? We need that lineage through the priesthood?

Mosiah 23:17

- I'm sure there are other uses of "consecrate" that I haven't picked up on in this list.

Mosiah 29:19–20

Alma 4:20

Alma 5:49

- See also verse 44 here, and 54.

Alma 6:1

- See also verse 8.

Alma 7:22

- This verse is very important, because it makes clear that when we're following Christ and have made covenants, we are part of the "holy order of God," or the priesthood.
- And this is true for every person, no matter who you are.

Alma 8:4

Alma 8:24

Alma 8:31–32

Alma 13

- Maybe not the entire chapter, but a lot of it.
- Note that, in accordance with what happens at the end of Alma 12 (see my notes on the epistemology of revelation), the priesthood is closely connected to the way God disseminates knowledge of the plan of salvation to people.
- See Helaman 8:16ff below.

Alma 14:25–29

- Notice the connection to faith specifically.

Alma 29:13

Alma 39:15–19

Alma 43:2

Helaman 5:11–12

Helaman 5:18

Helaman 5:23

- This is the start of Nephi and Lehi's experience in the prison.

Helaman 8:16

Helaman 10:1–11

Helaman 10:15–17

3 Nephi 5:13

3 Nephi 8:1

3 Nephi 9:15

3 Nephi 11:21–28

3 Nephi 12:1

3 Nephi 15:9–10

3 Nephi 18:36–38 sv

3 Nephi 18:5

3 Nephi 20:22

3 Nephi 21:25

3 Nephi 28:20

3 Nephi 28:39

Mormon 8:24

Mormon 9:13

Mormon 9:17

Ether 3:14

Ether 12:10

Ether 12:28

- I'm reading the "fountain of all righteousness" it in a priesthood way.

Moroni 2:2–3

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 28:7

- This verse belongs in a group that also includes DC 35:18, DC 64:5, and DC 84:19, where the revelations are talking about the “keys” and “mysteries” together.

DC 29:29–41

DC 41:3–5

DC 45:8

DC 49:5–6

DC 50:27–28

DC 53:3

DC 61:1

DC 63:59

DC 66:2

DC 68:14–21

- Note that not all of these verses were in the original version of section 68; a lot of it was added later.
- Verse 17 is really important though, as I think it comes to shape other ways of seeing the priesthood later too.
- Verse 20 is important too.

DC 75

- See especially the historical background, which talks about the “high priesthood.”

DC 76

- There are a number of verses in this section, like 42, which describe the relationship between the Father and the Son, and I think those verses are important for getting at the structure of the priesthood and how those figures relate to it.
- See also DC 76:50–59, which are very important.
- See 86–88 and notes there.
- See 95, and 107–108.

DC 77:3

DC 77:11

DC 78

- DC 78:1–2
- DC 78:8
- DC 78:16
- This section has some subtle but interesting references to “order” and other ideas connected to the priesthood.

DC 81:1–2

DC 82:3–4

DC 82:10, 15

DC 82:17–21

DC 84:1–61

- This section is full of very important things about the priesthood, including the “sonship” relationship used to describe a certain relation in the priesthood.
- Verse 18 calls the Melchizedek priesthood “the priesthood which is after the holiest order of God.”
- See also verse 63.

DC 85:11

DC 86

- This whole section is important for the priesthood; see verse 1 and my notes there.
- This section has two halves—the commentary on the wheat and the tares, and the comments about priesthood. The connection between them is not super clear.
- I read the second half as Christ speaking to his original apostles.

DC 88:5–13

- These verses are fundamental for understanding the relationship between God and Christ, and the priesthood. See also DC 107:3, which is saying basically the same thing as verse 5 here.
- To me it seems clear that the “light” being spoken of in verses 12–13, and possibly the others verses, is the priesthood. It is the “law by which all things are governed, even the power of God.” This gives you a much more direct connection to BY-style ideas of the priesthood than you can find elsewhere.

DC 88:14–60?

- All the verses that discuss “laws” here in this section are relevant to the priesthood, and are very important.

DC 93

- Another whole section that is relevant to many different aspects of the priesthood.
- Verse 20 is particularly good, in thinking about DC 107:3 and why the priesthood has that name. See also DC 93:22 and Mosiah 5:1–10.

DC 94:6

DC 98:3

DC 98:14–15

DC 101:77–78

DC 106

- This section has a few different instances of royal-related language, including “crown,” “kingdom,” and “scepter”

DC 107:1–20

DC 107:40–57

DC 110:11–16

- This is the second part of this section, which records visitations and various “keys” being given.

DC 112:28–33

DC 113:6

DC 113:8

DC 115:19

DC 121:4

DC 121:21

DC 121:29–32

DC 121:34–46

DC 124:19

DC 124:28

- This verse talks about the “fulness of the priesthood.”

DC 124:33–34

DC 124:42

DC 124:55

DC 124:91–97

- Talking about the “patriarchal” priesthood here?

DC 124:123–145

- A lot of great stuff here, including very interesting references to the “holy spirit of promise” in 124.
- You have to read the first few verses in this block in light of what is said about Hyrum earlier, in verses 91–97.

DC 127:6–8

- Especially verse 8; remember, this is written in September 1842, after the restoration of the endowment ceremony, but before the other ordinances in 1843.

DC 128:8–18

DC 128:20–21

DC 128:23

DC 130:20–21

DC 132

- Lots of stuff in this section relevant to the priesthood and laws; too much to discuss here, at least for now.
- Verse 28 is important; reminds me of the opening of DC 107.

DC 138:51

Key Phrases

fulness of (the) priesthood 1 | DC 124:28

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary This phrase occurs elsewhere in Joseph Smith’s sermons, especially in the context of the second anointing and further temple ordinances in 1843.

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

Circa Summer 1832 A History of the life of Joseph Smith Jr. an account of his marvilous experience and of all the mighty acts which he doeth in the name of Jesus Ch[r]ist the son of the living God of whom he beareth record and also an account of the rise of the church of Christ in the eve of time according as the Lord brought forth and established by his hand <firstly> he receiving the testamony from on high secondly the ministering of Angels thirdly the reception of the holy Priesthood by the ministring of—Aangels to adminster the letter of the Law <Gospel—> <—the Law and commandments as they were given unto him—> and in <the> ordinences, forthly a confirmation and reception of the high Priesthood after the holy order of the son of the living God power and ordinance from on high to preach the Gospel in the administration and demonstration of the spirit the Kees of the Kingdom of God confered upon him and the continuation of the blessings of God to him &c—

6 April 1837 Joseph Smith jr. rose and spoke on the subject of the Priesthood. The Melchisedec High priesthood, he said was no other then the priesthood of the Son of God. There are certain ordinances which belong to the priesthood, and certain results flow from it. The presidents, or presidency are over the church, and revelations of the mind and will of God to the church are to come through the presidency. This is the order of heaven and the power and privilege of this priesthood. It is also the privilege of any officer in this church, to obtain revelations so far as relates to his particular calling or duty in the church. All are bound by the principles of virtue and happiness, but one great privilege of this priesthood is to obtain revelations, as before observed, of the mind and will of God. It is also the privilege of the Melchisedec priesthood, to reprove, rebuke and admonish, as well as to receive revelations.

5 January 1841 All priesthood is Melchizedeck; but there are different portions or degrees of it. That portion which brought Moses to speak with God face to face was taken away; but that which brought the ministry of angels remained. All the Prophets had the Melchizedeck Priesthood and was ordained by God himself.

15 July 1842 The Lord has at various times commenced this kind of government, and tendered his services to the human family. He selected Enoch, whom he directed, and gave his law unto, and to the people who were with him; and when the world in general would not obey the commands of God, after walking with God, he translated Enoch and his church, and the priesthood or government of heaven, was taken away.

27 July 1842

- From a revelation regarding plural marriage; many almost off-hand but important comments about how they viewed the priesthood.

23 March 1843 these promises I Seal upon all of their heads in the name of Jesus Christ by the Law of the holy preisthood Even so Amen

Brigham Young

12 February 1854 I recollect once when I was preaching a question was asked me, “What is the Preisthood.” The answer was ready, and perfectly simple in its nature, and plain to be understood, <and> & is couched in a a short sentence (viz) Preisthood is a perfect system of Government that rules and reigns in eternity. A question at once arises in the mind; “where is eternity.” The answer is at hand, Eternity is here;—we are in eternity just as much so as any other created beings in heaven or on earth, Heavenly beings are no more in eternity than we are. We are in the midst of eternity; and when we become acquainted with the system of Gov^t and the laws that rule in eternity, we shall then know it callculated to endure; to govern and control all things which are in heaven, and on the earth. The eternal preisthood of God,—the Gov^t of God,—the laws of eternity, <is> are a pure and perfect system of Gov^t

27 June 1854 The Priesthood is a pure system of government which governs the world and a small portion has come down to earth. It is the constitutional laws and pure system by which men are to be governed.

19 November 1854 There is no kingdom without a space, and there is no space without a kingdom says the prophet Joseph. Now let me tell you there is no world made without that world has motion, and it is governed and controled by the law of the eternal preisthood; and if you want to know what preisthood is, it is a perfect system of Government by which planets and all creations are governed.

3 December 1854 There is a law that governs man thus far; but the law of the celestial kingdom, as I have frequently told you, is, and always will be, the same to all the children of Adam. When we talk of the celestial law which is revealed from heaven, that is, the Priesthood, we are talking about the principle of salvation, a perfect system of government, of laws and ordinances, by which we can be prepared to pass from one gate to another, and from one sentinel to another, until we go into the presence of our Father and God. This law has not always been upon the earth; and in its absence, other laws have been given to the children of men for their improvement, for their education, for their government, and to prove what they would do when left to control themselves; and what we now call tradition has grown out of these circumstances.

31 July 1859 Eternal existence depends solely upon adopting and carrying out in our lives the principles couched in the term "holy Priesthood," which alone tend to life and eternal duration and exaltation...The holy Priesthood is a system of laws and government that is pure and holy; and if it is adhered to by intelligent man, whom God has created a little lower than angels, it is calculated to preserve our tabernacles in eternal being; otherwise they will be resolved into native element...Nothing can satisfy, except being perfectly subject to the law that will preserve them in their identity to all eternity, and that is the holy Priesthood...It is by the law of the Priesthood that men are, and by that law they may maintain their eternal identity. A strict observance of those laws will secure an inheritance in that kingdom where death never enters, and all else will sooner or later pass away as a night vision...We have to learn and practice eternal principles, to obtain eternal life; and they are the principles of the holy Priesthood. God has given man an agency, and it behooves us to understand and practice the principles of life—to live our religion and walk humbly with our God, living according to the laws and regulations of the holy Priesthood so far as it is revealed. The principles of eternal life that are set before us are calculated to exalt us to power and preserve us from decay. If we choose to take the opposite course and to imbibe and practice the principles that tend to death, the fault is with ourselves...Seek for the principles that pertain to eternal life—the principles of the holy Priesthood.

31 July 1864 ...we frequently hear people inquire what the priesthood is it is a pure holy system of government the priesthood is the law that governs and controls the heavenly bodies the priesthood is the power and the principle that holds all things in existence by the word of him who is the author of all things...this priesthood which God has revealed is for the salvation of the children of man. This priesthood which is a perfect system of government is calculated to govern and control eventually the earth the inhabitants of the earth and all things pertaining to the earth...

6 June 1865 The priesthood is the power of God; it rules in the eternal world, and should be recognized by all the inhabitants of the earth.

17 June 1866 ...the kingdom of God always takes care of itself] it is a living moving thing [space] the priesthood of the Son of God comprises in its operations the kingdom of God if we were to ask what the priesthood of the Son of God is I know of no better language used what has been conveyed to me by the Spirit that is to say to the people it is a pure system of government] those let[?] those that are governed live according to this system of laws of this pure government don't you see that all harmonizes and each and every part of this kingdom or the members of the kingdom remains one with the other...it is not any man that sits[?] upon this earth that carries on this work it guides itself it directs itself by the great machinist whose work and workmanship we are whose kingdom this is it is all governed and controlled by him who knows all things] and he will bring forth the and he will bring forth the righteous and the just [inserted above line: and] humble [inserted above line: the meek of the earth all] those that love to serve him and keep his commandments and enjoy the fullness of his glory [space] these ordinances this kingdom and work is proffered to the whole human family all who desire may accept all the kingdom upon the terms of strict obedience...

30 October 1870 We are called, as it has been told you, to redeem the nations of the earth. The fathers cannot be made perfect without us; we cannot be made perfect without the fathers. There must be this chain in the holy Priesthood; it must be welded together from the latest generation that lives on the earth back to Father Adam, to bring back all that can be saved and placed where they can receive salvation and a glory in some kingdom. This Priesthood has to do it; this Priesthood is for this purpose.

Commentary and Studies

Definitions of the priesthood, or the proper way to understand what the priesthood is

See ἀνομία; 1 Corinthians 15:56; DC 29:36 and notes there; Moses 4:1–3 and notes there;

Probably less important, but see DC 53:3 and the older versions of it (the ordinances were associated with being an elder, not the ordination);

Powers of the priesthood

- The "power on earth to forgive sins" (Matthew 9:6)
- The "power to make intercession for the children of men" (Mosiah 15:8)

- The “power of the resurrection” (2 Nephi 10:25); see also Jacob 4:11, Moroni 7:41, 2 Nephi 9:6, Ecclesiastes 8:8, Philippians 3:10 (δύναμις),
- The “power of the atonement” (2 Nephi 10:25)
- “Power over death” (DC 7:2; note, though, that this “power over death” part is not in the original manuscript version nor in the BC. See also Revelation 1:18)
- The “power to speak” (DC 11:10–11)
- The “power to obtain eternal life” (DC 45:8)
- The “power to become the sons of God” (DC 11:30)
 - See also this study for more
- The “power to overcome all things which are not ordained of him” (DC 50:35)
- The “power to command the waters” (DC 61:27; see also Jacob 4:6 and Mark 4:39)
- The “power to seal up unto eternal life” (DC 68:12)

The difference between the Aaronic and Melchizedek priesthoods

See DC 13, along with references there to other passages describing the Aaronic priesthood;

The “order of Enoch”

See DC 76:57, and also the JST for Genesis 14.

“Kingdom of God” as a way of talking about the priesthood

Perhaps understand the term “kingdom of God” as being about a certain system of laws that becomes the way that people are governed or govern themselves; see Luke 16:16 and DC 88:36, among other verses.

The in-dwelling relationship of the priesthood and new birth

See this idea at this study of becoming the “sons of God” and other material around there; see also the “children of Christ” idea as well, which is very important for the priesthood and the name of the priesthood in 107:3.

PROBATION, PROBATIONARY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Trial; examination; any proceeding designed to ascertain truth; in universities, the examination of a student, as to his qualifications for a degree.
- 2 In a monastic sense, trial or the year of novitiate, which a person must pass in a convent, to prove his virtue and his ability to bear the severities of the rule.
- 3 Moral trial; the state of man in the present life, in which he has the opportunity of proving his character and being qualified for a happier state.
- 4 In America, the trial of a clergyman's qualifications as a minister of the gospel, preparatory to his settlement.
- 5 In general, trial for proof, or satisfactory evidence, or the time of trial.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 0

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 0

Book of Mormon

Probation

Total occurrences in the BOM 9

1 Nephi 10:21

1 Nephi 15:31

1 Nephi 15:32

2 Nephi 2:21

2 Nephi 2:30

2 Nephi 9:27

2 Nephi 33:9

Helaman 13:38

Mormon 9:28

Probationary

Total occurrences in the BOM 4

Alma 12:24

Alma 42:4

Alma 42:10

Alma 42:13

Doctrine and Covenants

Probation

Total occurrences in the DC 1
DC 29:43

Probationary

Total occurrences in the DC 0

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Key Phrases

day(s) of probation 9 | 1 Nephi 10:21, 1 Nephi 15:31, 1 Nephi 15:32, 2 Nephi 2:30, 2 Nephi 9:27, 2 Nephi 33:9, Helaman 13:38, Mormon 9:28, DC 29:43
Bible anchor verses —
probationary state 3 | Alma 12:24, Alma 42:10, Alma 42:13
Bible anchor verses —

PROMISE

Key Phrases

land of promise 29 | Hebrews 11:9; 1 Nephi 2:20; DC 57:2;

Bible anchor verses

Hebrews 11:9 πίστει παρώκησεν εἰς γῆν τῆς ἐπαγγελίας ὡς ἀλλοτρίαν, ἐν σκηναῖς κατοικήσας μετὰ Ἰσαὰκ καὶ Ἰακώβ τῶν συγκληρονόμων τῆς ἐπαγγελίας τῆς αὐτῆς·

Commentary See DC 57:1–6 for a discussion of Missouri as the land of promise.

Commentary and Studies

The promise about asking and receiving

The list of versions of this promise is in a study at Ask.

PROSPER

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Transitive verb

- To favor; to render successful. All things concur to prosper our design.

Intransitive verb

- To be successful; to succeed.
- 1 To grow or increase; to thrive; to make gain; as, to prosper in business. Our agriculture, commerce and manufactures now prosper.

Commentary and Studies

Versions of promises involving prosperity

- Omni 1:6, this is the one where it says if you don't keep the commandments, you won't prosper.
- Mosiah 2:22
- Mosiah 2:31

PSYCHOLOGY AS UNDERSTOOD IN THE SCRIPTURES

This entry is for places in the scriptures that or elsewhere that give us an idea of how the scriptures see human beings and their psychology.

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Mosiah 5:13

Mosiah 24:10–12

- In this passage, it seems clear that the “heart” is what we would call the “mind,” or the intellectual part of us; it talks about the “thoughts of their hearts.”
- I’m guessing there are other passages like this, and I’ll look for them eventually.

Alma 12:7

Alma 16:16–17

Alma 18:20

Alma 18:32

Alma 21:6

Alma 36:18

Alma 37:36

Alma 43:48

Helaman 9:41

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 6:16

DC 10:16

DC 33:1

QUICKEN, QUICK

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Quicken (transitive)

- 1 Primarily, to make alive; to vivify; to revive or resuscitate, as from death or an inanimate state.
- 2 To make alive in a spiritual sense; to communicate a principle of grace to.
- 3 To hasten; to accelerate; as, to quicken motion, speed or flight.
- 4 To sharpen; to give keener perception to; to stimulate; to incite; as, to quicken the appetite or taste; to quicken desires.
- 5 To revive; to cheer; to reinvigorate; to refresh by new supplies of comfort or grace.

Quicken (intransitive)

- 1 To become alive.
- 2 To move with rapidity or activity.

Quick (adjective)

- 1 Primarily, alive; living; opposed to dead or unanimated; as quick flesh.
- 2 Swift; hasty; done with celerity; as quick dispatch.
- 3 Speedy; done or occurring in a short time; as a quick return of profits.
- 4 Active; brisk; nimble; prompt ready. He is remarkably quick in his motions. He is a man of quick parts.
- 5 Moving with rapidity or celerity; as quick time in music.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

John 5:21

Greek New Testament

ζωοποιέω

Some NT uses

John 5:21

BDAG 381b

- 1 to cause to live, make alive, give life to, especially in a transcendent sense
 - 1.a subject God, Christ, and Spirit...
 - Many examples follow in the NT.
 - 1.b of things, circumstances, words...
- 2 to keep alive, sustain life

RACE

Commentary and Studies

Elijah Able

From a some minutes taken of a seventies meeting on 1 June 1839:

Elder J. M. Grant communicated to the council a short history of the conduct of elder Elijah Able, and some of his teachings &C such as teaching that there would be stakes of Zion in all the world. That an elder was a High Priest and he had as much authority as any H.P. That he commanded some of the brethren from Canada to flee from there by such a time saying that if they did not cross the river St Lawrence then they could not get into the states and that in addition to threatning to knock down elder Christopher Merkley on their passage up Lake Ontario; he publicly declard that the elders in Kirtland made nothing of knocking down one another This last charge was substantiated by the written testimony of elder Zenas H. Gurley. Most of the charge elder Grant testified to the truth of and refered to Moses Smith, John and George Beckstead Robert Burton and Zebedee Coltrin for testimony for the substantiation of the remainder

From PRA-4 2180: "Bro Elijah Able gave an outline of his history and experiences during a period of forty years. Of his being in Kirtland. Of his appointment an [sic] ordination as a Seventy, and a member of the 3 rd Quorum. He related some of the sayings of the prophet Joseph who told him that those who were called to the Melchisadec Priesthood and had magnified that calling would be sealed up unto eternal life. Spoke of his being appointed by the Prophet to the calling of an Undertaker in Nauvoo. Of his opportunities and conversations with the Patriarch Father Joseph Smith while watching at his bedside during his last sickness. He related one of the themes on which he dwelt at that time and predicted that the saints would go into the wilderness. Br Abel related many other items of interest" (Appendix 1, minutes of the seventies).

REASON, REASONING

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Reason (noun)

- 1 That which is thought or which is alleged in words, as the ground or cause of opinion, conclusion or determination. I have reasons which I may choose not to disclose. You ask me my reasons. I freely give my reasons. The judge assigns good reasons for his opinion, reasons which justify his decision. Hence in general,
- 2 The cause, ground, principle or motive of any thing said or done; that which supports or justifies a determination, plan or measure.
- 3 Efficient cause. He is detained by reason of sickness.
- 4 Final cause.
 - reason, in the English language, is sometimes taken for true and clear principles; sometimes for clear and fair deductions; sometimes for the cause, particularly the final cause.
- 5 A faculty of the mind by which it distinguishes truth from falsehood, and good from evil, and which enables the possessor to deduce inferences from facts or from propositions.
- 6 Ratiocination; the exercise of reason.
- 7 Right; justice; that which is dictated or supported by reason Every man claims to have reason on his side.
- 8 reasonable claim; justice.
- 9 Rationale; just account.
- 10 Moderation; moderate demands; claims which reason and justice admit or prescribe.

Reason (intransitive verb)

- 1 To exercise the faculty of reason; to deduce inferences justly from premises. Brutes do not reason; children reason imperfectly.
- 2 To argue; to infer conclusions from premises, or to deduce new or unknown propositions from previous propositions which are known or evident. To reason justly is to infer from propositions which are known, admitted or evident, the conclusions which are natural, or which necessarily result from them. Men may reason within themselves; they may reason before a court or legislature; they may reason wrong as well as right.
- 3 To debate; to confer or inquire by discussion or mutual communication of thoughts, arguments or reasons.
- 4 To reason with, to argue with; to endeavor to inform, convince or persuade by argument. reason with a profligate son, and if possible, persuade him of his errors.
- 5 To discourse; to talk; to take or give an account.

reason (transitive verb)

- 1 To examine or discuss by arguments; to debate or discuss. I reasoned the matter with my friend.
- 2 To persuade by reasoning or argument; as, to reason one into a belief of truth; to reason one out of his plan; to reason down a passion.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

Reason

KJV

I'm excluding all instances of "by reason" or "by reason of."

Total occurrences in the OT 11

1 Samuel 12:7

1 Kings 9:15

Job 9:14

Job 13:3

Job 15:3

Job 32:11

Proverbs 26:16

Ecclesiastes 7:25

Isaiah 1:18

Isaiah 41:21

Daniel 4:36

Reasoning

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 1

Job 13:6

Doctrine and Covenants

Reason

Total occurrences in the DC 13

DC 3:14

DC 45:10

DC 45:15

DC 49:4

DC 50:10 • In this verse and others that talk about "reasoning together," it makes me think of how Christ was interacting with the educated people in Luke 2:46–47.

DC 50:11 (2)

DC 50:12 (3)

DC 61:13

DC 67:3

DC 71:8

Reasoning

Note that, of the four uses below, only the DC 45 one uses "reasoning" as a noun.

Total occurrences in the DC 4

DC 45:10

DC 66:7 • Verb form, not a noun.

DC 68:1 • Verb form, not a noun.

DC 133:57 • Verb form, not a noun.

RECONCILIATION, RECONCILE

See also

Atonement,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Reconciliation

- 1 The act of reconciling parties at variance; renewal of friendship after disagreement or enmity.
- 2 In Scripture, the means by which sinners are reconciled and brought into a state of favor with God, after natural estrangement or enmity; the atonement; expiation.
- 3 Agreement of things seemingly opposite, different or inconsistent.

Reconcile

- 1 To conciliate anew; to call back into union and friendship the affections which have been alienated; to restore to friendship or favor after estrangement
- 2 To bring to acquiescence, content or quiet submission; with to; as, to reconcile one's self to afflictions.
- 3 To make consistent or congruous; to bring to agreement or suitableness; followed by with or to.
- 4 To adjust; to settle; as, to reconcile differences or quarrels.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 14

Matthew 5:24 Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

Romans 5:10 (2) For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life.

Romans 11:15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead?

1 Corinthians 7:11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.

2 Corinthians 5:17–21

Ephesians 2:16

Colossians 1:20 And, having made peace through the blood of his cross, by him to reconcile all things unto himself; by him, I say, whether they be things in earth, or things in heaven.

Colossians 1:21–22 And you, that were sometime alienated and enemies in your mind by wicked works, yet now hath he reconciled 22 In the body of his flesh through death, to present you holy and unblameable and unproveable in his sight:

Hebrews 2:17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people.

Greek New Testament

καταλλάσσω

BDAG 462a

- the exchange of hostility for a friendly relationship, reconcile
 - a active: of God, reconciled us to himself through Christ (2 Corinthians 5:18)
 - b passive: be reconciled, become reconciled

LSJ, PDF

-

Some NT uses

Romans 5:10 (2)
2 Corinthians 5:18
2 Corinthians 5:19
2 Corinthians 5:20

ἀποκαταλλάσσω

BDAG 98b

- reconcile

LSJ 201b, PDF 273

- reconcile again

Some NT uses

Ephesians 2:16
Colossians 1:20
Colossians 1:22

Book of Mormon

REDEMPTION, REDEEM, REDEEMER

Scriptural Usage

Total occurrences of “redemption” in the scriptures	112
Total occurrences of “redeem” in the scriptures	218
Total occurrences of “redeemer” in the scriptures	83

New Testament

KJV

Redemption

Total occurrences in the NT 11

Luke 2:38
Luke 21:28
Romans 3:24
Romans 8:23
1 Corinthians 1:30
Ephesians 1:7
Ephesians 1:14
Ephesians 4:30
Colossians 1:14
Hebrews 9:12
Hebrews 9:15

Greek New Testament

ἀπολύτρωσις

Some NT uses

Luke 21:28
Romans 3:24
Romans 8:23
1 Corinthians 1:30
Ephesians 1:7
Ephesians 1:14
Ephesians 4:30
Colossians 1:14
Hebrews 11:35

λύτρωσις

TDNT “In the NT it is the redemption which is awaited for Israel or Jerusalem, Lk. 1:68; 2:38, i.e., from the yoke of enemies, Lk. 1:71. The reference is not to a ransom but to a redeemer, cf. Lk. 24:21. At root we have here the same ideas of the redemption of Israel by God’s pardoning grace as in ψ 110:9; 129:7, so that λύτρωσις is virtually the same as σωτηρία, cf. Lk. 1:69, 77. Hb. 9:12: αἰωνίαν λύτρωσιν εὐράμενος, does not show so close a connection with the OT. Here λύτρωσις has the general sense of redemption, naturally from sin (v. 14). There is no thought of a price, though reference is made to the blood of Jesus. The idea is more cultic than legal in Hb.”

Some NT uses

Luke 2:38

REMISSION, REMIT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Remission

- 1 Abatement; relaxation; moderation; as the remission of extreme rigor.
- 2 Abatement; diminution of intensity; as the remission of the sun's heat; the remission of cold; the remission of close study or of labor.
- 3 Release; discharge or relinquishment of a claim or right; as the remission of a tax or duty.
- 4 In medicine, abatement; a temporary subsidence of the force or violence of a disease or of pain, as distinguished from intermission, in which the disease leaves the patient entirely for a time.
- 5 Forgiveness; pardon; that is, the giving up of the punishment due to a crime; as the remission of sins.
- 6 The act of sending back. [Not in use.]

Remit (transitive)

- 1 To relax, as intensity; to make less tense or violent.
- 2 To forgive; to surrender the right of punishing a crime; as, to remit punishment.
- 3 To pardon, as a fault or crime.
- 4 To give up; to resign.
- 5 To refer; as a clause that remitted all to the bishop's discretion.
- 6 To send back.
- 7 To transmit money, bills or other thing in payment for goods received. American merchants remit money, bills of exchange or some species of stock, in payment for British goods.
- 8 To restore.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 12

Matthew 26:28 For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.

Mark 1:4 John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins.

Luke 1:77 To give knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of their sins,

Luke 3:3 And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins;

Luke 24:47 And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem.

John 20:23 Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

Acts 2:38 Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

Acts 10:43 To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

Romans 3:25 Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;

Hebrews 9:22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission.

Hebrews 10:18 Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

Greek New Testament

ἄφεσις

BDAG 136a

- 1 the act of freeing and liberating from something that confines, release
- 2 the act of freeing from an obligation, guilt, or punishment, pardon, cancellation

LSJ 288a, PDF 361

- 1 letting go, release
- 2 quittance from
- 2b forgiveness (cites the gospels of Mark and Matthew)
- 3 relaxation, exhaustion
- 4 divorce
- 5 starting of horses in a race
- 6 discharge, emission
- 7 (alternate form in Aristotle)
- 8 release (of water)
- 9 reckoning of the vital quadrant (astrological meaning)

Some NT uses

Matthew 26:28 τοῦτο γάρ ἐστιν τὸ αἷμά μου τῆς διαθήκης τὸ περὶ πολλῶν ἐκχυνόμενον εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν·

Mark 1:4 ἐγένετο Ἰωάννης ὁ βαπτίζων ἐν τῇ ἐρήμῳ κηρύσσων βάπτισμα μετανοίας εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν.

Luke 1:77 τοῦ δοῦναι γνῶσιν σωτηρίας τῷ λαῷ αὐτοῦ ἐν ἀφέσει ἁμαρτιῶν αὐτῶν,

Luke 3:3 καὶ ἦλθεν εἰς πᾶσαν περίχωρον τοῦ Ἰορδάνου κηρύσσων βάπτισμα μετανοίας εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν,

Luke 24:47 καὶ κηρυχθῆναι ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματι αὐτοῦ μετάνοιαν καὶ ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν εἰς πάντα τὰ ἔθνη— ἀρξάμενοι ἀπὸ Ἱερουσαλὴμ·

Acts 2:38 Πέτρος δὲ πρὸς αὐτούς· Μετανοήσατε, καὶ βαπτισθῆτω ἕκαστος ὑμῶν ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματι Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ εἰς ἄφεσιν τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ὑμῶν, καὶ λήμψεσθε τὴν δωρεὰν τοῦ ἁγίου πνεύματος·

Acts 10:43 τούτῳ πάντες οἱ προφῆται μαρτυροῦσιν, ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν λαβεῖν διὰ τοῦ ὀνόματος αὐτοῦ πάντα τὸν πιστεύοντα εἰς αὐτόν.

Hebrews 9:22 καὶ σχεδὸν ἐν αἵματι πάντα καθαρίζεται κατὰ τὸν νόμον, καὶ χωρὶς αἵματεκχυσίας οὐ γίνεται ἄφεσις.

Hebrews 10:18 ὅπου δὲ ἄφεσις τούτων, οὐκέτι προσφορὰ περὶ ἁμαρτίας.

ἀφίημι

BDAG 137a

- 1 to dismiss or release someone or something from a place or one's presence
- 2 to release from legal or moral obligation or consequence, cancel, remit, pardon
- 3 to move away, with implication of causing a separation, leave, depart from
- 4 to have something continue or remain in a place, leave standing/lying
- 5 leave it to someone to do something, let, let go, allow, tolerate

LSJ 289b, PDF 362

- I.1 send forth, discharge
- I.2 let fall
- I.3 give up or hand over
- II.1 send away (of persons)
- II.1b let go, loose, set free... in a legal sense, acquit of a charge or engagement
- II.2 send away (of things)
- III.1 leave alone
- III.2 let (something happen)
- IV.1 suffer, permit someone to do something
- V.1 break up, march, sail
- V.2 give up doing

Some NT uses

John 20:23 ἂν τινων ἀφῆτε τὰς ἁμαρτίας ἀφεῶνται αὐτοῖς· ἂν τινων κρατῆτε κεκράτηνται.

BDAG 689b

- deliberate disregard, passing over, letting go unpunished (BDAG at least lists the use in Romans 3:25 as the only occurrence of this word in the NT, and adds the following: “The verb [παρίημι I think] is also used of ‘remitting’ debts and other obligations...but in Romans 3:25 Paul appears to argue that God’s apparent winking at sin puts God’s own uprightness at risk.”)

LSJ 1337b, PDF 1408

- I letting go, dismissal
- II.1 slackening of strength, paralysis
- II.2 a metaphorical sense of II.1
- III remission of debts (or sins; cites Romans 3:25)
- IV neglect

Some NT uses

Romans 3:25 ὃν προέθετο ὁ θεὸς ἱλαστήριον διὰ πίστεως ἐν τῷ αὐτοῦ αἵματι εἰς ἔνδειξιν τῆς δικαιοσύνης αὐτοῦ διὰ τὴν πάρεσιν τῶν προγεγονότων ἁμαρτημάτων

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 28

2 Nephi 25:26 And we talk of Christ, we rejoice in Christ, we preach of Christ, we prophesy of Christ; and we write according to our prophecies that our children may know to what source they may look for a remission of their sins.

2 Nephi 31:17 Wherefore do the things which I have told you that I have seen, that your Lord and your Redeemer should do. For for this cause have they been shewn unto me, that ye might know the gate by which ye should enter. For the gate by which ye should enter is repentance and baptism by water, and then cometh a remission of your sins by fire and by the Holy Ghost.

Mosiah 4:2–3

Mosiah 4:11–12

Mosiah 4:20

Mosiah 4:26

Alma 4:11–14

Alma 12:34

Alma 13:16

Alma 38:8

3 Nephi 12:2 And again, more blessed are they which shall believe in your words because that ye shall testify that ye have seen me and that ye know that I am. Yea, blessed are they which shall believe in your words and come down into the depths of humility and be baptized, for they shall be visited with fire and with the Holy Ghost and shall receive a remission of their sins.

Moroni 8:25–26 And the firstfruits of repentance is baptism. And baptism cometh by faith unto the fulfilling the commandments; and the fulfilling the commandments bringeth remission of sins; 26 and the remission of sins bringeth meekness and lowliness of heart. And because of meekness and lowliness of heart cometh the visitation of the Holy Ghost, which Comforter filleth with hope and perfect love, which love endureth by diligence unto prayer until the end shall come, when all the saints shall dwell with God.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 21

DC 20:37 And again, by way of commandment to the church concerning the manner of baptism—All those who humble themselves before God, and desire to be baptized, and come forth with broken hearts and contrite spirits, and witness before the church that they have truly repented of all their sins, and are willing to take upon them the name of Jesus Christ, having a determination to serve him to the end, and truly manifest by their works that they have received of the Spirit of Christ unto the remission of their sins, shall be received by baptism into his church.

DC 21:9 For, behold, I will bless all those who labor in my vineyard with a mighty blessing, and they shall believe on his words, which are given him through me by the Comforter, which manifesteth that Jesus was crucified by sinful men for the sins of the world, yea, for the remission of sins unto the contrite heart.

DC 27:2 For, behold, I say unto you, that it mattereth not what ye shall eat or what ye shall drink when ye partake of the sacrament, if it so be that ye do it with an eye single to my glory—remembering unto the Father my body which was laid down for you, and my blood which was shed for the remission of your sins.

DC 55:1

DC 56:14–15 • Notice especially the reason why they are not “pardoned” here—they “seek to counsel in [their] own ways.” They weren’t willing to accept the Lord’s counsel about certain matters.

DC 64:3–13 • These verses are important for the idea of a remission as well, but they’re absolutely crucial for Forgiveness.

DC 68:27

DC 84:64

DC 132:46

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 3

Two uses in the JS-H, and one in the AoF.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- Receiving a remission of sin, or having your sins remitted, is to be free from the legal consequences of your actions; you are no longer liable for the punishment, whatever it is, attached to the law you violated.
- Remission of sin and forgiveness of sin are the same thing, and the different words just call attention to different aspects of the process; see this study below.
- The remission of sin comes from fulfilling the commandments (sort of Matthew 19:17 [see the Greek in particular], Luke 7:37–49 [Christ says that the woman’s sins are forgiven in response to her actions], sort of Alma 12:34, Moroni 8:25, DC 1:32, DC 4:2 (being “blameless”), DC 20:37, DC 39:10 (“wash away your sins” after baptism), DC 76:52, the introduction to the endowment (text in the next bullet); see also this study below). This is a general principle, but it is not exceptionless.
 - Text from introduction to the endowment: “you have been washed and pronounced clean, or that through your faithfulness you may become clean, from the blood and sins of this generation.”
- We retain a remission of sin by keeping in mind our relationship to God, and then acting in certain ways in response (see Mosiah 4:11–12).
- There is an internal/mental component to receiving a remission—see DC 55:1.

Remission of sins and forgiveness of sins

What is the relationship between the concept of “remission” and that of “forgiveness”? I believe they are the same, but the two words serve to emphasize different aspects of the same process or experience.

In essence, to receive a remission of sin and a forgiveness of sin is the same thing. It is to be free from the legal consequences of your actions; you are no longer liable for the punishment, whatever it is, attached to the law you violated.

The word “remission” focuses on that legal sense and calls attention to the broken law, the consequences for breaking it, and the fact that those consequences have been officially dissolved or made void. The word “remit,” the verb form, has an even stronger legal sense I think.

The word “forgiveness” focuses on the personal interaction between the person who has broken the law, and the lawgiver (or the one who can dissolve the consequences). There are many instances in the DC, for example, where the Lord includes in a revelation the point that someone’s sins have been forgiven. This point often appears at the beginning of a revelation, almost as a greeting, in a way.

The evidence for the equivalence between those two things is in the pattern of uses throughout the scriptures, but there are some specific things you can point to. We’ll begin with Enos 1:2–6:

and I will tell you of the wrestle which I had before God before that I received a remission of my sins. 3 Behold, I went to hunt beasts in the forest, and I remembered the words which I had often heard my father speak concerning eternal life and the joy of the saints; and the words of my father sunk deep into my heart, 4 and my soul hungered, and I kneeled down before my Maker, and I cried unto him in mighty prayer and supplication for mine own soul. And all the day long did I cry unto him; yea, and when the night came, I did still raise my voice high, that it reached the heavens. 5 And there came a voice unto me, saying: Enos, thy sins are forgiven thee, and thou shalt be blessed. 6 And I Enos knew that God could not lie; wherefore my guilt was swept away.

Here Enos says that he had a wrestle before he obtained a “remission” of his sins. When the remission actually arrives, in verse 5, the Lord says, “Enos, thy sins are forgiven thee.”

Another good example is from Mosiah 4:2–3, 10–12, 20:

2 And they had viewed themselves in their own carnal state, even less than the dust of the earth, and they all cried aloud with one voice, saying: O have mercy and apply the atoning blood of Christ that we may receive forgiveness of our sins and our hearts may be purified, for we believe in Jesus Christ the Son of God, who created heaven and earth and all things, who shall come down among the children of men. 3 And it came to pass that after they had spoken these words, the Spirit of the Lord came upon them, and they were filled with joy, having received a remission of their sins and having peace of conscience because of the exceeding faith which they had in Jesus Christ, which should come, according to the words which king Benjamin had spoken unto them.

10 And again, believe that ye must repent of your sins and forsake them and humble yourselves before God and ask in sincerity of heart that he would forgive you. And now if you believe all these things, see that ye do them. 11 And again I say unto you, as I have said before, that as ye have come to the knowledge of the glory of God or if ye have known of his goodness and have tasted of his love and have received a remission of your sins, which causeth such exceeding great joy in your souls, even so I would that ye should remember and always retain in remembrance the greatness of God and your own nothingness and his goodness and long-suffering towards you unworthy creatures, and humble yourselves even in the depths of humility, calling on the name of the Lord daily and standing steadfastly in the faith of that which is to come, which was spoken by the mouth of the angel. 12 And behold, I say unto you that if ye do this, ye shall always rejoice and be filled with the love of God and always retain a remission of your sins; and ye shall grow in the knowledge of the glory of him that created you, or in the knowledge of that which is just and true.

20 And behold, even at this time ye have been calling on his name and begging for a remission of your sins. And hath he suffered that ye have begged in vain? Nay, he hath poured out his Spirit upon you and hath caused that your hearts should be filled with joy and hath caused that your mouths should be stopped, that ye could not find utterance, so exceeding great was your joy.

The people ask for forgiveness (verse 2), then are visited by the Spirit and receive a remission of sins (verse 3). Benjamin then instructs them in how to retain that remission (verses 10–11), and later notes that when the people were asking for forgiveness, they were “begging for a remission” of sins (verse 20).

Remission of sins and fulfilling the commandments

There are a number of verses which explicitly state that remission of sin (or forgiveness) comes from obeying the commandments. Here are some, beginning with Moroni 8:25:

And the firstfruits of repentance is baptism. And baptism cometh by faith unto the fulfilling the commandments; and the fulfilling the commandments bringeth remission of sins;

DC 1:32:

Nevertheless, he that repents and does the commandments of the Lord shall be forgiven;

Many verses talk about how baptism is “for” or “unto” remission of sin; one of the most explicit, which also mentions fulfilling the commandments, is Moroni 8:11:

And their little children need no repentance, neither baptism. Behold, baptism is unto repentance, to the fulfilling the commandments unto the remission of sins.

Other verses that are useful here include DC 55:1 and DC 108:1.

For me these verses raise a number of interesting questions. Two I want to discuss here are:

1. What is it about fulfilling the commandments which brings a remission?
2. Which commandments are referred to in this principle?

1. Why fulfilling the commandments?

What is it about fulfilling the commandments which brings a remission?

One way to think about this question is to consider what else it could be that could bring a remission. I can see at least a couple options. One is that a remission could come merely from asking for it. The other is that a remission could come whether we want it or not—it just comes to everybody.

The first of these options actually isn't a bad one and I think there are instances in the scriptures where it does actually occur. The most prominent, at least in what I've been reading lately, is in Mosiah 4, where the people are listening to Benjamin and then ask the Lord for forgiveness. They receive a remission even though it isn't clear exactly what "commandment" they have obeyed in order to receive it; it seems all they've done is just ask.

There's no reason to think that a remission cannot come just by asking in some circumstances. The obedience-remission principle doesn't have to be exceptionless; it could just be a general truth which holds for most cases and most times, and it would still be important to know, though there would then be other ways of receiving a remission.

The second option, that a remission comes to everyone whether they want it or not, isn't as appealing, at least to me. Some people won't want it, and the scriptures make clear, especially in DC 88, that people will be given what they want, and won't be forced to accept any level of salvation that they aren't interested in.

With those options out of the way, what then is it about fulfilling the commandments which brings a remission? I have been able to come up with two possible explanations, which may both work together (and maybe with others I haven't thought of) to answer this question.

The first explanation is that this is just the the spiritual laws are set up. We know there are laws governing the relationship between human behavior and spiritual consequences. Some of these laws, as we see in the general obedience-remission principle, govern the reception of a remission of sin. It may be that the laws simply specify that actions are required on our part, rather than something else, in order to activate the (good) consequences of the law.

This is a good explanation but perhaps not as deep as we want it to go. In particular it raises the question of why the laws would be set up this way, and not in some other way.

The second possible explanation may help here. The gospel is about becoming something—it is about transforming ourselves into something new, a new creature, which is eligible for experiences that the old one could not have had. For human beings, with the way our physiology works, becoming something usually requires action over a time period, medium or long. We become something by doing something—we become generous by doing generous actions, we come honest by doing honest actions, and so on. We become spiritual by doing spiritual actions, we become sanctified by doing sanctified actions. Aristotle taught this very clearly and he was right about it.

According to this explanation, the reason why obedience is required for a remission is that obedience is action, and receiving a remission requires actions, not just holding particular beliefs. We must act on those beliefs, not just hold them or mentally affirm them, and obedience is action.

This second explanation may give us a way to understand why the laws governing the reception of a remission involve action. The laws are built for humans, to be useful for us and to give us the best shot possible; it isn't the reverse, that we must conform ourselves to laws that weren't necessarily meant for humans. And so the laws involve action, because change and transformation as humans requires action.

None of this is to deny the role of God's power in our transformation. We are capable of changing our behavior, but being sanctified and becoming holy requires God's power and God's actions, not only ours.

2. Which commandments?

In a number of places, including multiple verses in Moroni 8, the principle of remission and commandments occurs alongside a discussion of baptism. There are also many places in the scriptures, including the NT, BOM, and DC, which mention remission in conjunction with baptism. Here are some of those verses. The first is Luke 3:3, talking about Christ:

And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins;

2 Nephi 31:17:

Wherefore do the things which I have told you that I have seen, that your Lord and your Redeemer should do. For for this cause have they been shewn unto me, that ye might know the gate by which ye should enter. For the gate by which ye should enter is repentance and baptism by water, and then cometh a remission of your sins by fire and by the Holy Ghost.

DC 33:11:

Yea, repent and be baptized, every one of you, for a remission of your sins; yea, be baptized even by water, and then cometh the baptism of fire and of the Holy Ghost.

So, while the principle as stated in DC 1:32 is given generally, elsewhere it appears together with baptism, the context making it fairly clear that the commandment referred to is baptism in particular.

It seems that baptism happens to be a very special commandment. It is the “firstfruits of repentance” (Moroni 8:25; see Firstfruits), and it is the way we witness to God that we are willing to repent, as stated in Alma 7:14–15:

Now I say unto you that ye must repent and be born again, for the Spirit saith: If ye are not born again, ye cannot inherit the kingdom of heaven. Therefore come and be baptized unto repentance, that ye may be washed from your sins, that ye may have faith on the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world, which is mighty to save and to cleanse from all unrighteousness. 15 Yea, I say unto you: Come and fear not, and lay aside every sin which easily doth beset you, which doth bind you down to destruction. Yea, come and go forth, and show unto your God that ye are willing to repent of your sins and enter into a covenant with him to keep his commandments, and witness it unto him this day by going into the waters of baptism.

I think there is just something special about baptism. Clearly it’s very symbolic—of Christ’s death, the cleansing water, the waters of life, and other symbols I’m sure I could think of—but there also just needed to be a start to the path, and baptism happens to be it.

Although it’s obviously important to keep all the commandments, or to do as much as possible to keep them, baptism is a very special one that, when fulfilled, brings a remission of sin.

What about those of us who have already been baptized? Here I want to note a connection to Alma 32:16, which reads:

Therefore blessed are they who humbleth themselves without being compelled to be humble. Or rather, in other words, blessed is he that believeth in the word of God and is baptized without stubbornness of heart, yea, without being brought to know the word—or even compelled to know—before they will believe.

After baptism, we are prompted by the Spirit or other people to make changes in our lives and enhance our level of righteousness. This will probably involve humbling ourselves in some way, and if we can do that, and be “baptized without stubbornness of heart”—if we can fulfill whatever commandment we have been given, baptism representing here any possible instruction from the Lord—then we will be eligible for similar blessings, I think.

The other point regarding those of us who have already been baptized regards the sacrament.

The Lord’s willingness to grant remission of sins

I don’t have much to say about this yet, but in studying remission of sin I have been struck by how readily the Lord grants remissions (forgiveness) in the DC. It happens all the time to many people in many different circumstances.

Some cases:

- DC 29:3
- DC 31:5
- DC 36:1
- DC 60:7
- DC 61:2
- DC 62:3
- DC 64:3
- DC 64:7
- DC 84:61
- DC 90:1
- DC 110:5
- DC 112:1–3
- DC 124:76, 78

Goes along with the Lord’s willingness to heal in other places:

- Matthew 8:2–3

Retaining a remission of sin

See especially Mosiah 4:11–12, but there are other verses that talk about this idea.

The key actions in Mosiah 4:11 are:

- remember and always retain in remembrance the greatness of God and your own nothingness and his goodness and long-suffering towards you unworthy creatures
- humble yourselves even in the depths of humility
- calling on the name of the Lord daily
- standing steadfastly in the faith of that which is to come

Remission and justification

Remission and justification seem to have a lot in common—maybe it's valuable to equate them? Worth looking at in the future.

REMORSE

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 3

Alma 5:18

Alma 29:5

Alma 42:18

Key Phrases

remorse of conscience 2 | Alma 29:5, 42:18

- But see also Alma 5:18; “remorse” only appears three times total in the scriptures.

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

Letter to the Church, circa February 1834 All regularly organized and well established governments, have certain laws by which, more or less, the innocent are protected and the guilty punished. The fact admitted, that certain laws are good, equitable and just, ought to be binding upon the individual who admits this fact, to observe in the strictest manner an obedience to those laws. These laws when violated, or broken by that individual, must, in justice convict his mind with a double force, if possible, of the extent and magnitude of his crime; because he could have no plea of ignorance to produce; and his act of transgression was openly committed against light and knowledge. But the individual who may be ignorant, and imperceptibly transgresses or violates these laws, though the voice of the country requires that he should suffer, yet he will never feel that remorse of conscience that the other will, and that keen-cutting reflection will never rise in his breast that otherwise would, had he done the deed, or committed the offence in full conviction that he was breaking the law of his country, and having previously acknowledged the same to be just.

REPENTANCE

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Luke 15:4–7

Romans 2:4–5

Book of Mormon

Alma 34:8–41

Alma 37:9

- This verse says clearly that repentance is learning about new knowledge: of Christ.

Alma 42:29

Alma 49:11

- This is one of the verses that talks about “altering affairs” or making big changes to do things in an entirely new way.

Helaman 3:27–35

Helaman 5:9–12

Helaman 14:11–13

Mormon 2:12–15

Mormon 3:3

Mormon 5:2

Ether 9:34–35

Moroni 6:1–8

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 58:42–43

DC 66:2

DC 90:34–36

DC 109:53

Key Phrases

condition(s) of repentance See this phrase at Condition.

Commentary and Studies

Repentance as learning

- 1 Nephi 15:14 and notes there
- DC 58:29
- DC 93:19;

RESURRECTION

See also

Death,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Luke 14:12–14

John 5:17–47

John 20

- Note that there are many important things happening in these verses, including what Christ says about not touching him because he hasn't "ascended" yet.

Romans 6

2 Corinthians 4:14

Philippians 3:10–11

- The larger context is in verses 8–14, but 10 and 11 both mention the word "resurrection."
- Note that the words in the two verses are different—you get the expected ἀνάστασις in 10, but then 11 is ἐξανάστασις; see BDAG 305a.

Book of Mormon

2 Nephi 9:4 For I know that thou hast searched much, many of you, to know of things to come. Wherefore I know that ye know that our flesh must waste away and die; nevertheless in our bodies we shall see God.

- Not "in our flesh we shall see God," but "in our bodies"; not "with our bodies" here. It's kind of an unusual comment. It makes me think of Alma 11:45, where "the whole" (body) becomes "spiritual and immortal." 2 Nephi 9:5 gives a clue about the meaning of "in the body," because it talks about Christ showing himself to people at Jerusalem in that way.

Alma 11:45 • And other verses around this one, but I think this one may be the most important.

Helaman 14:15–19

3 Nephi 26:4–5

3 Nephi 28:36–40

- This passage is super crucial.

Mormon 7:5–7

Mormon 9:12–14

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 29:11–13

DC 45:45–46

DC 45:54

DC 52:44

DC 63:17–18

DC 63:49–52

- DC 76:39 • There are other verses around this area which could be relevant, like 37.
- Beginning in verse 50, the discussion of the resurrection turns to that of the "just," and continues from there.
 - There's a lot about the resurrection in this section.

- See 64–65 and notes there too.
- And 85.

DC 88:14–35

DC 88:95–116

DC 138:51

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

23 March 1843

- This is a blessing JS gave to Joseph Kingbury, in which he says a lot of things about the resurrection.

6–8 April 1843 WR-i <P.> Joseph said to complete the subject of Bro Pratts. I thought it a glorious subject with one additional idea <addition> their is no fundamental principle belonging to a human System that never goes into another— <in this world. or the world to come.—> the principle of Mr Pratt was correct. I care not what the theories of men <man> are—we have the testimony that God will raise us up & he has power to do it.— If any one supposes— that any part of our bodies. that is the fundame[n]tal parts thereof, ever goes into another body the is mistaken

- Orson Pratt had been speaking about the resurrection; see his remarks here.

Brigham Young

6 October 1867 no man can explain the resurrection until they receive the keys of the resurrection no more than John Wesley could explain the gospel and building up of Kingdom of God in the latter day without the priesthood and you know he could tell nothing about it [audiences?] to be begin with we talk of scriptures for what other men may understand things by the revelations of the Lord Jesus but they cannot explain to unbelievers all the things of God are understood by the spirit of God without it we know nothing of the resurrection Paul in his writings to his brethren I suppose labored as faithfully to explain principle of the resurrection as a man possibly could do and he utterly failed to give true ideas to his brethren that is in some things he could make a great many statements that are true but still he had not the keys of the resurrection neither could he administer and explain to others (See this source online here.)

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- The resurrection is universal, except the sons of perdition, apparently.
 - Alma 11:42–44, DC 76:36–39

Bodies being “spiritual” after the resurrection

Augustine, DDC I:48–49 Some say that they would prefer not to have a body at all, but they are mistaken. For what they hate is not their body, but its imperfections and its dead weight. 49. What they want is not to have no body at all, but to have one free from corruption and totally responsive; they think that if the body were such a thing it would not be a body, because they consider such a thing to be a soul. When they seem to persecute their own body by a kind of repression, and by hardships, their aim (if they are doing it rightly) is not to have no body at all but to have one that is subservient and ready for necessary tasks. (See also up through 53.)

BY, 8 October 1865 I don’t believe that the Lord is a sinful man neither do you any of you I believe he is a glorified man an exalted man a spiritual man I will give you a comparison I will not stray from the belief of the Christian world you go to them and ask [if] they believe in the resurrection yes they tell you pretty much all the sects they believe that the body will be resurrected immortal spirit and be crowned those that have lived their religion no matter what it is Catholic Church [of] England or any of the religions yes if we live according to our creed we shall receive a resurrection when we see this resurrected person according to their faith and according to ours we see a spiritual body it is sown in weakness raised in power sown a natural body raised a spiritual body now this you and I believe the whole Christian world with few exceptions believe the same and those that receive a resurrection will be raised immortal spiritual incorruptible this is correct we believe it because it is true

Stories to which we can apply resurrection thinking

- Alma 22:22 (and compare when Abish and the queen do it a few chapter earlier)

REVELATION

This entry is for uses of the word “revelation,” not for the epistemology of revelation. For the theory and epistemology of revelation, see the epistemology of revelation.

RIGHTEOUSNESS, RIGHTEOUS

See also

Law,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Righteousness

- 1 Purity of heart and rectitude of life; conformity of heart and life to the divine law. righteousness as used in Scripture and theology, in which it is chiefly used, is nearly equivalent to holiness, comprehending holy principles and affections of heart, and conformity of life to the divine law. It includes all we call justice, honesty and virtue, with holy affections; in short, it is true religion.
- 2 Applied to God, the perfection or holiness of his nature; exact rectitude; faithfulness.
- 3 The active and passive obedience of Christ, by which the law of God is fulfilled.
- 4 Justice; equity between man and man.
- 5 The cause of our justification.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 99

Matthew 5:20

- Need to check out the Greek here and what alternate translations say.

Luke 15:4–7

Matthew 6:33

Romans 3:20–22

Romans 4

- An interesting little discourse on righteousness.
- Very important to work out the relationship between belief/faith and righteousness.
- I think this chapter is relevant to some issues in faith vs. works, like verses 4–5 for example.

Romans 8:4, 10

2 Corinthians 6:14

Galatians 3:21

- A very important verse for how Paul sees the relationship between righteousness and life.

Greek New Testament

ἀδικία

BDAG 18

- 1 an act that violates standards of right conduct, wrongdoing (opposite δικαιοσύνη)
- 2 the quality of injustice, unrighteousness, wickedness, injustice...in a broader sense ἀδικία can refer to the essence of the evil world...in such case the genitive signifies one's allegiance or subjugation to it

CGL 20a, PDF 46

- injustice, wrongdoing

LSJ 23b, PDF 96

I wrongdoing, injustice

II wrongful act, offence

Total occurrences in the NT 25

δίκαιος

BDAG 218a

1 pertaining to being in accordance with high standards of rectitude, upright, just, fair

1a of humans

1aα In Greco-Roman tradition a δίκαιος person is one who upholds the customs and norms of behavior, including especially public service, that make for a well-ordered, civilized society

1aβ of things relating to human beings

1b of transcendent beings. Because of their privileged status as authority figures, the idea of fairness or equity is associated with such entities

1bα God

1bβ of Jesus who, as the ideal of an upright person is called simply δίκαιος

2 the neuter denotes that which is obligatory in view of certain requirements of justice, right, fair, equitable

CGL 378b, PDF 404

1 (of persons) observing the rules and customs of society, civilised, well-mannered, decent

2 (of persons, their attributes) having due regard to what is right and honourable, righteous, honourable, upright, fair

3 (of actions, speech, or similar) conforming with right or law, right, lawful, just

4 (of persons) right, proper, or deserving (with infinitive to do or experience something)

5 (generally, or an account) strictly true, precise

LSJ 429a, PDF 500

A1 in Homer and all writers, of persons, observant of custom or rule

A2 observant of duty to gods and men, righteous

A3 euphemistic of a sacred snake

B1a equal, even, well-balanced

B1b1 legally exact, precise

B1b2 lawful, just

B1Ia of persons and things, meet and right, fitting

B1Ib1 normal

B1Ib2 real, genuine

B1Ib3 the plea of equity

BIII (special use)

C (special, apparently impersonal use in some prose sources)

Some NT uses

Galatians 3:11

- There are other verses around here that talk about justification, which is the same root as δίκαιος.

δικαιοσύνη

See also ἀνομία; BDAG and LSJ give the opposite of ἀνομία as δικαιοσύνη, so this word is important in thinking about the opposite of lawlessness or lawless conduct (i.e., lawfulness and lawful conduct).

BDAG also gives ἀδικία as an opposite of δικαιοσύνη (in the entry for the former).

BDAG 219a generally, the quality of being upright. Theognis (sixth century BC) defines δικαιοσύνη as the sum of all ἀρετή; according to Demosthenes it is the opposite of κακία. A strict classification of δικαιοσύνη in the NT is complicated by frequent interplay of abstract and concrete aspects drawn from the OT and Greco-Roman cultures, in which a sense of equitableness combines with an awareness of responsibility within a social context.

1 the quality, state, or practice of judicial responsibility with focus on fairness, justice, equitableness, fairness

1a of human beings

1b of transcendent figures

2 quality or state of juridical correctness with focus on redemptive action, righteousness. Equitableness if especially associated with God.

3 the quality or characteristic of upright behavior, uprightness, righteousness

3a of uprightness in general

3b of specific action, righteousness in the sense of fulfilling divine expectation not specifically expressed in ordinances

3c uprightness as determined by divine legal standards

CGL 378b, PDF 404

- righteousness, justice

LSJ 429a, PDF 500

I.1 righteousness, justice

I.2 fulfillment of the Law (Here the entry mentions the LXX and the gospel of Matthew, and notes there are other uses in the NT as well.)

II justice, the business of a judge

III Δικαιοσύνη, personified

IV Pythagorean name for four

V (Some special use limited to a certain author.)

Some NT uses

2 Corinthians 6:14 Μὴ γίνεσθε ἑτεροζυγοῦντες ἀπίστοις· τίς γὰρ μετοχὴ δικαιοσύνης καὶ ἀνομία, ἢ τίς κοινωνία φωτὶ πρὸς σκότος·

Galatians 3:21

ἐλεημοσύνη

BDAG 279b

1 exercise of benevolent goodwill, alms, charitable giving with focus on attitude and action as such

2 that which is benevolently given to meet a need, alms with focus on material as such

Book of Mormon

Helaman 7:20–24

Helaman 13:13–14

Helaman 13:38

Ether 10:11

Ether 10:13

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 67:9

DC 90:24

Key Phrases

robe of righteousness 5 | Isaiah 61:10; 2 Nephi 4:33; 2 Nephi 9:14; DC 29:12; DC 109:76

Bible anchor verses

Isaiah 61:10 מְאִיל צִדְקָה

Commentary Note also Job 29:14.

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

21 May 1843 HC-b Righteousness is not that which men esteem holiness. That which the world call righteousness I have not any regard for. To be righteous is to be just and merciful. if a man fails in kindness justice and mercy he will be damed for many will say in that day Lord. have we not Prophetised in thy name and in thy name done many wonderful works but he will say unto them ye workers of iniquity &c

RIGHT (NOUN)

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Conformity to the will of God, or to his law, the perfect standard of truth and justice.
- 2 Conformity to human laws, or to other human standard of truth, propriety or justice.
- 3 Justice; that which is due or proper.
- 4 Freedom from error; conformity with truth or fact.
- 5 Just claim; legal title; ownership; the legal power of exclusive possession and enjoyment.
- 6 Just claim by courtesy, customs, or the principles of civility and decorum.
- 7 Just claim by sovereignty; prerogative.
- 8 That which justly belongs to one.
- 9 Property; interest.
- 10 Just claim; immunity; privilege. All men have a right to the secure enjoyment of life, personal safety, liberty and property. We deem the right of trial by jury invaluable, particularly in the case of crimes. Rights are natural, civil, political, religious, personal, and public.
- 11 Authority; legal power.
- 12 In the United States, a tract of land; or a share or proportion of property, as in a mine or manufactory.
- 13 The side opposite to the left.

ROUND

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Noun

- 1 A circle; a circular thing, or a circle in motion.
- 2 Action or performance in a circle, or passing through a series of hands or things and coming to the point of beginning; or the time of such action.
- 3 Rotation in office; succession in vicissitude.
- 4 A rundle; the step of a ladder.
 - Compare OED #III.13.a.
- 5 A walk performed by a guard or an officer.
- 6 A dance; a song; a roundelay, or a species of fugue.
- 7 A general discharge of fire-arms by a body of troops, in which each soldier fires once.

Oxford English Dictionary

Noun

- I Something circular in form, and related senses; a circle, a ring.
- I.1.a A circular band, a ring; a ring-shaped object; (in later use) spec. a representation or drawing of a ring-shaped object on a flat surface, esp. one used to enclose another image, an inscription, etc. Formerly also: ta coil (obsolete). Also figurative.
- I.1.b A link in a chain. Obsolete.
- I.1.c A single turn of thread, yarn, etc., wound on to a reel.
- I.2.a A group of people sitting (standing, dancing, etc.) in a circle. Frequently in a round.
- I.2.b A circular group of things; a number of things set or arranged in a ring.
- I.2.c In extended use: a group or set of things which are related or typically found together, esp. a circle of friends or acquaintances.
- I.3 The circumference, bounds, or extent of a circular object. Also figurative. Now chiefly literary.
- I.4.a A circular object, a disc; spec. a representation or drawing of a circle on a flat surface, e.g. a heraldic roundel.
- I.4.b A circular archery target marked with a bullseye at the centre of a number of concentric rings, and usually mounted on a butt (butt n.7 2a). Chiefly in at rounds. Frequently contrasted with rover n.2 1a. Obsolete (historical in later use).
- I.4.c A flat circular piece of something. Frequently in Cookery.
- I.4.d A large round piece of beef; spec. a thick disc cut from the haunch as a joint. Frequently in round of beef.
- I.4.e A slice of bread, originally as cut from a round loaf; a slice of toast.
- I.5.a A man-made structure with a circular form; a curved or rounded part of such a structure; (in early use) esp. a circular tower or turret forming part of a larger structure. Chiefly Scottish in early use.
- I.5.b A natural structure of circular form; (now) esp. a ring or circular clump or flowers, trees, etc. Also: a circular or rounded part of a natural structure.
- I.5.c A curve or bend in a river, coastline, etc. Now rare.
- I.6 A statue or piece of sculpture made in the round (see Phrases 2a(a)). Also: a fragment of a statue. Obsolete.
- I.7 Brewing. Originally (more fully cleansing round): a large cask in which beer is purified and the fermentation process finished (now chiefly historical). Later (usually in fermenting round): a large round vessel in which beer is fermented.
- I.8 Surveying. A complete circle (of measured angles). Now rare.
- II A spherical object.
- II.9 Something of spherical form; a sphere, an orb; spec. a planet. Formerly also: a globular lump (obsolete). Somewhat rare except as in sense 10a.
- II.10 spec. Chiefly poetic.
- II.10.a With this (also the). The earth. Frequently with modifying word, esp. in this earthly round, this terrestrial round.
- II.10.b The vault of the sky; the firmament; = heaven n. 1a. Frequently more fully round of heaven, celestial round, etc.

- II.11 = round shot n. Now chiefly historical.
- II.12 A (more or less) spherical variety of potato.
- III A cylindrical object, and related senses.
- III.13 A cylindrical part of an implement or other manufactured object.
- III.13.a A rung of a ladder.
- III.13.b figurative or in figurative context. Cf. rung n. 2b. Now rare.
- III.13.c A rod or bar joining and supporting the legs of a chair (or occasionally the stilts of a plough); a stretcher. rare before 19th cent. (chiefly U.S. in later use).
- III.13.d Printing. = rounce n.1 1. Obsolete. rare.
- III.13.e Each of the cylindrical pins of a trundle or lantern pinion.
- III.14 A long length of fabric rolled or wound up into cylindrical form; this as a fixed measurement, esp. for sale. Cf. roll n.1 5a. Obsolete.
- III.15 An object with a convex surface.
- III.15.a Architecture. A convex moulding of which the section is (more or less) a semicircle, as an astragal, a torus, etc.
- III.15.b Woodworking. A plane with a convex iron designed to cut an arc of sixty degrees, typically used in conjunction with a hollow.
- III.16 A cylindrical piece of something.
- III.16.a A roughly cylindrical piece of edible root, tuber, or stalk, esp. of dried rhubarb rhizome.
- III.16.b An iron or steel bar of circular section.
- IV Something which moves in a circular manner or occurs cyclically.
- IV.17.a A dance in which the dancers move in a circle, typically while remaining in contact with each other, e.g. by holding hands. Also figurative and in extended use.
- IV.17.b The music for such a dance. rare.
- IV.18 A swinging stroke or blow with a sword. Obsolete.
- IV.19 Music. Originally: a short, simple song, esp. one in which two or more people sing in turn. Later: spec. a song for three or more unaccompanied voices or parts, each singing the same theme but starting one after another, at the same pitch or in octaves; a simple canon.
- IV.20.a A regularly recurring sequence or continuous cycle of activities, events, duties, etc. Frequently with of.
- IV.20.b The constant passage and recurrence of days, years, or other cyclical measures of time; the passage of time in cyclical periods. Also: a particular cycle of days, hours, etc. Usually with of.
- IV.20.c Theosophy. Each of seven subdivisions of human spiritual life, represented as a cycle of spiritual development.
- IV.21 An act of ringing each bell of a set or peal in sequence; (now) spec. a sequence in which bells are rung moving down the scale in order, typically preceding the ringing of changes (change n. 9a). Also occasionally in extended use.
- V A circular route; a circuit, a tour, and related senses. Frequently in combination with a basic verb of action, as go, make, take, etc.
- V.22.a A circular or revolving motion; movement in a circle; esp. a recurring circular course. Also in plural and figurative.
- V.22.b An indirect or circuitous path, route, or journey; a journey which contains many detours and ultimately comes full circle. Now somewhat rare.
- V.22.c A circuit of a racecourse; a lap.
- V.23 Military.
- V.23.a A circuit of a garrison or camp, the ramparts of a fortress, etc., made by a patrol, esp. during the night, to ensure that the sentinels are vigilant; (also) a circuit of the streets of a town made by a watch to preserve good order. Chiefly in to go (also to make, pace, walk, etc.) the rounds (also round). Also figurative and in extended use. Now chiefly in plural and historical.
- V.23.b A watch or patrol that is responsible for making a regular inspection of sentries, patrolling a town, etc. Now rare.
- V.23.c Nautical. In plural. Inspection.
- V.24 In singular or plural. Frequently with possessive adjective, as to go (also walk, march, etc.) one's round (also rounds).
- V.24.a A route, course, or circuit habitually used or followed by a person in the course of his or her job.
- V.24.b spec.
- V.24.b.(a) Chiefly British. A journey along a fixed route for the purpose of delivering goods; a regular route followed in this way; a delivery job involving journeys along such a route.
- V.24.b.(b) A regular visit by a doctor or nurse in a hospital to each of the patients under his or her care.
- V.25 The circuit of a place, building, etc. Now only with of. Also figurative.
- V.26.a A recreational walk or drive round a place or a number of places; a tour. Usually in to take (also go, make) a round. Also figurative. Now chiefly South Asian.
- V.26.b An act of visiting a number of people or places in turn. Frequently in plural.
- V.26.c A series of visits, appearances, etc., undertaken in a single trip or tour, or within a certain period of time.

- V.27 In plural. With the. The procedure established under the Poor Law by which unemployed agricultural labourers were given temporary work by a number of farmers in turn. Chiefly in on the rounds, (also) to go the rounds. Cf. roundsman n. 1. Now historical.
- V.28 Australian and New Zealand. Frequently with modifying word. Originally: the succession of routine enquiries made by a journalist covering news stories in a particular subject or area (frequently in plural); esp. in police round. Hence also: the subject or area assigned for a journalist to cover.
- VI A single amount or quantity of something.
- VI.29.a A set of drinks bought for all the members of a group, in early use esp. for a toast, now typically as one of a sequence bought by different members of the group. Formerly frequently with of and type of drink specified.
- VI.29.b A set of portions of food bought or provided for all the members of a group. Frequently with of and type of food specified.
- VI.29.c Chiefly British. The quantity of sandwiches (typically two) made from two slices of bread.
- VI.30 Frequently in plural.
- VI.30.a The amount of ammunition needed to fire one shot from a firearm or piece of artillery. Also occasionally: ta single arrow or bolt for a bow (obsolete).
- VI.30.b A single volley of fire by artillery or a number of firearms; a shot from a single firearm or piece of artillery. Also: ta single arrow shot from a bow (obsolete).
- VI.31 Coal Mining. A quantity of coal delivered to the surface by a putter. Obsolete.
- VI.32 A single, distinct outburst of applause, cheers, etc.
- VI.33 A unit of trade used by European traders in West Africa, consisting of a selection of goods. Frequently in round trade n. at Compounds 2. Now historical.
- VII A period or bout of play at a game or sport, and related senses.
- VII.34.a A game of cards. Chiefly with of.
- VII.34.b Golf. An act of playing all the holes on a golf course (or occasionally all those nominated for play in a particular tournament) once. Also (with of): the score made in doing this.
- VII.34.c gen. A bout of play at a game, sport, or contest; (in early use) spec. a bout of fisticuffs. Also in extended use.
- VII.35 Cards. A single turn of play by all the players, esp. the playing of a single card in turn by each of the players; a trick.
- VII.36.a Originally Boxing. Each of the periods into which a boxing match (or later a match in other combat sports, as wrestling, karate, etc.) is divided. Also in extended use.
- VII.36.b figurative. With reference to the exchanges and contributions constituting a debate, argument, controversy, etc. Frequently in round two, typically suggesting the initiation of a new phase of the dispute.
- VII.36.c Each of a number of subdivisions or segments of a quiz, game show, or similar competition.
- VII.37 Originally and chiefly Sport. Each of a succession of stages in a competition, each resulting in the elimination of a number of competitors or candidates.
- VII.38 Archery. A fixed number of arrows shot from a fixed distance. Frequently with distinguishing word, as National round, Vegas round, York round, etc.
- VII.39 A session of meetings for discussion or negotiation, esp. one of a sequence of sessions in an ongoing process, typically characterized by a development between one session and another.

Key Phrases

one eternal round 5 | 1 Nephi 10:19; Alma 7:20; 37:12; DC 3:2; DC 35:1

Commentary This is a very interesting phrase; notice that all five occurrences of it are describing the “course” of the Lord.

Here is some more material for thinking about this phrase:

Some definitions of “course” in the 1828 dictionary:

- 1 In its general sense, a passing; a moving, or motion forward, in a direct or curving line; applicable to any body or substance, solid or fluid.
- 2 The direction of motion; line of advancing; point of compass, in which motion is directed.
- 4 A passing or process; the progress of any thing; as the course of an argument, or of a debate; a course of thought or reflexion.
- 5 Order of proceeding or of passing from an ancestor to an heir; as the course of descent in inheritance.
- 6 Order; turn; class; succession of one to another in office, or duty.
- 7 Stated and orderly method of proceeding; usual manner.
- 8 Series of successive and methodical procedure; a train of acts, or applications.
- 9 A methodical series, applied to the arts or sciences; a systemized order of principles in arts or sciences, for illustration of instruction.

10 Manner of proceeding; way of life or conduct; deportment; series of actions.

11 Line of conduct; manner of proceeding.

There are also various meanings of “round” that give various senses of the phrase. Here are a few from the OED, along with an explanation of what the phrase might mean with that sense of “round”:

I The motion the Lord is taking forward, either literally or figuratively, repeats itself again and again, as in a circle.

III.13.a (“The course the Lord is taking in this implementation of the plan of salvation is one step up the eternal ladder of progression.”) The progress the Lord makes is continually upward, one step at a time, as though he were ascending a ladder.

IV The progress the Lord undergoes occurs cyclically, passing through the same or similar stages of development again and again (see also IV.20.a and IV.20.b).

All three of these, but especially those in IV, have a natural Adam-God interpretation, where the cycle of resurrection, exaltation, fall, progression, resurrection is followed again and again. I think this is an extremely powerful and beautiful interpretation.

From the scriptures themselves we can also gather more about possible meanings of this phrase:

1 Nephi 10:19 God works in the same way with his children across time; in particular, the Holy Ghost reveals things to them regardless of what time period they live in.

Alma 7:20, Alma 37:12, DC 3:2 The Lord takes the straightest and most efficient route to complete anything. Also, he does not vary from the course to go in some aberrant direction.

DC 35:1 Similar to 1 Nephi 10:19, the Lord uses the same methods of acting with his children throughout time.

Another verse to consider here is Luke 9:31, which uses the term ἐξοδος, which can mean “course” but also “death.” So “one eternal round” on this meaning, if it were understood as the “course,” could be the Adam-God idea of repeating the cycle of dying, being born, and being exalted again.

This phrase is really rich with meaning. I’m sure that I have not exhausted the possibilities here.

RUNDLE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A round; a step of a ladder.
- 2 Something put round an axis.

SACRAMENT

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 26:26–29

Mark 14:22–25

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- The story of the woman at the well includes discussion of both water and solid food.
- DC 27:2 has several important points about how we perform the sacrament, how it has an effect, and what we are supposed to understand with the bread and the water (or whatever food or drink we use to do the ordinance).

SACRIFICE

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

1 Samuel 15:22 And Samuel said, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams.

SALVATION

Scriptural Usage

Key Phrases

temporal salvation 2 | DC 89:2; Moses 7:42
Bible anchor verses —

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

14 May 1843 WW-a The principl of knowledge is the principle of Salvation the Principle can be comprehended, for any one that cannot get knowledge to be Saved will be damned. The Principl of Salvation is given to us through the knowledge of Jesus Christ Salvation is nothing more or less than to triumph over all our enemies & put them under our feet & when we have power to put all enemies under our feet in this world & a knowledge to triumph over all evil spirits in the world to come then we are saved as in the case of Jesus he was to reign untill he had put all enemies under his feet & the last enemy was death

- For this idea of “salvation” as triumphing over enemies, see Luke 1:69–71,

21 May 1843 (Willard Richards) salvation. is for a man to be seveed from all his enemies.— until a man can triumph over death. he is not saved. knowlidge will do this.

- At “seveed,” a JSP footnote says: “TEXT: Likely ‘seve[r]ed’ but possibly ‘saveed [saved]’.”

21 May 1843 (Howard Coray) What is Salvation. Salvation is for a man to be Saved from all his enemies even our last enemy which is death

Commentary and Studies

Universal salvation in the restored gospel

- DC 52:15–18
- DC 58:7–11
- DC 76:44, thinking about the sons of perdition, but it also speaks of the “end” of their punishment; think of DC 19 stuff there, and also Native Element stuff too

SANCTIFICATION, SANCTIFY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Sanctification

- The act of making holy. In an evangelical sense, the act of God's grace by which the affections of men are purified or alienated from sin and the world, and exalted to a supreme love to God.
- The act of consecrating or of setting apart for a sacred purpose; consecration.

Sanctify

- In a general sense, to cleanse, purify or make holy.
- To separate, set apart or appoint to a holy, sacred or religious use.
- To purify; to prepare for divine service, and for partaking of holy things.
- To separate, ordain and appoint to the work of redemption and the government of the church.
- To cleanse from corruption; to purify from sin; to make holy by detaching the affections from the world and its defilements, and exalting them to a supreme love to God.
- To make the means of holiness; to render productive of holiness or piety.
- To make free from guilt.
- To secure from violation.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Sanctification

Total occurrences in the NT 5

1 Corinthians 1:30 But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

1 Thessalonians 4:3 For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication:

1 Thessalonians 4:4 That every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour;

2 Thessalonians 2:13 But we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth:

1 Peter 1:2 Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

Greek New Testament

ἀγιάζω

BDAG 8b

- 1 set aside something or make it suitable for ritual purposes, consecrate, dedicate
- 2 include a person in the inner circle of what is holy, in both cultic and moral associations of the word, consecrate, dedicate, sanctify...so of Christians, who are consecrated by baptism...
- 3 to treat as holy, reverence
- 4 to eliminate that which is incompatible with holiness, purify

CGL , PDF

•

LSJ , PDF

•

ἁγιασμός

BDAG 9a

- personal dedication to the interests of the deity, holiness, consecration, sanctification; the use in a moral sense for a process or, more often, its result (the state of being made holy) is peculiar to our literature

CGL , PDF

•

LSJ , PDF

•

Book of Mormon

Sanctification

Total occurrences in the BOM 2

Helaman 3:35 2 | Nevertheless they did fast and pray oft and did wax stronger and stronger in their humility and firmer and firmer in the faith of Christ unto the filling their souls with joy and consolation, yea, even to the purifying and the sanctification of their hearts, which sanctification cometh because of their yielding their hearts unto God.

SATAN, LUCIFER

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

Isaiah 14:12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!

- See my notes at this verse.

New Testament

KJV

John 8:44

Book of Mormon

Helaman 6:21–31

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 1:35

DC 29:36–40

DC 76:25–49

Pearl of Great Price

Moses 4:3–21 Especially verses 3–4.

Commentary and Studies

Satan's power and authority

The following passages are important:

- Matthew 9:34
- Matthew 12:26—I'm thinking specifically of the "kingdom" word here, in connection with DC 88:38. See also Luke 11:17–19.
- The temptation in the wilderness early in Christ's life, especially the Luke account; it's Luke 4:1–13 but verses 5–8 are particularly important.
- Luke 12:5
- Colossians 1:11–13
 - Verse 13 is the most important here.
- 1 Nephi 15:35, the earlier version, which has "proprietor" instead of "preparator." Goes with the endowment comment below.
- 2 Nephi 2:27, 29
 - Verse 29 is super important.
 - Read it together with 3 Nephi 28:39 below.
- See Alma 34:34–35, the devil "sealing you his"; see Seal.

- See also 2 Nephi 9:46.
- DC 29:36–40, especially verse 36; compare to Moses 4:3
- DC 76:25–31, where it says that there was an angel of God “who was in authority in the presence of God”; see my notes on these verses and their connection to Isaiah. See also the notes at DC 76:31, which allows you to connect to the oath and covenant of the priesthood at DC 84. See my notes at 26 too, for the “man of lawlessness,” which is extremely important.
- The discussion of Satan’s apron in the endowment ceremony. Satan says that the apron is “an emblem of my power and priesthoods.” See also this note in particular.
- See the bit in the endowment ceremony about Satan being the “god of this world.”
 - See also 1 Nephi 15:35 above, DC 1:35 (“the devil shall have power over his own dominion”), DC 5:19 JSP manuscript version,
- Moses 4:1–4 is important here too, and you can connect it to the verses in Luke 4 mentioned above.
- 1 Nephi 22:26
- 2 Nephi 2:29
- 3 Nephi 6:28–30
 - I’ve never made the connection with these verses before, but it says that the devil is the administrator of a certain covenant. This could be a basis for the whole way of thinking about the matter.
- 3 Nephi 7:5 is the kind of verse, and there are others, where you can read it in the light of ideas about power and knowledge—so Satan has some sort of power stemming from some kind of knowledge and “obedience” to that knowledge.
 - It would help to round up other verses that talk about Satan’s power this way.
 - And I would want to connect this idea with the ones mentioned in my notes on the BOM on goodness, for 3 Nephi 4:5 and other verses, where we see the effects of evil and what it is able to accomplish. I think this is one of the things that is fundamental about the difference between good and evil, or it’s a way of thinking about their true nature.
- 3 Nephi 28:39 is a very important passage, and it goes with the equally important
- 4 Nephi 1:28
- Mormon 1:19; also 2:10 here
- Mormon 5:18
- Ether 8:15–26
 - Also 9:5–6 here.
 - Also 10:33.
- Ether 15:19

SCOURGE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Transitive verb

- 1 To whip severely; to lash.
- 2 To punish with severity; to chastise; to afflict for sins or faults, and with the purpose of correction.
- 3 To afflict greatly; to harass, torment or injure.

SEAL

Oxford English Dictionary

I To attest by a seal.

- I.1.a transitive. To place a seal upon (a document) as evidence of genuineness, or as a mark of authoritative ratification or approval.
- I.1.b figurative. To authenticate or attest solemnly by some act compared to the affixing of a seal.
- I.1.c To conclude, ratify, render binding (an agreement, etc.) by affixing the seals of the parties to the instrument. Also figurative, to ratify or clinch (a bargain) by some ceremonial act.
- I.1.d To grant (a charter, etc.) under one's seal; figurative to give (testimony, a promise, etc.) in an authoritative manner or with solemn pledges of good faith.
- I.1.e To impose (an obligation, a penalty) on a person in a binding manner.
- I.1.f figurative. Of a thing or act: To attest or ratify as a seal does; to be a 'seal' of.
- I.1.g To decide irrevocably (the fate of a person or thing); to complete and place beyond dispute or reversal (a victory, defeat, etc.).
- I.2.a To mark by a seal as reserved for a particular destination. Chiefly figurative, esp. in certain uses of New Testament origin: To designate, set apart, assign to another person or bind together, by an inviolable token or pledge.
- I.2.b In allusions to Revelation vii. 5–8.
- I.2.c Among the Mormons, to set apart (a woman) by a solemn ceremony to a man as one of his 'spiritual wives'.
- I.3 To impress a seal upon (weights or measures) to indicate that their correctness has been tested by municipal or other lawful authority. Also, to place an official stamp on (merchandise, e.g. pieces of cloth) to certify that it is of standard measure or quality.
- I.4.a intransitive. (Cf. 1 absol.) To set one's seal (to a document). Also spec. to set one's seal to or execute a promissory note; to become security for a person. Also seal under. Obsolete.
- I.4.b figurative. To assent, lend one's support or authority to a statement or proposal. Obsolete.
- I.4.c figurative ? To make peace. Obsolete.

II To fasten with or as with a seal.

- II.5.a transitive. To fasten (a folded letter or other document) with melted wax or some other plastic material and impress a seal upon this, so that opening is impossible unless the seal is broken.
 - Dating back to around 1225.
 - Note that, as it says in TDNT, the earliest seals were clay, not wax.
- II.5.b Said of the signet itself.
- II.5.c To stamp the wax fastening (a letter) with something substituted for a seal.
- II.5.d To fasten up (a letter, a parcel) with sealing-wax, a wafer, gum, or the like.
- II.6.a To place a seal upon the opening of (a door, a chest, etc.) for security. Also with up.
- II.6.b In figurative phrases, esp. to seal (a person's) lips, to bind or constrain to silence or secrecy; to seal (a person's) eyes or ears, to render blind or deaf, also to restrain from looking or listening. Also with up.
- II.7.a To place in a receptacle secured by a seal.
- II.7.b Chess. to seal a move. Of a player in a match or tournament: To place in a sealed envelope a statement of the move he intends to make when the game is resumed after an adjournment.
- II.8.a To close (a vessel, an aperture, etc.) securely by placing a coating of wax, cement, or lead, over the orifice, or, in wider sense, by any kind of fastening that must be broken before access can be obtained. to seal hermetically: see the adverb.
- II.8.b Surgery. To close up (a wound) with a covering that is not to be removed until healing has taken place.
- II.8.c To render (a surface of wood, etc.) impervious by the application of a special coating.
- II.8.d To prevent access to and egress from (an area or space); to close (entrances) for this purpose. Usually with off.
- II.9.a To fasten on or down with wax or cement.
- II.9.b figurative. To fasten, fix immoveably.
- II.9.c intransitive. To apply wax, etc. in fastening.
- II.10 Building. transitive. To secure in position in a wall by means of mortar, cement, etc. [So French sceller.]
- II.11 transferred. To enclose, shut up within impenetrable barriers. Also, to confine so as to prevent access or egress, and with off.

III To mark with or as with a seal.

- III.12.a transitive. To impress (a mark) upon.
- III.12.b intransitive. To make marks like those on a seal. Obsolete.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 42

Ephesians 1:13

Greek New Testament

σφραγίζω

BDAG 871a

- 1 to provide with a seal as a security measure, seal with accusative of the object that is to be secured or fastened by the seal
- 2 to close something up tight, seal
- 3 to mark with a seal as a means of identification, mark, seal...so that the mark denoting ownership also carries with it the protection of the owner...σφραγίζωμεν τοὺς δούλους τοῦ θεοῦ ἐπὶ τῶν μετώπων αὐτῶν (Revelation 7:3)..this forms a basis for understanding the imagery which speaks of those who enter the Christian community as being sealed with or by the Holy Spirit (Ephesians 1:13; compare Ephesians 4:30). Similarly θεός, ὁ σφραγισάμενος ἡμᾶς καὶ δούς τὸν ἀρραβῶνα τοῦ πνεύματος ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν (2 Corinthians 1:22), but here the context contributes an additional component in the sense of ‘endue with power from heaven’, as plainly in John 6:27...
- 4 to certify that something is so, attest, certify, acknowledge figurative (as a seal does on a document)
- 5 to seal something for delivery, seal
 - There is a discussion of Romans 15:28 here.

CGL 1349b, PDF 1389

- 1 mark with a seal (for identification or security), seal—a document, a boulder (blocking an entrance) (NT); (middle)—a document, the doors of a storeroom
- 2 (figurative) mark with a seal (for authentication or approval); (of God) mark with His seal —Christ (NT); (of a person) certify —with complementary clause that something is the case (NT)
- 3 passive (figurative, of persons who have been in a fight) be stamped —with dative with marks of injury

LSJ 1742a, PDF 1813

- I.1 close or enclose with a seal
- I.2 authenticate a document with a seal
- I.3 certify an object after examination by attaching a seal
- I.4 Middle, seal an article to show that it is pledged
- II metaphorical senses
- II.1 close up as if with a seal
- II.2 accredit as an envoy
- II.3 set a seal of approval upon, confirm
- II.4 generally, mark
- II.5 set an end or limit to

Total occurrences in the NT 15

Some NT uses

Matthew 27:66

John 3:33

John 6:27

Romans 15:28

2 Corinthians 1:22

Ephesians 1:13

Ephesians 4:30

Revelation 7:3

Revelation 7:4 (2)

Revelation 7:5

Revelation 7:8
Revelation 10:4
Revelation 20:3
Revelation 22:10

TDNT: σφραγίζω (7:939–953)

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 1:8–9

SEARCH

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Transitive verb

- 1 To look over or through for the purpose of finding something; to explore; to examine by inspection.
- 2 To inquire; to seek for.
- 3 To probe; to seek the knowledge of by feeling with instrument.
- 4 To examine; to try.

Intransitive verb

- 1 To seek; to look for; to make search.
- 2 To make inquiry; to inquire.

Noun

- 1 A seeking or looking for something that is lost, or the place of which is unknown.
- 2 Inquiry; a seeking.
- 3 Quest; pursuit for finding.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ἐραυνάω

BDAG 343a

- to make a careful or thorough effort to learn something, search, examine, investigate
 - It glosses 1 Corinthians 2:10 as “the Spirit fathoms everything.”

CGL 597a, PDF 623

- 1 (of persons, gods) search for...(intransitive) search (for something)
- 2 search, explore—places; (intransitive) make a search (of a person, a ship)
- 3 investigate, examine—persons, their behaviour; —the nature of everything; —the Scriptures NT; (intransitive) make investigations
- 4 seek knowledge of, inquire about; inquire, ask
- 5 discover by inquiring, search out; (intransitive) investigate, inquire
- 6 seek, try

LSJ 686a, PDF 757

- 1 seek or search for, search after, track
- 2 search, explore a place
- 3 inquire after...examine into a question
- 4 with infinitive, seek to do

Total occurrences in the NT 6

Some NT uses

John 5:39
John 7:52

Romans 8:27
1 Corinthians 2:10
1 Peter 1:11
Revelation 2:23

SEE, SEEING, SIGHT

Key Phrases

see eye to eye 7 | Isaiah 52:8; Mosiah 12:22; Mosiah 15:29; Mosiah 16:1; 3 Nephi 16:18; 3 Nephi 20:32; DC 84:98

Bible anchor verses

Isaiah 52:8

Commentary The phrase “see eye to eye” reminds me of DC 76:94.

Commentary and Studies

Seeing as the basic epistemic state in the gospel

- See Jacob 7:12; notice how these ways of knowing are treated separately
- See uses of “surety” in the scriptures, and how many of them relate to empirical and in particular visual witnesses
- John 20:8
- Find uses of “see” and forms of “know” in the same area, like:
 - DC 50:45
 - DC 76:117
 - DC 84:119
 - DC 93:1
- Mosiah 27:22
 - See also verses 32 and 35 of this chapter.
- Alma 36:26
 - Maybe this is the culminatory “seeing” experience that finishes off the perfect knowledge from Alma 32:21? This verse clearly goes with that chapter.
- Ether 12:5, very important about seeing and belief; I think this chapter has to be read in conjunction with Alma 32.
 - Also verses 19–21 in this same chapter.

SELF-EXISTENT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Existing by its own nature or essence, independent of any other cause. God is the only self-existent being.

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1 Having the property of self-existence; existing by virtue of intrinsic nature, independently of any other cause.
- 2 Having an independent existence.

SELSAME

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Numerically the same; the very same; identical.

Oxford English Dictionary

A n. Chiefly with the. The very same thing or person. Now rare.

B adj. Chiefly with the.

B.1 attributive. The very same, the identical; exactly the same.

B.2 Predicatively: identical, exactly the same. Obsolete.

SENSUAL

See also

Carnal, Devilish

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Pertaining to the senses, as distinct from the mind or soul.
- 2 Consisting in sense, or depending on it; as sensual appetites, hunger, lust, etc.
- 3 Affecting the senses, or derived from them; as sensual pleasure or gratification. Hence,
- 4 In theology, carnal; pertaining to the flesh or body, in opposition to the spirit; not spiritual or holy; evil.
- 5 Devoted to the gratification of sense; given to the indulgence of the appetites; sewd; luxurious.

SERAPH

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

There is an entry in the online edition, but it's empty—it has no definition.

Oxford English Dictionary

Seraph

- 1.a One of the seraphim.
- 1.b figurative. A seraphic person, an 'angel'.
- 2 Geology. A fossil shell.

Seraphim

OED's etymology:

< late Latin seraphim (Vulgate), in manuscripts often seraphin (= Greek σεραφίμ, σεραφεύμ, Septuagint), < Hebrew serāphīm (only in Isaiah vi), plural of sārāph*, which is not recorded in the Bible, unless it be identical with the formally coincident word denoting a kind of venomous serpent, which occurs as quasi-adjective or in apposition to nāḥāsh serpent in Numbers xxi. and Deuteronomy viii. (English Bible 'fiery serpents', after Vulgate ignitos serpentes, serpens adurens; Septuagint οφεις θανατουντας, οφεις δακνων), and in Isaiah xiv. 29 and xxx. 6 with the epithet 'flying' (English Bible 'fiery flying serpent').

Some scholars assume the identity of the word occurring in Isaiah vi. with that found in the other passages. On this view the 'seraphim' seen by Isaiah flying above the throne of God represent a mythic or symbolic conception which must originally have had the form of a 'fiery flying serpent', though in the vision this appears considerably modified. The word sārāph, as the name of a kind of serpent, may belong to the root sārāph to burn, in allusion to the effect of the bite (compare Greek πρηστηρ). This etymology has given rise to a conjecture that the celestial 'seraphim' originally symbolized the lightning. Of those who reject the identity of sārāph 'seraph' with sārāph 'fiery serpent', some refer the former to the root of the Arabic sharafa to be lofty or illustrious. Phonologically this is unobjectionable, but on other grounds it is now generally abandoned. Various suggestions of non-Hebrew (Egyptian, Assyrian, etc.) etymology have been made, but have not found wide acceptance.

The Latin form seraphin, which is found in many manuscripts of the Vulgate, and is the source of all the forms used in English down to the 16th cent. (as well as of those in the Romanic languages), coincides with the Aramaic serāphīn, but it is very doubtful whether it is more than a scribal error or a euphonic alteration. Compare French séraphin (serafin, 12th cent.), Provençal serafi, Spanish serafin, Portuguese seraphim, Italian serafino (all masculine singular).

In the Latin liturgical passages from which the word first became widely known, it was probably originally apprehended correctly as a plural, and readers of the Latin Bible would be guided aright by the syntax of Isaiah vi. 2; but there is evidence that 'Cherubim and Seraphim' were often supposed to be the names of two individual angels. From the 15th to the 18th cent. the English plural ending was often appended, but seraphin as a singular = 'one of the seraphim' does not appear in English till late in the 16th cent. (the form seraphim in this use not till the 17th cent.). After the introduction (perhaps by Milton) of the form SERAPH n.1, the misuse of the plural forms in singular sense gradually became rare, and it is now obsolete.

- 1 In Biblical use: The living creatures with six wings, hands and feet, and a (presumably) human voice, seen in Isaiah's vision as hovering above the throne of God.
- 2 By Christian interpreters the seraphim were from an early period supposed to be a class of angels, and the name, associated with that of the cherubim, was introduced in the Eucharistic preface and subsequently in the Te Deum, and thus became extensively known. The presumed derivation of the word from a Hebrew root meaning 'to burn' (see above) led to the view that the seraphim are specially distinguished by fervour of love (while the cherubim excel in knowledge), and to the symbolic use of red as the colour appropriate to the seraphim in artistic representations. In the system of the Pseudo-Dionysius, the chief source of later angelology, the seraphim are the highest, and the cherubim the second, of the nine orders of angels.

- 2.a seraphin (obsolete exc. poetic as nonce-use), seraphim, used as plural. (Some of the early examples are ambiguous, and may belong to b.)
- 2.b Taken as the name of an angel.
- 2.c Plural.
- 2.d seraphin, seraphim as a singular = one of the seraphim, a seraph.
 - 3 (Meanings in heraldry.)
 - 4 A Swedish order of knighthood.
 - 5 (A geology use.)
 - 6 (A moth.)

Buck's Theological Dictionary (1833)

Does not appear.

SHED

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To pour out; to effuse; to spill; to suffer to flow out.
- 2 To let fall; to cast.
- 3 To scatter to emit; to throw off.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 12

Matthew 23:35

Matthew 26:26

Mark 14:24

Luke 11:50

Luke 22:20

Acts 2:33

Acts 22:20

Romans 3:15

Romans 5:5

Titus 3:6

Hebrews 9:22

Revelation 16:6

Greek New Testament

ἐκχέω

BDAG 276b

- 1 cause to be emitted in quantity, pour out
 - 1a of liquids
 - 1b of solid objects
- 2 cause to fully experience, pour out (figurative extension of meaning #1)...but generally, whatever comes from above as connected with this verb (grace, mercy, etc.)

LSJ 526b, PDF 597

- I.1a pour out
- I.1b pour away
- I.2 of words, pour forth, utter
- I.3 pour out like water, squander, waste
- I.4 spread out
- I.5 throw down
- I.6 shed
- I.7 (Greek synonyms listed)
 - II passive, used by Homer mostly in pluperfect
 - II.1 pour out, stream out or forth, properly of liquids...generally, to be spread out
 - II.2 metaphorical, to be cast away, forgotten
 - II.3 give oneself up to any emotion, to be overjoyed
 - II.4 lie languidly

II.5 metaphorical, of Time
II.6 extend, of a piece of land

Some NT uses

Matthew 26:28 τοῦτο γάρ ἐστιν τὸ αἷμά μου τῆς διαθήκης τὸ περὶ πολλῶν ἐκχυννόμενον εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν·

Romans 5:5 ἡ δὲ ἐλπίς οὐ κατασχύνει· ὅτι ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ ἐκκέχυται ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν διὰ πνεύματος ἁγίου τοῦ δοθέντος ἡμῖν.

- The use of ἐκχέω here is a perfect passive indicative.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 49

1 Nephi 11:22 And I answered him, saying: Yea, it is the love of God, which sheddeth itself abroad in the hearts of the children of men; wherefore, it is the most desirable above all things.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 19

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 3

Key Phrases

shed abroad 2 | Romans 5:5; 1 Nephi 11:22

Bible anchor verses Romans 5:5

Romans 5:5 ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ ἐκκέχυται

Commentary See below.

Commentary and Studies

“Shed abroad” or “shed forth”

In the KJV, Romans 5:5 reads:

And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us.

Here I’m most interested in the “the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts” bit. Here’s the Greek:

ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ ἐκκέχυται ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν

The verb is ἐκκέχυται, which is a perfect passive form of ἐκχέω. In the definitions listed under II, the LSJ says that the word in a passive form has an active kind of intransitive meaning of “pour out, stream out, stream forth,” and that the word is often used of liquids. With that in mind, maybe a different translation of that part in Romans 5:5 might be something like this:

The love of God has been streaming forth in(to) our hearts...

I’m not sure about the “in” vs. “into” difference, but I think the key is that the love of God is pouring or streaming into our hearts and then from us outward into the world or into other people. The “abroad” in the KJV translation is supposed to capture that, I think, but you might also capture it with the “in” translation, where the sense would be more like this:

The love of God has been streaming forth by means of our hearts...

The Greek ἐν is often used to note the instrument with which something is done, so on this version, it's like our hearts are the means by which that love is both received initially and continues to stream forth into the world and into the lives of other people.

The BOM makes an interesting addition to this idea. Here is the middle part of 1 Nephi 11:22:

Yea, it is the love of God, which sheddeth itself abroad in the hearts of the children of men...

The KJV translation of Romans 5:5 is a passive verb with the adverb "abroad." The BOM version, however, is an active verb with a reflexive pronoun, then the adverb. In Spanish a verb with a reflexive pronoun is often used in place of a passive form, but I haven't looked at this enough in the BOM to make a judgment about it. I don't think we need that here, though, because it's more interesting to just take the reflexive pronoun as the object of the verb—the love of God "sheds itself abroad," or pours itself out or streams forth on its own power in people's hearts. I think the emphasis here is on the love of God's ability to perpetuate its own motion, to multiply itself and duplicate itself from heart to heart. Here, our hearts are more like the vessels that contain the love, but the love of God is the kind of thing that just naturally flows forth under its own power and fills empty spaces. We can participate in that process if we wish, but ultimately it's just going to happen anyway, because of the kind of thing that the love of God is.

See also DC 76:53, Acts 2:33,

SHINE

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

φαίνω

BDAG 931a

- 1 to shine or to produce light, shine
- 1a as active...in our literature only intransitive shine, give light, be bright
- 1b passive, in active sense, of light and its sources shine, flash
- 2 to become visible, appear
- 2a appear, be or become visible, be revealed
- 2b make one's appearance, show oneself
- 3 to become known, be recognized, be apparent, be revealed
- 3a with predicate nominative
- 3b appear to the eyes of the spirit, be revealed
- 4 to be known by appearance as opposed to underlying reality, appear as something, appear to be something
- 5 to make an impression on the mind, have the appearance, seem

LSJ , PDF

•

Some NT uses

SIGN

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 63:7–12

Key Phrases

signs follow 9 | Mark 16:17; Mark 16:20; Mormon 9:24; Ether 4:18; DC 58:64; DC 63:9; DC 68:10; DC 84:65; DC 124:98

Bible anchor verses

Mark 16:17

Commentary Note that the biblical anchor verse (and also the other one in Mark) is part of the longer ending of Mark, which is generally omitted from critical editions of the Greek.

SIN

See also

Accountability,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 227

Matthew 9:5–6

Matthew 26:28

Mark 2:10

Luke 5:24

John 8:34

John 15:22–24

- Note the word πρόφασιν here, interesting and important word.

John 20:23

Romans 2:12

Romans 3:19–31

Romans 4:7–8

Romans 5:12–17

Romans 5:20–21

Romans 6–8

- So many different things in these chapters.

Romans 14:23

1 Corinthians 15:56

Hebrews 10:17

James 1:15

James 4:17

1 John 1:6–2:2

1 John 3:4–10

1 John 5:17

Greek New Testament

ἁμαρτάνω

BDAG 43b

1 to commit a wrong, to sin

1.a absolute

1.b with fuller indication of that in which the mistake or moral failure consists, by means of a supplementary participle

1.c with indication of the manner of sinning

1.d with indication of the one against whom the sin is committed

1.e with indication of the result (cf. BDAG #1b for ἁμαρτία)

LSJ 77a, PDF 150

I.1 miss the mark, especially of a spear thrown

I.2 generally, fail of one's purpose, go wrong

I.3 fail of having, be deprived of

- I.4 rarely, fail to do, neglect
- II.1 do wrong, err, sin
- II.2 passive, to be frustrated (of plans, etc.)
- II.3 participle as adjective, wrong, mistaken

Some NT uses

ἁμαρτία

See also παράβασις, ἀνομία, ἄδικία,

BDAG 44a

- 1 a departure from either human or divine standards of uprightness
- 1.a sin
- 1.b special sins (of apostasy, sin that leads to death, etc.)
- 2 a state of being sinful, sinfulness
- 3 A destructive evil power, sin
- 3.a Paul thinks of sin almost in personal terms with other divinities of the nether world, as a ruling power that invades the world.
- 3.b In Hebrews (as in the OT) sin appears as the power that deceives humanity and leads it to destruction, whose influence and activity can be ended only by sacrifices.

LSJ 77b, PDF 150

- 1 a failure, fault; error of judgment
- 2 in philosophy and religion, guilt, sin

Some NT uses

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 235

2 Nephi 2:13 And if ye shall say there is no law, ye shall also say there is no sin. And if ye shall say there is no sin, ye shall also say there is no righteousness. And if there be no righteousness, there be no happiness. And if there be no righteousness nor happiness, there be no punishment nor misery. And if these things are not, there is no God. And if there is no God, we are not, neither the earth. For there could have been no creation of things, neither to act nor to be acted upon; wherefore all things must have vanished away.

2 Nephi 2:23 and they would have had no children. Wherefore they would have remained in a state of innocence, having no joy, for they knew no misery, doing no good, for they knew no sin.

Mosiah 3:11 For behold, and also his blood atoneth for the sins of those who have fallen by the transgression of Adam who hath died not knowing the will of God concerning them or who have ignorantly sinned.

Mosiah 3:16 And even if it were possible that little children could sin, they could not be saved. But I say unto you: They are blessed; for behold, as in Adam or by nature they fall, even so the blood of Christ atoneth for their sins.

Mosiah 4:29 And finally, I cannot tell you all the things whereby ye may commit sin; for there are divers ways and means, even so many that I cannot number them.

Alma 28:13 And thus we see how great the inequality of man is because of sin and transgression and the power of the devil, which comes by the cunning plans which he hath devised to ensnare the hearts of men.

Alma 29:3

Alma 41:10 Do not suppose because that it hath been spoken concerning restoration that ye shall be restored from sin to happiness. Behold, I say unto you: Wickedness never was happiness.

Alma 42:16–24 Now repentance could not come unto men except there were a punishment, which also was as eternal as the life of the soul, should be affixed opposite to the plan of happiness, which was as eternal also as the life of the soul. 17 Now how could a man repent except he should sin? How could he sin if there was no law? How could there be a law save there was a punishment? 18 Now there was a punishment affixed and a just law given, which brought remorse of conscience unto man. 19 Now if there was no law given if a man murdered he should die, would he be afraid he should die if he should murder? 20 And also if there was no law given against sin, men would not be afraid to sin. 21 And if there was no law given if men sinned, what could justice do, or mercy either? For they would have no claim upon the creature. 22 But there is a law given and a punishment affixed and repentance granted, which repentance mercy claimeth. Otherwise justice claimeth the creature and executeth the law, and the law inflicteth the punishment. If not so, the works of justice would be destroyed; and God would cease to be God. 23 But God ceaseth not to be God; and mercy claimeth the penitent, and mercy cometh because of the atonement, and the atonement bringeth to pass the resurrection of the dead, and the resurrection of the dead bringeth back men into the presence of God. And thus they are restored into his presence, to be judged according to their works, according to the law and justice. 24 For behold, justice exerciseth all his demands; and also mercy claimeth all which is her own. And thus none but the truly penitent are saved.

Alma 45:16

Helaman 5:10–11 And remember also the words which Amulek spake unto Zeezrom in the city of Ammonihah, for he said unto him that the Lord surely should come to redeem his people, but that he should not come to redeem them in their sins but to redeem them from their sins. 11 And he hath power given unto him from the Father to redeem them from their sins because of repentance. Therefore he hath sent his angels to declare the tidings of the conditions of repentance, which bringeth unto the power of the Redeemer, unto the salvation of their souls.

3 Nephi 6:18 Now they did not sin ignorantly; for they knew the will of God concerning them, for it had been taught unto them. Therefore they did willfully rebel against God.

Mormon 2:13 But behold, this my joy was vain; for their sorrowing was not unto repentance because of the goodness of God, but it was rather the sorrowing of the damned because the Lord would not always suffer them to take happiness in sin.

Moroni 7:12 Wherefore all things which are good cometh of God; and that which is evil cometh of the devil. For the devil is an enemy unto God and fighteth against him continually and inviteth and enticeth to sin and to do that which is evil continually.

Moroni 8:11 And their little children need no repentance, neither baptism. Behold, baptism is unto repentance, to the fulfilling the commandments unto the remission of sins.

Moroni 8:25–26 And the firstfruits of repentance is baptism. And baptism cometh by faith unto the fulfilling the commandments; and the fulfilling the commandments bringeth remission of sins; 26 and the remission of sins bringeth meekness and lowliness of heart. And because of meekness and lowliness of heart cometh the visitation of the Holy Ghost, which Comforter filleth with hope and perfect love, which love endureth by diligence unto prayer until the end shall come, when all the saints shall dwell with God.

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 146

DC 1:31 For I the Lord cannot look upon sin with the least degree of allowance;

DC 29:46–47

DC 45:4

DC 49:8

DC 58:15

DC 58:42–43

DC 59:13–15

DC 64:7–9

DC 68:25

DC 82:3–4

DC 82:7

DC 84:48–53

DC 88:32–40

DC 93:1

DC 95:1–3 • Especially verse 3—the sin here is not following an important commandment that they were given.

DC 121:34–46

DC 138:57

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 17

Moses 6:54–56 Hence came the saying abroad among the people, that the Son of God hath atoned for original guilt, wherein the sins of the parents cannot be answered upon the heads of the children, for they are whole from the foundation of the world. 55 And the Lord spake unto Adam, saying: Inasmuch as thy children are conceived in sin, even so when they begin to grow up, sin conceiveth in their hearts, and they taste the bitter, that they may know to prize the good. 56

And it is given unto them to know good from evil; wherefore they are agents unto themselves, and I have given unto you another law and commandment.

Key Phrases

under sin 5 | Romans 3:9; Romans 7:14; Galatians 3:22; DC 49:8; DC 84:53

Bible anchor verses

Romans 3:9 Τί οὖν προεχόμεθα· οὐ πάντως, προητιασάμεθα γὰρ Ἰουδαίους τε καὶ Ἕλληνας πάντας ὑφ' ἁμαρτίαν εἶναι,

Romans 7:14 Οἶδαμεν γὰρ ὅτι ὁ νόμος πνευματικός ἐστιν· ἐγὼ δὲ σάρκινός εἰμι, πεπραμένος ὑπὸ τὴν ἁμαρτίαν.

Galatians 3:22 ἀλλὰ συνέκλεισεν ἡ γραφὴ τὰ πάντα ὑπὸ ἁμαρτίαν ἵνα ἡ ἐπαγγελία ἐκ πίστεως Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ δοθῇ τοῖς πιστεύουσιν.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- Definitions/understandings of sin
 - James 4:17
 - * My translation: “So, for a person who is able to do good, and doesn’t do it—for that person, it is sin.”
 - * “Good” has a very expansive meaning here, referring to anything that could contribute to salvation.
 - * See this study below.
 - 1 John 3:4
 - * My translation: “Everyone who is practicing sin is also practicing lawlessness; and sin is lawlessness.”
 - * See this study below.
 - 1 John 5:17
 - * The key part of the verse is that all ἁδικία is sin.
 - * ἁδικία relates to laws, righteousness, and ἀνομία; see this study below.

What is sin, and how does it relate to righteousness?

The scriptures have a lot to say about sin, and the term appears in many discussions of the plan of salvation. It’s related to many other important things in the gospel as well, including righteousness, laws, and repentance. Here I’ll use the scriptures to offer a definition of sin as well as an explanation of how it relates to other aspects of the gospel. The definition and my explanation are ways of understanding sin; they are not the only ways, though I’ve tried to include as much scriptural evidence as possible.

What is sin?

The restoration scriptures don’t give a clear definition of “sin.” We instead get many examples of individual sins, along with discussions of the consequences of sin. Examples of something and its consequences are helpful for grasping it, but it would also be nice to have a more general statement of how to understand sin, independent of particular examples.

Several verses in the New Testament discuss sin in this more general way. The three most important are James 4:17, 1 John 3:4, and 1 John 5:17. I’ll look at these verses one at a time, and then we’ll see what they tell us together.

James 4:17

The first verse is James 4:17. Here is the verse in the KJV, along with the Greek text.

KJV Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.

SBLG εἰδὼτι οὖν καλὸν ποιεῖν καὶ μὴ ποιοῦντι, ἁμαρτία αὐτῷ ἐστιν.

The first word in Greek, εἰδότες, is a participle of the verb οἶδα, “to know.” The participle is in dative case and so becomes the recipient or owner of the ἁμαρτία, the sin, in the second part of the verse; the pronoun αὐτοῖς at the end is also in dative case and its antecedent is εἰδότες. The second participle in the verse, ποιοῦντι, also makes clear that the person who knows is the same person as the one who isn’t acting on that knowledge.

The KJV is a fine translation but obscures some aspects of the verse. Here are some other translations that will be helpful later:

Anchor Bible Therefore it counts as a sin for the person who understands the proper thing to do and yet does not do it.

Syriac-English and anyone who does not carry out the things that they know to be good, is really committing a sin.

NASB Therefore, to one who knows the right thing to do and does not do it, to him it is sin.

NIV If anyone, then, knows the good they ought to do and doesn’t do it, it is sin for them.

NRSV Anyone, then, who knows the right thing to do and fails to do it, commits sin.

An interpretation of the Greek which we can rule out is one which takes the “knowing” here as having some sort of normative force, where we read the verse as saying that someone knows to do something, or knows that they should do something. Sometimes, in English, we use “know” this way. I can say that a friend “knows to arrive at the restaurant at 6:30,” by which I mean that the person knows they should arrive at that time, or that we are expecting them to arrive at that time. This use of “know” has normative force, but that is not what the word means in this verse. There is no support for reading οἶδα this way, so we ought to reject this interpretation, which is based on an unusual way of using the English word to begin with.

Some of the translations listed above do give normative force to the verse, but the normativity comes not from the participle εἰδότες but instead from καλὸν, the “good thing” or “right thing.” εἰδότες completes its meaning with the infinitive ποιεῖν; the object of ποιεῖν is καλὸν.

Forms of οἶδα, “to know,” can take an infinitive, as εἰδότες does here. The proper sense of the participle here, then, is the third meaning in BDAG, or “to know / understand how, can, be able” (see these definitions here). BDAG notes that this use of οἶδα takes an infinitive following it, which is what we get here, and it also lists this verse in James as an example of this sense of the word (this meaning corresponds to #10 in CGL and #I.2 in LSJ). So our interpretations of the verse should focus on this sense of the participle εἰδότες.

Here is a way of rendering the verse to bring out that meaning:

So, for a person who knows how to do good, and doesn’t do it—for that person, it is sin.

In this translation, sin is when someone knows how to do something good, but for some reason doesn’t do it. Maybe they chose a bad thing instead, or just did nothing. Either way there was something good that they knew how to do and didn’t do it, so it was sin.

Knowing how to do something is closely related to being able to do something—that is, usually at least, part of being able to do something is knowing how to do it (another part might be, there’s no one stopping you from doing it). This is why one meaning of οἶδα grows out of the “knowing how” sense to involve an ability or possession of a skill, thereby making someone able to do something (the same meanings listed above in the lexicons include this sense of being able). Here is another possible translation along those lines:

So, for a person who is able to do good, and doesn’t do it—for that person, it is sin.

The only difference between this translation and the previous one is that we’re talking in terms of “being able” instead of “knowing how.” As I said, those aren’t the same thing, but they are similar. To be able to do good, you must not only know how, but also be in a position where doing good is possible (you aren’t tied up in a chair, for example). To know how to do good, all you need is the knowledge of how to do good. You can meet that requirement when you’re tied up in a chair, but I don’t think it makes sense to say that such a person has sinned when they don’t do something good, or that their lack of action is a sin. They aren’t able to act and so couldn’t have sinned. Putting this verse in terms of being able to act lets us get οἶδα’s sense of “knowing how,” while also making sure that we don’t charge sin to people who aren’t actually able to do something. On this second translation of the verse, sin is when a person (1) knows how to do good, (2) is able to do good, and (3) still doesn’t actually do any good.

The last thing to discuss with this verse is καλὸν, or what is meant by “good” or “a good thing.” In Greek there are two words which we usually translate as “good”—καλός and ἀγαθός. While they both can mean “good” in the sense of “useful, beneficial” and “good” in the sense of “morally good,” καλός can also mean “beautiful, good-looking” or “noble.” BDAG meaning #2.b, under which it lists James 4:17, also adds “praiseworthy” and “contributing to salvation” as possible meanings.

In this understanding of sin, then, we have to keep the expansive meaning of καλὸν in mind—it refers to any good, excellent, or contributing-to-salvation thing we could do. We find this expansive meaning in some restoration scripture, such as Moroni 7:13 and Moroni 10:6.

Here is the translation of James 4:17 one more time:

So, for a person who is able to do good, and doesn't do it—for that person, it is sin.

1 John 3:4

The next verse to consider is 1 John 3:4. Here is the KJV translation, along with the Greek:

KJV Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law.

SBLG Πᾶς ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν καὶ τὴν ἀνομίαν ποιεῖ, καὶ ἡ ἁμαρτία ἐστὶν ἡ ἀνομία.

The KJV translation is a little more helpful for this verse, but here are some alternatives for comparison:

Anchor Bible Everyone who acts sinfully is really doing iniquity, for sin is the Iniquity.

Syriac-English But whoever does what is sinful commits iniquity, for every sin is iniquity.

NASB Everyone who practices sin also practices lawlessness; and sin is lawlessness.

NIV Everyone who sins breaks the law; in fact, sin is lawlessness.

NRSV Everyone who commits sin is guilty of lawlessness; sin is lawlessness.

1 John 3:4 has two parts. In the first part it tells us something about a person who sins; in the second part, it gives a somewhat abstract description of sin. The key word in both parts is ἀνομία. In its form the word literally means “lawlessness,” as it is a combination of the Greek privative prefix ἀ- and the nominal ending -νομία, which itself derives from νόμος, “law.” In English we could say that ἀνομία means “not-lawfulness,” but the most obvious translation would be “lawlessness.”

The KJV renders the word as a phrase, “transgression of the law.” This translation shows that laws are involved, but with the English “lawlessness” available, there’s no reason to introduce the phrase. The NASB, NIV, and NRSV also just have “lawlessness.” (The Anchor Bible volume discusses the issue of “lawlessness” and “iniquity” at 398–400.)

On this reading, the second part of the verse is a description of sin that almost amounts to a definition: ἡ ἁμαρτία ἐστὶν ἡ ἀνομία, “sin is lawlessness.” For the whole thing, I like the NASB translation with present participles, to emphasize the continuous aspect:

Everyone who is practicing sin is also practicing lawlessness; and sin is lawlessness.

This explicit link between sin and law is very useful. For one, it allows us to make better justified connections to important passages in restoration scripture, such as Alma 42:17 (“Now how could a man repent except he should sin? How could he sin if there was no law?”) and DC 88:35 (“That which breaketh a law, and abideth not by law, but seeketh to become a law unto itself, and willeth to abide in sin, and altogether abideth in sin, cannot be sanctified by law, neither by mercy, justice, nor judgment”). I will discuss these connections later.

Another benefit of the link is that it helps us better see how to understand righteousness. Later I will discuss the relation between sin and righteousness as well, but for now it’s enough to say that: given sin as lawlessness, and given that righteousness is the opposite of sin, we should therefore see righteousness as “lawfulness.” In fact, both BDAG and LSJ note that δικαιοσύνη, a common word in the New Testament almost always translated as “righteousness,” is the proper opposite of ἀνομία. Righteousness is lawful conduct; sin is unlawful conduct. Some verses in the New Testament make this relation clear, such as 2 Corinthians 6:14, part of which asks, τίς γὰρ μετοχὴ δικαιοσύνης καὶ ἀνομίας? “What do righteousness and lawlessness have in common?” More on that later.

1 John 5:17

The third verse to look at is 1 John 5:17. This one will be similar to the previous verse we saw in 1 John. Here is the KJV and Greek:

KJV All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death.

SBLG πᾶσα ἁδικία ἁμαρτία ἐστίν, καὶ ἔστιν ἁμαρτία οὐ πρὸς θάνατον.

The part we care about is at the beginning, translated in English as “all unrighteousness is sin.” Here are some other translations:

Anchor Bible All wrongdoing is sin, but not all sin is deadly.

Syriac-English For every wrongdoing is sin, but not every sin leads to death.

NASB All unrighteousness is sin, and there is a sin not leading to death.

NIV All wrongdoing is sin, and there is sin that does not lead to death.

NRSV All wrongdoing is sin, but there is sin that is not mortal.

As before, the key word here is the one connected to ἁμαρτία via the linking verb ἐστίν. That word is ἁδικία. The KJV and NASB render it as “unrighteousness,” while the other three translations from the Greek give it as “wrongdoing.”

These are fine translations. Looking at the word in more detail, though, will give us more to go on in understanding sin.

According to BDAG, ἁδικία can be either an action “that violates standards or right conduct,” or “the quality of injustice” itself, which would be a more abstract meaning with less reference to individual actions. BDAG also notes, however, that ἁδικία is another opposite of δικαιοσύνη, “righteousness.” In fact it’s similar to ἀνομία that we saw before in that it begins with a privative prefix, ἀ-, followed by -δικία, a nominal ending related to δίκαιος and δικαιοσύνη. We know from before that δικαιοσύνη is lawful conduct, and the opposite of that would be a wrong that is unlawful. So with ἁδικία in John 5:17, it isn’t hard to make the connection to laws and our obedience to them, as we did with John 3:4.

According to John 5:17, sin is an action that falls outside of whatever the conditions of δικαιοσύνη require—those conditions involve doing good, always within the laws set for us, so that we don’t practice ἀνομία.

Sin, law, and righteousness

We’ve now covered three verses which help us understand how to think about sin. While it may be that none is a true definition of sin, each teaches us something about it. We can combine what we learn from these verses with other things the scriptures teach us to flesh out our understanding.

The first connection to deepen is that between sin and law. Two of the scriptures we looked at dealt with law: 1 John 3:4 told us that sin is lawlessness, and 1 John 5:17 told us that all ἁδικία is sin, another word connected to laws.

Many other scriptures discuss the connection between sin and law. On the one hand we should expect such detailed discussions in the scriptures, because in much of the Old Testament, for example, to sin was just to violate the law of Moses. Taken in the context of that law, it wouldn’t be surprising that some people considered sin to be lawlessness.

Many passages in Romans describe the connection this way. Romans 5:13 says that “sin is not imputed when there is no law,” meaning that sin isn’t charged to someone’s account—it doesn’t count as sin for that person—when there isn’t a law. Alma 42:17 makes a similar point, asking “How could he [any person] sin if there was no law?” When a person knows the law, their knowledge makes them aware of sin, thus making them accountable for what they know—“for by the law is the knowledge of sin” (Romans 3:20), and “as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law” (Romans 2:12). Sin is lawlessness, but “lawless” actions only count as sins if we’re aware of the law. Christ’s sacrifice covers those actions done by people “who have ignorantly sinned” (Mosiah 3:11).

The fact that the Book of Mormon speaks on this topic should encourage us to understand the “laws” as going beyond the law of Moses. The connections between sin and law get more enlightening as we do.

The connection I want to make is between sin, as understood by lawlessness or lawless conduct, and Brigham Young’s understanding of the priesthood. It has become common for people to explain the priesthood by saying something like, “It is God’s power, given to man, for the benefit of His children.” There’s nothing wrong with this, but Brigham Young on many occasions outlined a much more interesting view of what the priesthood is. For him, the priesthood is the system of government, or system of laws, which governs not only individuals and groups of people but also matter and physical interactions. Here are some representative quotations:

12 February 1854 I recolect once when I was preaching a question was asked me, “What is the Preisthood.” The answer was ready, and perfectly simple in its nature, and plain to be understood, & is couched in a a short sentence (viz) Preisthood is a perfect system of Government that rules and reigns in eternity...The eternal preisthood of God,—the Gov^t. of God,—the laws of eternity, <is> are a pure and perfect system of Gov^t.

27 June 1854 The Priesthood is a pure system of government which governs the world and a small portion has come down to earth. It is the constitutional laws and pure system by which men are to be governed.

don't just have to think of this in terms of the law of Moses; in fact it's more powerful if you go beyond that. See also: Matthew 5:20 (look at the Greek here too);

The difference between sin and transgression

There are many places in the BOM where it appears as though the terms "sin" and "transgression" are interchangeable. Jarom 1:10 is an example, and Alma 9:14 is another.

But there are places where they do not seem substitutable for each other. The most prominent example is when the BOM and other scriptures speak of Adam's transgression—the scriptures never, as far as I can tell in my searching, refer to the events surrounding the fall as "sin" or "a sin." They always call it a "transgression." The consistency is striking, and it's maintained even in cases where the terms "sin" and "transgression" appear in close proximity, such as Romans 5:14 and Mosiah 3:11.

And of course, there are clear differences in the Greek words behind some of these passages; sin is ἁμαρτία, while transgression is παράβασις.

I think the key to discerning the difference between sin and transgression is in their relation to laws. Transgressions have to do more directly with laws and breaking laws. As we read in the TDNTA, there is transgression only where there is law; the presence of a law is a necessary condition for a transgression to be possible. When there is no law, there is no transgression.

But if you think of sin as I defined it above—as being able to do good, but not doing it—and if you think of the consequences of sin as a decreased measure of the Spirit, power, and knowledge, then it's possible to see sin as having less to do with specific laws and more to do with how we use our agency to develop ourselves. Sin is a more open-ended notion, in a way; the choice to sin is the choice to forego some learning or growth, whether or not a specific law is involved.

Maybe I can put it this way, although I need to think about this one a bit more: when you transgress, the law condemns you; when you sin, you condemn yourself. Sinning is saying, "No more growth for me" (or "No growth right now, please,") whatever the "law" might say.

This way of seeing the difference between sin and transgression casts DC 58:26–29 into a bit of a new light:

For behold, it is not meet that I should command in all things; for he that is compelled in all things, the same is a slothful and not a wise servant; wherefore he receiveth no reward. 27 Verily I say, men should be anxiously engaged in a good cause, and do many things of their own free will, and bring to pass much righteousness; 28 For the power is in them, wherein they are agents unto themselves. And inasmuch as men do good they shall in nowise lose their reward. 29 But he that doeth not anything until he is commanded, and receiveth a commandment with doubtful heart, and keepeth it with slothfulness, the same is damned.

We can take "It is not meet that I should command in all things" to be something like, "I shouldn't have to give a law for everything." This is because we should be "anxiously engaged" in actually doing good—because not doing that would be sin, according to the definition. We have enough power, or enough capacity, to bring about goodness and righteousness without being told exactly how to do that. On the negative side, if we have to wait until we have a law, then we're damned, in the sense that we are choosing not to do good when we could do it, and are therefore sinning. We have condemned ourselves by forgoing the power, knowledge, and growth that we could have gained by doing the good ourselves.

These verses encourage us to think in terms of, what good can I do? This is a growth mindset, one that embraces the opportunity to learn and to change. The verses discourage us from thinking in terms like, what have I been commanded to do? That's a mindset whose goal is just to avoid transgression, but that isn't good enough. We need to be growing and expanding beyond the particular commandments that we have been given.

Note, also, that sin and transgression won't come apart like this all the time. As I said above, there are places in the scriptures where they are effectively the same thing, meaning that in many situations in our lives they are the same. But they are different concepts and in some situations their differences are revealed.

As some things to follow up on in the future, consider relating transgression with a remission of sins—being free from the consequences of broken law—and also therefore with justification. You might also relate sin, or the growth mindset of the sin-game, with sanctification (maybe, just to see what comes out).

SINGLE, SINGLENES, SINGLY

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Separate; one; only; individual; consisting of one only
- 2 Particular; individual
- 3 Uncompounded.
- 4 Alone; having no companion or assistant
- 5 Unmarried
- 6 Not double; not complicated
- 7 Performed with one person or antagonist on a side, or with one person only opposed to another
- 8 Pure; simple; incorrupt; unbiased; having clear vision of divine truth
- 9 Small; weak; silly
- 10 In botany, a single flower is when there is only one on a stem, and in common usage, one not double

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Single

Total occurrences in the NT 2

Matthew 6:22 The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

Luke 11:34 The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness.

Singleness

Total occurrences in the NT 3

Acts 2:46

Ephesians 6:5

Colossians 3:22

Greek New Testament

ἀπλοῦς

BDAG 91a

- pertaining to being motivated by singleness of purpose so as to be open and aboveboard, single, without guile, sincere, straightforward i.e. without a hidden agenda

Total occurrences in the NT 2

Some NT uses

Matthew 6:22 Ὁ λύχνος τοῦ σώματος ἐστὶν ὁ ὀφθαλμός. ἐὰν οὖν ᾗ ὁ ὀφθαλμός σου ἀπλοῦς, ὅλον τὸ σῶμά σου φωτεινὸν ἔσται.

Luke 11:34 Ὁ λύχνος τοῦ σώματος ἐστὶν ὁ ὀφθαλμός σου. ὅταν ὁ ὀφθαλμός σου ἀπλοῦς ᾗ, καὶ ὅλον τὸ σῶμά σου φωτεινὸν ἔσται· ἐπὰν δὲ πονηρὸς ᾗ, καὶ τὸ σῶμά σου σκοτεινόν.

Book of Mormon

Single

Total occurrences in the BOM 3

Alma 49:23

3 Nephi 13:22

Mormon 8:15 • Note that the earliest text has “singled,” not “single.”

Doctrine and Covenants

Single

Total occurrences in the DC 7

DC 4:5

DC 27:2 For, behold, I say unto you, that it mattereth not what ye shall eat or what ye shall drink when ye partake of the sacrament, if it so be that ye do it with an eye single to my glory—remembering unto the Father my body which was laid down for you, and my blood which was shed for the remission of your sins.

DC 55:1 BEHOLD, thus saith the Lord unto you, my servant William, yea, even the Lord of the whole earth, thou art called and chosen; and after thou hast been baptized by water, which if you do with an eye single to my glory, you shall have a remission of your sins and a reception of the Holy Spirit by the laying on of hands;

DC 59:1

DC 82:19

DC 88:67

DC 88:68

Singleness

Total occurrences in the DC 2

DC 36:7

DC 59:13

Singly

Total occurrences in the DC 1

DC 132:17

SONG

Commentary and Studies

Various songs in the scriptures

Song of the victors (That's my name for it.) 3 Nephi 4:28–33

Nephi's song 2 Nephi 4

Alma's song Alma 29

Nephi's shorter song Helaman 7:7–9

Mormon's song Mormon 6:17–22

Song of the sons of Aaron Numbers 6:23–27

Song of Moses 32:1–43

Song of Deborah and Barak Judges 5

Song of Hannah 1 Samuel 2:1–10

A song-like thing from Saul 1 Samuel 26

David's song for Saul and Jonathan 2 Samuel 1:17–27

Songs of the ark 1 Chronicles 15 (not sure if any songs are actually recorded, I'll have to check again)

Song of David's thanks 1 Chronicles 16

Song of David after the temple plans 1 Chronicles 29:10–19

Brief song upon bringing the ark to the temple 2 Chronicles 5:13

Song of David when delivered from Saul Psalms 18

Moses's song (and Miriam's answer) Exodus 15:1–21

Zion's song (Also my name for it) DC 84:99–201

PERDITION, SONS OF PERDITION

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Perdition

- 1 Entire loss or ruin; utter destruction; as the perdition of the Turkish fleet. [In this sense, the word is now nearly or wholly obsolete.]
- 2 The utter loss of the soul or of final happiness in a future state; future misery or eternal death. The impenitent sinner is condemned to final perdition. If we reject the truth, we seal our own perdition.
- 3 Loss. [Not used.]

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 10:28

Matthew 12:31–32

John 17:12

John 18:9

- In this verse Christ uses ἀπώλεσα to talk about those that he is supposed to keep. That's the verb related to ἀπώλεια, the noun used to talk about perdition (see below). So I'm wondering if part of what makes the sons of perdition who they are is that they refuse Christ's salvation and therefore elect on their own account to not be part of the group that Christ doesn't lose. He saves everything else, but not them, because they refuse it. Note that the "heavens weep" in DC 76 over them.

John 19:14–15

- These have nothing to do with the sons of perdition exactly, but the attitude of the priests here just has a certain feeling about it to me that reminds me of things said about the sons of perdition.

Romans 9:22

Philippians 3:18–19

2 Thessalonians 2:3

Hebrews 6:4–6

Greek New Testament

ἀπώλεια

BDAG 111a

- 1 the destruction that one causes, destruction, waste
- 2 the destruction that one experiences, annihilation both complete and in process, ruin

Some NT uses

John 17:12

Romans 9:22

2 Thessalonians 2:3

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 2

3 Nephi 27:32

3 Nephi 29:7

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 42:18

DC 76:25–49

DC 29:36–40

DC 84:41

DC 132:27

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

DATE/SOURCE See near the end of this letter.

SOUL

See also

Spirit,

Commentary and Studies

On whether the soul (understood as spirit) can be destroyed

See 1 Nephi 14:3 and notes there; see also Native Element.

SPHERE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 In geometry, a solid body contained under a single surface, which in every part is equally distant from a point called its center.
- 2 An orb or globe of the mundane system. First the sun, a mighty sphere he fram'd. Then mortal ears had heard the music of the spheres.
- 3 An orbicular body, or a circular figure representing the earth or apparent heavens.
- 4 Circuit of motion; revolution; orbit; as the diurnal sphere.
- 5 The concave or vast orbicular expanse in which the heavenly orbs appear.
- 6 Circuit of action, knowledge or influence; compass; province; employment. Every man has his particular sphere of action, in which it should be his ambition to excel. Events of this kind have repeatedly fallen within the sphere of my knowledge. This man treats of matters not within his sphere.
- 7 Rank; order of society. Persons moving in a higher sphere claim more deference..

Restoration Usage

Temple Ordinances

Fifth day of creation Command the beasts, the fowls, the fishes, the insects, all creeping things, and other forms of animal life to multiply in their respective elements, each after its kind, and every kind of vegetation to multiply in its sphere, that every form of life may fill the measure of its creation and have joy therein. Call your labors the fifth day, and bring me word.

Garden Adam, we have created for you this earth, and have placed upon it all kinds of vegetation and animal life. We have commanded all these to multiply in their own sphere and element. We give you dominion over all these things and make you, Adam, lord over the whole earth and all things on the face thereof. We now command you to multiply and replenish the earth, that you may have joy and rejoicing in your posterity.

SPIRIT

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 11 Eager desire; disposition of mind excited and directed to a particular object. God has made a spirit of building succeed a spirit of pulling down.
- 15 Life or strength of resemblance; essential qualities; as, to set off the face in its true spirit The copy has not the spirit of the original.
- 17 That which hath power or energy; the quality of any substance which manifest life, activity, or the power of strongly affecting other bodies; as the spirit of wine or of any liquor.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

πνεῦμα

BDAG 738b

- 1 air in movement, blowing, breathing
- 1a wind
- 1b the breathing out of air, blowing, breath
 - 2 that which animates or gives life to the body, breath, (life-)spirit
 - 3 a part of human personality, spirit
- 3a when used with σάρξ, the flesh, it denotes the immaterial part...flesh and spirit = the whole personality, in its outer and inner aspects (There is more interesting material here.)
- 3b as the source and seat of insight, feeling, and will, generally as the representative part of human inner life
- 3c spiritual state, state of mind, disposition
 - 4 an independent noncorporeal being, in contrast to a being that can be perceived by the physical senses, spirit
- 4a God personally
- 4b good, or at least not expressly evil spirits or spirit-beings
- 4c evil spirits
- 5 God's being as controlling influence, with focus on association with humans, Spirit, spirit as that which differentiates God from everything that is not God, as the divine power that produces all divine existence, as the divine element in which all divine life is carried on, as the bearer of every application of the divine will. All those who belong to God possess or receive this spirit and hence have a share in God's life. This spirit also serves to distinguish Christians from all unbelievers
 - 5a the Spirit of God, of the Lord (=God)
 - 5b the Spirit of Christ, of the Lord (=Christ)
 - 5c Because of its heavenly origin and nature this Spirit is called (the) Holy Spirit
 - 5cα with the article
 - 5cβ without the article
 - 5d absolute
 - 5dα with the article τό πνεῦμα
 - 5dβ without the article πνεῦμα
 - 5e The Spirit is more closely defined by a genitive of thing
 - 5f Of Christ "it is written" in Scripture: Ἐγένετο...ὁ ἔσχατος Ἀδὰμ εἰς πνεῦμα ζωοποιοῦν (1 Corinthians 15:45).
 - 5g The (divine) Pneuma stands in contrast to everything that characterizes this age or the finite world generally
 - 5gα in contrast to σάρξ, which is more closely connected with sin than any other earthly material
 - 5gβ in contrast to σῶμα
 - 5gγ in contrast to γράμμα, which is the characteristic quality of God's older declaration of the divine will in the law
 - 5gδ in contrast to the wisdom of humans

- 6 the Spirit of God as exhibited in the character or activity of God's people or selected agents, Spirit, spirit
- 6a πνεῦμα is accompanied by another noun, which characterizes the working of the Spirit more directly
- 6b unless frustrated by humans in their natural condition, the Spirit of God produces a spiritual type of conduct
- 6c The Spirit inspires certain people of God, above all, in their capacity as proclaimers of a divine revelation
- 6d The Spirit of God, being one, shows the variety and richness of its life in the different kinds of spiritual gifts which are granted to certain Christians
- 6e One special type of spiritual gift is represented by ecstatic speaking. Of those who "speak in tongues" that no earthly person can understand
- 6f The Spirit leads and directs Christian missionaries in their journeys
- 7 an activating spirit that is not from God, spirit
- 8 an independent transcendent personality, the Spirit, which appears in formulas that became more and more fixed and distinct (Much more available here, some description but mostly citing outside research.)

LSJ , PDF

•

Some NT uses

Key Phrases

contrite spirit 20 | Psalms 34:18; Psalms 51:17; Isaiah 57:15; Isaiah 66:2; 2 Nephi 2:7; 2 Nephi 4:32; Helaman 8:15; 3 Nephi 9:20 (2); 3 Nephi 12:19; Mormon 2:14; Ether 4:15; Moroni 6:2; DC 20:37; DC 52:15; DC 52:16; DC 56:17; DC 56:18; DC 59:8; DC 97:8

Bible anchor verses

Psalms 34:18

Psalms 51:17

Isaiah 57:15

Isaiah 66:2

power of * spirit See here.

spirit of Christ 7 | Romans 8:9; Philippians 1:19; 1 Peter 1:11; Moroni 7:16; 10:17; DC 20:37; 84:45–46

spirit of prophecy 21 | Revelation 19:10

Bible anchor verses

Revelation 19:10 ...ἡ γὰρ μαρτυρία Ἰησοῦ ἐστὶν τὸ πνεῦμα τῆς προφητείας

spirit of revelation 11 | Alma 4:20; 5:46; 8:24; 9:21; 17:3; 23:6; 45:10; Helaman 4:23; 3 Nephi 3:19; DC 8:3; DC 11:25

Commentary What is the meaning of the word "spirit" in this phrase? It seems most natural to associate "spirit" here with the Holy Ghost, as though "spirit" is referring to the Holy Ghost's special function as communicator of revelation; the Holy Ghost appears in conjunction with the phrase in two places, Alma 5:46 and DC 8:3 (the reference to the Holy Ghost is in verse 2). Drawing from the 1828 dictionary entry for "spirit," though, there are other interesting meanings of "spirit" that could be in play here as well. I am especially interested in meaning #11, "Eager desire; disposition of mind excited and directed to a particular object." To make this meaning in the phrase more explicit, you'd have to change the wording a bit, but the idea (to use DC 8:3 as an example) would be something like: "This is the state of mind which characterizes one who eagerly desire revelation; this is the state of mind Moses had when he brought the children of Israel through the Red Sea on dry ground." No, this suggestion isn't perfect, and it doesn't completely fit with all the contexts in which the phrase occurs, but I think there is something important here about understanding the mindset that someone has who is actively seeking out revelation, or seeking to understand the revelation that the Holy Ghost is communicating to them throughout their day. They are eagerly desiring to live in the flow of the Spirit.

spirit of truth 16 | John 14:17; 15:26; 16:13; 1 John 4:6; DC 6:15; DC 50:17 (2); DC 50:19; DC 50:21 (2); DC 93:9; DC 93:11; DC 93:23; DC 93:26 (2); DC 107:71

Commentary and Studies

The "spirit of Christ"

See this idea at "light of Christ."

“Spirit” as matter or something otherwise physical

- See the JSP/BC version of DC 19:18.

On the possible equivalence of God’s spirit, love, glory, etc.

See 2 Nephi 4:21 and notes there.

See also:

- Mosiah 13:5–6

SPIRITUAL

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

πνευματικός

BDAG 742b

- 1 pertaining to spirit as inner life of a human being, *spiritual
- 2 In the great majority of cases in reference to the divine πνεῦμα (see πνεῦμα 5) having to do with the (divine) spirit, caused by or filled with the (divine) spirit, pertaining to / corresponding to the (divine) spirit
 - 2a adjective
 - 2aα of Jesus; in his preexistence
 - 2aβ as a rule it is used of impersonal things
 - 2aγ
 - 2b substantive
 - 2bα neuter τα πνευματικά spiritual things or matters (in contrast to τα σαρκικά earthly things)
 - 2bβ masculine (ὁ) πνευματικός possessing the Spirit, one who possess the Spirit
 - 3 pertaining to (evil) spirits

CGL 1146b, PDF 1186

- associated with air; (of the dryness of certain substances) apparently porous

LSJ, PDF

-

Some NT uses

Key Phrases

spiritual mind For this phrase, see Mind.

SPOT, SPOTLESS

SPRING (VERB)

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 3

Mark 4:27

John 4:14 But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

Hebrews 12:15

Greek New Testament

ἄλλομαι

For more discussion of this word, see John 4:14 and notes there.

BDAG 40b

- 1 to make a quick leaping movement, leap, spring up
- 2 figurative, of the quick movement of inanimate things: to spring up from a source, of water well up, bubble up

LSJ 70a, PDF 143

- 1 spring, leap (properly of living beings)
- 2 with accusative, leap over
- 3 of things; of sound; of parts of body, twitch, quiver, throb

Some NT uses

John 4:14 ὃς δ' ἂν πῖνῃ ἐκ τοῦ ὕδατος οὗ ἐγὼ δώσω αὐτῷ, οὐ μὴ διψήσῃ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, ἀλλὰ τὸ ὕδωρ ὃ δώσω αὐτῷ γενήσεται ἐν αὐτῷ πηγὴ ὕδατος ἀλλομένου εἰς ζωὴν αἰώνιον.

Acts 3:8 καὶ ἐξαλλόμενος ἔστη καὶ περιεπάτει, καὶ εἰσῆλθεν σὺν αὐτοῖς εἰς τὸ ἱερὸν περιπατῶν καὶ ἀλλόμενος καὶ αἰνῶν τὸν θεόν.

Acts 14:10 εἶπεν μεγάλη φωνῇ· Ἀνάστηθι ἐπὶ τοὺς πόδας σου ὀρθός· καὶ ἤλατο καὶ περιεπάτει. (ἤλατο is aorist middle indicative.)

STATUTE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 An act of the legislature of a state that extends its binding force to all the citizens or subjects of that state, as distinguished from an act which extends only to an individual or company; an act of the legislature commanding or prohibiting something; a positive law. Statutes are distinguished from common law. The latter owes its binding force to the principles of justice, to long use and the consent of a nation. The former owe their binding force to a positive command or declaration of the supreme power.
- 2 A special act of the supreme power, of a private nature, or intended to operate only on an individual or company.
- 3 The act of a corporation or of its founder, intended as a permanent rule or law; as the statutes of a university.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 166

Genesis 26:5 Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws.

Exodus 15:26 And said, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his sight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD that healeth thee.

Exodus 29:28 And it shall be Aaron's and his sons' by a statute for ever from the children of Israel: for it is an heave offering: and it shall be an heave offering from the children of Israel of the sacrifice of their peace offerings, even their heave offering unto the LORD.

2 Kings 17:34 Unto this day they do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their statutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, whom he named Israel;

Psalms 119:12 Blessed art thou, O LORD: teach me thy statutes.

Psalms 148:6 He hath also stablished them for ever and ever: he hath made a decree which shall not pass. (The "them" here is the heavens, or possibly the water above the heavens; see 148:4.)

Ezekiel 33:15 If the wicked restore the pledge, give again that he had robbed, walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die.

Hebrew Bible

חֹק

HALOT 346a, PDF 403

- 1 portion, term
- 2 prescribed task
- 3 appropriate portion
- 4 due
- 5 allotted portion
- 6 appointed time
- 7 limit
- 8 law, regulation: for stars Psalms 148:6
- 9 prescription, rule
- 10 in the prophets חֹק only

BDB, PDF

DCH PDF

1

Some OT uses

Exodus 15:26

Exodus 29:28

Psalms 119:12

חֻקָּה

HALOT 347a, PDF 404

- (The entry says that this word is a feminine form of חֻק.)

1 due

2 (human) statutes: of the Egyptians and Canaanites, of the peoples, of Israel

3 divine statute

BDB , PDF

1

DCH PDF

1

Some OT uses

Genesis 26:5

2 Kings 17:34

Ezekiel 33:15

SUBDUE

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ὑποτάσσω

BDAG 927a

- 1 cause to be in a submissive relationship, to subject, to subordinate
 - 1.a active
 - 1.b passive
 - 1.b.α become subject
 - 1.b.β *subject oneself, be subjected or subordinated...*of submission involving recognition of an ordered structure, with dative of the entity to whom/which appropriate respect is shown
- 2 to add a document at the end of another document, attach, append, subjoin

TABERNACLE

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 333

- Exodus 25:9 1. This is the first use in the KJV of the English word “tabernacle.” It then appears ninety other times in Exodus alone.
2. The Hebrew here is משכן, and I believe it’s the first occurrence of that word in the Hebrew bible as well.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 124:38

TELESTIAL

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

“Telestial” does not appear in this dictionary.

Oxford English Dictionary

“Telestial” does not appear in this dictionary (!).

There is an adjective, “teletic,” which the OED lists as meaning “Of or relating to religious mysteries; mystical.” The first use listed is from 1662 and there are uses in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries as well. This English word is a borrowing from Greek sources: τελεστικός in Aristotle is “fit for finishing or accomplishing,” but also “connected with mystic rites” in Plato and other authors; a τελεστικόν is “payment for admission to a priesthood,” τελεστής is an “initiator, priest,” and τελετή is a “rite,” especially “initiation in the mysteries,” or “a festival accompanied by mystic rites,” or “a priesthood or sacred office” (all definitions from LSJ).

Restoration Usage

Temple Ordinances

Telestial kingdom Brethren and sisters, this represents the telestial kingdom, or the world in which we now live. (Adam and Eve have just been expelled from the garden; just prior to this, Elohim tells Jehovah, “Jehovah, see that Adam is driven out of this beautiful garden into the lone and dreary world, where he may learn from his own experience to distinguish good from evil.”)

Newer lecture at the veil Then Adam and Eve were driven out of the garden into the telestial kingdom, or the lone and dreary world, the world in which we are now living.

TEMPLE

Note that this section deals with the word temple as it occurs in the scriptures and other sources. For the temple experience, endowment ceremony, and history of the endowment, see the temple and the endowment.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

Hebrew Bible

הַר

HALOT 254a, PDF 311

- 1 hill-country
- 2 an individual mountain, Mount הַר סִינִי (epexegetic genitive), with הַר הַצִּיּוֹן, הַר הַמִּשְׁכָּן, etc.
- 3 plural
- 4 mountain of a god הַר אֱלֹהֵי הָרִים 1 Kings 20:23, 28...→ הַר הַחֹרֵב and הַר אֱלֹהִים; סִינִי Psalms 68:16... הַר קָדֵשׁ אֵל Ezekiel 28:14

BDB 249a, PDF 268

- mountain, hill, hill-country
- 1 mountain, hill (these often not sharply distinguished)
- 1.a specifically mountain, high elevation, often in all the literature
- 1.b mountain-range
- 1.c mountain...usually plural mountains, in general, or the mountains
- 1.e-n [many more particular uses]
- 2 hill-country, mountain-region
- 2.a opposite plain, etc.
- 2.b of a particular mountain-region, hill-country

DCH PDF 1057

- mountain...mountain, hill, mountain-range, hill-country, often in phrases denoting particular mountains of mountainous regions

TWOT 224

TLOT PDF 1342

TDOT 3:427, PDF 442

Some OT uses

Psalms 24:3

New Testament

KJV

2 Corinthians 6:16

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 94

- DC 109
- Just so many great things said about the temple here:
 - Verse 5

DC 124:23–24

- This verse is not about the temple in particular, but it does describe a place in ways similar to how the temple is described elsewhere. I think there's an important lesson for our own homes and lives here too.

DC 124:26–44

DC 124:55

DC 124:91–97 • Clearly related to the endowment ceremony and the “keys” to ask and receive.

Key Phrases

unholy temple 5 | Mosiah 2:37; Alma 7:21; Alma 34:36; Helaman 4:24; DC 97:17

Bible anchor verses There are no verses in the Bible which have the “unholy temple” phrase, but see: Acts 7:48; Acts 17:24; 1 Corinthians 3:16; 2 Corinthians 6:16; and DC 93:35.

Commentary Note that this gets all instances of God not “dwelling” in unholy temples as well.

Commentary and Studies

The idea that our bodies are temples

- 2 Corinthians 6:16

TEMPORAL

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Pertaining to this life or this world or the body only; secular; as temporal concerns; temporal affairs. In this sense, it is opposed to spiritual. Let not temporal affairs or employments divert the mind from spiritual concerns, which are far more important.
- 2 Measured or limited by time, or by this life or this state of things; having limited existence; opposed to eternal.
- 3 In grammar, relating to a tense; as a temporal augment.
- 4 Pertaining to the temple or temples of the head; as the temporal bone; a temporal artery or vein; temporal muscle.

TEMPT, TEMPTATION

See also

Accountability, Agency,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Tempt

- To incite or solicit to an evil act; to entice to something wrong by presenting arguments that are plausible or convincing, or by the offer of some pleasure or apparent advantage as the inducement.
- To provoke; to incite.
- To solicit; to draw; without the notion of evil.
- To try; to venture on; to attempt.
- In Scripture, to try; to prove; to put to trial for proof.

Scriptural Usage

Hebrew Bible

נִסָּה

HALOT 702a, PDF 758

- 1 to put someone to the test
- 2 to give experience, train
- 3 to conduct a test, make an attempt

TDOT 9:443, PDF 465

Some OT uses

Genesis 22:1

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ἐκπειράζω

BDAG 704a

- 1 to subject to test or proof, tempt
- 2 to entrap someone into giving information that will jeopardize the person, entrap
- 3 to entice to do wrong by offering attractive benefits, tempt

Some NT uses

Matthew 4:1

Luke 4:2

πειράζω

BDAG 704a

- 1 to make an effort to do something, try, attempt at times in a context indicating futility

- 2 to endeavor to discover the nature or character of something by testing, try, make trial of, put to the test
- 2.a general τινά someone
- 2.b of God or Christ, who put people to the test, in a favorable sense...so that they may prove themselves true...also of painful trials sent by God
- 2.c The Bible...also speaks of a trial of God by humans. Their intent is to put God to the test, to discover whether God really can do a certain thing, especially whether God notices sin and is able to punish it
 - I thought that the LXX of Malachi 3:10 might use this word, but there it's a form of ἐπισκέπτομαι. BSV has probo though.
- 3 to attempt to entrap through a process of inquiry, test. Jesus was so treated by his opponents, who planned to use their findings against him
- 4 to entice to improper behavior, tempt...above all the devil works in this way; hence he is directly called ὁ πειράζων the tempter...he tempts humans...but he also makes bold to tempt Jesus
 - Matthew 4:1 is listed here.

LSJ 1354b, PDF 1425

- I.1 make proof or trial of
- I.2 with infinitive, attempt to do
- I.3 passive...are tried, proved...to be experienced
- II.1 with accusative of person, try, tempt a person, put him to the test
- II.2 in bad sense, seek to seduce, tempt...passive, to be sorely tried...to be tempted to sin

Some NT uses

Matthew 4:1

Book of Mormon

3 Nephi 6:17

3 Nephi 28:39

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 101:28

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- Satan does not have “power” to tempt little children; see DC 29:46–47 and Moses 6:55.

Christ's experience with temptation

- Hebrews 4:14–15
- Mosiah 3:7
- Mosiah 15:5
- Alma 7:11
- DC 20:22

TESTIMONY

See also

Belief,

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- A solemn declaration or affirmation made for the purpose of establishing or proving some fact. Such affirmation in judicial proceedings, may be verbal or written, but must be under oath. testimony differs from evidence; testimony is the declaration of a witness, and evidence is the effect of that declaration on the mind, or the degree of light which it affords.
- 1 Affirmation; declaration. These doctrines are supported by the uniform testimony of the fathers. The belief of past facts must depend on the evidence of human testimony or the testimony of historians.
- 2 Open attestation; profession.
- 3 Witness; evidence; proof of some fact.
- 4 In Scripture, the two tables of the law.
- 5 The book of the law.
- 6 The gospel, which testifies of Christ and declares the will of God.
- 7 The ark.
- 8 The word of God; the Scriptures.
- 9 The laws or precepts of God.
- 10 That which is equivalent to a declaration; manifestation.
- 11 Evidence suggested to the mind; as the testimony of conscience.
- 12 Attestation; confirmation.

Commentary and Studies

Bearing testimony and belief in belief

See these notes under Belief.

TIDINGS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- News; advice; information; intelligence; account of what has taken place, and was not before known.

TIME

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Alma 40:8

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 39:22

DC 45:6 • “While it is called today.”

DC 72:3–4

DC 84:100 • This is the verse where it says, “time is no longer.”

DC 88:110 • This verse also says, “there shall be time no longer.”

DC 121:30–31

DC 130:4–5

Commentary and Studies

How the nature of time changes in different parts of the plan of salvation

(See “time” in the old concepts document for more examples, which I haven’t moved over here yet.)

2 Nephi 2:21 And the days of the children of men were prolonged, according to the will of God, that they might repent while in the flesh. Wherefore their state became a state of probation, and their time was lengthened according to the commandments which the Lord God gave unto the children of men. For he gave commandment that all men must repent, for he shewed unto all men that they were lost because of the transgression of their parents.

DC 84:100 The Lord hath redeemed his people; And Satan is bound and time is no longer. The Lord hath gathered all things in one. The Lord hath brought down Zion from above. The Lord hath brought up Zion from beneath.

DC 88:110 And so on, until the seventh angel shall sound his trumpet; and he shall stand forth upon the land and upon the sea, and swear in the name of him who sitteth upon the throne, that there shall be time no longer; and Satan shall be bound, that old serpent, who is called the devil, and shall not be loosed for the space of a thousand years.

The end of time, or time existing no longer

- See the scriptures listed above, especially those in the DC.
- Alma 12:24–27, the endless state is after the resurrection from the dead; so time counts down until that point, after which there is no time, or rather, no point in keeping track of it in the same way, since the resurrection has already happened. Just read these verses, including 27, in that light.
- In connection with the verses in Alma 12, think here of Alma 34:32–35. Interpret them in the same way.

THUS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- In this or that manner; on this wise
- 1 To this degree or extent; as thus wise; thus peaceable.
- 2 In the phrase, thus much, it seems to be an adjective, equivalent to this much.

TRANSFIGURATION, TRANSFIGURE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Transfiguration

- 1 A change of form; particularly, the supernatural change in the personal appearance of our Savior on the mount.
- 2 A feast held by the Romish church on the 6th of August, in commemoration of the miraculous change above mentioned.

Transfigure

- 1 To transform; to change the outward form or appearance.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Matthew 17:1–9

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 63:20–21

TRANSGRESSION, TRANSGRESS

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- The act of passing over or beyond any law or rule of moral duty; the violation of a law or known principle of rectitude; breach of command.
- 1 Fault; offense; crime.

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 8

Romans 4:15

- See 1 John 3:4 below.

1 John 3:4

- See the Greek here for sure.
- See also Romans 4:15 above.

Greek New Testament

παράβασις

See also ἁμαρτία, ἀνομία, ἀδικία,

BDAG 674a

- act of deviating from an established boundary or norm, overstepping, transgression w. objective genitive

LSJ 1305a, PDF 1376

I.1 going aside, escape, deviation

I.2 of the action of walking

I.3 transition, passage

II overstepping, transgression, error, illusion

III parabasis, a part of the Old Comedy, in which the Chorus came forward and addressed the audience in the Poet's name

Some NT uses

Romans 2:23 ὃς ἐν νόμῳ καυχᾶσαι, διὰ τῆς παραβάσεως τοῦ νόμου τὸν θεὸν ἀτιμάζεις·

Romans 5:14 ἀλλὰ ἐβασίλευσεν ὁ θάνατος ἀπὸ Ἀδάμ μέχρι Μωϋσέως καὶ ἐπὶ τοὺς μὴ ἁμαρτήσαντας ἐπὶ τῷ ὁμοιώματι τῆς παραβάσεως Ἀδάμ, ὃς ἐστὶν τύπος τοῦ μέλλοντος.

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 65

2 Nephi 9:6

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 29 (In his original heading to this section in RB1, John Whitmer wrote, “they seeing somewhat different upon the death of Adam (that is his transgression) therefor they made it a subject of Prayer & enquired of the Lord.”)

Key Phrases

transgression of Adam Job 31:33; Romans 5:14; 2 Nephi 2:22; Mosiah 3:11; Alma 22:12; DC 29:40; Moses 5:10, 6:53; Articles of Faith 2

Bible anchor verses Romans 5:14

Romans 5:14 τῆς παραβάσεως Ἀδάμ

Commentary

- The BDAG definition appropriate for Romans 5:14 appears to be an “act of deviating from an established boundary or norm.” The fact that it is referred to in Romans 5:14 as a παράβασις and not a ἁμαρτία in connection with Adam is probably very important; those are not the same thing.
- Note John Whitmer’s original heading to DC 29, mentioned above, where he talks about “the death of Adam (that is his transgression).”

Bible Dictionaries

Theological Dictionary of the New Testament Abridged

παράβασις

This word means “striding to and fro,” “stepping over,” “transgressing,” “violating” (cf. in the LXX Ps. 101:3). In the NT it denotes sin in relation to the law. In Rom. 2:23 the Jew dishonors God by transgressing the law, and in 4:15 the law brings wrath because there is transgression only where there is law. Between Adam and Moses there is sin but no παράβασις because the law is not yet given. In Gal. 3:19 the law is given to show that evil deeds are transgressions of God’s will. In 1 Tim. 2:14 Eve is deceived first and becomes a transgressor by violating God’s prohibition. In Heb. 2:2 every transgression of the law carries a due penalty, and in 9:15 Christ’s death serves to remit the transgressions committed under the old covenant, i.e., the acts of disobedience against God’s law that have brought Israel into guilt against God.

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- There is transgression only where there is law (see here).
- Sin and transgression come apart:
 - You can have sin without transgression, in cases where there is no law.
 - You can have sin and transgression, in cases where there is a law and someone has violated it and sinned.
 - You can have transgression without sin, which may be the case for Adam, and is the case for us, in times when we violate the law but don’t actually sin.
- There is a connection or conceptual equivalence relation between transgression and death—in some places, these concepts may be substitutable for each other (see the early preface to DC 29 here).

The difference between sin and transgression

See these notes at the entry for Sin.

TRANSLATION, TRANSLATE

Scriptural Usage

Book of Mormon

Mosiah 8:6–21

Mosiah 21:28

Mosiah 28:11–20

Alma 9:21

Mormon 8:14–17

Mormon 9:32–34

Ether 3:22–4

- Not everything in 4, but some stuff.
- Also some stuff in 5.

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 1:29

DC 5:4

DC 6:25–28

DC 7 • This whole section is a very weird “translation.” See the historical background and my notes. I’m guessing this “translation” is related to the comments in DC 8 and other places, given to Cowdery, about his “gift” and translating ancient records. But note also that this piece doesn’t get called a “translation,” apparently, until later. Seems to have been called a “translation” after the fact—it’s called a “revelation” in the original JSP source materials.

DC 8 • Various verses speaking about this process.

DC 9 • Oliver’s “failure” to translate; note that this whole saga of revelations involving Oliver, the gift of translation, and so on, is an important study of the translation and revelation process during this early period.
• Various references to “translation” here in this section.

DC 10 • More references to translation, and the “gift.” Note the way translation is spoken of in verses 10–11 for example.
• Also relevant is the “re-translation” and the alterations the Lord refers to.

DC 11:19, 22

DC 17:6

DC 20:8–10

DC 21:1

DC 24:1

DC 35:20

DC 37:1

DC 41:7

DC 42:15

DC 42:56–59 • The use of “appointed” here is interesting; see this phrase involving the word “death” and “appoint.” The Lord uses “appoint” more than once in this section and even in this passage.

DC 45:60–61

DC 59 , specifically the very end of the JSP version

DC 73:3–4

DC 76:15–18

DC 77

DC 84:57 • Is the Lord saying that he wrote the Book of Mormon?

DC 90:13

DC 91

DC 94:10

DC 107:92

DC 124:89

DC 128:8 • Both this use of “translation” and the other one in DC 128 are extremely important.
DC 128:18

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

-

Understandings of “translation” processes in the early LDS church

See all the DC uses above.

See here; in some minutes involving JS; also, here; in a non-DC revelation here; in a letter on 21 April 1833 here; end of section 93; JSP J1:11; see many JS journal entries in mid or late 1835—J1:107 and 109 are examples—seems pretty clear here he’s using the word in the way we normally understand it. Also note that he receives some Hebrew books on 20 November, along with a Greek lexicon (this is 1835), and he’s reading them at the same time as he’s working with the Egyptian (see the entries for 26 and 27 November). It’s pretty clear why there is Hebrew stuff in the Egyptian—he’s just mixing it all together.

See JS’s letter to Phelps from 31 July 1832.

See also the statement of the translation process in DC 76:15–18.

See DC 90:13, and other uses of “translation” listed above in the DC.

See the scriptural references to “translation” that I have noted above.

See JS’s discussion of “translation” in his memo to the high council in 1840. (See also the brief mention in the minutes of a conference which occurred right after, and my notes there.)

See also: this mention of translation; this discussion;

See the discussion (from 1838, not from 1830, as it seems) of the Book of Mormon title page.

James Burgess’ account of JS, 23 July 1843, here, at the end (also FDR’s account here).

“Translation” as a change of state or change of body in order to preserve bodily existence without death

Some scriptures to see:

- Ether 15:34
- DC 7, where John asks Christ to continue; see especially verses 2 and 6, where Christ says that he will make John “as flaming fire.”
- DC 107:49

TRIFLE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Trifle (intransitive verb)

To act or talk without seriousness, gravity, weight or dignity; to act or talk with levity.

1 To indulge in light amusements.

To trifle with, to mock; to play the fool with; to treat without respect or seriousness.

To trifle with, to spend in vanity; to waste.

To trifle away, to no good purpose; as, to trifle with time, or to trifle away time; to trifle with advantages.

TRUTH

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Conformity to fact or reality; exact accordance with that which is, or has been, or shall be. The truth of history constitutes its whole value. We rely on the truth of the scriptural prophecies.
- 2 True state of facts or things. The duty of a court of justice is to discover the truth Witnesses are sworn to declare the truth the whole truth and nothing but the truth.
- 3 Conformity of words to thoughts, which is called moral truth.
- 4 Veracity; purity from falsehood; practice of speaking truth; habitual disposition to speak truth; as when we say, a man is a man of truth.
- 5 Correct opinion.
- 6 Fidelity; constancy.
- 7 Honesty; virtue.
- 8 Exactness; conformity to rule.
- 9 Real fact of just principle; real state of things. There are innumerable truths with which we are not acquainted.
- 10 Sincerity.
- 11 The truth of God, is his veracity and faithfulness.
- 12 Jesus Christ is called the truth John 14.
- 13 It is sometimes used by way of concession.

New Testament

KJV

John 1:9

John 1:14

John 1:17

John 3:21

John 3:33

John 4:23–24

John 5:31–33

John 6:32

John 7:18

John 7:28

John 8:13–17

John 8:26

*John 8:32 • This is the “truth shall make you free” verse.

- As noted in this list, there is substantial discussion of truth throughout this chapter. It also talks about what is “true.”

John 8:40–45

*John 14:6

John 14:17

John 15:1

John 15:26

John 16:7–13

John 17:3

*John 17:17

*John 17:19

Book of Mormon

3 Nephi 5:18

Key Phrases

full of grace and truth 13 | John 1:14, 2 Nephi 2:6; Alma 5:48; Alma 9:26; Alma 13:9; DC 66:12; DC 84:102; DC 93:11; Moses 1:6, 32; Moses 5:7; Moses 6:52; Moses 7:11

Bible anchor verses

John 1:14

grace and truth 15 | John 1:14, 17; 2 Nephi 2:6; Alma 5:48; Alma 9:26; Alma 13:9; DC 50:40; DC 66:12; DC 84:102; DC 93:11; Moses 1:6, 32; Moses 5:7; Moses 6:52; Moses 7:11

Bible anchor verses

John 1:14

John 1:17

Commentary I wonder if one of the keys to understanding this phrase, besides the uses in John, is the Hebrew phrase רַב־חֶסֶד וְאֱמֶת, and more specifically רַב־חֶסֶד וְאֱמֶת at the end of Exodus 34:6. I have seen some of the sources gloss that phrase as “reliability,” basically taking the אֱמֶת as a hendiadys. That makes me think of at least two possibilities for “grace and truth” (and also “full of grace and truth”): either take it as hendiadys in a similar way (and maybe even gloss it as “reliability”); or don’t take it as hendiadys and instead expand our understanding of the phrase by looking at OT instances of this Hebrew phrase, along with possible meanings of חֶסֶד. I think I’m inclined to the latter but I would also say to be wary here because you don’t want to lose the connections with restoration scripture that are clearly built on the John use of “grace and truth,” especially in places like DC 93.

- See TLOT PDF 605 bottom for more on the Exodus verse.

light and truth 6 | DC 93:36, 37, 39, 40, 42; DC 124:9

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary

light of truth 2 | DC 88:6; DC 93:29

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary See “light and truth” above.

spirit of truth See this phrase at Spirit.

Restoration Usage

Temple Ordinances

Discussion of garment symbols This one on the left is the mark of the compass. It is placed in the garment over the left breast, suggesting to the mind an undeviating course leading to eternal life; a constant reminder that desires, appetites, and passions are to be kept within the bounds the Lord has set; and that all truth may be circumscribed into one great whole.

Truth and goodness

See this study here.

UNFOLD

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To open folds; to expand; to spread out.
- 2 To open any thing covered or close; to lay open to view or contemplation; to disclose; to reveal; as, to unfold one's designs; to unfold the principles of a science.
- 3 To declare; to tell; to disclose.
- 4 To display; as, to unfold the works of creation.
- 5 To release from a fold or pen; as, to unfold sheep.

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the OT 0

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 0

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 10

1 Nephi 10:19

Jacob 4:18

Mosiah 2:9

Mosiah 8:19

Mosiah 29:33

Mosiah 29:35

Alma 12:1

Alma 40:3

Ether 4:7

Ether 4:16

Doctrine and Covenants

Total occurrences in the DC 7

Of the seven total uses of “unfold” in the DC, five are epistemological and four of those occur in conjunction with “mystery”; the other two are in DC 88:95, which I guess you could give an epistemological interpretation of, but there are other interpretations too.

For examples of “unfolding,” see the end of DC 94;

DC 6:7

DC 10:64

DC 11:7

DC 32:4

- This is the one epistemological use that doesn't occur with "mystery."

DC 88:95 (2)

DC 90:14

Pearl of Great Price

Total occurrences in the PGP 0

Key Phrases

unfold mystery 9 | 1 Nephi 10:19; Jacob 4:18; Mosiah 2:9; Mosiah 8:19; Alma 40:3; DC 6:7; DC 10:64; DC 11:7; DC 90:14

Bible anchor verses —

Commentary The fact that these two words occur together nine times is extremely significant, in my opinion.

Restoration Usage

Brigham Young

8 October 1865 I wish to say this that there is so many of the elders of Israel when they see one thing you can't get anything else in their minds you hand them a book do you see that what is on it George A Smith Brigham Young John Taylor it is a Book of Mormon they will turn [thing?] and swear there is no other side to the book there is always many sides to a thing but there is no so many that can't see only one thing

UNPARDONABLE SIN

See also

Sons of Perdition,

Book of Mormon

Jacob 7:19

Alma 39:5–6

Commentary and Studies

Biblical references to something unforgiveable

Matthew 12:32 καὶ ὃς ἐὰν εἴπῃ λόγον κατὰ τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου, ἀφεθήσεται αὐτῷ· ὃς δ' ἂν εἴπῃ κατὰ τοῦ πνεύματος τοῦ ἁγίου, οὐκ ἀφεθήσεται αὐτῷ οὔτε ἐν τούτῳ τῷ αἰῶνι οὔτε ἐν τῷ μέλλοντι.

Luke 12:10 καὶ πᾶς ὃς ἐρεῖ λόγον εἰς τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου, ἀφεθήσεται αὐτῷ τῷ δὲ εἰς τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα βλασφημήσαντι οὐκ ἀφεθήσεται.

URIM AND THUMMIM

Scriptural Usage

Old Testament

Hebrew Bible

אורים

HALOT 25a, PDF 82

- Urim

- The entry mentions, apparently as possibilities, “instrument for casting lots...Arabic, blunt arrows...various coloured stones.”

BDB 22a, PDF 41

- Urim (plural intensifier, mostly with article the Urim, and mostly joined with וְהַתְּמִיִּם...הָאוּרִים were put into the חֹשֶׁן was a little bag of pouch worn on breast of high priest, to hold the Urim & Thummim; the name הַמִּשְׁפָּט חֹשֶׁן was given because of decisions made by that which was within it; thus, Eleazar was to inquire of י for Joshua בְּמִשְׁפָּט הָאוּרִים (Numbers 27:21)
 - The entry also notes the LXX of Deuteronomy 33:8, καὶ τῷ Λευὶ εἶπεν Δότε λευὶ δῆλους αὐτοῦ Καὶ ἀλήθειαν αὐτοῦ τῷ ἀνδρὶ τῷ ὁσίῳ, and the Vulgate, Levi quoque ait perfectio tua et doctrina tua viro sancto tuo quem probasti in Temptatione, but in the HALOT entry it suggests these sources are just guessing at the meaning.
 - The חֹשֶׁן is the “breastpiece”: “The breast piece of Aaron’s priestly wardrobe is described in great detail in the tabernacle texts of Exodus (see esp. 28:5–30 and 39:8–21) and is also mentioned in one passage in Leviticus (8:8) dealing with the tabernacle. The breastpiece was made of the same kind of material as the ephod: gold, blue, purple, and scarlet woolen threads interwoven with fine linen. The workmanship was of a certain skillful type (hoseb) also used for the ephod. The woven fabric formed a double piece of material, a span 9 or 10 inches square when folded over. The reason for the doubled fabric was that the breastpiece, in addition to its symbolic ritual value, also served as a container for the Urim and Thummim” (ABD 1182).

DCH PDF 165

- Urim...sacred oracle in high priest’s breastplate, usually + תְּמִיִּם Thummim

תְּמִיִּם

The best I can gather from these entries is that תְּמִיִּם comes from תָּמַם, “to be complete” (Qal), “to complete, perfect, accomplish, carry out” (Hiphil).

HALOT 1750b, PDF 1806

- plural from תָּם (KBL) or an independent tantum plurale...epithet of אוּרִים...(Numbers 27:21 and 1 Samuel 28:6 אוּרִים stands figuratively as a part for the whole for אוּרִים וְתְּמִיִּם..the etymological sense of תְּמִיִּם is uncertain; the proposal that אוּרִים belongs to the root אָרַר and correspondingly that תְּ to the root תָּמַם leaves open the possibility of considering the word-pair cursed + innocent...for another view see e.g. Eissfeldt...who takes the sense of Urim and Thummim (without explanation) as a clarification of guilt and confirmation of innocence. In practice תְּמִיִּם functioned together with אוּרִים to serve as a means of ascertaining through an oracle by lot the divine will using arrows, or rather differently marked stones

BDB 1070b, PDF 1089

- תְּמִיִּם in אוּרִים וְתְּמִיִּם (meaning dubious, see אוּרִים)
 - BDB lists this word as #4 in תָּם, “completeness, integrity.”

DCH PDF 5484a

- Thummim
 - DCH lists this word under תָּמַם, “to be complete,” but the word only appears at the very end of the entry in a list of derivatives from תָּמַם that includes תָּם and other words.

VIEW

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

Letter to the Church, circa February 1834 We consider that God has created man with a mind capable of instruction, and a faculty which may be enlarged in proportion to the heed and diligence given to the light communicated from heaven to the intellect; and that the nearer man approaches perfection, the more conspicuous are his views, & the greater his enjoyments, until he has overcome the evils of this life and lost every desire of sin; and like the ancients, arrives to that point of faith that he is wrapped in the glory and power of his Maker and is caught up to dwell with him.

VIRGIN

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A woman who has had no carnal knowledge of man.
- 2 A woman not a mother. [Unusual.]
- 3 The sign Virgo.

New Testament

KJV

Total occurrences in the NT 14

Matthew 1:23

Matthew 25:1

Matthew 25:7

Matthew 25:11

Luke 1:27 (2)

Acts 21:9

1 Corinthians 7:25

1 Corinthians 7:28

1 Corinthians 7:34

1 Corinthians 7:36

1 Corinthians 7:37

2 Corinthians 11:2

Revelation 14:4

Greek New Testament

παρθένος

BDAG 690a

- generally of a young woman of marriageable age, with or without focus on virginity...in our literature one who has never engaged in sexual intercourse, virgin, chaste person
 - a female of marriageable age with focus on virginity
 - b male virgin (Revelation 14:4 is listed under this definition.)

LSJ 1339b, PDF 1410

- I.1 maiden, girl
- I.2 of unmarried women who are not virgins
- I.3 the Virgin Goddess
- I.4 the constellation Virgo
- I.5 pupil
 - II as adjective, maiden, chaste
 - III unmarried man

Some NT uses

Matthew 1:23

Matthew 25:1

Matthew 25:7

Matthew 25:11

Luke 1:27

Acts 21:9

1 Corinthians 7:25

1 Corinthians 7:28

1 Corinthians 7:34

1 Corinthians 7:36

1 Corinthians 7:37

1 Corinthians 7:38 ὥστε καὶ ὁ γαμίζων τὴν παρθένον ἑαυτοῦ καλῶς ποιεῖ, καὶ ὁ μὴ γαμίζων κρεῖσσον ποιήσει.

2 Corinthians 11:2

Revelation 14:4

Book of Mormon

Total occurrences in the BOM 7

1 Nephi 11:13

1 Nephi 11:15 (2)

1 Nephi 11:18

1 Nephi 11:20

2 Nephi 17:14

Alma 7:10

Commentary and Studies

“Virgin” in 1 Nephi 11

See this footnote.

VIRTUE

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Strength; that substance or quality of physical bodies, by which they act and produce effects on other bodies. In this literal and proper sense, we speak of the virtue or virtues of plants in medicine, and the virtues of drugs. In decoctions, the virtues of plants are extracted. By long standing in the open air, the virtues are lost.
- 2 Bravery valor. This was the predominant signification of virtus among the Romans.
- 3 Moral goodness; the practice of moral duties and the abstaining from vice, or a conformity of life and conversation to the moral law. In this sense, virtue may be, and in many instances must be, distinguished from religion. The practice of moral duties merely from motives of convenience, or from compulsion, or from regard to reputation, is virtue as distinct from religion. The practice of moral duties from sincere love to God and his laws, is virtue and religion. In this sense it is true, That virtue only makes our bliss below. Virtue is nothing but voluntary obedience to truth.
- 4 A particular moral excellence; as the virtue of temperance, of chastity, of charity. Remember all his virtues.
- 5 Acting power; something efficacious. Jesus, knowing that virtue had gone out of him, turned - Mark 3:1.
- 6 Secret agency; efficacy without visible or material action. She moves the body which she doth possess, Yet no part toucheth, but by virtue's touch.
- 7 Excellence; or that which constitutes value and merit. - Terence, who thought the sole grace and virtue of their fable, the sticking in of sentences.
- 8 One of the orders of the celestial hierarchy. Thrones, dominations, principedoms, virtues, powers.
- 9 Efficacy; power. He used to travel through Greece by virtue of this fable, which procured him reception in all the towns.
- 10 Legal efficacy or power; authority. A man administers the laws by virtue of a commission. In virtue in consequence; by the efficacy or authority. This they shall attain, partly in virtue of the promise of God, and partly in virtue of piety.

WATER

See also

Spring, Life,

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

ὕδωρ

BDAG 910b

- 1 water, in a material sense, as an element
- 2 transcendent life-giving medium, water, figurative extension of 1, with the transition marked by John 4:10ff, where ὕδωρ ζῶν is partly spring water and partly a symbol of the benefits conferred by Jesus

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

John 4:10 ἀπεκρίθη Ἰησοῦς καὶ εἶπεν αὐτῇ· Εἰ ᾔδεις τὴν δωρεὰν τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ τίς ἐστὶν ὁ λέγων σοι· Δός μοι πεῖν, σὺ ἂν ᾔτησας αὐτόν καὶ ἔδωκεν ἅν σοι ὕδωρ ζῶν.

Key Phrases

living waters/waters of life 22 | Song of Solomon 4:15; Jeremiah 2:13, 17:13; Zechariah 14:8; John 4:10, 11, 14; 7:38; Revelation 7:17, 21:6, 22:1, 17; 1 Nephi 11:25; Alma 5:34; 42:27; DC 10:66; 63:23; 133:29

Bible anchor verses

Jeremiah 2:13 מִקְוֵה מַיִם חַיִּים

Jeremiah 17:13 מִקְוֵה מַיִם חַיִּים

Zechariah 14:8 מַיִם חַיִּים

John 4:10 ὕδωρ ζῶν

John 4:11 τὸ ὕδωρ τὸ ζῶν

John 4:14 πηγὴ ὕδατος ἀλλομένου εἰς ζωὴν αἰώνιον

John 7:38 ὕδατος ζῶντος

Revelation 7:17 ἐπὶ ζωῆς πηγὰς ὑδάτων (Maybe, “to fountains of the waters of life.”)

Revelation 21:6 ἐκ τῆς πηγῆς τοῦ ὕδατος τῆς ζωῆς

Revelation 22:1 ποταμὸν ὕδατος ζωῆς

Revelation 22:17 λαβέτω ὕδωρ ζωῆς

Commentary See above at ὕδωρ. 1 Nephi 11:25 says that the “waters are a representation of the love of God.” But I think it’s also useful to think of the more broadly than that as well

WHEREOF

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Of which. We are not guilty of the crime whereof we are accused.
- 2 Of what. whereof was this house built?

WILL

Commentary and Studies

The importance of “doing the will” of God

- Matthew 7:21–23
 - Compare Luke 13:25–27
- Matthew 7:24–27
- Luke 12:47–48
- John 9:31
- Colossians 1:9–13
 - These verses aren’t so much about doing the will but do talk about knowing it, and then they mention specific consequences of knowing the will, including behavior.

WISDOM

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The right use or exercise of knowledge; the choice of laudable ends, and of the best means to accomplish them. This is wisdom in act, effect, or practice. If wisdom is to be considered as a faculty of the mind, it is the faculty of discerning or judging what is most just, proper and useful, and if it is to be considered as an acquirement, it is the knowledge and use of what is best, most just, most proper, most conducive to prosperity or happiness. Wisdom in the first sense, or practical wisdom is nearly synonymous with discretion. It differs somewhat from prudence, in this respect; prudence is the exercise of sound judgment in avoiding evils; wisdom is the exercise of sound judgment either in avoiding evils or attempting good. Prudence then is a species, of which wisdom is the genus.
- 2 In Scripture, human learning; erudition; knowledge of arts and sciences.
- 3 Quickness of intellect; readiness of apprehension; dexterity in execution; as the wisdom of Bezaleel and Aholiab.
- 4 Natural instinct and sagacity.
- 5 In Scripture theology, wisdom is true religion; godliness; piety; the knowledge and fear of God, and sincere and uniform obedience to his commands.
- 6 Profitable words or doctrine.

Scriptural Usage

Doctrine and Covenants

DC 6:7

DC 57:3 2

DC 57:4

DC 57:5

DC 57:6

Key Phrases

word(s) of wisdom 14 | list

WORD

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

λόγος

BDAG 530b

- 1 a communication whereby the mind finds expression, word
 - 1.a of utterance, chiefly oral
 - 1.a.α as expression, word (oratorical ability plus exceptional performance were distinguishing marks in Hellenic society, hence the frequent association of λ. and ἔργον 'deed'...
 - 1.a.β The expression may take on a variety of formulations or topical nuances...
 - BDAG lists here an immense number of examples and ways of using this term.
 - 1.a.γ of an individual declaration or remark: assertion, declaration, speech
 - 1.a.δ the plural (οἱ) λόγοι is used, on the one hand, of words uttered on various occasions, of speeches or instruction given here and there by humans or transcendent beings...Also of words and expressions that form a unity, whether it be connected discourse...a conversation, or parts of one and the same teaching, or expositions on the same subject...
 - 1.a.ε the subject under discussion, matter, thing generally
 - 1.b of literary or oratorical productions: of the separate books of a work...treatise...
 - 2 computation, reckoning
 - 2.a a formal accounting, especially of one's actions, and frequently with figurative extension of commercial terminology account, accounts, reckoning...Of a ledger heading...Romans 9:6 (the point is that God's 'list' of Israelites is accurate; on ἐκπίπτω in the sense 'is not deficient'...vs. 9 (the 'count' is subsumed by metonymy in divine promise); Galatians 5:14 (all moral obligations come under one 'entry': 'you shall love your neighbor as yourself'...the contexts of these three passages suggest strong probability for commercial associations; for another view see #1.a.β.
 - 2.b settlement (of an account)
 -]2.c] reflection, respect, regard
 - 2.d reason for or cause of something, reason, ground, motive
 - 2.e πρὸς ὃν ἡμῖν ὁ λόγος (ἐστίν) with whom we have to do (i.e. to reckon)
 - 3 the independent personified expression of God, the Logos. Our literature shows traces of a way of thinking that was widespread in contemporary syncretism, as well as in Jewish wisdom literature and Philo, the most prominent feature of which is the concept of the Logos, the independent, personified 'Word' (of God)...John 1:1, 14...It is the distinctive teaching of the Fourth Gospel that this divine 'Word' took on human form in a historical person, that is, in Jesus...Equating a divinity with an abstraction that she personifies: Artem. 5, 18 φρόνησις εἶναι νομίζεται ἡ θεός [Athena]). Cp. 1 John 1:1; Revelation 19:13. εἷς θεός ἐστίν, ὁ φανερώσας ἑαυτὸν διὰ Ἰ. Χριστοῦ τοῦ υἱοῦ αὐτοῦ, ὃς ἐστίν αὐτοῦ λόγος, ἀπὸ σιγῆς προελθὼν there is one God, who has revealed himself through Jesus Christ his Son, who is his 'Word' proceeding from silence (i.e., without an oral pronouncement: in a transcendent manner) IMg 8:2 (s. σιγή). The Lord as νόμος κ. λόγος PtK 1. Cp. Dg 11:2, 3, 7, 8; 12:9.—HClavier, TManson memorial vol., '59, 81–93: the Alexandrian eternal λόγος is also implied in Hebrews 4:12; 13:7.

LSJ, PDF

- I computation, reckoning
 - I.1.a account of money handled
 - I.1.b public accounts, i.e. branch of treasury
 - I.2 generally, account, reckoning
 - I.3 measure, tale
 - I.4 esteem, consideration, value put on a person or thing
- II relation, correspondence, proportion
 - II.1 generally, ὑπερτερής λ. relation (of gold to lead)...
 - II.2 Mathematics, ratio, proportion

II.3 Grammar, analogy, rule

III explanation

III.1.a plea, pretext, ground

III.1.b plea, case

III.2.a statement of a theory, argument

III.2.b ὁ περὶ θεῶν λ., title of a discourse by Protagoras...

III.2.c In logic, proposition, whether as premise or conclusion

III.2.d rule, principle, law, as embodying the result of λογισμός

Dan Graham, “Once More unto the Stream,” 2013, 318–319 In the same way, it appears that for Heraclitus the whole cosmos is everlasting precisely because parts of it are constantly undergoing material changes (B30). Thus we seem to be justified in seeing the flux doctrine as having application to the cosmos as well as to rivers and people. In Heraclitus’ world, relatively stable structures supervene on constantly changing matter. B 12 is the river fragment, Heraclitus’ one and only statement of the flux. The sage of Ephesus believes in the flux of matter, but not a flux that erodes all landmarks and makes knowledge and communication impossible. Rather, his flux brings stability to rivers, life to animals, coherent experience to men, and everlasting existence to the cosmos itself. Or rather, there are regularities that govern flux, that order the exchanges of opposite characteristics. While the changes are continuous, the regularities balance them out and ensure a higher-level order in the world. Like Adam Smith’s Invisible Hand that maintains the balance of market forces in an economy, Heraclitus’ scheme maintains a balance of material forces. The mysterious entity he calls the Logos can be seen as just the expression of systematic order in nature. No less real than the constant exchange of hot and cold, wet and dry, earth, water, and fire is the constant replacement of what is lost by a new supply, drawn from what is lost of the contrary stuff. The world needs constant flux and interchange at the level of material, on which a hidden law operates to maintain balance. The cosmos is an ever-living fire precisely because it lives in its own transformation of opposites; it stays the same as it changes. There is one way that Heraclitus’ theory is profoundly different from that of all other early philosophers of nature. Whereas they attempt to explain change in terms of constant realities and their modifications, Heraclitus attempts to explain constancy in terms of ongoing change. Whereas in some metaphysical sense they are all philosophers of stasis, for whom (especially from Parmenides on) stability is fundamental and change problematic, Heraclitus is a philosopher of process, for whom change is fundamental and stability problematic. But if he is a process philosopher, he is not a nihilist or an epistemological or ontological anarchist. His world is orderly through and through, the forces balanced, the elements proportionate, the cosmos stable. Like a river.

Some NT uses

John 5:38

Key Phrases

words of my mouth 10 | Deuteronomy 32:1; Psalms 19:14; 54:2; 78:1; Proverbs 4:5; 5:7; 7:24; 8:8; Hosea 6:5; Alma 7:1

Commentary See discussion in this note in the endowment ceremony.

word of my power/power of my word 17 | Luke 4:32, Hebrews 1:3, Hebrews 4:12, 1 Nephi 17:46, 2 Nephi 1:26, Jacob 4:9, Alma 5:5, Alma 26:13, 4 Nephi 1:30, Mormon 8:24 (2), Mormon 9:17 (2), DC 11:21, Moses 1:32, Moses 1:35, Moses 2:5

WORLD

Scriptural Usage

New Testament

Greek New Testament

αἰών

Some NT uses

Matthew 13:39

BDAG

- 1 a long period of time, without reference to beginning or end
 - 1.a of time gone by, the past, earliest times, readily suggesting a venerable or awesome eld
 - 1.b of time to come which, if it has no end, is also known as eternity
- 2 a segment of time as a particular unit of history, age
 - 2.a ὁ αἰὼν οὗτος (ἐξ ἡμέρας ἡμέρας) the present age (nearing its end)
 - 2.b ὁ αἰὼν μέλλων (ἐξ ἡμέρας ἡμέρας) the age to come, the Messianic period
- 3 the world as a spatial concept, the world...Created by God through the Son Hb 1:2; through God's word 11:3.
Hence God is βασιλεὺς τῶν αἰ. 1 Ti 1:17; Rv 15:3
- 4 the Aeon as a person, the Aeon

κόσμος

BDAG 497a

- 1 that which serves to beautify through decoration, adornment, adorning
- 2 condition of orderliness, orderly arrangement, order
- 3 the sum total of everything here and now, the world, the (orderly) universe
- 4 the sum total of all beings above the level of the animals, the world
- 5 planet earth as a place of inhabitation, the world
- 5a generally (Matthew 4:8 is listed here.)
- 5b the world as the habitation of humanity
- 5c earth, world in contrast to heaven
- 5d the world outside in contrast to one's home
- 6 humanity in general, the world
- 6a generally
- 6b of all humanity, but especially of believers, as the object of God's love
- 7 the system of human existence in its many aspects, the world
- 7a as scene of earthly joys, possessions, cares, sufferings
- 7b the world, and everything that belongs to it, appears as that which is hostile to God, i.e. lost in sin, wholly at odds with anything divine, ruined and depraved
- 8 collective aspect of an entity, totality, sum total

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

οἰκουμένη

BDAG 620b

- 1 the earth as inhabited area, exclusive of the heavens above and nether regions, the inhabited earth, the world
- 2 the world as administrative unit, the Roman Empire

2a as such

2b its inhabitants

3 all inhabitants of the earth, figurative extension of 1; world, humankind

4 an extraordinary use, where it seems to mean the whole world

LSJ, PDF

•

Some NT uses

Key Phrases

foundation of the world 49 | list

overcome the world 9 | John 16:33; 1 John 2:14; 1 John 5:4 \(2\); 1 John 5:5; DC 50:8; DC 50:41; DC 63:47; DC 64:2

Restoration Usage

Joseph Smith

Date/Source

ZION

Key Phrases

mount Zion 36 | list

Commentary and Studies

Key Points

- DC 84:2 says that “Mount Zion” will be the “city of New Jerusalem.”

SUPPLEMENT TO CONCEPTS

Abase

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The literal sense of abase is to lower or depress, to throw or cast down, as used by Bacon, ‘to abase the eye.’ But the word is seldom used in reference to material things.
- 2 To cast down; to reduce low; to depress; to humble; to degrade; applied to the passions, rank, office, and condition in life.

Abide

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Intransitive verb

- 1 To rest, or dwell.
- 2 To tarry or stay for a short time.
- 3 To continue permanently or in the same state; to be firm and immovable.
- 4 To remain, to continue.

Transitive verb

- 1 To wait for; to be prepared for; to await.
- 2 To endure or sustain.
- 3 To bear or endure; to bear patiently.

Abound

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To have or possess in great quantity; to be copiously supplied; followed by with or in; as to abound with provisions; to abound in good things.
- 2 To be in great plenty; to be very prevalent.

Adam-ondi-Ahman

Scriptural Usage

Total occurrences of “Adam-ondi-Ahman” in the scriptures	5
Total occurrences in the DC	5

DC 78:15

DC 107:53

DC 116:1

DC 117-8

DC 117-11

Betimes

From the 1828 dictionary, the complete entry for “betimes”:

- 1 Seasonably; in good season or time; before it is late.
- 2 Soon; in a short time.

From the OED, the complete entry for “betimes”:

- 1 At an early time, period, or season; early in the year; early in life.
- 2 spec. At an early hour, early in the morning.
- 3 In good time, in due time; while there is yet time, before it is too late.
- 4 In a short time, soon, speedily, anon, forthwith.

Bishopric

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A diocese; the district over which the jurisdiction of bishop extends. in England, are twenty-four bishoprics, besides that of Sodor and Man; in Ireland, eighteen.
- 2 The charge of instructing and governing in spiritual concerns; office. Acts 1:20.

Book (as a heavenly records)

Here’s a list of references to such books:

- “the book of the names of the sanctified, even them of the celestial world” (DC 88:2)
- “the volume of the book,” in which deeds committed against God are written (DC 99:5)
- DC 128:6–7, referring to Revelation 20:12

Caleb

NIEBC, “Caleb” #1

“Caleb, from the tribe of Judah, was the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite. Moses asked him to represent his tribe in spying out the land of Canaan (Num. 13:6). This he did with twelve others. The land they saw was very fertile. They came back with large bunches of grapes and great reports of the land’s wealth and prosperity. However, the land was found to be occupied by some fearful people, especially the descendants of the giant Anak, who lived around Hebron. Ten of the spies came back so disillusioned and so convinced they could never win in battle against these people that they turned on Moses. The Israelites, on hearing this, argued that they would have been better off back in Egypt (Num. 13:26–29; 13:31–14:4).

“Of all the spies, only Caleb and Joshua had sufficient faith in God to know that he could enable them to take the land of Canaan. First they gave an alternative report to Moses, and then they appealed to the people. Their complete trust in the sovereign power of God is proclaimed aloud to the people in their speech: ‘If the LORD is pleased with us, he will lead us into that land, a land flowing with milk and honey, and will give it to us. Only do not rebel against the LORD. And do not be afraid of the people . . . Their protection is gone, but the LORD is with us’ (Num. 14:7–9).

“As a judgment on the people for their lack of faith, that whole generation was never allowed to enter Canaan, but rather spent the time ‘wandering’ in the wilderness (Num. 14:22–23; 26:65). Only Caleb and Joshua were allowed to live long enough to enter the land, and both had a very significant part in the battles to take Canaan many years later (Num. 14:24, 30). It is of particular significance that Caleb, who so many years before had believed that the LORD would destroy the Anakites, was the leader of the attack on the Hebron area. He personally led the forces that defeated the giants, and as a result he was later given that area as an inheritance by Joshua (Josh. 14:6–15; 15:13–14). Caleb offered his daughter Acsah in marriage to the man who would conquer Kiriath-sepher (Debir) for him. Othniel, Caleb’s nephew, did this and so married her (Josh. 15:16–18). His sons are listed in 1 Chron. 4:15.

“Caleb’s ‘wholehearted faith’ (Josh. 14:14; Deut 1:36 etc.) became an example for future generations. This faith issued in a practical and calm reliance upon the LORD God as the one who was all-powerful and whose will could not be thwarted. To believe this would be one thing, but to act on it in the face of such adversaries was of the essence of the true faith which Caleb demonstrated and from which all can learn.”

NIEBC, “Caleb” #2

“This Caleb was the brother of Jerahmeel and the son of Hezron. He was of the tribe of Judah and married to Azubah. When she died he married Ephrath, by whom he had a son called Hur. His other sons were Mesha and Mareshah (1 Chron. 2:9, 18–19, 42, 50). Hur’s grandson Bezalel was a craftsman who worked on the Tabernacle.”

Carmel, Mount

BIBD, “Carmel, Mount”

“The wooded mountain promontory on the Mediterranean, near modern Haifa. The name means ‘the garden.’ It forms a northern barrier to the coastal plain of Sharon. Mount Carmel provided the perfect stage for its most significant event, the confrontation between Elijah and the prophets of Baal (1 Kings 18), the god of storms and therefore agricultural produce. The mountain’s high elevation meant that it was lush until a drought. When the prophets threatened that Carmel would wither, conditions were extreme (Isa. 33:9; Amos 1:2; Nah.1:4).”

ZIBD, “Carmel”

“When the word occurs with the definite article, it generally refers to Mount Carmel and is often used to illustrate a beautiful and fruitful place (Isa. 35:2; but see 33:9, which pictures God’s judgment). South of Carmel lies the fruitful plain of SHARON and NE of it flows the river KISHON through the Plain of ESDRAELON. At Carmel, ELIJAH stood against 450 heathen prophets and defeated them (1 Ki. 18). ELISHA also visited Carmel (2 Ki. 2:25; 4:25).”

Circumscribe

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To inclose within a certain limit; to limit, bound, confine.
- 2 To write round.

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1.a transitive. To draw a line round; to encompass with (or as with) a bounding line, to form the boundary of, to bound.
- 1.b To encompass (without a line), to encircle.
- 2.a To mark out or lay down the limits of; to enclose within limits, limit, bound, confine (usually figurative); esp. to confine within narrow limits, to restrict the free or extended action of, to hem in, restrain, abridge.
- 2.b To mark off, to define logically.
- 3.a Geometry. To describe (a figure) about another figure so as to touch it at certain points or parts without cutting it.
- 3.b With the figure so described as subject of the verb.
- 4.a To write or inscribe around (a coin, etc., with an inscription, or an inscription on or about a coin, etc.). Obsolete.
- 4.b To join in signing a ‘round-robin’.

Course

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- In its general sense, a passing; a moving, or motion forward, in a direct or curving line; applicable to any body or substance, solid or fluid. Applied to animals, a running, or walking; a race; a career; a passing, or passage, with any degree of swiftness indefinitely. Applied to fluids, a flowing, as in a stream in any direction; as a straight course or winding course. It is applied to water or other liquids, to air or wind, and to light, in the sense of motion or passing. Applied to solid bodies, it signifies motion or passing; as the course of a rolling stone; the course of a carriage; the course of the earth in its orbit. Applied to navigation, it signifies a passing or motion on water, or in balloons in air; a voyage.
- The direction of motion; line of advancing; point of compass, in which motion is directed; as, what course shall the pilot steer? In technical language, the angle contained between the nearest meridian and that point of compass on which a ship sails in any direction.
- Ground on which a race is run.
- A passing or process; the progress of any thing; as the course of an argument, or of a debate; a course of thought or reflexion.
- Order of proceeding or of passing from an ancestor to an heir; as the course of descent in inheritance.
- Order; turn; class; succession of one to another in office, or duty. The chief fathers of every course 1 Chronicles 27:1. Solomon appointed the courses of the priests. 2 Chronicles 8:14.
- Stated and orderly method of proceeding; usual manner. He obtained redress in due course of law. Leave nature to her course.
- Series of successive and methodical procedure; a train of acts, or applications; as a course of medicine administered.
- A methodical series, applied to the arts or sciences; a systemized order of principles in arts or sciences, for illustration of instruction. We say, the author has completed a course of principles or of lectures in philosophy. Also, the order pursued by a student; as, he has completed a course of studies in law or physics.
- Manner of proceeding; way of life or conduct; deportment; series of actions. That I might finish my course with joy. Acts 20:24. Their course is evil. Jeremiah 23:10.
- Line of conduct; manner of proceeding; as, we know not what course to pursue.
- Natural bent; propensity; uncontrolled will. Let not a perverse child take his own course.
- Tilt; act of running in the lists.
- Orderly structure; system. The tongue setteth on fire the course of nature. James 3:6.
- Any regular series. In architecture, a continued range of stones, level or of the same height, throughout the whole length of the building, and not interrupted by any aperture. A laying of bricks, etc.
- The dishes set on table at one time; service of meat.
- Regularity; order; regular succession; as, let the classes follow in course.
- Empty form; as, compliments are often words of course. Of course by consequence; in regular or natural order; in the common manner of proceeding; without special direction or provision. This effect will follow of course. If the defendant resides not in the state, the cause is continued of course.

Dispensation

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Distribution; the act of dealing out to different persons or places; as the dispensation of water indifferently to all parts of the earth.
- 2 The dealing of God to his creatures; the distribution of good and evil, natural or moral, in the divine government.
- 3 The granting of a license, or the license itself, to do what is forbidden by laws or canons, or to omit something which is commanded; that is, the dispensing with a law or canon, or the exemption of a particular person from the obligation to comply with its injunctions. The pope has power to dispense with the canons of the church, but has no right to grant dispensations to the injury of a third person.
- 4 That which is dispensed or bestowed; a system of principles and rites enjoined; as the Mosaic dispensation; the gospel dispensation; including, the former the Levitical law and rites; the latter the scheme of redemption by Christ.

Distill

“Distil” (spelled that way) appears three times in the scriptures: Deuteronomy 32:2; Job 36:28; and DC 121:45.

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Intransitive verb

- 1 To drop; to fall in drops.
- 2 To flow gently, or in a small stream.
- 3 To use a still; to practice distillation.

Transitive verb

- 1 To let fall in drops; to throw down in drops. The clouds distill water on the earth.
- 2 To extract by heat; to separate spirit or essential oils from liquor by heat or evaporation, and convert that vapor into a liquid by condensation in a refrigeratory; to separate the volatile parts of a substance by heat; to rectify; as, to distill brandy from wine, or spirit from melasses.
- 3 To extract spirit from, by evaporation and condensation; as, to distill cyder or melasses; to distill wine.
- 4 To extract the pure part of a fluid; as, to distill water.
- 5 To dissolve or melt. [Unusual.]

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1.a intransitive. To trickle down or fall in minute drops, as rain, tears; to issue forth in drops or in a fine moisture; to exude.
- 1.b To pass or flow gently. Chiefly figurative.
- 1.c To melt into, or become dissolved in, tears.
- 1.d To drip or be wet with.
 - 2 transitive. To let fall or give forth in minute drops, or in a vapour which condenses into drops.
 - 3 transferred and figurative. To give forth or impart in minute quantities; to infuse; to instil.
- 4.a To subject to the process of distillation; to vaporize a substance by means of heat, and then condense the vapour by exposing it to cold, so as to obtain the substance or one of its constituents in a state of concentration or purity. Primarily said of a liquid, the vapour of which when condensed is again deposited in minute drops of pure liquid; but extended also to the volatilizing of solids, the products of which may be gaseous.
- 4.b To extract the essence of (a plant, etc.) by distillation; to obtain an extract of.
- 4.c To transform or convert (into something) by distillation. Also figurative.
- 4.d absol. To perform distillation.
- 4.e figurative. To extract the quintessence of; to concentrate, purify.
- 4.f To drive (a volatile constituent) off or out by distillation. Also figurative.
- 5.a To obtain, extract, produce, or make, by distillation.
- 5.b figurative.
 - 6 To become vaporized and then condensed into liquid; to undergo distillation; to drop, pass, or condense from the still.
to distil over: to pass over in the form of vapour which again condenses into a liquid.
 - 7 transitive. To melt, dissolve (literal and figurative). Obsolete.

Draw

Greek New Testament

ἐλχω

Some NT uses

John 6:44

John 12:32

BDAG 281a

- 1 to move an object from one area to another in a pulling motion, draw, with implication that the object being moved is incapable of propelling itself or in the case of person is unwilling to do so voluntarily, in either case with implication of exertion on the part of the mover...
 - See meanin #2 below; the sense of being unwilling is clear in the Plato and Epictetus quotations below.
- 2 to draw a person in the direction of values for inner life, draw, attract, an extended figurative use of meaning #1
 - John 6:44 is listed here.
 - The meaning is not necessarily positive—the entry references Plato’s Phaedrus 237e–238a: “Now when judgment is in control and leads us by reasoning toward what is best, that sort of self-control is called ‘being in your right mind’; but when desire takes command in us and drags [ἐλκω] us without reasoning toward pleasure, then its command is known as ‘outrageousness’.” It looks like the possible unwillingness involved in meaning #1 also applies here.
 - The entry also references Epictetus, Discourses 2.20.15: “So what was it that roused Epicurus from his sleep and made him write what he wrote? It must have been what is, after all, the strongest force in human life, nature, which compels [ἐλκω] people to do its bidding, reluctant and complaining though they may be.”
 - It reminds me of the fact that the Holy Ghost “entices” us, or tries to convince or “draw” us, to the good. See Mosiah 3:19.
- 3 to appear to be pulled in a certain direction, flow an extended figurative use

Effectual

“Effectual” appears four times in the scriptures—once in the NT (1 Corinthians 16:9), and three times in the DC 100:3, 112:19, 118:3).

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Producing an effect, or the effect desired or intended; or having adequate power or force to produce the effect.
- 1 Veracious; expressive of facts. [Not used.]
- 2 effectual assassin, in Mitford, is unusual and not well authorized.

Essay

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To try; to attempt; to endeavor; to exert one’s power or faculties, or to make an effort to perform any thing.
- 2 To make experiment of.
- 3 To try the value and purity of metals. In this application, the word is now more generally written assay, which see.

Establish

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To set and fix firmly or unalterably; to settle permanently.
- 2 To found permanently; to erect and fix or settle; as, to establish a colony or an empire.
- 3 To enact or decree by authority and for permanence; to ordain; to appoint; as, to establish laws, regulations, institutions, rules, ordinances, etc.
- 4 To settle or fix; to confirm; as, to establish a person, society or corporation, in possessions or privileges.
- 5 To make firm; to confirm; to ratify what has been previously set or made.
- 6 To settle or fix what is wavering, doubtful or weak; to confirm.

- 7 To confirm; to fulfill; to make good.
8 To set up in the place of another and confirm.

Expedient

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Literally, hastening; urging forward. Hence, tending to promote the object proposed; fit or suitable for the purpose; proper under the circumstances. Many things may be lawful, which are not expedient
- 2 Useful; profitable.
- 3 Quick; expeditious. [Not used.]

Expedient and pragmatic

When you look at the definitions of “expedient” in the 1828 dictionary, the word definitely comes out looking like a word of pragmatism. It’s about doing what is needful under the circumstances, to promote a certain end.

FOUNDATION

Greek New Testament

καταβολή

Some NT uses

Matthew 13:35

BDAG 456b

- 1 the act of laying something down with implication of providing a base for something, foundation. Readily connected with the idea of founding is the sense beginning...ἀπὸ καταβολῆς κόσμου from the foundation of the world...
 - Note that the SBLG for Matthew 13:35 lacks κόσμου, but it’s not hard to think that that’s the intended meaning.
- 2 κ., a technical term for the sowing of seed, used of begetting...If this meaning is correct for Hb 11:11, there is probably some error in the text, since this expression could not be used of Sarah, but only of Abraham...

Futurity

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Future time; time to come.
- 1 Event to come.
 - 2 The state of being yet to come, or to come hereafter.

Gad

NIEBC, “Gad” #1

“Gad was Jacob’s seventh son and born to Leah’s servant, Zilpah. He was therefore considered to be Leah’s son (Gen. 30:11; 35:26). He was among those who went down to Egypt with his father and his many sons (Gen. 46:16). In Jacob’s blessing he prophesied that Gad would be the subject of attack by raiders but would fight back (Gen. 49:19).

“He became the leader of one of the twelve tribes of Israel named after him. The tribe went on to inherit land to the east of Jordan when finally the conquest of Canaan took place (Num. 32). At the Exodus from Egypt the fighting men in the tribe were numbered as 46,650 (Num. 1:25). The tribe of Gad is mentioned again in Ezek. 48 and Rev. 7:5 in texts that look forward to the last days and the fulfilment of the Lord's divine purposes for his kingdom."

Garnish

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To adorn; to decorate with appendages; to set off.
- 2 To fit with fetters; a cant term.
- 3 To furnish; to supply; as a fort garnished with troops.
- 4 In law, to warn; to give notice. [See Garnishee.]

Hereafter

From the 1828, the complete entry:

- In time to come; in some future time.
- 1 In a future state.

Horeb (Mount)

See Sinai.

Howbeit

From the 1828 dictionary for "howbeit," the complete entry:

- Be it as it may; nevertheless; notwithstanding; yet; but; however.

Immediate

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 Proximate; acting without a medium, or without the intervention of another cause or means; producing its effect by its own direct agency. An immediate cause is that which is exerted directly in producing its effect, in opposition to a mediate cause, or one more remote.
- 2 Not acting by second causes; as the immediate will of God.
- 3 Instant; present; without the intervention of time. We must have an immediate supply of bread.

Interest

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- Concern; advantage; good; as private interest; public interest
- 1 Influence over others. They had now lost their interest at court.
 - 2 Share; portion; part; participation in value. He has parted with his interest in the stocks. He has an interest in a manufactory of cotton goods.
 - 3 Regard to private profit.

- 4 Premium paid for the use of money; the profit per cent derived from money lent, or property used by another person, or from debts remaining unpaid. Commercial states have a legal rate of interest. Debts on book bear an interest after the expiration of the credit. Courts allow interest in many cases where it is not stipulated. A higher rate of interest than that which the law allows, is called usury.
- 5 Any surplus advantage.

Jethro

NIEBC, “Jethro”

“(Heb., ‘excellence’). Jethro was Moses’ father-in-law. He was ‘a priest of Midian’ and also known as Reuel (Exod. 3:1). He gave his daughter Zipporah to Moses to be his wife. Moses had helped Jethro’s seven daughters water their flocks and so had become a close family friend. Having fled Egypt, Moses stayed with the family and helped them as a shepherd for many years until eventually he returned to Egypt to confront Pharaoh (Exod. 2:15–22; 4:18).

“When eventually the Israelites escaped across the Red Sea into the wilderness, Jethro took Zipporah and they visited Moses in the desert (Exod. 18:1–27). There Jethro was encouraged by what he learned of all that the LORD had done for the Israelites and he clearly grew in the faith of Yahweh, saying to Moses: ‘Now I know that the LORD is greater than all other gods, for he did this to those who had treated Israel arrogantly’ (Exod. 18:11).

“It is of particular interest that this priest was obviously a priest to Yahweh. In a sacrifice of thanksgiving, at which Aaron was present, Jethro performed the sacrifice and Aaron and the other elders came and ate bread and had fellowship with him (v. 12).

“During Jethro’s stay in the camp of the Israelites he was worried about the amount of responsibility and work that Moses had. He was afraid Moses would be worn out. In a great display of wisdom, Jethro advocated a shared leadership in which Moses would fulfil the main task of coming before the LORD while other ‘capable men’, who feared God and were trustworthy, would be selected to help judge the land for the people. They would decide simple legal cases between people and only the worst cases would be brought to Moses (vv. 17–26).

“This wise and godly man recognized the great faithfulness of the LORD and helped God’s people in learning how to govern themselves and in employing a plurality leaders.”

Meet

From the 1828 dictionary, the entry for “meet” as adjective:

- Fit; suitable; proper; qualified; convenient; adapted, as to a use or purpose.

Precept

From the 1828 dictionary, the entry for “precept”:

- 1 In a general sense, any commandment or order intended as an authoritative rule of action; but applied particularly to commands respecting moral conduct. The ten commandments are so many precepts for the regulation of our moral conduct.
- 2 In law, a command or mandate in writing.

Propitiation

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

Propitiation

- 1 The act of appeasing wrath and conciliating the favor of an offended person; the act of making propitious.
- 2 In theology, the atonement or atoning sacrifice offered to God to assuage his wrath and render him propitious to sinners. Christ is the propitiation for the sins of men. Romans 3:25. 1 John 2:2.

Propitious

- 1 Disposed to be gracious or merciful; ready to forgive sins and bestow blessings; applied to God.
- 2 Favorable; as a propitious season.

Redound

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 To be sent, rolled or driven back.
- 2 To conduce in the consequence; to contribute; to result.
- 3 To proceed in the consequence or effect; to result.

Rundle

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 A round; a step of a ladder.
- 2 Something put round an axis.

Sabaoth (Lord of)

This word occurs twice in the NT (Romans 9:29, James 5:4 and four times in the DC (DC 87:7, 88:2, 95:7, 98:2). In the NT it is σαβωθ, which is a transliteration of צבא, or more correctly the plural צבאות. In the OT, the KJV translates צבא and its various forms as “host” (the majority of occurrences), but also “war,” “army,” “battle,” and a few other terms.

Note DC 95:7 especially: “And for this cause I gave unto you a commandment that you should call your solemn assembly, that your fastings and your mourning might come up into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth, which is by interpretation, the creator of the first day, the beginning and the end.” I have no idea what to say about this; is it possible that JS saw it as something to do with “Sabbath,” and so it had to do with days?

צבא

TWOT 1865b, 750

- “Translated as host(s) צבא means army(ies). It can refer to any arrayed army (Jud 4:2), the inhabitants of heaven (I Kgs 22:19), or the celestial bodies (Deut 4:19).”
- “The heavenly bodies, including the sun and the moon, are called the host of heaven (Gen 2:1). When referring to them the word is always singular. God created this host by his breath (Ps 33:6), and he preserves their existence (Isa 40:26). They thus serve and worship him in complete obedience (Neh 9:6; Isa 45:12). The host are identified as his ministers that do his will (Ps 103:21). Israel is exhorted never to worship them (Deut 4: 19).”
- “This divine name [Yahweh and אלהים] appears for the first time in I Sam 1:3. Its origin appears to have been at the close of the period of the judges and in the vicinity of the sanctuary Shiloh, where the ark of the covenant was housed. The ark itself symbolized Yahweh’s rulership; for he is declared to be enthroned between the cherubim (I Sam 4:4; cf. Ps 99:1). This name certainly contains the affirmation that Yahweh is the true head of Israel’s armies. The idea that more than Israel’s armies is encompassed in this title is clear from David’s statement, ‘Yahweh of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel’ (I Sam 17:45). Rather it affirms his universal rulership that encompasses every force or army, heavenly, cosmic and earthly. Now that Israel was emerging as a nation with international relationships, the language which exposed the theology of its God needed to keep pace. It was important to affirm that Yahweh was not merely one warrior god among the leading warrior gods of the nations, but that he was the Supreme God. Particularly for Israel, located on the landbridge between three major continents which was constantly crossed by the armies of the great world powers, it became essential to emphasize that Yahweh was King even of the armies of these mighty empires. As a result he was sufficient to lead Israel to overcome any crisis brought on by those armies. The prophets, during the kingdom period, faced a further problem, namely that God used these mighty armies to punish Israel in their rebellion against God. Hence it was essential to point out that Yahweh indeed was the king of those nations and that he would judge them. Conversely, if Israel would not return to God, then Yahweh could employ those armies against her and reduce her to captivity (cf. Isa 10:5–34). Further for the prophets during the time of the Babylonian crises when the people were attracted to astral worship, this name conveyed clearly to the people that it was foolish to worship these stars which were merely obedient creatures to Yahweh (cf. Isa 47).

- “When captured in all of its thrust the name יהוה צבאות is a most exalted title. It is definitely associated with Yahweh’s kingship as Isa 6:5 and Ps 84:3 [H 4] show. On a festive day before a triumphal procession entered the temple court, the chorus sang: ‘Lift up your heads, O gates! and be lifted up, O ancient doors! that the King of glory may come in. Who is this King of glory? The Lord of hosts, he is the King of glory!’ (Ps 24:9f.). The text here clearly shows that Yahweh of hosts conveys the concept of glorious king. Yahweh is King of the world (cf. Zech 14:16) and over all the kingdoms of the earth (Isa 37:16). This God is the source of all (Jer 10:16). His rulership necessitates a time when he will visibly display that lordship. In the last days the nations will wage war against Mount Zion. They will think they have won, only to come to the realization that their imagination has outdistanced their accomplishment. At that time Yahweh will lead a great army into battle aided by the forces of nature. Every opponent in heaven and on earth will be subjugated (Isa 13:4; 24:21ff.; 29:5–8; 31:4f.; 34: 1–12). Then Yahweh will visibly manifest a universal reign from Mt. Zion. All kings and nations will acknowledge that the Yahweh of hosts is the king of glory. His total authority and lordship will be eternally established.
- “Although the title has military overtones, it points directly to Yahweh’s rulership over the entire universe. He continually rules, but at times he directly intervenes to secure his own victory and insure the direction of history for the salvation of his people. In Amos 4:13 it is associated with his creating the mountains and wind and his ability to control nature (cf. Amos 5:8f.; 9:5f.). He is master over every force; he alone secures peace. To him prayer may be addressed (e.g. Ps 80:19 [H 20]). Special attention is given to the majestic splendor of Yahweh’s rule in this title (cf. Ps 84:1 [H 2]; Isa 28:5f.).”

TDOT 12:215, PDF 236

Sinai (Mount)

There’s a scholarly consensus that Mount Sinai and Mount Horeb are the same.

Sociality

Oxford English Dictionary

- 1.a The state or quality of being sociable; (the enjoyment of) friendly social interaction; sociability.
- 1.b Friendship, companionship, or social interaction with a person or (occasionally) in a certain state; an instance of this. Also in extended use.
- 1.c Formal or conventional social interaction. Contrasted with sociability. Obsolete. rare.
- 2.a The disposition or tendency to live in a society or to associate with others.
- 2.b Social organization or behaviour in animals; the tendency to live, or the fact of living, in a community of individuals of the same species which cooperate with one another to their mutual or collective benefit.
- 3 In plural. Social pleasures, events, or entertainments.

Unspeakable

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- That cannot be uttered; that cannot be expressed; unutterable; as unspeakable grief or rage.

Wherefore

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 for which reason
- 2 why; for what reason

Oxford English Dictionary

When it isn't used as an interrogative, the most important meanings for the scriptures are II.4 and II.5.a, which are actually pretty similar.

- I Interrogative uses
 - I.1 For what? esp. for what purpose or end?
 - I.2 For what cause or reason? on what account? why?
- II Relative uses
 - II.3 For which
 - II.4 On account of or because of which; in consequence or as a result of which. Chiefly with noun (esp. reason or cause) as antecedent. archaic.
 - II.5.a Introducing a clause expressing a consequence or inference from what has just been stated: On which account; for which reason; which being the case; and therefore.

Wing

1828 American Dictionary of the English Language

- 1 The limb of a fowl by which it flies. In a few species of fowls, the wings do not enable them to fly; as is the case with the dodo, ostrich, great auk, and penguin; but in the two former, the wings assist the fowls in running.
- 2 The limb of an insect by which it flies.
- 3 In botany, the side petal of a papilionaceous corol; also, an appendage of seeds, by means of which they are wafted in the air and scattered; also, any membranous or leafy dilatation of a footstalk, or of the angles of a stem, branch or flower stalk, or of a calyx.
- 4 Flight; passage by the wind; as, to be on the wind; to take wing.
- 5 Means of flying; acceleration. Fear adds wings to flight.
- 6 Motive or incitement of flight.
- 7 The flank or extreme body or part of an army.
- 8 Any side-piece.
- 9 In gardening, a side-shoot.
- 10 In architecture, a side-building, less than the main edifice.
- 11 In fortification, the longer sides of hornworks, crown-works, etc.
- 12 In a fleet, the ships on the extremities, when ranged in a line, or when forming the two sides of a triangle.
- 13 In a ship, the wings are those parts of the hold and orlop deck, which are nearest the sides.
- 14 In Scripture, protection; generally in the plural. Psalms 63:7. Exodus 19:4.

TEMPLE AND ENDOWMENT

THE INITIATORY

Initiatory-like ordinances in the Bible

Exodus 29:4–9:

And Aaron and his sons thou shalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and shalt wash them with water. 5 And thou shalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with the curious girdle of the ephod: 6 And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre. 7 Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him. 8 And thou shalt bring his sons, and put coats upon them. 9 And thou shalt gird them with girdles, Aaron and his sons, and put the bonnets on them: and the priest's office shall be theirs for a perpetual statute: and thou shalt consecrate Aaron and his sons.

Matthew 6:16–18:

Moreover when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward 17 But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face; 18 That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

Matthew 26:6–13:

Now when Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, 7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaster box of very precious ointment, and poured it on his head, as he sat at meat. 8 But when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this awaste? 9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor. 10 When Jesus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me. 11 For ye have the poor always with you; but me ye have not always. 12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it afor my burial. 13 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.

John 13:4–17:

He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself. 5 After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded. 6 Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and Peter saith unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet? 7 Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. 8 Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me. 9 Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head. 10 Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all. 11 For he knew who should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean. 12 So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? 13 Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. 14 If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. 15 For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. 16 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him. 17 If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

Revelation 1:5–6:

And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, 6 And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

Initiatory ceremony prior to 2005

(I am taking the text below from ldsendowment.org.)

Washing

¹*[An officiator places water on the initiate's head while pronouncing the following words.]*

Brother _____, having authority,² I wash you preparatory to your receiving your anointings [for and in behalf of _____, who is dead], that you may become clean from the blood and sins of this generation.

[While pronouncing the blessings which follow, the officiator touches each part of the body as it is named.]

I wash your head, that your brain and your intellect may be clear and active;
your ears, that you may hear the word of the Lord;
your eyes, that you may see clearly and discern between truth and error;
your nose, that you may smell;
your lips, that you may never speak guile;
your neck, that it may bear up your head properly;
your shoulders, that they may bear the burdens that shall be placed thereon;
your back, that there may be marrow in the bones and in the spine;
your breast, that it may be the receptacle of pure and virtuous principles;
your vitals and bowels, that they may be healthy and perform their proper functions;
your arms and hands, that they may be strong and wield the sword of justice in defense of truth and virtue;
your loins, that you may be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth, that you might have joy in your posterity;
your legs and feet, that you might run and not be weary, and walk and not faint.

[A second officiator enters. Both officiators place their hands on the initiate's head, and the second officiator seals the washing as follows.]

Brother _____, having authority, we lay our hands upon your head [for and in behalf of _____, who is dead] and seal upon you this washing, that you may become clean from the blood and sins of this generation through your faithfulness; in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Anointing

[An officiator places oil on the initiate's head while pronouncing the following words.]

Brother _____, having authority, I pour this holy anointing oil upon your head³ [for and in behalf of _____, who is dead] and anoint you preparatory to your becoming a king and a priest unto the most high God, hereafter to rule and reign in the house of Israel forever.

[While pronouncing the blessings which follow, the officiator touches each part of the body as it is named.]

I anoint your head, that your brain and your intellect may be clear and active;
your ears, that you may hear the word of the Lord;
your eyes, that you may see clearly and discern between truth and error;
your nose, that you may smell;
your lips, that you may never speak guile;
your neck, that it may bear up your head properly;
your shoulders, that they may bear the burdens that shall be placed thereon;
your back, that there may be marrow in the bones and in the spine;
your breast, that it may be the receptacle of pure and virtuous principles;
your vitals and bowels, that they may be healthy and perform their proper functions;
your arms and hands, that they may be strong and wield the sword of justice in defense of truth and virtue;
your loins, that you may be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth, that you might have joy in your posterity;
your legs and feet, that you might run and not be weary, and walk and not faint.

¹A note from the website where I got the ordinance: "Originally, initiates were presented to the washing room nude. Sometime in the early twentieth century, it became customary for initiates to wear a 'shield,' a sleeveless robe open at the sides. The shield preserved modesty while allowing officiators to touch the various parts of the body named in the rite. In a slightly complicated procedure, the temple garment was placed on the initiate under the shield following the washing and anointing. Beginning in 2005, initiates were instructed to clothe themselves in the garment in the privacy of their locker, before being presented at the washing room. This means that they are clothed throughout the initiatory. As before 2005, initiates wear a shield during the initiatory, but this is now worn over the garment."

²Another note from the website where I got the ordinance: "The initiatory affords LDS women the unusual experience of exercising what appears to be a kind of priesthood authority. However, while most LDS rituals require the officiator to state that he is acting by the authority of the Melchizedek priesthood, in the case of the initiatory the officiator does not specify by what authority he or she acts, merely that he or she has authority."

³See the scriptures above, where you get an initiatory-like ordinance in the Bible—in particular I find the Matthew 26:6–13 ones interesting, because Christ says, "For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it afor my burial." The word for "ointment" there is μύρον, which is not oil but "ointment, perfume" (BDAG 586a), used to embalm bodies (Luke 23:56). See also Mark 14:3–9.

[A second officiator enters. Both officiators place their hands on the initiate's head, and the second officiator confirms the anointing as follows.]

Brother _____, having authority, we lay our hands upon your head [for and in behalf of _____, who is dead] and confirm upon you this anointing, wherewith you have been anointed in the temple of our God preparatory to becoming a king and a priest unto the most high God, hereafter to rule and reign in the house of Israel forever, and seal upon you all the blessings hereunto appertaining, through your faithfulness; in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Garment

[An officiator clothes the initiate in the garment. The officiator then pronounces the following words.]

Brother _____, having authority, I place this garment upon you [for and in behalf of _____, who is dead], which you must wear throughout your life. It represents the garment given to Adam when he was found naked in the garden of Eden and is called the garment of the holy priesthood.

Inasmuch as you do not defile it, but are true and faithful to your covenants, it will be a shield and a protection to you against the power of the destroyer until you have finished your work on the earth.

The New Name

[In the case of a living endowment, the officiator who clothed the initiate in the garment continues as follows.]

With this garment, I give you a new name, which you should always remember and which you must keep sacred and never reveal, except at a certain place that will be shown you hereafter.

The name is _____.

[In the case of a person receiving the endowment on behalf of the dead, the person is presented to an officiator, who pronounces the following words.]

Brother _____, having authority, I give you a new name for and in behalf of _____, who is dead, which you should always remember and which you must keep sacred and never reveal, except at a certain place that will be shown you hereafter.

The name is _____.

THE ENDOWMENT

Endowment-like ordinances in the Bible

Endowment ceremony prior to 1990

(I am taking the text below from ldsendowment.org.)

Introduction

[Initiates assemble in silence in the chapel. When all is ready, they are ushered into the Creation Room. Here and throughout the ceremony, men sit on one side of the room, women on the other.]

FIRST LECTURER: Brethren and sisters, we welcome you to the temple and hope you will find joy in serving in the house of the Lord this day.

Those of you who are here to receive your own endowment should have been washed, anointed, and clothed in the garment of the holy priesthood. The ordinances of washing, anointing, and clothing in the garment of the holy priesthood, together with the ordaining on behalf of deceased brethren, were performed previously for those deceased persons whom you are representing.

Each of you should have received a new name in connection with this company. If any of you have forgotten the new name or have not received these ordinances as explained, please stand.

[Pause. If someone has forgotten the new name, a temple worker draws the person aside briefly to repeat the portion of the intiatory in which the new name is bestowed.]

Please be alert, attentive, and refrain from whispering during the presentation of the endowment. As you are asked to proceed to the veil, please do so in an orderly manner, row by row, as directed. After passing through the veil into the celestial room, and in other areas in the temple, if you need to communicate, please whisper, thus helping us maintain the quiet reverence that should prevail in the house of the Lord.

We will now proceed with the presentation of the endowment.

SECOND LECTURER: Brethren, you have been washed and pronounced clean, or that through your faithfulness you may become clean, from the blood and sins of this generation.¹ You have been anointed to become hereafter kings and priests unto the most high God, to rule and reign in the house of Israel forever.

Sisters, you have been washed and anointed to become queens and priestesses to your husbands.

Brethren and sisters, if you are true and faithful, the day will come when you will be chosen, called up, and anointed kings and queens, priests and priestesses, whereas you are now anointed only to become such. The realization of these blessings depends upon your faithfulness.

You have had a garment placed upon you, which you were informed represents the garment given to Adam when he was found naked in the garden of Eden, and which is called the garment of the holy priesthood. This you were instructed to wear throughout your life. You were informed that it will be a shield and a protection to you if you are true and faithful to your covenants.

You have had a new name given unto you, which you were told never to divulge, nor forget. This new name is a keyword which you will be required to give at a certain place in the temple today.

The endowment is to prepare you for exaltation in the celestial kingdom.² If you proceed and receive your full endowment, you will be required to take upon yourselves sacred obligations, the violation of which will bring upon you the judgments of God, for God will not be mocked.³

If any of you desire to withdraw rather than accept these obligations of your own free will and choice, you may now make it known by raising your hand.

[Pause.]

¹See DC 88:74-75; DC 112:33 (and note that the prior verses are talking about the priesthood);

²In 1990 Brigham Young's definition of "endowment" was added at this portion of the ceremony, to replace the previous sentence. The definition given comes from JD 2:31: "Your endowment is, to receive all those ordinances in the House of the Lord, which are necessary for you, after you have departed this life, to enable you to walk back to the presence of the Father, passing the angels who stand as sentinels, being enabled to give them the key words, the signs and tokens, pertaining to the Holy Priesthood, and gain your eternal exaltation." BY spoke multiple times that day, and we do have some original records from Watt (shorthand) and Thomas Bullock for other remarks he made, but I can't find any originals for this statement.

³See DC 63:58 and DC 124:71.

Brethren and sisters, as you sit here, you will hear the voices of three persons, who represent Elohim, Jehovah, and Michael. Elohim will command Jehovah and Michael to go down and organize a world. The work of the six creative periods will be represented. They will organize man in their own likeness and image, male and female. This, however, is simply figurative, so far as the man and the woman are concerned.¹

Creation

The first day

[Elohim, Jehovah, and Michael are heard speaking outside the Creation Room.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, see—yonder is matter unorganized. Go ye down and organize it into a world like unto the worlds that we have heretofore formed. Call your labors the first day, and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim. Come, Michael, let us go down.

MICHAEL: We will go down, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Michael, see—here is matter unorganized. We will organize it into a world like unto the worlds that we have heretofore formed. We will call our labors the first day, and return and report.

MICHAEL: We will return and report our labors of the first day, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Elohim, we have been down as thou hast commanded, and have organized a world like unto the worlds that we have heretofore formed; and we have called our labors the first day.

ELOHIM: It is well.

The second day

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, go down again. Gather the waters together and cause the dry land to appear. The great waters call ye Seas, and the dry land call ye Earth. Form mountains and hills, great rivers and small streams, to beautify and give variety to the face of the earth. When ye have done this, call your labors the second day, and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim. Come, Michael, let us go down.

MICHAEL: We will go down, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Michael, we will gather the waters together and cause the dry land to appear. The great waters we will call Seas, and the dry land we will call Earth. We will form mountains and hills, great rivers and small streams to beautify and give variety to the face of the earth. We will call our labors the second day, and return and report.

MICHAEL: We will return and report our labors of the second day, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Elohim, we have been down as thou hast commanded, and have gathered the waters together, and have caused the dry land to appear. The great waters we have called Seas, and the dry land we have called Earth. We have formed mountains and hills, great rivers and small streams, to beautify and give variety to the face of the earth; and we have called our labors the second day.

ELOHIM: It is well.

The third day

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, return again to the earth that you have organized. Divide the light from the darkness. Call the light Day, and the darkness Night. Cause the lights in the firmament to appear—the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night. Cause the stars also to appear and give light to the earth, the same as with other worlds heretofore created. Call your labors the third day, and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim. Come, Michael, let us return again to the earth that we have organized.

MICHAEL: We will return again, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Michael, we will divide the light from the darkness, and we will call the light Day, and the darkness Night. We will cause the lights in the firmament to appear—the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night. We will cause the stars also to appear and give light to the earth, the same as with worlds heretofore created. We will call our labors the third day, and return and report.

MICHAEL: We will return and report our labors of the third day, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Elohim, we have been down as thou hast commanded, and have divided the light from the darkness, and have called the light Day and the darkness Night. We have caused the lights in the firmament to appear—the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night. We have caused the stars also to appear and give light to the earth, the same as with worlds heretofore created; and we have called our labors the third day.

¹See DC 76:24.

ELOHIM: It is well.

The fourth day

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, return again. Place seeds of all kinds in the earth that they may spring forth as grass, flowers, shrubbery, trees, and all manner of vegetation, each bearing seed in itself after its own kind, as on the worlds we have heretofore created. Call your labors the fourth day, and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim. Come, Michael, let us go down.

MICHAEL: We will go down, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Michael, we will place seeds of all kinds in the earth that they may spring forth as grass, flowers, shrubbery, trees, and all manner of vegetation, each bearing seed in itself after its own kind, as on the worlds we have heretofore created. We will call our labors the fourth day, and return and report.

MICHAEL: We will return and report our labors of the fourth day, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Elohim, we have been down as thou hast commanded, and have placed seeds of all kinds in the earth that they may spring forth as grass, flowers, shrubbery, trees, and all manner of vegetation, each bearing seed in itself, after its own kind, as on the worlds we have heretofore created; and we have called our labors the fourth day.

ELOHIM: It is well.

The fifth day

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, now that the earth is formed, divided, and beautified, and vegetation is growing thereon, return and place beasts upon the land: the elephant, the lion, the tiger, the bear, the horse, and all other kinds of animals—fowls in the air in all their varieties, fishes of all kinds in the waters, and insects and all manner of animal life upon the earth.

Command the beasts, the fowls, the fishes, the insects, all creeping things, and other forms of animal life to multiply in their respective elements, each after its kind, and every kind of vegetation to multiply in its sphere, that every form of life may fill the measure of its creation¹ and have joy therein. Call your labors the fifth day, and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim. Come, Michael, let us go down.

MICHAEL: We will go down, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Michael, now that the earth is formed, divided, and beautified, and vegetation is growing thereon, we will place beasts upon the land: the elephant, the lion, the tiger, the bear, the horse, and all other kinds of animals—fowls in the air in all their varieties, fishes of all kinds in the waters, and insects and all manner of animal life upon the earth.

We will command the beasts, the fowls, the fishes, the insects, all creeping things, and other forms of animal life to multiply in their respective elements, each after its kind, and every kind of vegetation to multiply in its sphere, that every form of life may fill the measure of its creation and have joy therein. We will call our labors the fifth day, and return and report.

MICHAEL: It is well, Jehovah. Now that the earth is formed, divided, and beautified, with vegetation growing thereon, and provided with animal life, it is glorious and beautiful.

JEHOVAH: It is, Michael.

MICHAEL: Let us return and report our labors of the fifth day, Jehovah.

JEHOVAH: Elohim, we have been down as thou hast commanded. We have placed beasts upon the land: the elephant, the lion, the tiger, the bear, the horse, and all other kinds of animals—fowls in the air in all their varieties, fishes of all kinds in the waters, and insects and all manner of animal life upon the earth.

We have commanded the beasts, the fowls, the fishes, the insects, all creeping things, and other forms of animal life to multiply in their respective elements, each after its kind, and every kind of vegetation to multiply in its sphere, that every form of life may fill the measure of its creation and have joy therein. We have called our labors the fifth day.

ELOHIM: It is well.

The sixth day

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, is man found upon the earth?

JEHOVAH: Man is not found on the earth, Elohim.

¹See DC 88:19, 25.

ELOHIM: Jehovah, Michael, then let us go down and form man in our own likeness and in our own image, male and female, and put into him his spirit, and let us give him dominion over the beasts, the fishes, and the birds, and make him lord over the earth, and over all things on the face of the earth.

We will plant for him a garden, eastward in Eden, and place him in it to tend and cultivate it, that he may be happy and have joy therein. We will command him to multiply and replenish the earth, that he may have joy and rejoicing in his posterity.

We will place before him the tree of knowledge of good and evil, and we will allow Lucifer, our common enemy, whom we have thrust out, to tempt him and to try him, that he may know by his own experience the good from the evil.

If he yields to temptation, we will give unto him the law of sacrifice, and we will provide a Savior¹ for him, as we counseled in the beginning, that man may be brought forth by the power of the redemption and the resurrection, and come again into our presence, and with us partake of eternal life and exaltation.

We will call this the sixth day, and we will rest from our labors for a season. Come, let us go down.

JEHOVAH: We will go down, Elohim.

The creation of Adam and Eve

[Elohim, Jehovah, and Michael enter the Creation Room. Michael sits in a chair with his head on his chest, his eyes closed, as if he were lifeless.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, see the earth that we have formed. There is no man to till and take care of it. We are here to form man in our own likeness and in our own image.

JEHOVAH: We will do so, Elohim.

[Elohim and Jehovah pass their hands in the air over Michael's body, from head to foot.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, man is now organized, and we will put into him his spirit, the breath of life, that he may become a living soul.

[Elohim and Jehovah lift Michael's head into an upright position. He opens his eyes.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, is it good for man to be alone?

JEHOVAH: It is not good for man to be alone, Elohim.²

ELOHIM: We will cause a deep sleep to come upon this man whom we have formed, and we will take from his side a rib, from which we will form a woman to be a companion and helpmeet for him.

[Elohim and Jehovah lower Michael's head to his chest again. He closes his eyes as if asleep.]

JEHOVAH: Brethren and sisters, this is Michael, who helped form the earth. When he awakens from the sleep which we have caused to come upon him, he will be known as Adam and, having forgotten all, will have become as a little child. Brethren, close your eyes as if you were asleep.

[While the brethren's eyes are closed, Elohim and Jehovah lead Eve into the Creation Room.]

ELOHIM: Adam, awake and arise.

JEHOVAH: All the brethren will please arise.

ELOHIM: Adam, here is a woman whom we have formed and whom we give unto you to be a companion and helpmeet for you. What will you call her?

ADAM: Eve.

ELOHIM: Why will you call her Eve?

ADAM: Because she is the mother of all living.

ELOHIM: That is right, Adam; because she is the mother of all living.

ELOHIM: Adam, we have organized for you this earth and have planted a garden, eastward in Eden. We will place you in the garden and will there command you and Eve to multiply and replenish the earth, that you may have joy and rejoicing in your posterity.

Jehovah, introduce Adam into the garden which we have prepared for him.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

[Jehovah instructs the brethren to follow Adam, and the sisters to follow Eve, into the Garden Room.]

¹This is the first reference to Christ in the endowment, though this one isn't by name; his name appears later, in the discussion of the law of sacrifice.

²In the 1931 exposé Temple Mormonism: Its Evolution, Ritual and Meaning, Paden (the author) reports these lines as being this way (page 16):

Elohim—"It is not good for man to be alone."

Jehovah—"It is not, Elohim, for we are not alone."

If the ceremony did used to say that, then it would be a support for Adam-God, because it would mean that Jehovah was already married. That would push against the idea of Jehovah being Christ, which is one of the important parts of Adam-God.

The Garden

ELOHIM: Adam, we have created for you this earth, and have placed upon it all kinds of vegetation and animal life. We have commanded all these to multiply in their own sphere and element. We give you dominion over all these things and make you, Adam, lord over the whole earth and all things on the face thereof. We now command you to multiply and replenish the earth, that you may have joy and rejoicing in your posterity.

We have also planted for you this garden, wherein we have placed all manner of fruits, flowers, and vegetation. Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat, but of the tree of knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat; nevertheless, thou mayest choose for thyself, for it is given unto thee. But remember that I forbid it, for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

Adam, remember this commandment which we have given unto you. Now go to—dress this garden, take good care of it, be happy and have joy therein.

We shall go away, but we shall visit you again and give you further instructions.

[Elohim and Jehovah withdraw from the Garden Room. Eve also withdraws from view, as if passing into a different portion of the garden. Adam is left alone.]

[Lucifer enters.]

LUCIFER: Well, Adam, you have a new world here.

ADAM: A new world?

LUCIFER: Yes, a new world, patterned after the old one where we used to live.

ADAM: I know nothing about any other world.

LUCIFER: Oh, I see—your eyes are not yet opened. You have forgotten everything. You must eat some of the fruit of this tree.

[Lucifer pantomimes picking two pieces of fruit from the tree of knowledge of good and evil. He offers the fruit to Adam.]

LUCIFER: Adam, here is some of the fruit of that tree. It will make you wise.

ADAM: I will not partake of that fruit. Father¹ told me that in the day I should partake of it, I should surely die.

LUCIFER: You shall not surely die, but shall be as the Gods, knowing good and evil.

ADAM: I will not partake of it.

LUCIFER: Oh, you will not? Well, we shall see.

[Adam withdraws from view.]

[Eve returns.]

LUCIFER: Eve, here is some of the fruit of that tree. It will make you wise. It is delicious to the taste and very desirable.

EVE: Who are you?

LUCIFER: I am your brother.

EVE: You, my brother, and come here to persuade me to disobey Father?

LUCIFER: I have said nothing about Father. I want you to eat of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil that your eyes may be opened, for that is the way Father gained his knowledge. You must eat of this fruit so as to comprehend that everything has its opposite: good and evil, virtue and vice, light and darkness, health and sickness, pleasure and pain. Thus your eyes will be opened, and you will have knowledge.

EVE: Is there no other way?

LUCIFER: There is no other way.

EVE: Then I will partake.

[Eve pantomimes taking one of the pieces of fruit from Lucifer's hand and eating it.]

LUCIFER: There. Now go and get Adam to partake.

[Lucifer pantomimes placing the second piece of fruit in her hand. He withdraws from view.]

[Adam returns.]

EVE: Adam, here is some of the fruit of that tree. It is delicious to the taste and very desirable.

ADAM: Eve, do you know what fruit that is?

EVE: Yes. It is the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

ADAM: I cannot partake of it. Do you not know that Father commanded us not to partake of the fruit of that tree?

EVE: Do you intend to obey all of Father's commandments?

ADAM: Yes, all of them.

¹ Adam (Michael) says that "Father" told him this; Elohim is the one who told it to him. There are various ways of understanding what Adam has said:

1. Elohim is Adam's father.

2. Adam is referring to both Elohim and Jehovah, since in Elohim's instruction, he says "we" in several places.

3. Adam doesn't mean anything special by "father" here, since he is currently in a state where he doesn't really know anything, and so has no other term to describe the person who gave him that instruction.

Note that Eve also refers to him as "father" down below.

EVE: Do you not recollect that Father commanded us to multiply and replenish the earth? I have partaken of this fruit and by so doing shall be cast out, and you will be left a lone man in the garden of Eden.

ADAM: Eve, I see that this must be so. I will partake that man may be.

[Adam pantomimes eating the fruit.]

[Lucifer returns as Adam is eating the fruit.]

LUCIFER: That is right.

EVE: [To Adam.] It is better for us to pass through sorrow that we may know the good from the evil. [To Lucifer.] I know thee now. Thou art Lucifer, he who was cast out of Father's presence for rebellion.

LUCIFER: Yes. You are beginning to see already.

ADAM: What is that apron you have on?

LUCIFER: It is an emblem of my power and priesthoods.¹

ADAM: Priesthoods?

LUCIFER: Yes, priesthoods.

ADAM: I am looking for Father to come down to give us further instructions.

LUCIFER: Oh, you are looking for Father to come down, are you?

[Elohim and Jehovah are heard speaking outside the Garden Room.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, we promised Adam that we would visit him and give him further instructions. Come, let us go down.

JEHOVAH: We will go down, Elohim.

ADAM: I hear their voices; they are coming.

LUCIFER: See—you are naked. Take some fig leaves and make you aprons.² Father will see your nakedness. Quick! Hide!

[Lucifer withdraws from view.]

ADAM: Brethren and sisters, put on your aprons.

[He waits until they have done so.]

[To Eve.] Come, let us hide.

[Adam and Eve withdraw from view.]

[Elohim and Jehovah return to the Garden Room.]

ELOHIM: Adam!

Adam!

Adam, where art thou?

[Adam returns.]

ADAM: I heard thy voice and hid myself, because I was naked.

ELOHIM: Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou partaken of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, of which we commanded thee not to partake?

ADAM: The woman thou gavest me and commanded that she should remain with me—she gave me of the fruit of the tree, and I did eat.

ELOHIM: Eve!

[Eve returns.]

What is this that thou hast done?

EVE: The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

ELOHIM: Lucifer!

[Lucifer returns.]

ELOHIM: What hast thou been doing here?

LUCIFER: I have been doing that which has been done on other worlds.

ELOHIM: What is that?

LUCIFER: I have been giving some of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil to them.

ELOHIM: Lucifer, because thou hast done this, thou shalt be cursed above all the beasts of the field. Upon thy belly thou shalt go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life.

LUCIFER: If thou cursest me for doing the same thing which has been done on other worlds, I will take the spirits that follow me, and they shall possess the bodies thou createst for Adam and Eve!

¹See this study on Satan's power.

²See Genesis 3:7. The word "apron" appears only three times in the scriptures—that verse in Genesis, plus Acts 19:12 and Moses 4:13. In Hebrew, the word for "apron" is חֲבִירָה; HALOT 290b (PDF 347) says that the word has two meanings:

1 girdle

2 loincloth

The first definition, according to HALOT, goes with the uses in 2 Samuel 18:11, 1 Kings 2:5, 2 Kings 3:21, and Isaiah 3:24; the second meaning goes with Genesis 3:7. Note that this word does not appear in connection with the priestly clothes that we read about in Exodus.

ELOHIM: I will place enmity¹ between thee and the seed of the woman. Thou mayest have power to bruise² his heel, but he shall have power to crush thy head.

LUCIFER: Then with that enmity I will take the treasures of the earth, and with gold and silver I will buy up armies and navies, popes and priests, and reign with blood and horror on the earth!

ELOHIM: Depart!

[Lucifer passes from the Garden Room into the World Room.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, let cherubim and a flaming sword be placed to guard the way of the tree of life, lest Adam put forth his hand, and partake of the fruit thereof, and live forever in his sins.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

[Jehovah stretches his hand towards the tree of life.]

Let cherubim and a flaming sword be placed to guard the way of the tree of life, lest Adam put forth his hand, and partake of the fruit thereof, and live forever in his sins.

It is done, Elohim.

The law of Elohim

ELOHIM: ³Eve, because thou hast hearkened to the voice of Satan, and hast partaken of the forbidden fruit, and given unto Adam, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception. In sorrow shalt thou bring forth children; nevertheless, thou mayest be preserved in childbearing. Thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee in righteousness.

Adam, because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife and hast partaken of the forbidden fruit, the earth shall be cursed for thy sake. Instead of producing fruits and flowers spontaneously, it shall bring forth thorns, thistles, briars, and noxious weeds to afflict and torment man; and by the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat thy bread all the days of thy life, for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.

Inasmuch as Eve was the first to eat of the forbidden fruit, if she will covenant that from this time forth she will obey your law in the Lord⁴ and will hearken unto your counsel as you hearken unto mine, and if you will covenant that from this time forth you will obey the law of Elohim, we will give unto you the law of obedience and sacrifice, and we will provide a Savior for you, whereby you may come back into our presence and with us partake of eternal life and exaltation.

EVE: Adam, I now covenant to obey your law as you obey our Father.⁵

ADAM: Elohim, I now covenant with thee that from this time forth I will obey thy law and keep thy commandments.

ELOHIM: It is well, Adam.

ELOHIM: Jehovah, inasmuch as Adam and Eve have discovered their nakedness, make coats of skins as a covering for them.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

Brethren and sisters, the garment which was placed upon you in the washing room is to cover your nakedness and represents the coat of skins spoken of. Anciently, it was made of skins. You have received the garment; also, your new name.

The law of obedience

ELOHIM: A couple will now come to the altar.

Brethren and sisters, this couple at the altar represents all of you as if at the altar. You must consider yourselves as if you were, respectively, Adam and Eve.

We will put the sisters under covenant to obey the law of their husbands.⁶ Sisters, arise.

Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you solemnly covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will each observe and keep the law of your husband and abide by his counsel in righteousness.⁷

¹Compare DC 101:26.

²Compare Romans 16:20,

³This whole paragraph was removed in the 1990 revision. There is also a short part of the next paragraph, "because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife," which was removed as well.

⁴The 1990 revision changes this bit to "she will obey the law of the Lord."

⁵Similar to the above change, in the 1990 revision this passage reads, "Adam, I now covenant to obey the law of the Lord, and to hearken to your counsel as you hearken unto Father."

⁶1990 revision: "We will put each sister under covenant to obey the law of the Lord, and to hearken to the counsel of her husband, as her husband hearkens unto the counsel of the Father."

⁷1990 revision: "You and each of you solemnly covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will each observe and keep the law of the Lord, and hearken to the counsel of your husband as he hearkens to the counsel of the Father."

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."
That will do.
Brethren, arise.
Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you solemnly covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will obey the law of God and keep his commandments.

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."
That will do.

The law of sacrifice

ELOHIM: Brethren and sisters, you are about to be put under covenant to obey and keep the law of sacrifice, as contained in the Old and New Testaments.¹ This law of sacrifice was given to Adam in the garden of Eden, who, when he was driven out of the garden, built an altar on which he offered sacrifices.

And after many days, an angel of the Lord appeared unto Adam, saying, "Why dost thou offer sacrifices unto the Lord?" And Adam said unto him, "I know not, save the Lord commanded me." And then the angel spake saying, "This thing is a similitude of the sacrifice of the Only Begotten of the Father, which is full of grace and truth. Wherefore, thou shalt do all that thou doest in the name of the Son, and thou shalt repent and call upon God in the name of the Son forevermore."

The posterity of Adam down to Moses, and from Moses to Jesus Christ,² offered up the firstfruits of the field and the firstlings of the flock, which continued until the death of Jesus Christ, which ended sacrifice by the shedding of blood.

And as Jesus Christ has laid down his life for the redemption of mankind, so we should covenant to sacrifice all that we possess, even our own lives if necessary, in sustaining and defending the kingdom of God.

All arise.
Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you solemnly covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will observe and keep the law of sacrifice, as contained in the Old and New Testaments, as it has been explained to you.

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."
That will do.

The first token of the Aaronic priesthood

ELOHIM: We will now give unto you the first token of the Aaronic priesthood with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty.³

Before doing this, however, we desire to impress upon your minds the sacred character of the first token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty, as well as that of all the other tokens of the holy priesthood, with their names, signs, and penalties, which you will receive in the temple this day. They are most sacred and are guarded by solemn covenants and obligations of secrecy to the effect that under no condition, even at the peril of your life, will you ever divulge them, except at a certain place that will be shown you hereafter.

¹The 1990 revision says "as contained in the holy scriptures." A note in the source material says that the pre-1990 ceremony moves through the scriptures with the laws: "the Old and New Testaments are named in connection with the law of sacrifice, the Book of Mormon is named in connection with the law of the gospel, and Doctrine and Covenants is named in connection with the law of consecration. The 1990 revision abandons this sequence, referring to the scriptures generically, not by specific standard works (except in the case of the law of consecration, where Doctrine and Covenants is still specifically named)."

²This is the first mention of Jesus Christ by name in the endowment ceremony.

³This is the first mention of penalties; in the 1990 revision, everything about the penalties was removed. For example, the sentence below, "The representation of the execution of the penalties indicates different ways in which life may be taken," is gone, and the paragraph below this one reads "Before doing this, we desire to impress upon your minds the sacred character of the first token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its name and sign, as well as that of all the other tokens of the holy priesthood, with their names and signs, which you will receive in the temple this day. They are most sacred and are guarded by solemn covenants and obligations, made in the presence of God, angels, and these witnesses, to hold them sacred; and under no condition will you ever divulge them, except at a certain place in the temple that will be shown you."

Here is part of a note on this from my source material: "Originally, the penalties included graphic descriptions of the particular ways one's life would be taken in punishment for violating the covenants of non-disclosure. (The same is true of Masonic ritual.) These graphic descriptions were replaced in the 1920s with a generic statement that rather than reveal the signs, tokens, and keywords, an initiate 'would suffer my life to be taken.' Note that this revision actually shifts the nature of the penalty: instead of a violent punishment falling upon those who disclose secret knowledge, the penalty becomes an affirmation that one will preserve the secret despite threats of violence."

The representation of the execution of the penalties indicates different ways in which life may be taken.

[Elohim demonstrates the first token of the Aaronic priesthood.]

We give unto you the first token of the Aaronic priesthood. We desire all to receive it. All arise.

[All initiates receive the token.]

The name of this token is the new name that you received in the temple today.

[Elohim demonstrates the sign and penalty for this token.]

I will now explain the covenant and obligation of secrecy which are associated with this token, its name, sign, and penalty, which you will be required to take upon yourselves.

If I were receiving my own endowment today and had been given the name of _____ as my new name, I would repeat in my mind these words after making the sign, at the same time representing the execution of the penalty:

I, _____, covenant that I will never reveal the first token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. Rather than do so, I would suffer my life to be taken.

[Elohim leads the initiates in repeating this oath.]

That will do.

ELOHIM: Jehovah, see that Adam is driven out of this beautiful garden into the lone and dreary world, where he may learn from his own experience to distinguish good from evil.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

[Jehovah instructs the brethren to follow Adam, and the sisters to follow Eve, into the World Room. Elohim and Jehovah do not accompany initiates into the World Room.]

The Telestial World

ADAM: Brethren and sisters, this represents the telestial kingdom, or the world in which we now live. Adam, on finding himself in the lone and dreary world, built an altar and offered prayer, and these are the words he uttered:

[Adam kneels at the altar and lifts his hands towards heaven, each arm raised to the square.]

Oh God, hear the words of my mouth.

Oh God, hear the words of my mouth.

Oh God, hear the words of my mouth.¹

[Lucifer comes into view.]

LUCIFER: I hear you. What is it you want?

ADAM: Who are you?

LUCIFER: I am the god of this world.²

ADAM: You, the god of this world?

LUCIFER: Yes. What do you want?

ADAM: I am looking for messengers.

LUCIFER: Oh, you want someone to preach to you. You want religion, do you? I will have preachers here presently.³

[A preacher enters.]

LUCIFER: Good morning, sir!

PREACHER: Good morning! [Looking out over the initiates.] A fine congregation!

LUCIFER: Yes, they are a very good people. They are concerned about religion. Are you a preacher?

PREACHER: I am.

LUCIFER: Have you been to college and received training for the ministry?

PREACHER: Certainly! A man cannot preach unless he has been trained for the ministry.

¹The statement "hear the words of my mouth" does not occur in the scriptures; "words of my mouth" occurs ten times, nine in the OT and one in the BOM. See here for a complete list; four of those are most important, and they follow here:

Deuteronomy 32:1 GIVE ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.

Psalms 19:14 Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O LORD, my strength, and my redeemer.

Psalms 54:2 Hear my prayer, O God; give ear to the words of my mouth.

Psalms 78:1 GIVE ear, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth.

All four of these uses of the phrase are translations of the Hebrew אָמַרְיִי, where the noun in construct form is אָמַר, HALOT "word" (67a PDF 124).

²Compare 2 Corinthians 4:4: "In whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them."

³This whole story of the preacher is removed in the 1990 revisions, and you get Lucifer saying here instead, "There will be many willing to preach to you the philosophies of men, mingled with scripture." Note that a similar remark does appear down below in the pre-1990 version.

LUCIFER: Do you preach the orthodox religion?

PREACHER: Yes, that is what I preach.

LUCIFER: If you will preach your orthodox religion to these people and convert them, I will pay you well.

PREACHER: I will do my best.

LUCIFER: [Indicating Adam.] Here is a man who desires religion. He is very much exercised and seems to be sincere.

PREACHER: I understand that you are inquiring after religion.

ADAM: I was calling upon Father.

PREACHER: I am glad to know that you were calling upon Father.

Do you believe in a God who is without body, parts, or passions; who sits on the top of a topless throne; whose center is everywhere and whose circumference is nowhere; who fills the universe, and yet is so small that he can dwell in your heart; who is surrounded by myriads of beings who have been saved by grace, not for any act of theirs, but by his good pleasure? Do you believe in such a great being?

ADAM: I do not. I cannot comprehend such a being.

PREACHER: That is the beauty of it. Perhaps you do not believe in a devil, and in that great hell, the bottomless pit, where there is a lake of fire and brimstone into which the wicked are cast, and where they are continually burning but are never consumed?

ADAM: I do not believe in any such place.

PREACHER: My dear friend, I am sorry for you.

LUCIFER: I am sorry, very very sorry! What is it you want?

ADAM: I am looking for messengers from my Father.

[Elohim, Jehovah, and their messengers are heard speaking outside the World Room.]

ELOHIM: Jehovah, send down Peter, James, and John to visit the man Adam in the telestial world, without disclosing their identity.¹ Have them observe conditions generally, see if Satan is there, and learn whether Adam has been true to the token and sign given to him in the garden of Eden. Have them then return and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

Peter, James, and John, go down and visit the man Adam in the telestial world, without disclosing your identity. Observe conditions generally. See if Satan is there, and learn whether Adam has been true to the token and sign given to him in the garden of Eden. Then return and bring us word.

PETER: It shall be done, Jehovah. Come, James and John, let us go down.

JAMES: We will go down.

JOHN: We will go down.

[Peter, James, and John enter the World Room.]

PETER: Good morning.

LUCIFER: Good morning, gentlemen.

PETER: What are you doing here?

LUCIFER: Teaching religion.

PETER: What religion do you teach?

LUCIFER: We teach a religion made of the philosophies of men, mingled with scripture.²

PETER: How is your religion received by this community?

LUCIFER: Very well—excepting this man. He does not seem to believe anything we preach.

PETER: [To Adam.] Good morning. What do you think of the preaching of these gentlemen?

ADAM: I cannot comprehend it.

PETER: Can you give us some idea concerning it?

ADAM: They preach of a God who is without body, parts, or passions; who is so large that he fills the universe, and yet is so small that he can dwell in your heart; and of a hell, without a bottom, where the wicked are continually burned but are never consumed. To me, it is a mass of confusion.

PETER: We do not wonder that you cannot comprehend such doctrine. Have you any tokens or signs?

LUCIFER: [Interjecting.] Do you have any money?

PETER: We have sufficient for our needs.

LUCIFER: You can buy anything in this world for money.

PETER: [To Adam.] Do you sell your tokens or signs for money? You have them, I presume.

ADAM: I have them, but I do not sell them for money. I hold them sacred. I am looking for the further light and knowledge Father promised to send me.

¹The messengers are Peter, James, and John. In DC 7:7, Christ speaks about them receiving some “power and keys” of a certain ministry until he comes. That passage is referring to their time as mortals on the earth, rather than what they experienced before that, but it’s clear that they have some special authority and must have had something like that before coming to earth.

²Compare the “precepts of men” discussed in the scriptures, such as at DC 45:29.

PETER: That is right. We commend you for your integrity. Good day. We shall probably visit you again.

[Peter, James, and John leave the World Room.]

LUCIFER: Now is the great day of my power. I reign from the rivers to the ends of the earth. There is none who dares to molest or make afraid.

PREACHER: Shall we ever have any apostles or prophets?

LUCIFER: No. However, there may be some who will profess revelation or apostleship. If so, just test them by asking that they perform a great miracle, such as cutting off an arm or some other member of the body and restoring it, so that the people may know that they have come with power.

[Elohim, Jehovah, and their messengers are heard speaking outside the World Room.]

PETER: Jehovah, we have visited the man Adam in the telestial world as thou didst command us. We found Satan there, with his ministers, preaching all manner of false doctrine and striving to lead the posterity of Adam astray. But Adam has been true and faithful to the token and sign given him in the garden of Eden and is waiting for the further light and knowledge you promised to send him. This is our report.

JEHOVAH: It is well, Peter, James, and John.

Elohim—Peter, James, and John have been down to the man Adam in the telestial world. They found Satan there, with his ministers, preaching all manner of false doctrine and striving to lead the posterity of Adam astray. But Adam has been true and faithful to the token and sign given him in the garden of Eden, and he is waiting for the further light and knowledge you promised to send him. This is their report.

ELOHIM: It is well.

Jehovah, instruct Peter, James, and John to go down in their true character, as apostles of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the man Adam and his posterity in the telestial world and to cast Satan out of their midst. Instruct them to give unto Adam and his posterity the law of the gospel as contained in the Book of Mormon and the Bible; also, a charge to avoid all lightmindedness, loud laughter, evil speaking of the Lord's anointed, the taking of the name of God in vain, and every other unholy and impure practice; and cause these to be received by covenant.

Instruct Peter, James, and John further to clothe Adam and his posterity in the robes of the holy priesthood, with the robe on the left shoulder, and to give unto them the second token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. Then have them return and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

Peter, James, and John, go down in your true character, as apostles of the Lord Jesus Christ,¹ to the man Adam and his posterity in the telestial world. Cast Satan out of their midst. Give unto them the law of the gospel as contained in the Book of Mormon and the Bible; also, a charge to avoid all lightmindedness, loud laughter, evil speaking of the Lord's anointed, the taking of the name of God in vain, and every other unholy and impure practice. Cause them to receive these by covenant.

Clothe them in the robes of the holy priesthood, with the robe on the left shoulder, and give unto them the second token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. Then return and bring us word.

PETER: It shall be done, Jehovah. Come, James and John, let us go down.

[Peter, James, and John return to the World Room.]

PETER: I am Peter.

JAMES: I am James.

JOHN: I am John.

LUCIFER: Yes, I thought I knew you. [To the preacher.] Do you know who these men are? They claim to be apostles. Try them!

PREACHER: [To Peter.] Do you profess to be an apostle of the Lord Jesus Christ?

PETER: We do.

PREACHER: This man told me that we should never have any revelation or apostles, but if any should come professing to be apostles, I was to ask them to cut off an arm or some other member of the body and then restore it, so that the people might know that they came with power.

PETER: We do not satisfy men's curiosity in that manner. It is a wicked and an adulterous generation that seeks for a sign. Do you know who that man is? He is Satan.

PREACHER: What? The devil?

PETER: That is one of his names.

PREACHER: He is quite a different person from what he told me the devil is. He said the devil has claws like a bear's on his hands, horns on his head, and a cloven foot, and that when he speaks he has the roar of a lion.

PETER: He has said this to deceive you, and I would advise you to get out of his employ.

PREACHER: Your advice is good. But if I leave his employ, what will become of me?

PETER: We will preach the gospel unto you, with the rest of Adam's posterity.

PREACHER: That is good. [To Lucifer.] I would like to have a settlement. I want you to pay me for preaching.

¹ As I mention here, it's weird but not completely absurd for Jehovah to speak to the apostles this way if Jehovah is Christ.

LUCIFER: I am ready to keep my word and fulfill my part of the agreement. I promised to pay you if you would convert these people, and they have nearly converted you! You can get out of my kingdom—I want no such men in it!

[The preacher exits.]

LUCIFER: [To Peter.] Now what are you going to do?

PETER: We will dismiss you without further argument.

LUCIFER: Ah! You have looked over my kingdom and my greatness and glory.¹ Now you want to take possession of the whole of it.

[He indicates the initiates.]

I have a word to say concerning these people. If they do not walk up to every covenant they make at these altars in this temple this day, they will be in my power!

PETER: Satan, we command you to depart.

LUCIFER: By what authority?

PETER: [Raising his right arm to the square.] In the name of Jesus Christ, our Master.

[Lucifer exits.]

PETER: Adam, we are true messengers from the Father and have come down to give unto you the further light and knowledge he promised to send you.

ADAM: How shall I know that you are true messengers?

PETER: By our giving unto you the token and sign you received in the garden of Eden.

[Peter takes Adam by the hand in the first token of the Aaronic priesthood.]

ADAM: What is that?

PETER: The first token of the Aaronic priesthood.

ADAM: Has it a name?

PETER: It has.

ADAM: Will you give it to me?

PETER: I cannot, for it is the new name. But this is the sign, and this represents the execution of the penalty.

[Peter demonstrates the sign and penalty as he says this.]

ADAM: Now I know that you are true messengers sent down from Father.

[To the initiates.] These are true messengers. I exhort you to give strict heed to their counsel and teachings, and they will lead you in the way of life and salvation.

The law of the gospel

PETER: A couple will now come to the altar.²

Brethren and sisters, this couple at the altar represent all of you as if at the altar, and you will be under the same obligations as they will be.

We are required to give unto you the law of the gospel³ as contained in the Book of Mormon and the Bible;⁴ to give unto you, also, a charge to avoid all lightmindedness,⁵ loud laughter,⁶ evil speaking of the Lord's anointed, the taking of the name of God in vain, and every other unholy and impure practice; and to cause you to receive these by covenant.

All arise.

Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will observe and keep the law of the gospel and this charge, as it has been explained to you.

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."

That will do.

¹ Compare Luke 4:5-8, especially verse 6, where the tempter refers to ἐξουσία.

² Notice that Peter has replaced Elohim at the altar; we aren't interacting directly with the Father any longer.

³ See DC 88:78.

⁴ It's a little weird that the endowment doesn't explain the law of the gospel more. What exactly is it? What are we supposed to understand about it?

⁵ See DC 84:54 and 61, DC 88:69, DC 88:121 (in this verse, it's clear that this instruction only applies to a limited number of people in restricted circumstances, I think),

⁶ See DC 88:69, where the Lord instructs those listening to "cast away...your excess of laughter." See also 1 Nephi 18:9, DC 88:121,

Robes of the Aaronic priesthood

PETER: We are instructed to clothe you in the robes of the holy priesthood.

Place the robe on your left shoulder. Place the cap on your head with the bow over the right ear. Replace the apron. Tie the girdle with the bow on the right side. Remove the slippers from your feet, and put them on again as part of the temple clothing.

You may now proceed to clothe.

The second token of the Aaronic priesthood

PETER: A couple will now come to the altar.

With the robe on the left shoulder, you are prepared to officiate in the ordinances of the Aaronic priesthood.¹

We will now give unto you the second token of the Aaronic priesthood with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty.

[Peter demonstrates the token.]

We desire all to receive it. All arise.

[All initiates receive the token. Peter then reveals the name, sign, and penalty for this token. Not all initiates receive the same name.]

I will now explain the covenant and obligation of secrecy which are associated with this token, its name, sign, and penalty, which you will be required to take upon yourselves.

If I were receiving my own endowment today, and if [here Peter provides a sample name for the token], I would repeat in my mind these words, after making the sign, at the same time representing the execution of the penalty:

I, _____, covenant that I will never reveal the second token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. Rather than do so, I would suffer my life to be taken.

[Peter leads the initiates in repeating this oath.]

That will do.

We will return and report.

[Peter, James, and John exit.]

[Elohim, Jehovah, and their messengers are heard speaking outside the World Room.]

PETER: Jehovah, we have been down to the man Adam and his posterity in the telestial world and have cast Satan out of their midst. We have given unto them the law of the gospel as contained in the Book of Mormon and the Bible; also, a charge to avoid all lightmindedness, loud laughter, evil speaking of the Lord's anointed, the taking of the name of God in vain, and every other unholy and impure practice, and have caused them to receive these by covenant.

We have also clothed them in the robes of the holy priesthood and have given unto them the second token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. This is our report.

JEHOVAH: It is well, Peter, James, and John.

Elohim—Peter, James, and John have been down to the man Adam and his posterity in the telestial world, have cast Satan out of their midst, and have done all else that they were commanded to do.

ELOHIM: It is well.

Jehovah, send down Peter, James, and John again to the telestial world. Have Adam and his posterity change their robes to the right shoulder, preparatory to officiating in the ordinances of the Melchizedek priesthood, and introduce them into the terrestrial world.

Instruct Peter, James, and John further to give unto Adam and his posterity the law of chastity and to put them under covenant to obey this law, which is that the daughters of Eve and the sons of Adam shall have no sexual intercourse except with their husbands or wives to whom they are legally and lawfully wedded, and to give unto them the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. Have them return and bring me word.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

Peter, James and John, go down again to the telestial world. Instruct Adam and his posterity to change their robes to the right shoulder, preparatory to officiating in the ordinances of the Melchizedek priesthood, and introduce them into the terrestrial world.

Give unto Adam and his posterity the law of chastity and put them under covenant to obey this law, which is that the daughters of Eve and the sons of Adam shall have no sexual intercourse except with their husbands or wives to whom they ¹See DC 107:14, 20, and discussion of “outward ordinances” here. Peter says that both the men and women are prepared to “officiate in the ordinances of the Aaronic priesthood”—usually we would think of those ordinances as involving baptism and the sacrament. He could be referring to those, and could also be referring to temple-specific ordinances governed by the Aaronic priesthood.

are legally and lawfully wedded. Give unto them the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty; and return and bring us word.

PETER: It shall be done, Jehovah. Come, James and John, let us go down.

Robes of the Melchizedek priesthood

[Peter, James, and John return to the World Room.]

PETER: We are instructed to have you change the robe to the right shoulder, preparatory to officiating in the ordinances of the Melchizedek priesthood, and to introduce you into the terrestrial world.

You may now make the change by removing the robe.

[The initiates change the robe to the right shoulder. They then pass into the Terrestrial Room.]

The Terrestrial World

The law of chastity

PETER: A couple will now come to the altar.

We are instructed to give unto you the law of chastity. This I will explain. To the sisters, it is that no one of you will have sexual intercourse except with your husband to whom you are legally and lawfully wedded. To the brethren it is that no one of you will have sexual intercourse except with your wife to whom you are legally and lawfully wedded.¹

Sisters, please arise.

Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will observe and keep the law of chastity, as it has been explained to you.

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."

That will do.

Brethren, please arise.

Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar that you will observe and keep the law of chastity, as it has been explained to you.

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."

That will do.

The first token of the Melchizedek priesthood

PETER: We will now give unto you the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty.

[Peter demonstrates the token.]

We desire all to receive it. All arise.

[All initiates receive the token. Peter then reveals the name, sign, and penalty for this token.]

I will now explain the covenant and obligation of secrecy which are associated with this token, its name, sign, and penalty, which you will be required to take upon yourselves.

If I were receiving the endowment today, either for myself or for the dead, I would repeat in my mind these words, after making the sign, at the same time representing the execution of the penalty:

I covenant in the name _____ that I will never reveal the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. Rather than do so, I would suffer my life to be taken.

[Peter leads the initiates in repeating this oath.]

That will do.

¹In the 1990 revision, men and women receive this covenant at the same time, and they agree that they will not have sexual relations (not "intercourse") except with their "husband or wife to whom they are legally and lawfully wedded." Note that this way of presenting the covenant makes it possible for a person in a gay relationship to obey the covenant, because it isn't specific enough to exclude that relationship with its current wording (I'm writing this in 2021; I haven't been to the endowment for a while and so it could be different now.)

We will return and report.

[Peter, James, and John exit.]

[Elohim, Jehovah, and their messengers are heard speaking outside the Terrestrial Room.]

PETER: Jehovah, we have been down to the man Adam and his posterity, have placed the robe on the right shoulder, and have introduced them into the terrestrial world. We have put them under covenant to observe and keep the law of chastity. We have also given them the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. This is our report.

JEHOVAH: It is well, Peter, James, and John.

Elohim—Peter, James, and John have been down to the man Adam and his posterity, have placed the robe on the right shoulder, and have introduced them into the terrestrial world. They have also put them under covenant to observe and keep the law of chastity. They have given unto them the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty. This is their report.

ELOHIM: It is well.

Jehovah, send down Peter, James, and John, and instruct them to give to the man Adam and his posterity in the terrestrial world the law of consecration, in connection with the law of the gospel and the law of sacrifice, and to cause them to receive it by covenant; to give unto them the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying sign; and to teach them the order of prayer and prepare them in all things to receive further instructions at the veil. Then have them report at the veil.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

Peter, James, and John, go down to the man Adam and his posterity in the terrestrial world and give unto them the law of consecration, in connection with the law of the gospel and the law of sacrifice, and cause them to receive it by covenant. Give unto them the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying sign. Teach them the order of prayer and prepare them in all things to receive further instructions at the veil. Then report at the veil.

PETER: It shall be done, Jehovah. Come, James and John, let us go down.

The law of consecration

[Peter, James, and John return to the Terrestrial Room.]

PETER: A couple will now come to the altar.

We are instructed to give unto you the law of consecration as contained in the book of Doctrine and Covenants, in connection with the law of the gospel and the law of sacrifice, which you have already received. It is that you do consecrate yourselves, your time, talents, and everything with which the Lord has blessed you, or with which he may bless you, to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, for the building up of the kingdom of God on the earth and for the establishment of Zion.

All arise.

Each of you bring your right arm to the square.

You and each of you covenant and promise before God, angels, and these witnesses at this altar, that you do accept the law of consecration as contained in this, the book of Doctrine and Covenants [he displays the book], in that you do consecrate yourselves, your time, talents, and everything with which the Lord has blessed you, or with which he may bless you, to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, for the building up of the kingdom of God on the earth and for the establishment of Zion.

Each of you bow your head and say, "Yes."

That will do.

The second token of the Melchizedek priesthood

PETER: We will now give unto you the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying sign.

[Peter demonstrates the token.]

We desire all to receive it. All arise.

[All initiates receive the token.]

This token has a name and a sign, but no penalty is mentioned. However, you will be under just as sacred an obligation of secrecy in connection with this token and sign as you are with the other tokens and signs of the holy priesthood which you have received in the temple this day.

The name of this token will not be given unto you at this stage in the endowment, but it will be given later on.

[Peter demonstrates the sign for this token and then leads initiates in making the sign.]

That will do.

The order of prayer

PETER: Brethren and sisters, with the robe on the right shoulder you are prepared to be taught the true order of prayer and to be introduced at the veil.

A few couples will please come forward and form a circle around the altar.

[The couples are arranged so that men and women alternate around the circle. James directs the prayer circle.]

JAMES: Only the best of feelings should exist in the circle. If any of you have unkind feelings toward any member of this circle, you are invited to withdraw so that the Spirit of the Lord may be unrestrained.

In the circle we make the signs of all the tokens of the holy priesthood.

[James leads those in the circle in making each sign, in succession. As they do this, he reminds initiates of the name for each token, except the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the name of which has not yet been revealed.]

We have here a list of names of persons who are sick or otherwise afflicted, whom we are requested to remember in our prayer. We will place the list upon the altar and request the faith of those present in behalf of these persons.

The sisters in the room will please veil their faces.

Each brother in the circle will take the sister at his left by the right hand in the patriarchal grip.

Each of you bring your left arm to the square and rest it upon the shoulder or arm of the person at your left.

The brethren and sisters in the circle will repeat the words of the prayer.

[James kneels before the altar, within the circle, makes the sign of the second token of the Aaronic priesthood, and offers an extemporaneous prayer. He pauses after each sentence, so that those in the circle may repeat his words.]

PETER: The sisters will unveil their faces, and the brethren and sisters in the circle will return to their seats.

We will now uncover the veil.

The Veil

PETER: Brethren and sisters, I will now explain the marks on the veil.

These four marks are the marks of the holy priesthood, and corresponding marks are found in your individual garment.

This one on the right is the mark of the square. It is placed in the garment over the right breast, suggesting to the mind exactness and honor in keeping the covenants entered into this day.

This one on the left is the mark of the compass. It is placed in the garment over the left breast, suggesting to the mind an undeviating course leading to eternal life; a constant reminder that desires, appetites, and passions are to be kept within the bounds the Lord has set; and that all truth may be circumscribed into one great whole.

This is the navel mark. It is placed in the garment over the navel, suggesting to the mind the need of constant nourishment to body and spirit.

This is the knee mark. It is placed in the right leg of the garment so as to be over the kneecap, suggesting that every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that Jesus is the Christ.

These other three marks are for convenience in working at the veil. Through this one, the person representing the Lord¹ puts forth his right hand to test our knowledge of the tokens of the holy priesthood. Through the one on our right, he asks us certain questions; through the one on the left, we give our answers.

[Peter stands before the veil, in view of the temple initiates. A person representing the Lord stands concealed behind the veil.]

PETER: As all of you will have to pass through the veil, we will show you how this is to be done.

[Peter stands before a part in the veil, off to the side of the marks whose meaning he has just explained.]

PETER: The person is brought to this point, and the worker gives three distinct taps with the mallet...

[Peter does so. The person representing the Lord puts his hand through the part in the veil, opening it slightly.]

...whereupon the Lord parts the veil, and asks:

LORD: What is wanted?

PETER: Adam, having been true and faithful in all things, desires further light and knowledge by conversing with the Lord through the veil.

LORD: Present him at the veil, and his request shall be granted.

¹So the person on the other side of the veil is supposed to represent the "Lord," or Christ, I think. See 2 Nephi 9:41. This seems to represent some kind of personal interaction we have with Christ across the veil—as Peter reports to Jehovah later, "They are now ready to converse with the Lord through the veil." Is this before the resurrection? After? I'm not sure.

[Peter stands in front of the marks on the veil. The person representing the Lord puts his hand through the mark which Peter has indicated for this purpose.]

PETER: The person is then brought to this point, whereupon the Lord puts forth his right hand, gives the first token of the Aaronic priesthood, and asks:

LORD: What is that?

PETER: The first token of the Aaronic priesthood.

LORD: Has it a name?

PETER: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

PETER: I will, through the veil.

The person then gives, through the veil, the name of this token, which is the new name received in the temple today.

PETER: The Lord then gives the second token of the Aaronic priesthood and asks:

LORD: What is that?

PETER: The second token of the Aaronic priesthood.

LORD: Has it a name?

PETER: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

PETER: I will, through the veil.

The person then gives the name of this token, which is _____.

PETER: The Lord then gives the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, and asks:

LORD: What is that?

PETER: The first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail.

LORD: Has it a name?

PETER: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

PETER: I will, through the veil.

The person then gives the name of this token, which is _____.

PETER: The Lord then gives the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, and asks:

LORD: What is that?

PETER: The second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail.

LORD: Has it a name?

PETER: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

PETER: I cannot. I have not yet received it. For this purpose I have come to converse with the Lord through the veil.

LORD: You shall receive it, upon the five points of fellowship, through the veil.

PETER: The five points of fellowship are: inside of right foot by the side of right foot, knee to knee, breast to breast, hand to back, and mouth to ear.

The Lord then gives the name of this token and asks:

LORD: What is that?

PETER: The second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail.

LORD: Has it a name?

PETER: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

PETER: I will, upon the five points of fellowship, through the veil.

The person then repeats back to the Lord the name of this token as he received it, whereupon the Lord says:

LORD: That is correct.

[The person representing the Lord withdraws his hand from view.]

[Peter stands again before the part in the veil.]

PETER: The person is again brought to this point, and the worker gives three distinct taps with the mallet.

[Peter does so.]

The Lord parts the veil and asks:

LORD: What is wanted?

PETER: Adam, having conversed with the Lord through the veil, desires now to enter his presence.

The Lord puts forth his right hand, takes the person by the right hand, and says:

LORD: Let him enter.

PETER: He is admitted into the presence of the Lord.

[The person representing the Lord pulls Peter partway through the veil to demonstrate.]

We will now report.

[Peter, James, and John pass behind the veil.]

[Elohim, Jehovah, and their messengers are heard speaking behind the veil.]

PETER: Jehovah, we have been down to the man Adam and his posterity in the terrestrial world, and have given unto them the law of consecration, and have caused them to receive it by covenant. We have given unto them the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying sign, and have taught them the order of prayer. They are now ready to converse with the Lord through the veil. This is our report.

JEHOVAH: It is well, Peter, James, and John.

Elohim—Peter, James, and John have been down to the man Adam and his posterity in the terrestrial world and have done all that they were commanded to do.

ELOHIM: It is well.

Jehovah, instruct Peter, James, and John to introduce the man Adam and his posterity at the veil, where we will give unto them the name of the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, preparatory to their entering into our presence.

JEHOVAH: It shall be done, Elohim.

Peter, James, and John, you will introduce Adam and his posterity at the veil, where we will give unto them the name of the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, preparatory to their entering into our presence.

PETER: It shall be done, Jehovah. Come, James and John, we will introduce them at the veil.

[Peter, James, and John return from behind the veil.]

Brethren and sisters, we are instructed to introduce you at the veil, where you will receive the name of the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, preparatory to your entering into the presence of the Lord.

The lecture at the veil

PETER: A lecture¹ will now be given which summarizes the instructions, ordinances, and covenants, and also the tokens, with their keywords, signs, and penalties, pertaining to the endowment, which you have thus far received.

You should try to remember and keep in mind all that you have heard and seen, and may yet hear and see, in this house. The purpose of this lecture is to assist you to remember that which has been taught you this day. You must keep in mind that you are under a solemn obligation never to speak outside of the temple of the Lord of the things you see and hear in this sacred place.

LECTURER: Brethren and sisters, the ordinances of the endowment as here administered, long withheld from the children of men, pertain to the dispensation of the fullness of time and have been revealed to prepare the people for exaltation in the celestial kingdom, where God and Christ dwell.

The deep meaning of the eternal truths constituting the endowment has been set forth in brief instructions and by symbolic representation. If you give prayerful and earnest thought to the holy endowment, you will obtain the understanding and spirit of the work done in the temples of the Lord. The privilege of laboring here for the dead permits us to enter the temple frequently, and to refresh our memories, and to enlarge our understanding of the endowment.

You were first washed and anointed, a garment was placed upon you, and a new name was given you. This name you should always remember; but you must never reveal it to any person, except at the veil.

You then entered [the Creation Room]. [There] you heard the voices of persons representing a council of the Gods—Elohim, Jehovah, and Michael. Elohim said: “See, yonder is matter unorganized. Go ye down and organize it into a world, like unto the other worlds that we have heretofore formed.” As the creation of the earth progressed, you heard the commands and the reports of the persons representing the Gods.

If we are faithful, we shall enter the celestial kingdom and there hear and know the Gods of heaven. They are perfect; we are imperfect. They are exalted; we may attain exaltation.

Our spirits at one time lived with the Gods; but each of us was given the privilege of coming upon this earth to take upon himself a body, so that the spirit might have a house in which to dwell.

Michael, one of the council of the Gods, became the man Adam, to whom was given the woman Eve. However, as Adam he did not remember his life and labors in the council. It is so with us all. We came into the world with no memory of our previous existence.

¹Remember that the original “lecture at the veil” was given by BY for the St. George temple, and involved Adam-God. See the typescript version of L. John Nuttall’s diary, for 7 February 1877, starting on page 18 (PDF 137), or my transcription here.

We then followed Adam and Eve into the garden, where Elohim provided that they might eat freely of all kinds of fruit of the garden, except the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. He forbade them to partake of this fruit, saying that in the day they did so, they should surely die.

When Adam and Eve were left alone in the garden, Satan appeared and tempted them. Eve yielded to the temptation, partook of the fruit, and offered it to Adam. Adam had resisted the temptation of Satan, but when Eve offered him the forbidden fruit, he partook of it that they might continue together and perpetuate the human race.

Adam and Eve now understood that it was Lucifer who had tempted them. They became self-conscious. Discovering their nakedness and hearing the voice of the Lord, they made aprons of fig leaves and hid themselves. They had learned that everything has its opposite, such as good and evil, light and darkness, pleasure and pain.

The Lord again entered the garden. Adam and Eve confessed their disobedience. The Lord cursed Satan and cast him out of the garden of Eden, and the Lord commanded: "Let cherubim, and a flaming sword be placed to guard the way of the tree of life, lest Adam put forth his hand, and partake of the fruit thereof, and live forever in his sins."

Before their departure, however, instructions were given them. Addressing Eve, the Lord said: "Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of Satan and hast partaken of the forbidden fruit and given unto Adam, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception. In sorrow shalt thou bring forth children; nevertheless, thou mayest be preserved in childbearing. Thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee in righteousness."

To Adam, the Lord said: "Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife and hast partaken of the forbidden fruit, the earth shall be cursed for thy sake. Instead of producing fruits and flowers spontaneously, it shall bring forth thorns, thistles, briars, and noxious weeds to afflict and torment man; and by the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat thy bread all the days of thy life, for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."

Having been commanded, Jehovah provided Adam and Eve with coats of skins for a covering. The garment which was placed upon you after you had been washed and anointed represents the coat of skins, or covering, of Adam and Eve. They were also promised that further light and knowledge would be given them.

The law of obedience was then taught Adam and Eve and accepted by them. Eve covenanted with Adam that thenceforth she would obey the law of her husband and abide by his counsel in righteousness; and Adam covenanted with the Lord that he would obey the Lord and keep his commandments. You, likewise, covenanted to comply with the law of obedience.

The law of sacrifice accompanying the law of obedience, as contained in the Old and New Testaments of the Bible, was next presented to Adam, and you were all placed under covenant to observe it.

The law of obedience and sacrifice includes the promise of the Savior, the Only Begotten of the Father, who is full of grace and truth and who by his sacrifice has become the Redeemer of mankind. All things should be done in the name of the Son. An angel of the Lord explained this to Adam, who was given the privilege of showing his obedience by offering sacrifices to the Lord in similitude of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. Later, the people of Israel lived under this law, which continued in force until the death of Jesus Christ.

The first token of the Aaronic priesthood, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty, was given you; and you were told that the name of this token is your new name, or the new name of the dead, if officiating for the dead. The sacred nature of the tokens of the priesthood was carefully explained at this time. You were placed under solemn covenant never to reveal these tokens, with their accompanying names, signs, and penalties, even at the peril of your life. You were told that the execution of the penalties indicate different ways in which life may be taken.

Then Adam and Eve were driven out of the garden into the telestial kingdom, or the lone and dreary world, the world in which we are now living. There Adam offered a prayer saying, "Oh God, hear the words of my mouth," repeating it three times.

Satan entered and, claiming to be the god of this world, asked Adam what he desired. Adam replied that he was waiting for messengers from his Father. Satan declared that a preacher would soon arrive. A man representing a sectarian minister entered and preached doctrine, which Adam did not accept.

Peter, James, and John were sent down by the Lord to learn, without disclosing their identity, if the man Adam had been faithful to his covenants. They found that he had been faithful and so reported.

They were sent down again, this time in their true character as apostles of the Lord Jesus Christ, to visit and to instruct Adam and his posterity in the telestial world. Before so teaching the people, they cast Satan out.

The law of the gospel, as contained in the Book of Mormon and the Bible, was then given Adam and his posterity. You were placed under covenant to obey the law of the gospel, and to avoid all lightmindedness, loud laughter, evil speaking of the Lord's anointed, and taking the name of the Lord in vain.

The robe of the holy priesthood was placed upon your left shoulder, according to the order of the Aaronic priesthood.

The second token of the Aaronic priesthood was given you, with its name, sign, and penalty, and you were informed that the name of this token is _____.

The robe of the holy priesthood was then changed to the right shoulder, as was done anciently when officiating in the ordinances of the Melchizedek priesthood. With the robe on the right shoulder, you have authority also, if called to the bishopric, to act in the Aaronic priesthood.

You were then introduced, with the robe of the holy priesthood on the right shoulder, into the terrestrial kingdom. The law of chastity was there explained to you in plainness, and you were placed under covenant to obey this law.

The first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail, with its accompanying name, sign, and penalty, was next given you. You were told that the name of the first token of the Melchizedek priesthood is _____.

The book of Doctrine and Covenants, in connection with the Book of Mormon and the Bible, was presented to you; and the law of consecration, as contained in the book of Doctrine and Covenants, was explained to you; and you received this law by covenant.

The second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail, or the Nail in the Sure Place, was given you, together with its sign. The name of this token will be given you at the veil.

This token has reference to the crucifixion of the Savior. When he was placed upon the cross, the crucifiers drove nails through the palms of his hands; then, fearing that the weight of his body would cause the nails to tear through the flesh of his hands, they drove nails through his wrists. Hence in the palm is the Sign of the Nail, and in the wrist is the Sure Sign of the Nail, or the Nail in the Sure Place.

You have now progressed so far in the endowment that you are ready to receive the name of the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood and to pass through the veil into the celestial kingdom.

The sisters in this company who are to be married and sealed for time and eternity should be taken through the veil by their intended husband. Others will be taken through the veil by the regular temple workers.

Brethren and sisters, you will have received this day the sacred ordinances of the endowment. The eternal plan of salvation for man, as he journeys from his pre-existent state to his future high place in the celestial kingdom, has been presented to you. You have covenanted to obey all the laws of the gospel, including the laws of obedience, sacrifice, chastity, and consecration, which make possible an exaltation with the Gods; and you have received the first and second tokens of the Aaronic priesthood and the first and second tokens of the Melchizedek priesthood, with the names, signs, and penalties of these tokens, except the name of the second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, which will be given you at the veil.

All this is done for the glory, honor, and endowment of the children of Zion.

Brethren and sisters, strive to comprehend the glorious things presented to you this day. No other people on earth have ever had this privilege, except as they have received the keys of the priesthood given in the endowment.

These are what are termed the mysteries of godliness—that which will enable you to understand the expression of the Savior, made just prior to his betrayal: “This is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou has sent.”

May God bless you all. Amen.

Passing through the veil

[Initiates are presented individually at the veil. The veil worker taps three times with the mallet.]

LORD: What is wanted?

WORKER: Adam, having been true and faithful in all things, desires further light and knowledge by conversing with the Lord through the veil [for and in behalf of _____, who is dead].

LORD: Present him at the veil, and his request shall be granted.

LORD: What is that?

INITIATE: The first token of the Aaronic priesthood.

LORD: Has it a name?

INITIATE: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

INITIATE: I will, through the veil.

[The initiate gives the token's name.]

LORD: What is that?

INITIATE: The second token of the Aaronic priesthood.

LORD: Has it a name?

INITIATE: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

INITIATE: I will, through the veil.

[The initiate gives the token's name.]

LORD: What is that?

INITIATE: The first token of the Melchizedek priesthood, or Sign of the Nail.

LORD: Has it a name?

INITIATE: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

INITIATE: I will, through the veil.

[The initiate gives the token's name.]

LORD: What is that?

INITIATE: The second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail.

LORD: Has it a name?

INITIATE: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

INITIATE: I cannot. I have not yet received it. For this purpose I have come to converse with the Lord through the veil.

LORD: You shall receive it, upon the five points of fellowship, through the veil.

*[Still holding the patriarchal grip, the initiate and the person representing the Lord embrace upon the five points of fellowship through the veil. The initiate's left arm passes through the mark of the compass, and the left arm of the person representing the Lord passes through the mark of the square. The person representing the Lord speaks into the initiate's ear the name of the token.]*¹

LORD: What is that?

INITIATE: The second token of the Melchizedek priesthood, the patriarchal grip, or Sure Sign of the Nail.

LORD: Has it a name?

INITIATE: It has.

LORD: Will you give it to me?

INITIATE: I will, upon the five points of fellowship, through the veil.

[The initiate speaks back the name of the token.]

LORD: That is correct.

[The initiate returns to the part in the veil; the worker taps three times with the mallet.]

LORD: What is wanted?

WORKER: Adam, having conversed with the Lord through the veil, desires now to enter his presence.

LORD: Let him enter.

[The initiate is brought through the veil into the Celestial Room.]

¹"Health in the navel, marrow in the bones, strength in the loins and in the sinews. Power in the priesthood be upon me and upon my posterity through all generations of time, and throughout all eternity." See DC 109:24;

THE SEALING ORDINANCE

Sealing-like ordinances in the Bible

Sealing of spouses

[The sealer sits at the head of the altar with two witnesses, one seated at his right and the other at his left. The bride and groom kneel at opposite sides of the altar, facing one another, clothed in the robes of the holy priesthood. They take each other by the right hand in the patriarchal grip.]

SEALER: Brother _____, do you take Sister _____ by the right hand and receive her unto yourself to be your lawfully wedded wife, for time and all eternity, with a covenant and promise that you will observe and keep all the laws, rites, and ordinances pertaining to this holy order of matrimony in the new and everlasting covenant; and this you do in the presence of God, angels, and these witnesses of your own free will and choice?

GROOM: Yes.

SEALER: Sister _____, do you take Brother _____ by the right hand and give yourself to him to be his lawfully wedded wife, and receive him to be your lawfully wedded husband, for time and all eternity, with a covenant and promise that you will observe and keep all the laws, rites, and ordinances pertaining to this holy order of matrimony in the new and everlasting covenant; and this you do in the presence of God, angels, and these witnesses of your own free will and choice?

BRIDE: Yes.

SEALER: By virtue of the holy priesthood and the authority vested in me, I pronounce you, _____ and _____, legally and lawfully husband and wife for time and all eternity; and I seal upon you the blessings of the holy resurrection, with power to come forth in the morning of the first resurrection, clothed¹ in glory, immortality, and eternal lives.

I seal upon you the blessings of kingdoms, thrones, principalities, powers, dominions, and exaltations, with all the blessings of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and say unto you: be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth, that you may have joy and rejoicing in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

All these blessings, together with all the blessings appertaining unto the new and everlasting covenant, I seal upon you by virtue of the holy priesthood, through your faithfulness, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Sealing of children to parents

[Parents and children gather around the altar. Husband and wife take each other by the right hand in the patriarchal grip; the children place their right hands on top of their parents' joined hands.]

SEALER: By the authority of the holy priesthood, I seal you, [the children are named individually], to your father _____ and to your mother _____ for time and all eternity, as an heir [or heirs] as though you were born in the new and everlasting covenant; in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

¹Compare Luke 12:28.

CLIMBING THE RAINBOWS

INTRODUCTION

An introduction to Climbing the Rainbows

Climbing the Rainbows is a series of essays about Latter-day Saint thought. It will present what I believe are some useful ways of thinking about various doctrinal, theological, and cultural issues. More than anything, the essays are a vehicle for me to clarify and develop some views I've entertained off and on over the years. As such, it's really only a collection of opinions, and should be weighed accordingly.

One impetus for CtR (I didn't choose the name for the fortuitous acronym, but you take what you can get) is the glut of people I have seen leaving the LDS church in the last few years. From my perspective, these people are almost always making a serious mistake, and are doing so with a very questionable rationale. While I have encountered some exceptions, these church-leavers usually carry very simplistic and naive assumptions about the church, God, themselves, revelation, the scriptures, and other topics. I almost never—and here there are even fewer exceptions—see these people interrogating those assumptions. The result is that they make life-altering decisions for bad reasons. The least you can do is make those decisions for good reasons! One of the purposes of these essays is to explain some of the assumptions I have seen, and why I think they are wrong.

But that's just a secondary goal. As I said before, the primary purpose of these writings is for me to get clear, for my own sake, about what my own beliefs are, and what grounds they have. This will require ranging fairly widely among many different issues, but that shouldn't be surprising, since one of the most important claims of the restored gospel is its universality, both on and beyond the earth.

I'll try to present the essays in a rough order of logical priority: preliminaries and foundations first, followed by the application of those principles to particular issues. Some of the essays will be about the logical priority itself, and why I think it is the way it is. If we are not taking a principled approach to particular issues, then we increase our chances of making mistakes. But first we have to know what those principles actually are.

With that in mind, on to the essays.

The universality of the gospel

In the introductory essay to this series, I mentioned that future essays would probably range very widely over many different topics. The justification for this, I said, is that the gospel is universal, and so we should expect it to have very broad reach—it influences, and is influenced by, many things. In this second post, I want to talk a little more about that universality, in order to preview some future topics I intend to cover.

The universality of the gospel of Jesus Christ is neither appreciated nor even recognized by most members of the LDS church. Of course, if you asked them, those members would probably say that the gospel applies everywhere in the universe. But affirming that is one thing, while seeing and accepting its extremely significant consequences is something else entirely.

Before getting to some of those consequences, let's state more clearly what we mean by the "universality of the gospel." Here is a conditional statement that I consider true:

If the gospel of Jesus Christ is true, then it is true throughout the entire universe.

We can ignore the temporal aspects of "the entire universe" for now; I'll probably have to take that up in a future essay. All I mean in the consequent, or the "then" half of the conditional statement, is that gospel laws apply everywhere in the universe, including to intelligent beings wherever they exist, either on Earth or elsewhere. Again, I think that many members of the LDS church would accept that idea as true.

(You can already see the extensive ground we need to cover in thinking through the implications of the gospel—we're going to need posts about gospel laws, intelligent beings, other planets, and many other things besides, since even saying "The gospel being true means its laws apply everywhere, to all intelligent beings" is a philosophical claim which we need to explain and justify.)

Accepting the conditional statement above as true has an interesting implication. One of the basic rules of logic for conditional statements is that, if the conditional "If P, then Q" is true, then the conditional "If not-Q, then not-P" is true. Transforming the first conditional into this second one proceeds by a rule called "transposition." So if we apply the rule of transposition to the conditional I gave above, we get a second conditional:

If the gospel of Jesus Christ is not true throughout the entire universe, then it is not true.

You can see that all we've done is to switch the parts of the first conditional, then negate both parts. The resulting conditional might be harder for some people to accept, however, even though it is logically equivalent to the first. This conditional says that if the gospel isn't true universally, then it isn't true at all. Another way of putting the point is to say that the gospel being true throughout the universe is a necessary condition on the gospel being true at all.

I say that this new conditional might be harder to accept than the first because it more clearly reveals what the first commits you to. You're committing yourself to the position that, if there is a place in the universe where the gospel isn't true, then the gospel must be false. But I think accepting these conditionals creates a stronger and more interesting philosophical position than you would get from any of the alternatives. One such alternative might be this position: "While the gospel may be true here on Earth, it could be false elsewhere." Although this view gives you more flexibility than true universality does, I think it's too weak to be desirable or to do justice to claims in the scriptures and from prophets.

So there are two things to note so far about the universal nature of the gospel. The first is that, as I understand "universal" here, it means that the gospel is either true everywhere, or not true at all. Second, on a simple understanding, to say that the gospel is universal means that gospel laws apply everywhere, to all intelligent beings, wherever they are found. (In a later essay, I will introduce the notion of an "implementation" of the gospel on a world, which will develop and sharpen this simple understanding of gospel universality.)

Another point related to the universality of the gospel is the manner in which intelligent beings emerge, or come to be in the first place. The essays in this series are going to take for granted that the theory of organic evolution by natural selection is true. This means that human bodies and, more importantly, human nervous systems, are the products of evolutionary processes. It means further that the bodies and psychological capacities of at least some other intelligent beings, wherever they exist, are also the products of natural evolutionary processes.¹

I will have a great deal to say about evolution later on. I bring it up here only in connection with the gospel's universality. No scientific theory or discovery should have a greater impact on one's thinking about the restored gospel than evolution by natural selection. Many members of the LDS church, and people of faith in general, find it difficult to reconcile this theory with religious belief. But we should accept it without reservation because, perhaps paradoxically, it opens the way to abundant explanatory resources that we do not have access to otherwise.

More to the point here, evolution is the process by which bodies and, for some organisms, nervous systems come to be on Earth and on other planets. Assuming the universality of the gospel, this fact has extremely significant consequences for how we should understand revelation, righteousness, progression, and God's work in general.

Exploring those consequences will be an important part of these essays. To cover all that ground, we're going to have to range through cosmology, physics, biology, psychology, and other fields of science, in addition to reflecting on scientific knowledge in general. We'll also be looking at the scriptures and the words of prophets and apostles. To name just a few of the topics, we'll be doing detailed analyses of gospel laws, the universal extent of the gospel, gospel implementations, eternal gender, and many other issues. The outcomes of these analyses, along with their relations to our scientific understanding of the world, will be an opportunity to expand our minds and rejoice in the great plan of salvation that God has revealed.

In the temple we learn that all truth can be circumscribed into one great whole. In that spirit, a full picture of the gospel—at least, as full a picture as we can achieve—only comes through careful examination of many different truths in many different domains. There is no other way to climb the rainbows.

¹I've phrased it with "at least some other" in order to leave open the possibility that some intelligent beings come from design processes overseen by other intelligent beings. Conscious robots would be an example.

PRELIMINARIES AND PRINCIPLES

Teleological explanations and the teleological fallacy

Introduction

In this essay, I'll be discussing a certain way of explaining things called teleological explanation. I'll also explore a frequently fallacious way of thinking about the gospel which is based on teleological explanations. I call this way of thinking the teleological fallacy. This fallacy is so common and so potentially destructive that I think it needs to be treated early on if we're trying to be systematic about the gospel. It is common because it exploits a very normal heuristic for reasoning; it is destructive because it applies that heuristic in domains where we have little or no reason to believe it will be successful.

Before getting started, I should also say that I am not the first to talk about this fallacy. Others may have spoken about it in the context of thinking about the LDS church—though I'm not aware of anyone who has—but arguments over teleology go back thousands of years, as I'll discuss below. Evolutionary biology in particular has fought some pretty bloody battles over teleology and its use in explaining biological functions.¹ So I am by no means the first to raise this concern, though I rarely see it discussed among LDS believers in these terms.

Design, purpose, and teleology

If you've ever gone house-shopping or apartment-hunting, then you know what it's like to walk through dozens of places looking for one that you could be happy with. You see small and big, dirty and clean, realistic and pipe-dream. Some of those places are already built, but you've probably also toured others that are still under construction or need to be finished.

When you enter an unfinished house, you're walking through the skeleton: the frame is exposed, the studs are visible along the walls, the ceiling is open, and the foundation might be showing in the basement. Even though many of the things that make a building a home aren't there yet, you're still able to recognize the building as a home, because you understand that it was designed to be a home. When you walk into the kitchen area, you see the empty spots between counters as spaces where the fridge and oven will go. You recognize the hole in the wall in the basement as the dryer vent; the many little holes in the ceilings as meant for electrical cables or plumbing; the planed area out back as the future patio.

You understand all these features of the structure because you know that they are there for a purpose. If you didn't know that the building was meant to be a house—or worse, if you didn't even know that the wood and concrete were meant to be a building—than most of what you saw when walking through it would be a mystery. “Who put all these holes in these perfectly good boards?”, you might wonder. “Who filled up this fine pit in the ground with solid rock?” The objects and structures which make up the building are comprehensible because you know that they were designed to perform a certain function; they were made with a certain purpose in mind.

The study of such designs and purposes is called teleology. In ancient Greek, the word telos (τέλος) means “purpose, end, goal,”² so the English word “teleology” refers to the study of purposes. When we reason teleologically, we reason on the basis of purposes and intentions, and then we use what we know about those intentions in order to make sense of something. Teleological reasoning is what allows us to understand that the concrete, wood, and other components of an unfinished house all have a purpose. We recognize that, if there's an empty space in the kitchen, that space must be intended for something—it must have been designed that way, or else it wouldn't be there. After all, who would put a random empty space in the middle of a perfectly good kitchen? No one, since there would be no reason for it—and that's teleology.

Even when we're confronted with an object or situation that stumps us, teleological reasoning is still our fallback. That is, even when we don't know the purpose of something, we still assume that there is a purpose, and if we knew the purpose, we would understand the object. Our commonsense knowledge of people and homes more or less compels us to believe that the builders of the house put things together in certain ways because they had certain purposes and ends in mind.

That last point is key to remember. In many cases, we don't need to know the actual purposes someone had in mind when they made something. All we really need to assume is that there were purposes, and that's enough to get us started on a teleological path. We can start to draw conclusions on that bare assumption: as long as there were certain purposes or intentions, this ends-based reasoning can get off the ground.

Reasoning teleologically is so common in so many different circumstances that you are an absolute professional at doing it, even if no one has ever pointed out exactly what you're doing. Most of the time we don't even recognize that we're ¹ Chapters 2 and 3 of Barrow and Tipler's The Anthropic Cosmological Principle discusses design arguments in detail. Several passages of Dennett's Darwin's Dangerous Idea also deal with teleological explanations and reasons.

² This word can mean lots of other things too, but the sense of “goal” is prominent in ancient philosophical texts.

reasoning teleologically at all because, in many domains of our experience, we can't even imagine not reasoning this way. And in many domains, teleological reasoning is a spectacular success.

Human behavior as a domain of teleological success

I've already hinted at the study of human behavior as a domain where teleological reasoning is incredibly successful. Let's take a closer look at this domain, and why teleological reasoning is so well suited for it.

Suppose you're taking a walk one day and you pass a man digging a hole in his front yard. His waist is already below ground level, so the hole is pretty deep. You wonder what he's up to, and right away your teleological reasoning spins into gear: you start to think of all the reasons why a person would want a hole in their front yard. Maybe he's installing sprinklers? Maybe he's trying to get rid of a deeply-rooted plant?

So you ask the guy. "Hey, what are you digging this hole for? Sprinklers?" "No," he responds, and keeps digging. You try again. "Getting rid of a plant?" "No," he says again. So your mind starts spinning once more, this time proffering reasons that are a little stranger, but would still make sense: digging for gold, exercising, trying to get to China. These reasons are stranger because, in order to make sense, they require the man to believe some dubious things: that there is gold in his yard, that digging a big hole is a convenient way to exercise, that he really could get to China by digging.

Finally you just ask him: "Why are you digging?" "I'm looking for a time capsule my father buried when I was child," he replies. Suddenly it all makes sense. He's been looking for something important to him, and sometimes people will go to great lengths to find things that are important to them, so he had a purpose all along—he had a reason for acting the way he did.

Almost all human behavior works in the same way: motivated by reasons. And this is the reason (no pun intended) why teleological reasoning (again, just a coincidence) works so well—because human activity is chock-full of reasons, intentions, purposes, and motivations. We have these reasons and intentions in mind when we act, and when others understand them, they can use them to make sense of what we believe about the world, what we want, and what our overarching goals might be. And when people can do that, looking at each other teleologically gives us a very powerful perspective for predicting and explaining behavior.¹

It's also important to realize that the teleological picture of behavior can succeed even when people are not consciously entertaining their reasons for acting. The man digging the hole in his yard might be thinking of the time capsule the entire time, reflecting on his father and childhood experiences. But since so many of our activities are routine, we don't always have our reasons for acting at the forefront of our minds—when I drive to work in the morning, I don't have to keep reminding myself, "I'm doing this because I need the money" (or maybe I do, depending on the day). The reasons are still there driving the actions, even if it is happening beneath the surface.

This last point about hidden reasons is crucial because it allows us to extend the domain of teleological reasoning beyond human behavior and into the realm of living things more generally. Dogs, birds, fish, and other organisms act for reasons—the dog scratches at the door because she wants to chase a squirrel outside; the bird builds a nest because it needs a place to lay its eggs; the fish swims away from disturbances in the water because it wants to avoid possible predators. These animals are probably not able to self-consciously reflect on their reasons for acting—certainly they cannot do so through language. But the reasons are still there, making it possible to take a teleological perspective on their behavior as well, which means we can predict and explain what they do in similar ways.²

The general principle we want to draw out is the following: teleological reasoning tends to succeed when the domain we're using it in is populated by reasons, where the "reasons" we're talking about are the products of a design process (more on the design process in the next section). The reasons, as products of a process, tell us why that process was set up in a certain way—that is, they tell us what the process was intended to achieve. Human behavior, and the behavior of other organisms, are domains populated and indeed overrun by reasons; therefore, teleological reasoning tends to succeed in them.

Our general principle may look like a tautology, but it isn't.³ Whether a certain domain is populated by reasons is a discovery we have to make about that domain, involving whether there was some process of design. If and when we are able to make that discovery, then we have good evidence to believe that teleological reasoning will succeed there. But sometimes we make the wrong assumption about the presence of reasons, and this leads to failures of teleology, as we'll see shortly.

Before the failures, though, let's look at a case of reasons involving design, where we have to actually choose between two different sets of reasons. Each set has very different consequences for both how we apply our teleological reasoning, and ¹This way of explaining human behavior is sometimes called "psychological explanation," but psychological explanation also refers to the attribution of mental states more generally, not just intentions or purposes.

²Dennett calls this perspective the "intentional stance."

³A "tautology" is a statement that is true under any interpretation. For example if "A" represents any statement whatever, then "A or not-A" is a tautology, because that whole statement is always true—either statement A by itself is true, or it isn't true, and so it will always be the case that A is either true or false. In general, tautologies are not very interesting exactly because they are always true, and so they don't seem to communicate much to us; they're a bit empty, or just trivially true.

what that reasoning means more broadly.

Organism diversity: a choice between two designs

One of the most striking things about the natural world is how well-suited different organisms are to the life they live. The beaks of birds are exactly fitted to the things they eat; the coats of cold-weather mammals are thick and warm; sharks are streamlined to glide through the water with little resistance in order to catch prey efficiently.

And I've only given a few examples—it's even more striking that these more or less optimal features are present in every organism, no matter where they live or how they behave. And since there are millions of different species and great variety in sub-species as well, some sort of optimization process must have occurred for each and every one of them, making them into the well-built eating and reproducing machines that they are.

Optimization leads to reasons that we can grasp and use in our teleological picture of the world. Why is a polar bear's coat so thick and warm? The reason is that he lives where it is very cold, and needs to be protected from the weather. The reason a shark is so streamlined is that she must catch prey that in most cases is smaller and quicker than her, and so she has to have a fighting chance at getting her fill. By assuming that there has been some sort of optimization for an organism's features—even if that process wasn't completely optimal—we enter a domain populated by reasons and can therefore rely on teleological logic to guide us.

What's interesting about biology is that there are two very clear and very different ways of explaining why these reasons exist. The first option is to believe that God designed each species, or even each organism, and that God's providential design explains why different organisms are so well-suited to their environment.

A number of different things make the God-option for biology very compelling. One is that we often explain other instances of design in other domains by appealing to a process of intelligent or mind-guided design. That's how we explain the intricate design of my house, for example, or of my computer or my car. Those objects were designed by minds with intentions, so we explain their features on that basis. So why not explain biological phenomena in the same way? God as intelligent designer could have optimized the structure and behavior of each organism to match the sort of world they would live in.

The second option, of course, is Darwin's theory of natural selection, or at least some version of it. On this view, we explain the apparent design of the biological world by a process of descent with modification: mutations cause organisms to change their structure or behavior, and when these changes are beneficial they get retained, and over time the changes add up to make it appear as though there was a mind designing the polar bear, when in reality all that happened was that any polar bear-like thing without a warm coat just didn't reproduce enough for his genes to carry on.

From both of these options it follows that there are reasons why organisms are how they are, which means that teleological reasoning is going to work either way. One of Darwin's great achievements was to show how there could be reasons without a mindful designer—and so how teleological reasoning could succeed even when there was no intelligence or mind guiding the reasons-producing process you want to think teleologically about.¹

Thus we're faced with a choice between two options that both give explanations and both provide reasons. How do we decide between them? I'll have a bit more to say about this in a later essay, but the answer is that we have to choose the option which fits better with other things we think we know. In this case, the "other things" include stuff we've learned from geology, molecular biology, and other fields. Both of the options can be made to fit these other theories and facts, but one appears to fit them more naturally and with less stretching.

Biology, then, is a domain so fully populated with reasons that we actually have to decide between two competing accounts of where the reasons come from. Either way, the reasons are the product of a design process, and their presence secures our use of teleological reasoning about both the structure and behavior of living things.

Teleological failures

Other domains of the natural world are not as lucky as biology, and don't enjoy such a wealth of reasons.

Let's take geology as an example—in particular, the attempt to explain why a certain geological feature, like a mountain range, is the way it is. As far as we can tell, there doesn't seem to be any design, either mindful or mindless, involved in the creation and shaping of a mountain range. Instead, the explanation has to do with forces inside the earth, plates and plate tectonics, and so on. None of those processes and events are directed toward any particular purpose, and they aren't being controlled by an intelligence. They just happen, and happen to create features like a mountain range along the way.

On the other hand, it's really easy to see how you could take a teleological perspective on why the earth shows certain surface features. You might think that God created this valley so that we could live in it; thus God either formed the mountains himself or perhaps directed the geological processes in order for them to form the mountains in a certain way. If either of those things were true, then a teleological mode of explanation would be successful in geology. You could walk through the natural world as though you were walking through a half-finished house, seeing designs and purposes and reasons in the placement of different objects. The designs and purposes and reasons would then allow you to give certain explanations and reach certain conclusions teleologically.

¹You might call it Darwin's Dangerous Idea.

Teleological reasoning fails in the domain of geology for at least two reasons: (1) it doesn't fit well with what else we know, and (2) it leads to a bunch of unanswered questions about why God made a volcano explode, why he made such a crappy spot of land, and so on. If you involve God in one explanation, it seems like you might as well involve him in every explanation, since you don't have a principled way of restricting his activities to the small range of things you set out to explain in the first place.

Another domain where teleology fails is celestial mechanics, or the study of planetary and other orbits in our solar system. Many early theories of celestial mechanics (as in a couple thousand years ago or so) made a very crucial assumption: that the earth was at the center of the universe. Some of them made this assumption on the basis of God's design, since for them it was obvious that God would have set the earth at the center of everything else—it's the most important thing in the universe, after all!

Once you make the earth-at-the-center assumption, you have to work to fit everything else in around that—so the moon, the sun, Mars, Jupiter, the stars, and everything else are all going to orbit around the earth, with the earth stationary at the center. It turns out that models which assume the earth is at the center—we can call these "Ptolemaic" models, after Ptolemy, an ancient astronomer whose model was very influential—can be very successful at explaining the apparent motions of the sun and objects in the night sky.

For a long time, it looked as though these design-based models of the solar system were going to stick around forever. But there were small differences in the predictions made by these models and the actual observations. Eventually a sun-centered model came around—the "Copernican" model, after Copernicus, who gave the first thorough account of one—which, over time, were seen to fit the observed data better than the Ptolemaic models.

So the battle between Ptolemaic and Copernican models of the solar system was not just a choice between which object to put at the center of everything, the sun or the earth. It was also a battle over the teleological basis of celestial mechanics, and of all astronomy in general: was it a domain in which reasons, as products of a mindful design process, could be used to explain things? If yes, then it would still be legitimate to invoke God's purposes and intentions when explaining what we see. If not, astronomy would lose the anchor of design and become a domain without intelligent reasons—a domain where teleology would fail.

To make a multi-century story very short, Copernicus won, teleology lost, and the sun is at the center of the solar system (though definitely not at the center of the universe). The sorts of teleological approaches that were available to Ptolemy were closed off (at least to some extent) to Kepler, Descartes, Galileo, Newton, and others who followed Copernicus, and astronomy is now like geology in generally not offering purposes and designs to ground our theories.

The danger in using teleology within a reason-less domain is obvious: we end up imposing design in places where there is none, and so our subsequent teleological reasoning reflects not actual reasons in the world, but instead only reasons we attribute to some domain based on whatever apparent design we think we notice or even dictate. But apparent design is not real design, and the fact that we seem to discern purpose in something is not necessarily evidence that there is purpose in it, or that it was done for certain reasons. And without purpose and reasons, teleology fails.

The teleological fallacy

At long last we come to the teleological fallacy. We've already been discussing it for a while, so no more waiting—time to make it explicit.

The Teleological Fallacy The teleological fallacy is the mistake of inferring that, because something is a certain way, it must have been designed to be that way.

Like I said, we've already seen this fallacy in action. We saw it in geology: we might commit it when we try to explain some feature of the earth's surface. We first observe that a certain feature is a certain way—say, a particular valley is full of fertile soil. Then we infer that, because the valley is that way, it must have been designed to be that way. And so we conclude that God must have made the valley that way, apparently for us. That's the teleological fallacy—simple, right?

We also saw the fallacy in astronomy, and it crops in evolutionary biology as well, when you have to decide whether a certain feature of an organism is a result of selection, or is just a spandrel.¹ Other fields of inquiry face similar challenges.

¹A "spandrel" is a feature that arises not as an adaptation or something that is selected for, but instead as a result of other organizational changes in an organism. See Gould and Lewontin 1979, "The spandrels of San Marco and the Panglossian paradigm: a critique of the adaptationist programme."

There is one place, however, that is much more susceptible to the teleological fallacy than most, and that's the gospel. In reasoning about the gospel, we walk a narrow bridge suspended over a bed of ravenous teleofallacygators,¹ because we're dealing with a domain that really does have design, purposes, and reasons. But since we don't always know where those purposes and reasons are, it's tempting to see design everywhere—permeating the gospel world with reasons—and thereby to help ourselves to teleological explanations for whatever we observe. As I will suggest, though, many such explanations are spurious, because the inferences leading to them have committed the teleological fallacy.

From here on out, then, let's focus on the gospel teleological fallacy. We can state it like this:

The Gospel Teleological Fallacy The gospel teleological fallacy is the mistake of inferring that, because something is a certain way in the gospel, God must have designed it to be that way.

Obviously this version of the fallacy is similar to its non-gospel counterpart. But I think that stating the gospel version forces us to confront more directly the sorts of things that we are liable to commit this fallacy about.

For example, here is a list of what we might call “features” of the gospel, or observations we could make about the way the gospel is:

- The veil of forgetfulness
- Men bearing the priesthood, but not women
- Sealings between men and women
- Humans made in the image of God
- Children being considered as innocent before a certain age
- Temple and ordinance symbolism

Many people in the LDS church—most, I think—would treat these observations like a list of features in a house. Since the features are clearly present, they must have been designed that way. After all, if they weren't designed that way, why would there be there? God would have just done something different; he must have set things up in the way he did for a reason.

I think that's wrong, at least when it comes to the gospel “features” on that list, and probably many more. For these aspects of the gospel, at least, it is not that God designed them this way, as a deliberate choice among several options. Rather, the explanation for them is that God had to set things up that way, because of the physical constraints placed on him in implementing the gospel on this earth.

Let's take the veil of forgetfulness as an example to see what I mean (I will cover the veil in greater detail later on). The “veil of forgetfulness,” or just the “veil” to most people, is the supposed barrier that exists between us and (1) our prior knowledge of and familiarity with God, before coming to this earth, and (2) the disembodied spirits which currently inhabit this earth. The LDS claim is that we lived with God before coming to this earth, but the manifest fact is that we don't remember it. How do we explain the lack of memories, the lack of knowledge, of this previous life? The standard answer is that God placed a “veil” over our minds upon coming to this earth, so that we cannot remember our previous experiences. The veil somehow prevents us from accessing experiences that we really did have and, apparently, ought to be able to remember, were it not for the veil.

The teleological interpretation of the veil then has to go one step farther and say, since God clearly has placed the veil over our minds, he must have had good reasons for doing so. And then we make up reasons for it—usually, that mortal life is more of a test if you don't remember your experiences before you were born on earth.

Beyond the fact that that reason is a very bad one for God to set up the veil (why wouldn't God want to increase our chances of success as much as possible?), the teleological explanation for the veil also ignores the reality of human embodiment—it ignores the fact that humans think, remember, and speak by using a nervous system. And creating a nervous system from the ground up, as every human mother starts to do when she conceives, is expensive and difficult. Including memories of past experiences would require that some physical influence shape the nervous system in the womb and early childhood to carry a record of each individual's pre-earth life. Such a mechanism would have to be customized for each person, and would itself have to carry the record of that person's pre-earth experiences. When you lay it out this way, and actually look at what would be involved in eliminating the “veil,” I think the appeal of the teleological explanation seriously diminishes.

On the other hand, on a less teleological way of thinking, there is a much simpler explanation for the veil. The phenomenon of the veil and our forgetting past experiences come about because of the constraints involved in building a human body that can think by means of natural processes. There simply is no physical mechanism that could leave a record in every human nervous system of each individual's pre-earth experiences. The explanation for the “veil,” therefore, is just that it is the expected result of creating human bodies through biological processes; it is false that God caused us to forget our previous experiences because of some purpose the forgetting would serve. Rather, we had to forget, and that constraint wasn't one that was chosen or superable by God.

The explanation I just gave for the veil is called a “naturalistic explanation.” I will be giving more of them, and will write an essay specifically dedicated to them. Naturalistic explanations do not impute design where there may not be any, or where we have reason to believe there isn't. The absence of design is one of the reasons many people don't like naturalistic explanations for features of the gospel, but as I will argue later, naturalistic explanations ought to be preferred over teleological explanations, in most cases, when we can get them.

¹Unfortunately, not real.

In fact, one way of viewing this entire series of essays is as an attempt to solve this exact problem: how do we reconcile the apparent purpose-driven nature of the gospel, alongside related scriptural and prophetic commentary, with the rest of what we know about the world? I believe a satisfying reconciliation is possible, and will try to make the case for it.

The structural fallacy

Teleological explanations and the teleological fallacy

In the previous essay, I discussed teleological explanations and the teleological fallacy. A teleological explanation is any explanation that makes sense of an object or event by referring to its purpose, design, or the reason for which it was created. So say I'm driving along one day and see someone in front of me with their right blinker on. I explain what they're doing teleologically by referring to the purpose they must have in mind: they're going to turn right.

Teleological explanations work in domains where there are designs and reasons. Human behavior is one such area; biology is another. But teleological explanations fail or at least aren't usually appropriate in domains where there aren't designs and reasons. In the last essay I mentioned that astronomy is an example of such a domain.

That point about teleological explanations led us to the teleological fallacy: the mistake of inferring that, because something is a certain way, it must have been designed to be that way. We're particularly susceptible to this fallacy when reasoning about the gospel, and so I also distinguished the gospel teleological fallacy: the mistake of inferring that, because something is a certain way in the gospel, God must have designed it to be that way. I gave some examples of things we might reason about where this fallacy would be tempting. Like I said before, I'll be covering some of those things in greater detail later on.

In this essay, though, I'm going to extend the gospel teleological fallacy into (yet) another one, which I'll call the structural fallacy, or gospel structural fallacy. I'll state it here and then discuss it:

The Gospel Structural Fallacy The gospel structural fallacy is the fallacy of inferring that, since God appears to have designed something in a certain manner, that manner therefore reflects a true aspect of the plan of salvation's structure, or some aspect of the structure of eternity.

Explaining the structural fallacy

The second half of the structural fallacy may be a bit tricky to understand. By "a true aspect of the plan of salvation's structure," I mean some fact about the way the plan of salvation is set up: for example, that there are three kingdoms of glory, or that a person has to be sealed in order to enter into the highest degree of the celestial kingdom. I think of facts like those as facts about the structure of the plan of salvation, or again, about the way it is set up or proceeds. By "some aspect of the structure of eternity" I mean the same thing, except that this latter way of putting it pushes us beyond the bounds of the plan of salvation to think of how things are set up in the very very long run, such as after a person is exalted. If for some reason an exalted person must eat cake for breakfast every day, then the mandatory cake-eating would be part of the structure of eternity. More serious parts of eternity's structure would (probably) include things like family relationships and having power to control matter in certain ways.

I do still hope there's cake though.

The teleological fallacy and the structural fallacy

Now let's think about how the structural fallacy works. First, look at it in relation to the teleological fallacy. The gospel teleological fallacy makes one inference: from the fact that something is a certain way, to the claim that God must have designed it to be that way. The structural fallacy then picks up where the teleological fallacy leaves off—it begins from the claim that God must have designed the thing to be that way. Then it makes one more inferential step and concludes that, because God designed the thing that way, the thing therefore reflects something about the plan of salvation, the structure of eternity, or maybe even the universe itself.

In the previous essay I gave a short list of things we might be tempted to commit the teleological fallacy about. One was the fact that men bear the priesthood, but not women. So someone might make the following inference:

Men bear the priesthood, but not women.	→	Therefore, God intended (designed, purposed) only men to bear the priesthood, and not women.
---	---	--

(The → symbol means something like “Therefore” or “It follows that.”) That first diagram just illustrates the teleological fallacy. The structural fallacy then goes further, and in diagram form it would look like this:

God intended only men to bear the priesthood, and not women.	→	Therefore, it is a feature of the plan of salvation in the long run that only men bear the priesthood, and not women (or, it will always be true that only men bear the priesthood, and not women).
--	---	---

When we compare these two fallacies, we can see that the structural fallacy begins where the teleological fallacy ends. It then takes one more step to conclude something about the nature of eternity itself. The rules of logic¹ allow us to put the two fallacies together into one, like this:

Men bear the priesthood, and not women.	→	Therefore, it is a feature of the plan of salvation in the long run that only men bear the priesthood, and not women (or, it will always be true that only men bear the priesthood, and not women).
---	---	---

This sort of reasoning goes from an observation of the way things are, to a conclusion about what they are like in the very long run, or what they are like in eternity. In this representation we’ve just skipped the middle step of teleological reasoning.

What justifies a structural inference?

So far I’ve only been referring to the structural fallacy, but we should remember that not every structural inference has to be a fallacy. Here’s one that may not be a fallacy:

We live in family units on Earth.	→	Therefore, it is a feature of the plan of salvation in the long run that we will live in family units (or, it will always be true that we live in family units).
-----------------------------------	---	--

Suppose this one isn’t a fallacy (I’m not sure whether it is). If it isn’t a fallacy, then it’s just an example of what we could call structural reasoning or a structural inference. Just as there are instances of teleological reasoning which succeed or are good, there are probably instances of structural reasoning which are good too. Not every example of structural reasoning needs to be a fallacy.

In the previous essay on teleological reasoning, we discussed how teleological inferences might fail. In particular, they’re risky and prone to failure in domains where no design processes have been acting, like astronomy. No design processes means no intention-based reasons, and so teleological reasoning will probably fail. In domains that do have reasons, teleological inferences might be good ones. We could also say that they would be justified in such a domain, or that the presence of reasons justifies the general use of teleological reasoning.

In the same way, we can also ask what justifies a structural inference. Teleological inferences need reasons, but what do structural inferences need? Let’s remind ourselves of the structural inference we saw earlier, which begins with a teleological statement:

God intended only men to bear the priesthood, and not women.	→	Therefore, it is a feature of the plan of salvation in the long run that only men bear the priesthood, and not women (or, it will always be true that only men bear the priesthood, and not women).
--	---	---

¹This rule is called “hypothetical syllogism.”

What would it take for this inference to be a good one—what would it take to justify it? The left side is a statement about God’s intention or design, and the whole thing asks us to believe the conclusion (the right side) on the basis of the left side. In other words, this inference presents a conclusion and offers the left side as the evidence for that conclusion. Because God intended only men to bear the priesthood, on that basis we are supposed to have evidence that it will always be true that only men will bear the priesthood.

Here’s one way of explaining how this inference could be good, or how the statement on the left could really be evidence for the one on the right: the inference would be good when God looks at the structure of eternity, and then decides his intention based on that structure. So imagine God looks down the road into eternity and sees that only men will be able to bear the priesthood. Recognizing this aspect of eternity, God therefore purposes to only give men the priesthood. If this were true, the inference from God’s intention to the structure of eternity would be a good one. The justification would be that God is acting according to the constraints he perceives, and so our inferences involving those constraints are reliable.

That isn’t the only way that the inference could be good, though. It could also be good because, rather than being constrained by the structure of eternity, God just wants only men to have the priesthood. If that were true, it would be easy to see why the inference is a good one—if we knew that God wanted only men to have the priesthood, and that he intended only men to have the priesthood by giving it only to them, it would be reasonable to conclude that only men will have it in the long run. The structural inference would be justified.

Notice that we’ve just identified two different ways of justifying the same inference. One way requires an assumption about some constraint that God sees; another way requires an assumption about God’s will. The inference is good on either assumption, but it’s good for a different reason. That point is really important, and I’ll talk about it more in the next essay.

Some (possible) examples of the structural fallacy

So now we know when a structural inference might be good and not just a fallacy. Let’s mention some other possible examples.

Take the fact that very few women appear in the LDS canon of scripture, and very very few in restoration scripture, such as the Book of Mormon. Someone—not you, of course—could reason like this: “I observe that few women appear in restoration scripture. It therefore must be that God intended for few women to appear. On that basis, it must therefore be that women don’t play a large role in the plan of salvation (or eternity) at large.” In that line of reasoning, the first “therefore” marks a teleological inference, and the second “therefore” marks a structural inference.

Now that inference won’t look very good to most people. Fundamentalists might like it, but everyone else will recognize right away that there’s a simple way to challenge the inference—you just give the obvious alternative explanation. If you’re a fundamentalist and it has not occurred to you yet, it’s that the writers of the scriptures were all men, and so tended to focus on themselves or other men involved in the events they wrote about. Since we know the writers of the scriptures were men, if it were also true that they tended to have a biased focus, then that line of reasoning wouldn’t be very strong.

We’ll call that alternative explanation a naturalistic one, because it refers only to the natural order of things, or how the natural world is (people are part of the natural world, in case you forgot). For most people, the naturalistic explanation will be preferable, because otherwise you attribute to God some weird inclination to disappear women from the scriptures, and why would he do that? It wouldn’t make much sense, so the alternative explanation has a lot of appeal. (In keeping with the pattern I’ve already set, let me mention here that I’ll have more to say about naturalistic explanations in the future.)

Another possible example is the priesthood organization of the church. There is a president, a first presidency, a quorum of twelve apostles, several quorums of seventy, presidents of those seventies, and so on. Then you’ve got auxiliary presidencies and everything else. Observing this organization, one might infer that God intended things to be organized that way, and then might further infer that things will always be like that—that there will always be a president, apostles, and so on.

For some people, this inference will look more attractive than the one about women and the scriptures. If you think of heads of families as occupying positions of priesthood leadership (I’m referring to both men and women here), then it might seem even more reasonable. But it might also be an instance of the structural fallacy.

One place we’ll be sure not to commit the fallacy is in thinking about the veil of forgetfulness, which we’ve mentioned before. Even if it were true that God intended for us to have the veil, it wouldn’t follow that the veil is a feature of eternity. It’s supposed to be temporary, after all. We aren’t prone to committing the structural fallacy here, because we have other reasons for thinking that the “structure” isn’t permanent.

The teleological and structural fallacies: locating the error

Two more sections in this essay, and then we’ll move on to the next.

First, a word about the teleological and structural fallacies together. So far we've seen many examples of a common pattern of reasoning. It goes like this:

Observation → Teleological statement → Structural statement

The pattern starts with some observation relevant to the gospel. It then moves from that observation to a teleological statement, or a statement involving God's intention or design or will. Then it goes from there to a structural statement, about how things are or will be in eternity.

Here's the reason I've been so careful in describing this reasoning: most errors involving the structural fallacy are really errors involving the teleological fallacy. That is, if you've got a structural conclusion that seems wrong, odds are the bad inference occurs not in going from the teleological statement to the structural one, but in going from the observation to the teleological statement. When you make that error to start with, the structural fallacy is then like making one more mistake on top of another. But the original and most serious mistake is not in going from the teleological point to the structural one—it happens earlier than that.

On the other hand, however, most of the time we do happen to notice the error in reasoning when we go from the teleological to the structural. That's because the further inference tends to draw out the true consequences of the teleological inference, and when we find the consequences unacceptable, we reject the inference. But we often reject it at the step going from the teleological to the structural, when the real mistake happens before that. The real error is the teleological fallacy, and that is where we need to reject the inference—we shouldn't even allow the inferential chain to get started. But if we don't separate them out as I have here, we won't see where the real error is. We'll just think it's wherever we happened to notice it.

So take this inference again:

Men bear the priesthood, and not women. → Therefore, it is a feature of the plan of salvation in the long run that only men bear the priesthood, and not women (or, it will always be true that only men bear the priesthood, and not women).

We start with the observation and end with a structural statement. If we didn't like that conclusion, we might think that the argument committed the structural fallacy. But we now know that the argument as set up here hides its own middle step:

Men bear the priesthood, but not women. → Therefore, God intended (designed, purposed) only men to bear the priesthood, and not women.

The middle step is the teleological one. I'm suggesting that the true error here is at the teleological step, not at the structural one. In other words, we shouldn't even make the teleological inference. But we can't see that unless we've distinguished between the two steps, and between their corresponding fallacies, well enough to tell them apart and understand how they work together.

Why the teleological and structural fallacies are important

The next and final point is on why these fallacies are so important to recognize.

The answer is simple: in the LDS church, both of them are extremely common! There is so much organization, so much bureaucracy, so many programs, and so much of everything else, almost all backed by leaders considered to be inspired, that you start to think there must really be something to all that organization after all. You start to think the programs or the hierarchy are modeled after some higher or more lasting reality, such as an aspect of eternity or some deep part of the plan of salvation. I have even heard people speculate, in all seriousness, about whether there would be home teaching in the celestial kingdom!

Religious believers in general can sometimes be guilty of finding meaning and purpose where there is none, and given their belief in God, it's easy for them to attribute those meanings and purposes to God. This gives the purposes they've discerned a more lasting feel, as though they were latching onto deeper principles. And LDS believers, with their expanded canon of scripture, array of local and international leaders, and emphasis on personal revelation, may find it even harder to avoid these fallacies.

The first step to not making these errors is to identify them and bring them out in the open. That's what I've done here and in the previous essay. Seeing the fallacies in action also highlights the need for alternative modes of explanation in understanding gospel phenomena. I'll begin exploring one of those alternative modes next.

Strong and weak senses of design

Sense	Statement	Interpretation / Explanation	Design?
#1	Men bear the priesthood, and not women.	God could have given the priesthood to anyone, including women, but he willed to give it to men only, for either no reason at all or for reasons we can never know or understand.	Strongest
#2	Men bear the priesthood, and not women.	God could have given the priesthood to anyone, including women, but he chose to gave it to men instead, knowing them to be more capable/required to serve others/etc.	Stronger
#3	Men bear the priesthood, and not women.	God looked down the road into eternity and recognized that only men are able to bear the priesthood; he therefore could not have given it to anyone, and therefore made men the bearers of the priesthood, and not women.	Weak
#4	Men bear the priesthood, and not women.	God would have given the priesthood to everyone. He looked at human society in 1829, however, and saw that men were in charge of most things, and that many people would neither accept nor even consider legitimate a religion which gave priesthood and leadership roles to women. Knowing the needs of the early church, he therefore could not have given it to anyone, at least at that time, and so made men the bearers of the priesthood.	Weak

We'll start with sense #1. This is the very strongest understanding of God's "design" in giving only men the priesthood—according to this one, God just wanted to, and we may not get further explanation. The difference between "for either no reason at all" and "for reasons we can never know or understand" is important, because the latter implies that there are reasons, even if we can't know them. We'll talk about that difference in a couple posts. The most important thing here is that sense #1 is like the placement of the our friend's kitchen island anywhere in her house, except it's even less restricted than that. God could have done anything, and almost by caprice chose to make men the bearers of the priesthood.

Now sense #2. It's similar to the first sense, but look at what has changed—the interpretation now includes reference to other things outside of God, and we can know what they are. The sense of design here is still very strong, because God had many options, but there is a weak constraint acting on God's choice.¹ This is more analogous to the location of the sink and oven constraining our friend in her placement of the island—she still had many options, but fewer than before.

Sense #3 introduces the first real physical constraint on this list, and as we know from our example of the boulder and the semicircle, physical constraints suggest a weaker sense of design. On this understanding, God looks at the structure of eternity, sees some kind of constraint, and makes a choice on that basis. The physical constraint determines the design choice; for some reason, it couldn't have been otherwise.² This situation has a counterpart with our friend's house, in constructing the kitchen with a semicircle to accommodate the physical constraint of the boulder. The physical constraint makes it a weak sense of design.

talk about sense #1, and then connect/transition to the rest of the paragraph below, then move on an extremely important point here is to make sure we distinguish what we mean by "design" when talking about God—since God bestowed the priesthood on JS, of course he "designed" or "intended," in a certain sense, that only men receive it. But when we're talking about the teleological fallacy we are talking about a stronger sense of "design"—it's more like, the sense we mean is almost as though God had a choice among several options, and he chose the one he did for certain reasons—either because he just wanted to, or in this case, because it might reflect something about the structure of the plan of salvation. If he were NOT bound by that structure, he could STILL be bound by OTHER constraints, such as what human civilization is like and what people are like, and could therefore "design" (in the weak sense) that only men receive it. But these are very different reasons behind the design—the constraint comes from a totally different place and they are of different strengths and different durations.

design gets weaker -> indicates that you are dealing less and less with an aspect of eternity, with the structure of eternity connect to teleological fallacy? the likelihood of the teleological and structural fallacies increases as the sense of design becomes weaker; as we go down the rows of this table, we are more likely to commit those fallacies.

¹The "constraint" is false, which is one among several reasons to reject this interpretation.

²If this were true, you would wonder why the structure of eternity was like that; what could the reason be? If we don't have an answer, we're in a position similar to that of the first sense, where God is acting on unknowable reasons.

Varieties of constraint

"physical constraints" doesn't just include stuff in physics, it's human psychology, how civilizations work, everything like that. Very important to have this broad understanding of what a physical constraint is. note that the stuff about human psychology and civilizations and things have to be UNAVOIDABLE FACTS ABOUT HOW THINGS WORK in order to count as physical constraints; if it's local to one person or something, then it doesn't count as a physical constraint. but we need something like a rank ordering of how strong/lasting the constraints are; how much weight they carry in eternity, you might say. Any design that involves physical constraints is by definition weak. And you then rank order the designs within the physical constraints by how strong/lasting the constraints are: if the constraints are MORE PHYSICAL or MORE BASIC, such as the laws of physics or chemistry, then you have stronger design that we still classify as weak. If the constraints are LESS PHYSICAL, LESS BASIC, or have more to do with the facts of biology and psychology, then you get into the weakest of the weak designs. It's even weaker, maybe the weakest, when you are talking about the characteristics of a particular time, place, culture, people, group, or something like that. There's a rank order within designs that have to do with people too. In the table above, we reject sense #2 because what it says about men compared to women is just false.

Varieties of constraint in the gospel

you might think that the structure helps us understand the reason why god created something a certain way. so if there is some cosmic necessity behind something, then that's a necessary structural part of the plan of salvation, and so God designed it that way because he really didn't have a choice. this is a very tempting way of thinking and also a significant source of error, because we usually don't distinguish clearly enough the grand, cosmic necessities (whatever they are) from the contingent necessities (if you will) that arise in this implementation of the plan of salvation. The former are structural aspects of the plan or universe; the latter are not, but do force God to set up the plan a certain way in this (or any) implementation of the gospel. I will return to this topic in a later essay, as it is extremely important. See the paragraph in 0004, structural fallacy, about explaining how a structural inference could be good. Structural inferences fail when the constraints aren't deep or lasting

On the possibility of physical constraints for God need to talk about the very possibility that God is subject to physical constraints in the first place—this is not a traditional view of Christianity and it is one of the most important innovations of the restoration. That it is even possible for God to be constrained in this way is a very important philosophical development. The other way of thinking about it is, God just wills certain things to be a certain way

REVELATION

THE WORLD

SPIRITS

LAWS

THE NATURE OF GOD

THE NATURE OF MAN

THE PLAN OF SALVATION

OTHER TOPICS

BOOK NOTES

Slow Productivity (CAL NEWPORT)

See my one-page summary notes here. The notes below are just a copy-paste from those.

1. DO FEWER THINGS.

- (a) “Strive to reduce your obligations to the point where you can easily imagine accomplishing them with time to spare. Leverage this reduced load to more fully embrace and advance the small number of projects that matter most” (46–47).
- (b) Limit the number of overall projects you have. This comes from limiting missions.
- (c) Overhead tax: The ongoing administrative tasks, like email and meetings, associated with certain projects.
- (d) Minimize overhead tax by choosing projects carefully.
- (e) Don’t accept any “task engines,” or projects that generate tasks and overhead taxes endlessly.
- (f) Slack is the enemy.

2. WORK AT A NATURAL PACE.

- (a) “Don’t rush your most important work. Allow it instead to unfold along a sustainable timeline, with variations in intensity, in settings conducive to brilliance” (94–95).
- (b) Fit creative work into a flourishing existence—not the other way around.
- (c) Your effort is not an obstacle to a life well-lived—it is part of it.

3. OBSESS OVER QUALITY.

- (a) “Obsess over the quality of what you produce, even if this means missing opportunities in the short term. Leverage the value of these results to gain more and more freedom in your efforts over the long term” (138).
- (b) “Don’t ever write for radio.”
- (c) “You should be focused on the quality of what you produce because quality turns out to be connected in unexpected ways to our desire to escape pseudo-productivity and embrace something slower” (140).

4. THE COGNITIVE EFFORT REQUIRED FOR SIGNIFICANT ACHIEVEMENTS IS not BUSY-NESS; IN FACT, THAT EFFORT IS incompatible WITH BUSY-NESS.

- (a) “Obsessing over quality often demands that you slow down, as the focus required to get better is simply not compatible with busyness” (140).
- (b) “Working with unceasing intensity is artificial and unsustainable...it estranges us from our fundamental nature, generates misery, and, from a strictly economic perspective, almost certainly holds us back from reaching our full capabilities” (100).

5. You must take a long-term view of your efforts. The goal is legacy-building accomplishments, which take time to develop.

- (a) Real productivity is ultimately measured in the long-term, over long periods of time.
- (b) “Modest results over time. The path is long.”
- (c) “Because if you put a drop in a bucket every day, after three hundred and sixty-five days, the bucket’s going to have some water in it...This is what ultimately matters: where you end up, not the speed at which you get there, or the number of people you impress with your jittery busyness along the way” (172).

6. You must to define measures of actual productivity for any project you work on.

- (a) Pseudo-productivity: “The use of visible activity as the primary means of approximating actual productive effort” (23–24).
- (b) Understand what pseudo-productivity is for any given project.
- (c) Work doesn’t count unless it’s actual productivity—deep work on meaningful projects you have chosen.

7. Irresponsibility requires eternal vigilance.

- (a) Always quiet-quit. Nothing extra.

8. Planfully approach each project, and don’t rush.

- (a) You have to make time each day for slow productivity and deep work.
- (b) Have a weekly planning session.
- (c) If you are planning and trying your best, you are progressing. Be ok with going slow.

9. Develop rituals and locations associated with deep work and the right kind of distraction-free focus.

- (a) Find and develop seasonal rituals and practices to allow yourself to work in a natural rhythm.
- (b) Rituals and locations are for inducing certain psychological states.
- (c) The power of rituals “is found not in the specifics of their activities but in the transformative effect these activities have on the mind. The more striking and notable the behaviors, the better chance they have of inducing useful changes” (130).
- (d) “Ensure your rituals are sufficiently striking to effectively shift your mental state into something more supportive of your goals” (131).
- (e) What are the physical spaces where you work? How do they affect you?
- (f) How can you configure those physical spaces to benefit you?

10. You must commit to doing something very well; you must obsess over quality.

- (a) “All of us who do creative work, we get into it because we have good taste...But it’s like there’s a gap. That for the first couple years that you’re making stuff, what you’re making, isn’t so good...it’s not quite that good...If you’re just starting off and you’re entering into that phase, you gotta know it’s totally normal and the most important possible thing you can do is do a lot of work...Put yourself on a deadline so that every week or every month you know you’re gonna finish one story...It’s only by actually going through a volume of work that you’re actually going to catch up and close that gap, and the work you’re making will be as good as your ambitions” (146).
- (b) “To those just beginning their careers...keep putting in the work, as it’s only through this deliberate effort that the gap will close” (147).
- (c) “When you spend two years reading and critiquing and admiring work by other young writers pushing their prose in new and interesting directions, your standards for what writing can achieve sharpen....there’s a reason why MFA programs are so common among successful writers: they provide an effective training regimen for literary taste” (147–148).

11. Develop your taste by intaking high-quality material from many different fields as often as you’re able.

- (a) Getting to know fields other than your own is crucial for creativity.
- (b) Learn to develop good taste in other fields.

12. In all your projects, bet on yourself—this means, be confident enough to push them forward boldly.

- (a) “Betting on yourself in this manner—with nontrivial stakes for failure but attractive rewards for success—is a good general strategy for pushing the quality of your work to a new level”(160).
- (b) You are either capable, or can become capable.

13. In what ways are digital devices stopping or distracting you?

- (a) Devices are instruments of pseudo-productivity and overhead taxes.
- (b) Configure your computer to minimize distractions, including email and text notifications.

GUIDANCE AND MOTIVATION

YOUR LIFE

Living the life of your dreams

0001 | Peter Keating on the courage to live the life you want

Katie...for six years...I thought of how I'd ask your forgiveness some day. And now I have the chance, but I won't ask it. It seems...it seems beside the point. I know it's horrible to say that, but that's how it seems to me. It was the worst thing I ever did in my life—but not because I hurt you. I did hurt you, Katie, and maybe more than you know yourself. But that's not my worst guilt. ...Katie, I wanted to marry you. It was the only thing I ever really wanted. And that's the sin that can't be forgiven—that I hadn't done what I wanted. It feels so dirty and pointless and monstrous, as one feels about insanity, because there's no sense to it, no dignity, nothing but pain—and wasted pain. ...Katie, why do they always teach us that it's easy and evil to do what we want and that we need discipline to restrain ourselves? It's the hardest thing in the world—to do what we want. And it takes the greatest kind of courage. I mean, what we really want. As I wanted to marry you. Not as I want to sleep with some woman or get drunk or get my name in the papers. Those things—they're not even desires—they're things people do to escape from desires—because it's such a big responsibility, really to want something. (The Fountainhead, 598–599)

0002 | John Galt on reaching the life you envision

In that world, you'll be able to rise in the morning with the spirit you had known in your childhood: that spirit of eagerness, adventure and certainty which comes from dealing with a rational universe. No child is afraid of nature; it is your fear of men that will vanish, the fear that has stunted your soul, the fear you acquired in your early encounters with the incomprehensible, the unpredictable, the contradictory, the arbitrary, the hidden, the faked, the irrational in men. You will live in a world of responsible beings, who will be as consistent and reliable as facts; the guarantee of their character will be a system of existence where objective reality is the standard and the judge. Your virtues will be given protection, your vices and weaknesses will not. Every chance will be open to your good, none will be provided for your evil. What you'll receive from men will not be alms, or pity, or mercy, or forgiveness of sins, but a single value: justice. And when you'll look at men or at yourself, you will feel, not disgust, suspicion and guilt, but a single constant: respect.

Such is the future you are capable of winning. It requires a struggle; so does any human value. All life is a purposeful struggle, and your only choice is the choice of a goal. Do you wish to continue the battle of your present or do you wish to fight for my world? Do you wish to continue a struggle that consists of clinging to precarious ledges in a sliding descent to the abyss, a struggle where the hardships you endure are irreversible and the victories you win bring you closer to destruction? Or do you wish to undertake a struggle that consists of rising from ledge to ledge in a steady ascent to the top, a struggle where the hardships are investments in your future, and the victories bring you irreversibly closer to the world of your moral ideal, and should you die without reaching full sunlight, you will die on a level touched by its rays? Such is the choice before you. Let your mind and your love of existence decide.

The last of my words will be addressed to those heroes who might still be hidden in the world, those who are held prisoner, not by their evasions, but by their virtues and their desperate courage. My brothers in spirit, check on your virtues and on the nature of the enemies you're serving. Your destroyers hold you by means of your endurance, your generosity, your innocence, your love—the endurance that carries their burdens—the generosity that responds to their cries of despair—the innocence that is unable to conceive of their evil and gives them the benefit of every doubt, refusing to condemn them without understanding and incapable of understanding such motives as theirs—the love, your love of life, which makes you believe that they are men and that they love it, too. But the world of today is the world they wanted; life is the object of their hatred. Leave them to the death they worship. In the name of your magnificent devotion to this earth, leave them, don't exhaust the greatness of your soul on achieving the triumph of the evil of theirs. Do you hear me...my love?

In the name of the best within you, do not sacrifice this world to those who are its worst. In the name of the values that keep you alive, do not let your vision of man be distorted by the ugly, the cowardly, the mindless in those who have never achieved his title. Do not lose your knowledge that man's proper estate is an upright posture, an intransigent mind and a step that travels unlimited roads. Do not let your fire go out, spark by irreplaceable spark, in the hopeless swamps of the approximate, the not-quite, the not-yet, the not-at-all.

Do not let the hero in your soul perish, in lonely frustration for the life you deserved, but have never been able to reach. Check your road and the nature of your battle. The world you desired can be won, it exists, it is real, it is possible, it's yours.

But to win it requires your total dedication and a total break with the world of your past, with the doctrine that man is a sacrificial animal who exists for the pleasure of others. Fight for the value of your person. Fight for the virtue of your pride. Fight for the essence of that which is man: for his sovereign rational mind. Fight with the radiant certainty and the absolute rectitude of knowing that yours is the Morality of Life and that yours is the battle for any achievement, any value, any grandeur, any goodness, any joy that has ever existed on this earth.

You will win when you are ready to pronounce the oath I have taken at the start of my battle—and for those who wish to know the day of my return, I shall now repeat it to the hearing of the world: “I swear—by my life and my love of it—that I will never live for the sake of another man, nor ask another man to live for mine.” (Atlas Shrugged)

Energy, youth, and power

0001 | Pook’s “Fountain of Youth”

Rejoice!

And be glad! All those frustrations, all those hesitations, the nervousness, the burning, the butterflies of unease, the confusions, and the errors that manifest itself when your mind says “Do this” and your body and personality do not follow—all of these can be washed away...forever.

Yes, you thought yourself ignorant about women, so inexperienced, so confused, and you just seemed to be following an evil circle. Maybe you were like me, a super mega dork who slept through life until now. And, perhaps like I did, you read and reread all material on women and life you could get your hands on.

But what if I told you that you were always a Don Juan at one point in time? And I do not mean in a specific situation or hour, I mean at one point in your life you KNEW EVERYTHING ABOUT WOMEN and handled them WITH PERFECT EASE, so perfect that it was 100% NATURAL and if anyone told you to view a website or books for ‘information’ you would laugh yourself silly!

Wouldn’t that change everything? Wouldn’t you say to yourself, “Well! If I was the PERFECT Don Juan then I would try to remember how I THOUGHT and what I DID when I WAS that Don Juan rather than mine endless posts and books. After all, if I WAS a Don Juan, then I require only recollection NOT revelation.”

Go find a picture of yourself when you were a young kid (say at age 6). Look at him! He is smiling gleefully without a care in the world. He doesn’t know he is going to turn into the sad adult that you are now. Hormonally, the only difference between you and your youthful shadow is that you are flooded in testosterone and in a state of chemical madness. Your youthful shadow knows better of the joys of life. It is no wonder parents find their offspring such a wonder as they reframe the dull life of bills, appointments, and responsibilities with the fire of youth.

Yes, you say that you are an adult now. You have responsibilities such as bills and chores and work to do. You have no time for such nonsense. Or do you?

I bet when you were a kid, you were a natural Don Juan. I bet you got all the girls in the sandbox. As a child, you knew how to treat women better than even though you are now an adult. Some of these factors include that you...

- Knew girls and guys were different.

Trendy intellectuals have this problem today! You KNEW there was MALE and FEMALE.

- Realized girls had cooties and could destroy a guy.

This isn’t too far off as girls can totally devour and destroy a man and his life.

- Knew that it was improper to be girlish. You would (and ought to) get beaten up on the playground.

Older people get an error in the brain called PHILOSOPHY that speaks bubble swelled words like ‘relativity’, ‘revolution’, freedom’ and pop with the scent of rotten eggs of pious moralizations, bumper sticker arguments, and rambling dissertations. You knew, at an early age that YOU CANNOT FREE YOURSELF FROM GENDER.

- Girls were not to be taken seriously. After all, they are girls.

It is the nice guy that takes the woman seriously in every and all things AND CANNOT SAY NO TO HER!

- Girls were to be guided, teased, because, after all, they were girls and, as such, tended to mess things up. You pulled their hair, made fun of their clothes...

...not because an internet guy named DeAngelo told you to do so, but because you knew instinctively that it was right and proper for you to do.

- As a boy, you would never leave the plans up to the woman. Oh, that would be awful! As a kid, you had to say WHAT you two were going to do, WHEN, WHERE, and sometimes WHY. You had to be direct.

“Why do I need a plan, Pook? Why can’t we do what SHE wants to do?” Because she has no idea what she wants to do. Example:

“When do you want to come over?”

“I don’t know.”

“On Tuesday or Thursday?”

"I just don't know."

"How about Wednesday? Is that OK for you?"

"Maybe..."

"What about Tuesday or Friday?"

"I dunno!"

aggravated "Argh! I am coming to pick you up at 7:45 PM on Wednesday."

sweetly "OK!"

-You did not get into serious talks with a girl. You did not turn her into Oprah. You did not try to impress her with how 'intellectual' you are. You probably hit her, cried "Tag!", ran off, and she would chase after you. You would get on the swings. You would push her off the slides. On the see-saw, you would try to fall as fast as possible to catapult her away.

Everything you did with a girl was ACTION dates. Nice Guys try to cook the lady dinner. YOU wouldn't even DARE do such a thing when you were young. Now I know why some of my best dates are ones as simple as taking the girl to the park and run around like little kids. Action! Action! Action!

-As a kid you loved to sing. You loved to laugh.

What do you do now? You are so uptight that you wouldn't catch yourself dead singing outside your home. And what happened to that happy laughter that marked your childhood? Why are you taking everything so seriously now!?

-You had toys and loved to play with them. When the girls entered your sphere, you insisted on playing with YOUR toys. You would ride your bike at death defying speeds. You played with cranes and Tonka dump trucks. You LOVED firetrucks.

When you grow up, your Hot Wheels cars turn into super fast sport cars (which you still drive at death defying speeds). Your cranes and dump trucks turn into the big ones and you still love the firetrucks. Compare this to the Nice Guy who does not understand the beauty of construction or get scared at the idea of firetrucks. There is a reason why women LOVE firemen.

-You embraced your imagination. If you played with a girl, it was to be on your terms. You will not find a boy that says to a girl, "Whatever YOU want to do." I remember flicking caterpillars on girls (and they loved it!). You would point to the girl and go, "You are the detective and I am the cop." And then you pointed to others and go, "Look at these villains! Come, we must round them up!" And the girls joyfully played the part.

What do you do NOW? "Let's go get dinner." BORING.

-You had one eternal enemy in childhood, boredom. Like a void, it encroached on you in school, ensnared you with a stupid trip with the parents, and enveloped you as you stepped on the school bus. You embraced every chance for play.

If there is ONE thing a man must NEVER do to a woman, it is this: DO NOT BORE HER. Make her happy, make her angry, make her laugh, ANYTHING but bore her. That enemy, boredom, is back and women are looking for you to strike it down. Embrace your youth and live again for the first time.

-Even at your young age, you were aware of fashion. Your mother was perplexed at why you couldn't wear THAT shirt or put on THOSE shoes. You knew the importance clothes and appearance had.

Nice Guys and chumps try to say nothing for appearance and say, "she will like me for who I am", and, with the same breath, ignore the chicks who do nothing appearance wise (big whale chicks, pimply chicks, and such) while getting shot down at the real women.

-When you were young, your father was a DEMI-GOD. You both feared and loved him. He could be playful when he wanted to. But, always, he was a SOURCE of STRENGTH, always confidant, and always seemed to know the solution to any problem you came across. This feeling of awe you thought of your father is the perfect definition of a MAN.

When you strive to be that same towering figure, which seemed to have solutions to all problems, confidence for all troubles, know how for all messes, stability for all storms, women will react to you in the same way. It is said, "Women want to marry their fathers." But this phrase has been taken completely out of context. Women want to marry THAT guy, that MAN they knew when they were a little girl. You can only understand and become that man through the eyes of the young boy.

Now some women will protest this advocacy of looking at women as little girls. This works especially well with the YOUNGER chicks (which is what most guys here want). This also solves a legal mystery: why were women from 1800s and down treated, BY LAW, as children? We know the answer now). (And I would say to women to treat men the same way. Women are most charming when they view us as boys.)

"He, whom the gods love, grows young," said the ancient Greeks. Look at that picture of the young you! Now look in the mirror. The blazing light in the youth's eyes, the curiosity, and the wonders he saw at Nature and life, the joy he loved at any occasion! Are they still part of you? Look into the mirror. Is the same light in your eyes?

If not, then you know what you need to do. You have come to the solution of your Don Juan troubles. Legends spoke of a Fountain of Youth that turns the old young. Conquistadors prowled continents hunting for this magical facet of Nature. This legend of the Fountain of Youth was like a psychological splinter in the minds of so many men, driving them across the world through dangers and storms to obtain such a treasure. But it was not in the world, it was in us. Who knew women are the key that seems to unlock all of Nature's mysteries?

Doesn't this clear the stormy air of confusion? (especially with younger 'immature' women!) When you are with a woman and a thousand Don Juan philosophies and tactics come to thwart your peace, remember the kid that you were... and how he looked on life. Yes, she might be a twenty-something vixen. But underneath those milk-sacs and fat deposits that drive your chemicals mad, is a little girl. Rather than being nervous about some date, view the date as if you were seven years old. Everything becomes simple and fun (as it should be!).

One thing is for certain, women go NUTS over a guy who keeps his boyhood charm as women want an ESCAPE. They do not want to hear your views on the world. They want to have the happiness and fun of their childhood back (as everyone does!). They will FIGHT for the rare men who truly live like this (this also explains the mystery why uneducated men often seem to do BETTER with women than many men with PhDs who are so 'smart' they intellectualized life out of existence).

As we know, cell division error, aided by free radicals, accumulates errors throughout the body as time passes. A person of 80 obviously has more errors than that of 40. His tissues start to fail, making his organs fail, then entire organ systems collapse, until life is snuffed out.

In the same way, our minds start out pristine and pure (that of the child!) and everything is playful, fun, and simple. But as time passes, philosophies and bitter memories accumulate. The diseased person looks at life only through the philosophical lens, living a life of past memories, and so his life decays and decays until there is no life within him.

Pook hands you the chalice. Drink and pass the cup around. This water from the Fountain of Youth will wash away these errors, all those 'frames' your bitter memories eat at your mind. Drink to the girls that rejected you viciously. Drink to the 'macho' guys that beat you up in school. Drink to the chains of routines, errands, and appointments. Drink to your ambition, drink to your melancholy, drink to your loneliness. Drink to your heart's content and pass the cup around. Your mind has now absorbed the blessed waters of the Fountain of Youth. You are now the light of the world! Your life is now young, fruitful, fun, easy, simple, and your body will reflect it as well.

The world is now your sandbox. Rejoice! Many people get swallowed up in their vanity, all believing themselves 'brilliant' and 'smart'. They follow their philosophies unquestioningly and their lives walk on the quicksand of melancholy. But... they see the new you and it smashes all their philosophies to bits. They ask each other, "How can he be so happy? How can he be so ALIVE? Let us study him and we will write articles and manifestos on him." But you know the truth. Their ambitions have consumed them while you look on life with youthful eyes...

...and live in a Child's Paradise.

* * *

Quote:

Originally posted by ShortTimer

Indeed, maybe the childhood Pook speaks of is true of him but it seems more like some idealistic version of the past that never really existed. I too recall my childhood with torment, if I could I wouldn't live it again. Maybe this metaphor will work for some people tho...

You guys are thinking too much of this.

There is no Time in Sexuality. In the realm of sexuality uncorrupted with 'intellect' and 'politics' and all, which is Womaniverse, time simply doesn't exist.

This is not looking at your childhood as if it were some 'Golden Age'. To the contrary, your entire life is the Golden Age. The problem isn't because you aged (because in sexuality, time doesn't exist), the problem with many is they've become so super-intellectual or so 'educated' that it corrupts their sexuality.

Your body doesn't get corrupted by Time. It gets corrupted by cell division error and free radicals. In the same manner, your mind/soul doesn't age. It gets corrupted with 'intellect', 'philosophies', and 'education'.

I always wondered WHY girls could be attracted to hard bodies, happy smiles, but NEVER the genius. Now we know why.

Years ago, I was at my 'most natural state' when I would rant about philosophy, politics, economics, and so on.

As you can imagine, this bored the women (women want smart guys but not 'melancholy' filled philosophic guys). My actions were so 'intellectualized' that women saw through everything (or used me in some way).

This is an anti-intellectual post (very tame of what will follow). Many people sense that Time is going faster and faster and faster for them, as if Life is speeding up. Things become more frantic, responsibilities become more stacked, and the geometry of rules and regulations grow narrower and narrower around your life until nothing remains.

The reason why Time is speeding up is because your life's relationship to sexuality is going down.

This isn't about bringing your childhood into the present. It is to CLEANSE your mind and soul of all this philosophic DUST and bitter memory GARBAGE that has accumulated.

We cannot reverse time with our bodies (thanks to the cell-division error). But we can drink from this fountain of youth for our own minds.

With one sip, the 'complexity' of women just vanish!

With two sips, you no longer want to 'talk' and 'intellectualize' with girls, you just want to run around and have fun.

With three sips, you look at all these 'manifestos' of women and how to get women with disbelief.

This Fountain of Youth is NOT immaturity. It is NOT mediocrity.

I find it amazing how people go through so much trouble to make sure their body isn't contaminated by disease, germs, and the like. Yet, there is no such consideration for their mind and soul with politics, philosophies, and perversions of all sort to infect and tear down your sexuality, and thus, your life.

Think about it. Do you want to have a relationship based on talking about DNA?

The childhood example applies because no child intellectualizes life. It was only years and years later that I decided I was 'smart' and so read and read and got filled with a lot of BS that life slipped past me.

Most people's sexuality deteriorates. Some people's deteriorates more than others. But when one of these people see a Don Juan, oh, they start intellectualizing what is 'really' going on. So all these 'theories' are born which is just the intellectual's excuse to not face the truth about himself. . . .

That HE was not so 'brilliant' after all!

0002 | Walter White after his cancer diagnosis

I am awake...we start tomorrow. (Breaking Bad, episode 1, season 1)

Time and its use

0001 | Burkeman on time speeding up, and how to slow it down

Meanwhile, no catalog of our time-related troubles would be complete without mentioning that alarming phenomenon, familiar to anyone older than about thirty, whereby time seems to speed up as you age—steadily accelerating until, to judge from the reports of people in their seventies and eighties, months begin to flash by in what feels like minutes. It's hard to imagine a crueler arrangement: not only are our four thousand weeks constantly running out, but the fewer of them we have left, the faster we seem to lose them (4TW PDF 15).

- See also Easter on learning and new experiences and how it affects our perception of time.

0002 | Burkeman on the curse of busyness

The problem isn't exactly that these [time-management] techniques and products don't work. It's that they do work—in the sense that you'll get more done, race to more meetings, ferry your kids to more after-school activities, generate more profit for your employer—and yet, paradoxically, you only feel busier, more anxious, and somehow emptier as a result. (4TW PDF 16)

Instead, life accelerates, and everyone grows more impatient. It's somehow vastly more aggravating to wait two minutes for the microwave than two hours for the oven—or ten seconds for a slow-loading web page versus three days to receive the same information by mail. (4TW PDF 17)

I did get better at racing through my to-do list, only to find that greater volumes of work magically started to appear. (Actually, it's not magic; it's simple psychology, plus capitalism). (4TW PDF 18)

But now here we get to the heart of things, to a feeling that goes deeper, and that's harder to put into words: the sense that despite all this activity, even the relatively privileged among us rarely get around to doing the right things. We sense that there are important and fulfilling ways we could be spending our time, even if we can't say exactly what they are—yet we systematically spend our days doing other things instead. (4TW PDF 19)

Our days are spent trying to "get through" tasks, in order to get them "out of the way," with the result that we live mentally in the future, waiting for when we'll finally get around to what really matters—and worrying, in the meantime, that we don't measure up, that we might lack the drive or stamina to keep pace with the speed at which life now seems to move. (4TW PDF 19–20)

The real problem—or so I hope to convince you—is that we've unwittingly inherited, and feel pressured to live by, a troublesome set of ideas about how to use our limited time, all of which are pretty much guaranteed to make things worse. (4TW PDF 23)

0003 | Burkeman on how you'll never feel free enough to do what you want

Productivity is a trap. Becoming more efficient just makes you more rushed, and trying to clear the decks simply makes them fill up again faster. Nobody in the history of humanity has ever achieved “work-life balance,” whatever that might be, and you certainly won’t get there by copying the “six things successful people do before 7:00 a.m.” The day will never arrive when you finally have everything under control—when the flood of emails has been contained; when your to-do lists have stopped getting longer; when you’re meeting all your obligations at work and in your home life; when nobody’s angry with you for missing a deadline or dropping the ball; and when the fully optimized person you’ve become can turn, at long last, to the things life is really supposed to be about. (4TW PDF 20–21)

0004 | Deida on how you'll never feel free enough to do what you want

Most men make the error of thinking that one day it will be done. They think, “If I can work enough, then one day I could rest.” Or, “One day my woman will understand something and then she will stop complaining.” Or, “I’m only doing this now so that one day I can do what I really want with my life.” The masculine error is to think that eventually things will be different in some fundamental way. They won’t. It never ends. As long as life continues, the creative challenge is to tussle, play, and make love with the present moment while giving your unique gift.

It’s never going to be over, so stop waiting for the good stuff. As of now, spend a minimum of one hour a day doing whatever you are waiting to do until your finances are more secure, or until the children have grown and left home, or until you have finished your obligations and you feel free to do what you really want to do. Don’t wait any longer. Don’t believe in the myth of “one day when everything will be different.” Do what you love to do, what you are waiting to do, what you’ve been born to do, now.

Spend at least one hour a day doing whatever you simply love to do—what you deeply feel you need to do, in your heart—in spite of the daily duties that seem to constrain you. However, be forewarned: you may discover that you don’t, or can’t, do it; that, in fact, your fantasy of your future life is simply a fantasy.

Most postponements are excuses for a lack of creative discipline. Limited money and family obligations have never stopped a man who really wanted to do something, although they provide excuses for a man who is not really up to the creative challenge in the first place. Find out today whether you are willing to do what it takes to give your gift fully. As a first step, spend at least an hour today giving your fullest gift, whatever that is for today, so that when you go to sleep at night you know you couldn’t have lived your day with more courage, creativity, and giving...

The world and your woman will always present you with unforeseen challenges. You are either living fully, giving your gift in the midst of those challenges, even today, or you are waiting for an imaginary future which will never come. Men who have lived significant lives are men who never waited: not for money, security, ease, or women. Feel what you want to give most as a gift, to your woman and to the world, and do what you can to give it today. Every moment waited is a moment wasted, and each wasted moment degrades your clarity of purpose. (WSM PDF 23–24)

0005 | Burkeman on comparing and keeping up with others

It turns out that when people make enough money to meet their needs, they just find new things to need and new lifestyles to aspire to; they never quite manage to keep up with the Joneses, because whenever they’re in danger of getting close, they nominate new and better Joneses with whom to try to keep up. As a result, they work harder and harder, and soon busyness becomes an emblem of prestige. Which is clearly completely absurd: for almost the whole of history, the entire point of being rich was not having to work so much. Moreover, the busyness of the better-off is contagious, because one extremely effective way to make more money, for those at the top of the tree, is to cut costs and make efficiency improvements in their companies and industries. That means greater insecurity for those lower down, who are then obliged to work harder just to get by. (4TW PDF 18)

0006 | Easter on learning new things and being in the moment

Learning new skills—particularly the ones humans needed for millions of years that require us to use our mind and body—would stay with me beyond Alaska in a very Zen, the-path-is-the-goal type of way. There was all the new expertise I was picking up. But learning new skills is also one of the best ways to enhance awareness of the present moment, with no burning incense, Buddhist mantras, or meditation apps involved.

My months of preparation changed much of that. New situations kill themental clutter. In newness we're forced into presence and focus. This is because we can't anticipate what to expect and how to respond, breaking the trance that leads to life in fast forward. Newness can even slow down our sense of time. This explains why time seemed slower when we were kids. Everything was new then and we were constantly learning.

Psychologist William James wrote about this in his 1890 work, The Principles of Psychology: "The same space of time seems shorter as we grow older...In youth we may have an absolutely new experience, subjective or objective, every hour of the day. Apprehension is vivid, retentiveness strong, and our recollections of that time, like those of a time spent in rapid and interesting travel, are of something intricate, multitudinous, and long-drawn-out. But as each passing year converts some of this experience into automatic routine that we hardly note at all, the days and the weeks smooth themselves out in recollection to contentless units, and the years grow hollow and collapse." (TCC PDF 65)

Creativity

0001 | Easter on the importance of boredom for creativity

There's another massive benefit to boredom beyond making us more psychologically robust and resilient. Finding a different outlet for boredom also lets us tap into creativity.

In an interview with Bill Simmons, the acclaimed and prolific screenwriter Aaron Sorkin summed up this phenomenon when he talked about the first time he ever wrote for fun: "It was one of those nights in New York where it feels like everyone has been invited to a party you weren't invited to. I didn't have three dollars in my pocket. In [my] apartment was a semiautomatic typewriter. Electric keys and a manual return. The TV was broken, the stereo was broken. The only thing to do was to put a piece of paper in that typewriter and to start typing. Pure boredom. It was the first time I wrote for fun... and I loved it. I stayed up all night writing and I feel like that night has never ended."

Sorkin's takeaway is that we should learn to deal with boredom, and then discover ways to overcome it that are more productive and creative than watching a YouTube video or scrolling through Instagram.

Research from the 1950s backs up Sorkin's connection between boredom and creativity. One team of UK researchers had people do something astoundingly boring: read a phone book for 15 minutes. The bored people then took a standardized creativity test, like coming up with odd uses for a Styrofoam cup, and the Remote Associates Test (RAT), where three words are thrown out and we have to figure out their common denominator (e.g., call + pay + line = phone; motion + poke + down = slow). Compared to a nonbored group, the bored people gave significantly more answers on both tests, and the answers were also considerably more creative. Other studies have found the same phenomenon. (Except in those studies the researchers bored people by having them watch a screensaver or separate a pile of beans by color.)

"But now people want to say that boredom makes you more creative," said Danckert. "I call bullshit on that. Boredom doesn't make you more creative. It just tells you 'do something!' " And when that "something" is letting our mind revive unfocused mode—or sitting down to write a screenplay—rather than blanketing it with the exact same media that everyone else is consuming, we begin to think, quite literally, on a different wavelength. That's what creativity requires.

And now we've killed off one of the main drivers of creativity: mind- wandering...The scientist blames our hurried, overscheduled lives and "ever increasing amounts of [time] interacting with electronic entertainment devices."

My mind feels like it's riding a different wavelength than the one it typically does back home. It's more a ripple than a riptide. Despite the cold, wind, and rough ground, my stress levels are nonexistent. Interesting new ideas are bubbling out of the ether. And I'm oddly appreciative—of the world around me but also of things back home. Like my wife...I believe all these feelings have something to do with allowing my mind a moment of rest. Maybe when I get home, instead of thinking the oft- repeated "less phone," it might be more productive to think "more boredom." (TCC PDF 103–108)

Growth and discomfort

0001 | Agnes Callard on constantly learning

The things people long for are: safety and security; fancy vacations and luxury goods; honor, power and acclaim; the warmth of family life and human connection. They want these things even when they don't have them—often, the less they have them, the more they want them. People don't long for intellectual goods. You know the joys of intellectual engagement by experiencing them, and as you step away from them they fade from view. There are strange people who somehow, through a series of accidents, get and stay keyed onto intellectual goods on their own—the autodidacts I mentioned earlier—but the rest of us need constant help reorienting, because just about every worldly temptation pulls us in the opposite direction. (“The Real College Scandal”)

0002 | Easter on comforts we have

I wasn't a completely new person and I'd never be confused with Mr. Rogers. But I was more aware, which allowed me to see that I was still surrounded in comfort. I was marinating in the stuff. Except that these were less acutely destructive but potentially more insidious forms of it. I just had to take a look at my everyday life. I was comfortable, quite literally, every single moment.

I awoke in a soft bed in a temperature-controlled home. I commuted to work in a pickup with all the conveniences of a luxury sedan. I killed any semblance of boredom with my smartphone. I sat in an ergonomic desk chair staring at a screen all day, working with my mind and not my body. When I arrived home from work, I filled my face with no-effort, highly caloric foods that came from Lord knows where. Then I plopped down on my overstuffed sofa to binge on television streamed down from outer space. I rarely, if ever, felt the sensation of discomfort. The most physically uncomfortable thing I did, exercise, was executed inside an air-conditioned building as I watched cable news channels that are increasingly bent on confirming my worldview rather than challenging it. I wouldn't run outside unless the conditions were, well, comfortable. Neither too hot, too cold, nor too wet.

What could cleansing myself of all these other comforts do for me? (TCC PDF 19)

Except that our original comforts were negligible and short-lived, at best. In an uncomfortable world, consistently seeking a sliver of comfort helped us stay alive. Our common problem today is that our environment has changed, but our wiring hasn't. And this wiring is deeply ingrained. (TCC PDF 20)

Finally, on June 29, 2007, boredom was pronounced dead, thanks to the iPhone. And so our imaginations and deep social connections went with it. (TCC PDF 23)

For most modern Americans, “stress” is so often “This traffic is going to make me late to my yoga class” stress. Or “Is my neighbor making more money than me?” stress. Or “This spreadsheet is going to take forever” stress. Or “If my child doesn't get into an Ivy League school we will all live lives of complete and utter nothingness” stress. It's first-world stress. (TCC PDF 24)

So, yes, we don't have to deal with discomforts like working for our food, moving hard and heavy each day, feeling deep hunger, and being exposed to the elements. But we do have to deal with the side effects of our comfort: long-term physical and mental health problems. We lack physical struggles, like having to work hard for our livelihoods. We have too many ways to numb out, like comfort food, cigarettes, alcohol, pills, smartphones, and TV. We're detached from the things that make us feel happy and alive, like connection, being in the natural world, effort, and perseverance.

We seem to know something is amiss. One poll found just 6 percent of Americans believe the world is improving. Some anthropologists, in fact, argue that humans were happier in all the time leading up to about 13,000 years ago. People then had simpler needs that were easier to fulfill and were more able to live in the present.

Comforts and conveniences are great. But they haven't always moved the ball downfield in our most important metric: happy, healthful years. Perhaps existing only in our increasingly overly comfortable, overbuilt environment and always obeying our comfort drives has had unintended consequences and caused us to miss profound human experiences. There are conditions that humans evolved to live in and experiences we were meant to have that are no longer germane to our lives. This has undoubtedly changed us, often not for the best. (TCC PDF 25)

It explains that as we experience fewer problems, we don't become more satisfied. We just lower our threshold for what we consider a problem. We end up with the same number of troubles. Except our new problems are progressively more hollow...We are always moving the goalpost. There is, quite literally, a scientific basis for first-world problems...Call it comfort creep. When a new comfort is introduced, we adapt to it and our old comforts become unacceptable. Today's comfort is tomorrow's discomfort. This leads to a new level of what's considered comfortable. (TCC PDF 27, 28)

- See Burkeman on comparing and keeping up with others, who makes a very similar point.

0003 | Easter on the necessity of pushing yourself to live at your edge, and misogis

"In modern society, however," Elliott said, "it's suddenly possible to survive without being challenged. You'll still have plenty of food. You'll have a comfortable home. A good job to show up to, and some people who love you. And that seems like an OK life, right? "But," he said, sweeping his arm to create a big imaginary circle that encompassed the trail and foliage flanking it. "Let's say your potential is this big circle."

Then he pulled his hands into his chest and made a dinner-plate-size circle in the exact middle of the much larger circle. "Well, most of us live in this small space right here. We have no idea what exists on the edges of our potential. And by not having any idea what it's like out on the edge...man, we really miss something vital."

A salty wind was blowing over the ocean and sidling up into the hills. It passed over my sweat-soaked T-shirt as Elliott continued. "I believe people have innate evolutionary machinery that gets triggered when they go out and do really fucking hard things. When they explore those edges of their comfort zone."

"Misogis are that same concept. Except for the modern condition. In misogi we're using the artificial, contrived concept of going out and doing a hard task to mimic these challenges that humans used to face all the time. These challenges that our environment used to naturally show us that we're so removed from now," he said. "Then when we return to the Wild West of our everyday lives we are better for it. We have the right tools for the job."

"Misogi is not about physical accomplishment," said Parrish. "It asks, 'What are you mentally and spiritually willing to put yourself through to be a better human?' Misogis have allowed me to let go of fear and anxiousness, and you can see that in my work." (TCC PDF 39–40)

0004 | Easter in getting yourself uncomfortable

But all of that silent, solitary time running, riding, or swimming—becoming comfortable with discomfort, persisting despite all of his biological impulses telling him to slow down or tap out—had remodeled his psyche. "Endurance sports gave me some understanding of what it was to push to deeper levels and find new layers within myself," he told me. "When I stopped doing triathlons, I still had this sense of adventure. This need to explore those edges where I'd find a new, better part of myself."

"It was all just to see if I could. I'd get to what I thought was my edge, but I'd keep going. Then eventually I'd realize I was way past my old edge and still going. And so that edge was now in a different place than when I started. And that was so satisfying, so satisfying."

The misogis have continued—one a year—and Elliott credits them with his ability to affect things in his personal and professional life. "Misogis can show you that you had this latent potential you didn't realize, and that you can go further than you ever believed. When you put yourself in a challenging environment where you have a good chance of failing, lots of fears fade and things start moving." (TCC PDF 42, 44)

0005 | Easter on designing challenges to push yourself to discomfort: a rite of passage

"We're generally guided by the idea that you should have a fifty percent chance of success—if you do everything right," he said. "So if you decided you wanted to run a twenty-five-mile trail, and you're preparing by working up to a twenty-mile training run and doing thirty-five or forty miles a week of running...that's not a misogi. Your chance of failure is too low. But if you've never run more than ten miles, think you could probably run fifteen, but are iffy on whether you could run twenty...then that twenty-five miles is probably a misogi."

Engaging in an environment where there's a high probability of failure, even if you execute perfectly, has huge ramifications for helping you lose a fear of failing. Huge ramifications for showing you what your potential is.

Men and women in these cultures [hunter-gatherer, older] undertook a physical, nature-based rite of passage.

"The idea of a rite of passage is that the elders are seeing in you the potential to rise up and achieve this really important, challenging thing that is going to benefit you and everyone around you on many levels," said Elliott. "They're saying, 'We think you're ready, but you're really going to have to dig deep and find your shit.' "

He found that these processes—whether walking around the outback, hunting a lion in Kenya, tripping out on the Columbia River Plateau, or perhaps, even, undergoing a misogi—all have three key elements. The first is separation. The person exits the society in which they live and ventures into the wild. The second is transition. The person enters a challenging middle ground, where they battle with nature and their mind telling them to quit. The third is incorporation. The person completes the challenge and reenters their normal life an improved person. It's an exploration and expansion of the edge of a person's comfort zone.

- These are the rules for the misogi.

"Yes. And the reason for this is because the more quirky the misogi, the less chance you can compare it to anything else," he said. "It's important to take on challenges that are your challenges. Misogi is you against you. It's against this phenomenon of 'Oh, that guy did this thing in this amount of time and I'm going to try to do it faster.' Because that's comparison shopping. And that's just such a shitty way to go through life." Parrish talked at length about this guideline. He summed it up like this: "When you remove superficial metrics you can accomplish way more." Which brought Elliott to guideline two: Don't advertise misogi. It's OK to talk about misogi with friends and family. But you don't Tweet, Instagram, Facebook, or boast about misogi.

"Everyone today has such outward-facing lives," said Elliott. "They do stuff so they can post on social media about some badass thing they did to get a bunch of likes.

"Misogis are inward facing," he said. "A big part of the value proposition is that I'm going to do something that's really uncomfortable. I'm going to want to quit. And it's going to be hard not to quit because no one is watching. But I'm not going to quit because I'm watching. And then I can reflect back on how I was the only person watching myself and I still rose to the occasion in a big way. There's some deep satisfaction in that. Did you really do what you think is the right thing when you were the only person watching? Or do you need an audience or a big pat on the back for that? Are you not important enough to do it for you? We had this guideline before social media, and it seems more relevant today."

Finding discomfort in Las Vegas was easy. All I had to do was walk into the desert. Hiking and running in the summer felt like exercising in a furnace. But these hikes and runs were also an oasis away from my daily life in the built environment. I'd toss on my gargantuan $400 boots (they needed breaking in, after all) and trudge through red rock canyons, black rock desert, Joshua tree forests, or piney highlands for a few hours each weekend. These natural environments acted like a pressure washer on my mind, clearing out the week's grime. Who needs to chat up a $100/hour therapist when there are long, quiet, empty trails waiting to be walked? (TCC 45–59, 63)

0006 | Easter on the importance of being ok with silence

We have in fact become so used to living with noise that most of us now find comfort in constant blare, according to a scientist in Australia. The researcher had hundreds of students spend a little time in the quiet and write about their experiences. Nearly every student said the silence made them uneasy. "The lack of noise made me uncomfortable, it actually seemed foreboding," wrote one student. "Perhaps because media consistently surrounds us today, we have a fear of peace and quiet," wrote another.

Another survey found that Americans increasingly see the TV not as an entertainment device but as a companion. More than half of us keep the TV on while we work, cook, and do chores because we feel uncomfortable in silence. Silence-induced discomfort is a new, learned behavior, those Australian scientists think.

Hearing the natural sounds we evolved in seems to strike a calming note within us. Scientists in the UK, for example, found that people who listened to nature sounds like water and wind reduced their stress levels significantly more than those who listened to artificial noises. (TCC PDF 126, 130)

The world and distractions

0001 | Easter on the landscape of despair

Some mental health researchers today call our concrete, sprawling environments "landscapes of despair." But the Industrial Revolution spurred a great migration into cities with the promise of secure jobs. We haven't turned back since. Yet, interestingly enough, money doesn't seem to overcome the rural/urban happiness gap. Studies show that even dirt-poor people who live in rural China report being happier than infinitely wealthier Chinese city-dwellers. (TCC PDF 69)

- Note that the internet is also a landscape of despair—it isn't just a physical place.

I can't help but think that in today's increasingly hyperconnected and tribal society—where we define ourselves by the group or movement we belong to—it's not a bad idea to occasionally be alone. Removed from anyone. I'm talking about time with yourself, unidentified with anything. The Buddha, Lao-Tzu, Moses, Milton, Emerson, and many more have spoken highly of the benefits of solitude.

A growing field of scientists today think that these solitude-seekers were onto something. Building “the capacity to be alone” may be just as important for you as forging good relationships. “The capacity to be alone is essentially the ability to be alone with yourself and not feel uncomfortable or like you have to distract yourself,” said Matthew Bowker, PhD, a professor of psychology at Medaille College. (TCC PDF 78–79)

0002 | Easter on the benefits of solitude

“Building the capacity to be alone probably makes your interactions with others richer. Because you’re bringing to the relationship a person who’s actually got stuff going on in the inside and isn’t just a connector circuit that only thrives off of others.”

Research backs solitude’s healthy properties. It’s been shown to improve productivity, creativity, empathy, and happiness, and decrease self-consciousness.

“Social connection is obviously critical,” said Bowker. “But it can be dangerous if your social connections ever go away and you don’t have yourself to fall back on. If you develop that capacity to be alone, then instead of feeling lonely, you could see solitude as an opportunity to have a meaningful and enjoyable time to get to know yourself a little better. To essentially build a relationship with yourself. I know this sounds cheesy, but it’s critical. I think a goal we should all have is to try to transform feelings of loneliness into feelings of rich solitude.” (TCC PDF 80)

0003 | Easter on the importance of being bored

The 11 hours and 6 minutes of attention we’re handing over to digital media isn’t free. It’s all spent in focused mode. Think of this focused state like lifting a weight, and the unfocused state like resting. When we kill boredom by burying our minds in a phone, TV, or computer, our brain is putting forth a shocking amount of effort. Like trying to do rep after rep after rep of an exercise, our attention eventually tires when we overwork it. Modern life overworks the hell out of our brains.

Our collective lack of boredom may be causing us to reach near-crisis levels of mental fatigue. Research shows that the onslaught of screen-based media has created Americans who are “increasingly picky, impatient, distracted, and demanding,” as one media analyst put it. These terms fall under the umbrella of “insufferable.” And overworked, undermaintained minds are linked to depression, life dissatisfaction, the perception that life goes by quicker, and increasingly missing the beauty of life that only presents itself when we allow our mind to wander and be aware of something other than a screen.

The way we dealt with boredom before we began surrounding ourselves in constant comfort delivered benefits that are essential for our brain health, productivity, personal sanity, and sense of meaning. But there’s been a cosmic shift in boredom. The way we now deal with it is “like junk food for your mind,” said Danckert.

These Silicon Valley savants have big data telling them exactly what tricks will grab us, and morons like me don’t stand a chance.

“There’s a trigger, a behavior, and a reward,” said Brewer. “But this brain process can get hijacked in the modern day. The trigger instead of food is boredom. And the behavior is going on YouTube or checking our news feed or Instagram. And that distracts us from the boredom. We become excited and get a hit of dopamine, which is a reward.

“The paradox is that these mechanisms that helped keep us alive are now hurting our health,” he explained. “We have less tolerance for distress. If we feel something unpleasant, like boredom, typically we would have to just be with that unpleasantness, and then we’d find a productive outlet. But we don’t have to do that anymore. We can use our phone to distract ourselves.” Or, as Danckert put it, we simply consume more “junk food for the mind.”

Each time we reflexively take out our phone or turn on a computer or TV to kill boredom, it attaches another tiny anchor to our stress tolerance, dragging it lower. Scientists at Oregon State University found that daily stressors like lines and waits can improve our resistance to some brain diseases if we simply suffer through them and shrug them off. More of these everyday stressors are actually better for our brain. (TCC PDF 96, 97, 101)

- See also Easter on the importance of boredom for creativity.

0004 | Easter on the importance of being in nature

After a handful of techless days trudging through Alaska, I was beginning to buy in to the theory. My brain was feeling less hunkered down in its typical foxhole—a state that I’d compare to a roadrunner on crystal meth, dementedly zooming from one thing to the next—and more like it belonged to a monk after a month at a meditation retreat. I just feel... better. Wilson put my feelings this way: “Nature holds the key to our aesthetic, intellectual, cognitive, and even spiritual satisfaction.”

A walk in the woods is free. And to my knowledge it isn’t linked to spastic, unplanned movements or urges to hurry down to the corner store to spend your life savings on scratch-off lottery tickets and then bang the clerk who sold them to you. Perhaps most delightful of all, being treated by nature won't require you to haggle with some stonewalling health insurance company representative...Of course, a walk in the woods only becomes mind medicine so long as the phone is away and also not beaming information into our ears. (TCC PDF 112–116)

Food and eating

0001 | Easter on the discomfort of eating less

And here's the thing: Humans figured out that the amount of food we eat has something to do with our body size about 2,300 years ago. We could have stopped the research then. But we've since spent billions proving and re-proving that the ancients had it right: Eating less of something—carbs, fat, sugar, etc.—causes us to...eat less and therefore lose weight. And we also know now that all diets work until they don't. Which is, according to one large survey in the UK, an average of 5 weeks, 2 days, and 43 minutes in. That's when we give up and slowly slide back into our previous state.

Why? This is when the discomfort sets in. People usually fail after a handful of weeks because their bodies fight to bring them back to their starting point. When your body fat drops enough, your brain responds by making you hungrier while at the same time decreasing how satisfying your meals are. A team at the NIH recently found that for every two pounds a person loses, for example, their brain unconsciously ramps up their hunger and causes them to eat about 100 more calories. Had our bodies not developed these defense mechanisms, we likely wouldn't have survived the crucible of evolution.

This is why fad diets aren't solving the nation's weight problem. It's not information and advice we lack (after all, fad diets work when followed consistently over the long run). It's our inability to persist against the discomfort of hunger—a necessary state for weight loss. Just 3 percent of the people who lose weight in a given year manage to keep it off. Their secret isn't some special food or exercise no one else has. It's their ability to get comfortable with discomfort. (TCC PDF 137–138)

"I've never believed that people should be doing more or new things. Continuously trying to add more stuff on top of what you're doing and constantly experimenting with shiny new things is almost never the answer. It just adds another layer of stress and complication. I believe people should be doing less and eliminating limiters to progress. It's more effective to modify the behaviors and thought patterns that are keeping you from progressing," said Kashey. "Because your progress is only as good as your most obvious limiter, right?" (TCC PDF 141–142)

0001 | Easter on junk food

"Processed food is not always junk, but junk is usually processed. I do think junk food is unhealthy, but it's not because sugar is 'toxic' or any of that nonsense," he said. "It's mainly because it's more calorie dense, less filling, and is more likely to lead someone to overeat and gain weight. And being overweight or obese is one of the largest risk factors for disease." (TCC PDF 140)

Reasoning and Evidence

0001 | Yudkowsky on individual pieces of evidence

Evidence: Until then, he had not felt these extra details as extra burdens. Instead they were corroborative detail, lending verisimilitude to the narrative. Someone presents you with a package of strange ideas, one of which is that universes replicate. Then they present support for the assertion that universes replicate. But this is not support for the package, though it is all told as one story.

You have to disentangle the details. You have to hold up every one independently, and ask, "How do we know this detail?" (6)

0002 | Yudkowsky on the planning fallacy

Even when asked to make a highly conservative forecast, a prediction that they felt virtually certain that they would fulfill, students' confidence in their time estimates far exceeded their accomplishments."

More generally, this phenomenon is known as the "planning fallacy." The planning fallacy is that people think they can plan, ha ha.

A clue to the underlying problem with the planning algorithm was uncovered by Newby-Clark et al., who found that —Asking subjects for their predictions based on realistic “best guess” scenarios; and —Asking subjects for their hoped-for “best case” scenarios...
...produced indistinguishable results.

When people are asked for a “realistic” scenario, they envision everything going exactly as planned, with no unexpected delays or unforeseen catastrophes—the same vision as their “best case.”

Reality, it turns out, usually delivers results somewhat worse than the “worst case.”

So there is a fairly reliable way to fix the planning fallacy, if you’re doing something broadly similar to a reference class of previous projects. Just ask how long similar projects have taken in the past, without considering any of the special properties of this project. Better yet, ask an experienced outsider how long similar projects have taken. (7)

Writing

0001 | Yudkowsky on writing for a popular audience

Closely related is the illusion of transparency: We always know what we mean by our words, and so we expect others to know it too. Reading our own writing, the intended interpretation falls easily into place, guided by our knowledge of what we really meant. It’s hard to empathize with someone who must interpret blindly, guided only by the words.

On writing for a popular audience: Combined with the illusion of transparency and self-anchoring, I think this explains a lot about the legendary difficulty most scientists have in communicating with a lay audience—or even communicating with scientists from other disciplines. When I observe failures of explanation, I usually see the explainer taking one step back, when they need to take two or more steps back. Or listeners assume that things should be visible in one step, when they take two or more steps to explain. Both sides act as if they expect very short inferential distances from universal knowledge to any new knowledge. A clear argument has to lay out an inferential pathway, starting from what the audience already knows or accepts. If you don’t recurse far enough, you’re just talking to yourself.

If at any point you make a statement without obvious justification in arguments you’ve previously supported, the audience just thinks you’re crazy. (8, 9)

Spirituality

0001 | Independent study talk from 2009

[I first read this talk in December of 2009, when I was working as a grader for Independent Study. It was submitted as an assignment in a philosophy class by a woman whose name I cannot remember. It impacted me powerfully as soon as I read it, and it has continued to do that since then.]

One of the reasons it was so powerful is that, at the time, I was trying to figure out whether I should marry Alicia. I was looking for spiritual confirmation of the action that I wanted to take, which was to get married to her. After reading this talk, I realized that I had been approaching the problem incorrectly. I hadn’t been trying to live very spiritually, very righteously, yet was still seeking guidance from the Lord. This talk prompted me to change several things about what I was going, and led to me receiving a confirmation, one week later, that I should marry her.)

Our four-year-old son loves to tease by quoting his mother, “Oh my gosh...Get it off me!...Get it OFF ME!...GET IT OFF ME!” He finds these statements delightfully humorous because his mother was not awake at the time. You see, I was dreaming I had a huge spider on me. When I am awake, I am not afraid of spiders; yet I was absolutely terrified at that delirious moment. I did not awaken until my own voice woke me up after a series of hollers.

When we are mentally and physically asleep, we often don’t realize the true length of time it takes for experiences to transpire, nor do we always see a connection between our actions in our dreams. We are able to tell when we are physically asleep or awake because the clarity is absent. Similarly, when we are spiritually asleep, our minds are more muddled, for we often don’t recognize or appreciate how lasting the positive and negative effects of our thoughts and actions have on ourselves and others, and we sometimes don’t see a connection between our individual experiences. My interpretation of one belief of Descartes is that when we have a belief we consider innate, that belief had to be placed, and the only source that could have placed it would be God. So, then, defining what is able to be considered innate becomes my challenge, as we can easily be asleep to truths by considering our own perceptions and philosophies to be innate and from God. How do I know if I am spiritually awake or drowsily walking and talking my way through mortality when following particular cultural, religious, or political views?

When I was a teenager about twenty years ago, I had a difficult time waking up to my alarm—I unfortunately trained my brain to not register the blaring noise. My poor Dad would come downstairs every morning to inform me that my alarm was going off. I similarly sleep through the reality of Christ's atoning sacrifice just as His three apostles did long ago when I callously accept my weaknesses and sins and don't make more of an effort to change by cultivating His spirit in my heart and home. I sleep through His power to heal just as the guards of the tomb did during His resurrection when I pray simply to check another action off my to-do-list.

The number of times that the prophets in ancient and modern times warned us to wake up is worth noting¹. When Christ visited the Nephites after his Resurrection, He recognized that they weren't awake to what He was telling them and that they wanted Him to stay with them a little longer. After He asked for the people to kneel in prayer, He groaned within himself and the first thing he said to our Father was, "Father, I am troubled because of the wickedness of the people..."²

Too often I approach Heavenly Father in prayer as if I'm being sent to the principal's office, being too caught in myself, and not trusting in Him enough to know that, at times...he wants me to feel His arms around me. Only when my heart is STILL have I felt our Savior near me—leading my slightly awakened soul to our Father. On that day that Christ suffered for all mankind, He said to his disciples, "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."³ Regarding this, Elder Holland, taught:

This may be one of the Savior's commandments that is, in the hearts of otherwise faithful Latter-day Saints, almost universally disobeyed...As concerned as I would be if...one of my children were seriously troubled or disobedient, nevertheless I would be infinitely more devastated if I felt that at such a time that child could not trust me to help, or should feel his or her interest were unimportant to me...I am convinced that none of us can appreciate how deeply it wounds the loving heart of the Savior of the world when he finds that his people do not feel secure in His hands or trust in his commandments...God [and Christ] CANNOT DO OTHER THAN care for us and help us if we will but come [to] them, approaching their throne of grace in meekness and lowliness of heart. It is their nature.⁴

Going back to when Christ was praying for the Nephites, verse 3 Nephi 17:15–17 reads:

Behold, he prayed unto the Father, and the things which he prayed cannot be written...The eye hath never seen, neither hath the ear heard...And no tongue can speak...neither can the hearts of men conceive so great and marvelous things as we both saw and heard Jesus speak; and no one can conceive of the joy which filled our souls at the time we heard him pray for us unto the Father.

Then in verse 20 Jesus says to them, "Blessed are ye because of your faith. And now behold, my joy is full." The joy that was then placed in Jesus was not because of how good the people were living but because, in that moment, they were awakened to the reality of their need for Him, and they had faith in Him. Jesus was troubled because of the wickedness, but in His oneness with God, He was given a fullness of joy.

H. Burke Peterson tells of his experience participating, for a second time, in a conference for the inmates at a prison with maximum security located in Southern Arizona.

After our proper clearance, we went into a good-sized recreation room where we were to meet with fifty or sixty men. As they came in, I shook hands with many of them. One—I had been his bishop many years earlier. Another—I had been his elders quorum president. Another young man—just a few years earlier I had visited with him as a missionary as we toured one of the missions of Great Britain. These were men who had lost their priesthood, had lost their membership in the Church. [Many had wives, and children who now no longer have a father in the home.] These were men who were there to pay their debt to society.

Several of them were invited to speak. EACH ONE SPOKE ABOUT THE FEELINGS THEY HAD FOR THEIR SAVIOR, and on repentance, forgiveness, and coming unto Christ. As they spoke, I felt an unusual spirit. The content of their talks was unusual, but beyond that, I was feeling stirrings inside that I hadn't experienced very often: peaceful feelings. As I went home, trying to understand, I turned to 3 Nephi and read the record there of the Beatitudes. I had not understood what I understand now until I had that experience. "And blessed are all they who do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled with the Holy Ghost."

The scripture does not say, blessed are the righteous for they shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, because that is obvious. The scripture says blessed are they who want to be—blessed are they who want MORE THAN ¹2 Nephi 1:13–14 and 23; 2 Nephi 4:28; Jacob 3:11; Mosiah 2:38 and 4:5; Alma 4:3, 7:22; Isaiah 51:9; 1 Corinthians 15:34; Romans 13:11.

²3 Nephi 17:14.

³John 14:27.

⁴Holland, Jeffrey. "Come Unto Me." Devotional Speech. Brigham Young University Marriott Center. Provo, Utah. January 17, 1989.

ANYTHING ELSE to be [faithful]. I'm beginning to understand, Brothers and Sisters, what that means. It means when I have done the best I can, and when I have not played games with the counsel, the difference between what I can do and what must be done is accomplished because of the grace of Christ.¹

I think of this scripture as saying, "Blessed are those who are awake to their need, who feel their lack, AND who come unto Him." When do we realize when we are physically hungry and thirsty? When we are AWAKE...Similarly, we are awakening spiritually when we are hungering and thirsting and seeking to align ourselves with our Father's will. I know that, for me, one of the most valuable forms of being awake to personal revelation comes BEFORE I will be kneeling to pray. It often comes when I am doing such things as taking off my makeup and getting ready for bed, or when I am by myself and thinking about how I have disappointed my Father in Heaven by being unkind to my spouse or children or by thinking too much about worldly cares.

I have been given a very blessed childhood and life, so the concept of "having a bad day" has never felt justifiable to me, personally. There was a moment, though, a few years ago, that was particularly intense (relatively speaking) when I felt a depth of pain that I wasn't aware of. My soul was calling out and yet, simultaneously, His spirit and the love He has for his children was penetrating me so deeply that I remember actually thinking that I didn't want the pain to end, for I didn't want that glimpse of the compassion He has for His children to leave me. When I experienced those feelings simultaneously, I was awakened. As time went on, I began reacting differently to situations that, in the past, I would have critiqued or would have been less apt to give another the benefit of the doubt. I began listening less to the opinions of those around me (however noble or principle-oriented those opinions may have been) and more to the promptings of the Spirit, and my capacity to distinguish between the two was strengthened. Even though my challenges still remained, He graciously replaced some of their weight with an increased desire to succor those in need. Personal challenges help us to wake up and see things as they really are-and turn away from worldly attractions by valuing our Father's opinion more than man's opinion. I know that, as Jacob testified, the Spirit speaketh of things as they really are and of things as they really will be.² Certainly at the point of our sanctification we will want to have had comparable tests to many of our great examples who have gone before us, and we know from where their strength to persist comes.

I believe we CAN know whether we are spiritually awake by praying and reflecting on the effects that our thoughts and actions have on ourselves and those around us, and then discerning (humbly-by seeking and trusting His spirit rather than our own understanding or biases) what would allow the spirit of our Father and Heaven to remain with us, and what would cause the His spirit to withdraw from us. We can decipher times we are more spiritually awake (than other times) when we are receiving, on a regular basis, promptings and teaching moments that connect the dots between our thoughts, actions, and the effects that we can have on others. I know I am spiritually asleep when my decisions reflect ingratitude and pride, as if I am exempt from the law of justice, or when I feel as though it isn't fair for the sinner (myself) to be miserable rather than being humble and faithful in changing and exercising the power of the atonement and finding that joy once again. I don't know of anything that deprives us of this strength and joy more than being asleep to the commandments of our Father. Waking up to the teachings of Christ through repentance is one of the wonderful realities of His plan for us.

0002 | Bobpa's testimony

[In late 2012, Tina sent her father's written testimony to all of her children and their spouses. His name is Robert Fletcher, but all of the grandkids call him Bobpa, and I call him that as well.]

I am writing this not because I find fault with the way beliefs are stated by many members of the LDS church. It is primarily written for young people for whom the Internet is a way of life from which all points of view are freely expressed. As never before, information about the church is thrust in front of them for the purpose of demonstrating its falsehood. I would like to describe my own way of dealing with troublesome historical "facts". I will start by listing some of my key beliefs. They are not significantly different from those of most LDS members, even though my way of describing them is sometimes unconventional:

I believe that each of us has a spirit as well as a body as manifested by our awareness and our ability to make decisions that are carried out by our body (free agency). (Scientists are striving to show that this awareness comes physically through the operation of the brain, so far unsuccessfully. Nevertheless, all the laws of a country are based on the assumption that we have free will.)

Thus, I believe in the reality of spirit.

It doesn't seem to be too much of a stretch to believe that our spirits existed independent of our bodies before we were born and will exist after our bodies die.

¹Peterson, H. Burke. "Come Unto Christ Through Your Trials." Devotional Speech. Brigham Young University Marriott Center. Provo, Utah. February 16, 1996.

²Jacob 4:13.

I believe in God as the Supreme Being who has provided a plan for the possibility of giving us continuous and ultimate "joy."

I believe in Jesus Christ as His Son who has implemented God's plan, and taught us His gospel.

I believe in the Holy Ghost that influences our spirit.

I believe that Joseph Smith was a prophet who was directed by God to form His church.

I believe that true prophets are described in the Bible and the Book of Mormon who were inspired by the Holy Ghost.

I believe that one of the main purposes for our mortal existence is to develop the ability to live a Christ-like life in the presence of mortal temptations to do otherwise, with no memory of our previous spiritual life and with little physical evidence of God or other spiritual beings to guide us, being left to be guided only by the Holy Ghost.

I believe that our Spirit as developed by these choices will find an opportunity in the here-after uniquely suited to our mortal development thanks to the eternal plan of Jesus Christ (Atonement).

Up to this point I think my above stated beliefs do not differ from, but of course do not include all, the beliefs of the LDS church. What follows is my own view of some of these beliefs.

I will not try to distinguish between the influences of various forms of divine spirit: the influence of the Holy Ghost, the Spirit of God, the Light of Christ, the Lord's spirit, etc., and I will refer to all as the influence of the Holy Ghost, which is His specific mission. I believe that all spiritual manifestations are aspects of that influence, including impressions, burning of one's bosom, words of guidance received in one's mind, or visions that may be so vivid as to seem physical (but often described as being seen with spiritual eyes). By physical, I mean obeying the scientific laws of nature, such as the traveling of photons through space as emitted by a source such as the Sun or a burning bush, or as reflected off physical objects, or as perceived by the retina of our physical eyes and recorded by our brains. Visions may not be physical, but be spiritual influences impressed directly on our spirit. This does not rule out the existence of beings with spatial and time locality, such as angels and resurrected beings, but they clearly have properties and powers foreign to our mortal knowledge.

I believe that the influence of the Holy Ghost is most often not precise or all inclusive. It is a subtle influence that combines with the reasoning power of our brains to lead us to a decision that is favored by God compared to other decisions we are considering that are not so favored. When Nephi was impressed to cut off Laban's head, this impression did not mean that God condones decapitation under other circumstances. Our brains are influenced by the memories of all our past experiences, including the teachings of our parents and schools and by the influence of the culture(s) in which we have existed. Probably most of our decisions are a combination of reasoning impacting on that collective experience without much current influence of the Holy Ghost. Our decisions are often strongly influenced by the mortal need to satisfy our mortal appetites. Even the greatest prophets had these influences. These affected the way in which they expressed their prophetic utterances.

When I read the scriptures, particularly the Old Testament, it's hard to believe that a loving God was as concerned as were the prophets in overcoming enemies. Thus, Saul was commanded through the prophet Samuel to slay all the Amalekites (1 Samuel 15) and was rebuked when he didn't slay the King and some of the sheep. Saul was living at a time when warring and killing was part of their culture. So within that culture God (presumably speaking through Samuel) directed Saul to do something that he would not condone in other times in order to accomplish some greater long-term purpose. We cannot conclude that because Samuel was impressed at that time to direct a mass slaying is that this is what God always wants. This is an illustration that the guidance of the Holy Ghost tends not to be precise nor all inclusive. One of God's greatest concerns in those days was to develop recognition that there was one personal God that was of much greater importance to their mortality than were the idols and pagan gods that were commonly worshiped. Through all of their other concerns, the prophets of the Old Testament managed to get guidance to that end. But their preserved descriptions of their spiritual experiences in the scriptures retain the influences of the culture in which they were embedded.

As we try to understand the scriptures, we should also keep in mind that descriptions of the scriptural events are influenced both by the passage of time and by the description by the observers in terms that they believed. Thus, the stories in my own family first by me and my wife and then by my children have grown in ways that make them more interesting, probably at the expense of accuracy. I do not doubt that same kind of thing happened to stories in the scriptures.

I believe Joseph Smith was a prophet in these Latter Days. He existed in a culture that believed in transcendence of spiritual over physical laws (miracles). There were many in his surroundings who claimed they had been visited personally by Jesus Christ. Many believed in buried treasure, peep stones, and divining rods. Thus, it did not surprise many when Joseph Smith claimed to have visions of buried gold plates and was impressed that he should find them and translate them. He was led to do so, but there is no evidence that he even had to look at the plates to translate them. With little formal education, and by remarkable spiritual impressions, he was able to dictate the Book of Mormon in a period of no more than three months. Eleven witnesses had miraculous visions of the existence of the plates, which they never denied. It is almost impossible to believe that Joseph with his lack of formal education could have created the translation without spiritual guidance. When the book was printed and distributed, people believed it was physical evidence for what he claimed. It became (and still is) the greatest influence on its readers to convince them that Joseph Smith was a prophet and that the church he established was guided by God.

However, I don't necessarily believe that everything in the book is historically accurate. He created sentences in his mind that impressed him as good, and that was what he dictated (see DC 9). The result is a book with remarkable spiritual insight that can lead a person to live a Christ-like life. But I will not be bothered if there is physical evidence that the history described therein is unlikely to be exactly as described. Joseph's mother recalled that Joseph regaled the family with stories of ancient America even before he received the plates. I would guess that these "pre-visions" influenced him as he translated.

The same process presumably applied to the translation of the Book of Abraham in the Pearl of Great Price. Here the papyri from which he derived his impressions were clearly physical. They still exist in the possession of the Church. Copies have been made available to scholars outside the church. These scholars have mostly believed that the papyri represent Egyptian hieroglyphics from the Egyptian Book of the Dead. Although there are LDS scholars (eg, Hugh Nibley) that dispute this, it is not hard for me to believe that Joseph Smith received impressions from the papyri, not literal translations, which led him to the creation of the Book of Abraham, a book with great insight into spiritual matters. Joseph used his own definition of truth: "Whatsoever thing is good is...true." (Moroni 10:6)

The danger of deciding that some part of the scriptures is the influence of culture and not God is to allow ourselves exceptions to some of God's commandments if they do not suit us. But I believe this is a part of God's plan. We are to decide for ourselves what is right and good by heeding to the Holy Ghost. This is what gives us a testimony of Joseph Smith and the church that God directed him to establish. But we need to recognize that rationalization is also a temptation that we need to resist if it leads us to non-Christ-like decisions. One of the purposes of continuous revelation is to restate truths and practices as the culture changes. There is a greater need for this today as never before with the rapid changes in our culture brought about by technology.

I believe that the normal description of spirit and spiritual beings are simple models that serve most people very well, guiding them to Christ-like living. We visualize God and angels as physical beings not unlike ourselves. But clearly they are endowed with properties that we can't understand or visualize. When I pray to God, I don't visualize Him in any particular location, but as an exalted being, listening with loving understanding, even when my prayer is unvoiced. I don't try to understand how He does this simultaneously with the millions of other people that might be praying at the same time. The simple model is appropriate to make my prayers meaningful to me and I hope to Him.

I tend to think of the Holy Ghost (or one of his spiritual helpers) as a person transmitting a message to me by something like mental telepathy. This is the model that I think most LDS members have. The reality is probably quite different. I am unable to even speculate how the spiritual influence really works. But we do not need a better model in order to have our decisions be influenced by Him. The same applies to visions. If a person feels comfortable with the belief that the visit of a heavenly person is a physical reality with physical photons emitted, so be it. Whatever model works to convince one of the reality of the visitation by the testimony of the spirit is good. In fact, I believe that the attempt to attach physical laws of nature to spiritual experience is often counter-productive; the effort to do so can interfere with the benefits of the spiritual experience, e.g., in personal prayers or studying the scriptures. Some scholars call this process transcendence (belief of spiritual truths over logic or physical laws of nature). Whatever the model or transcendence, if the witness of the Holy Ghost generates faith in Jesus Christ and his gospel and motivates a person to live that gospel, I believe that helps him/her accomplish the purpose for which God gave him/her this mortal experience.

I believe that the Holy Ghost is available to all people if they look for it and adjust their lives by its guidance. Some LDS members describe this as the Light of Christ. I think that God is concerned for all his children on earth and is pleased whenever they are influenced to live a Christ-like life, no matter what religion they adhere to. I believe that God loves all his children on this earth and always makes available His spirit to guide them. But it is up to each individual to live a life in which the spirit can be heard. I pray nightly for some of my own grandchildren who have become inactive in the church that they will listen to His spirit and be guided into a good life.

In conclusion, my advice to a youth is to decide on the way of life that seems good to you, recognizing that you have a spirit that probably has an eternal existence. Do not get hung up on perceived deficiencies of prophets or other leaders, but pay attention to the main thrust of their messages. My own conclusion is that following the teachings and practices of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is the best way I know that helps me approach a Christ-like life, although for me I have a long way to go. One of the greatest external evidences of this is to see the change in people's lives when they witness the Spirit of the Holy Ghost and join with fellow members of the church in striving to become more Christ-like. I have received guidance of the spirit in my life that has helped me make choices and given me assurance and peace that His gospel is true, and that He is pleased when I try to live it.

0003 | Plato's allegory of the cave

[I have copied and pasted this text from Republic book VII 514a–520a, from the Hackett complete works edition.]

Next, I said, compare the effect of education and of the lack of it on our nature to an experience like this: Imagine human beings living in an underground, cavelike dwelling, with an entrance a long way up, which is both open to the light and as wide as the cave itself. They've been there since childhood, fixed in the same place, with their necks and legs fettered, able to see only in front of them, because their bonds prevent them from turning their heads around. Light is provided by a fire burning far above and behind them. Also behind them, but on higher ground, there is a path stretching between them and the fire. Imagine that along this path a low wall has been built, like the screen in front of puppeteers above which they show their puppets.

I'm imagining it.

Then also imagine that there are people along the wall, carrying all kinds of artifacts that project above it—statues of people and other animals, made out of stone, wood, and every material. And, as you'd expect, some of the carriers are talking, and some are silent.

It's a strange image you're describing, and strange prisoners.

They're like us. Do you suppose, first of all, that these prisoners see anything of themselves and one another besides the shadows that the fire casts on the wall in front of them?

How could they, if they have to keep their heads motionless throughout life?

What about the things being carried along the wall? Isn't the same true of them?

Of course.

And if they could talk to one another, don't you think they'd suppose that the names they used applied to the things they see passing before them?

They'd have to.

And what if their prison also had an echo from the wall facing them? Don't you think they'd believe that the shadows passing in front of them were talking whenever one of the carriers passing along the wall was doing so?

I certainly do.

Then the prisoners would in every way believe that the truth is nothing other than the shadows of those artifacts.

They must surely believe that.

Consider, then, what being released from their bonds and cured of their ignorance would naturally be like, if something like this came to pass.² When one of them was freed and suddenly compelled to stand up, turn his head, walk, and look up toward the light, he'd be pained and dazzled and unable to see the things whose shadows he'd seen before. What do you think he'd say, if we told him that what he'd seen before was inconsequential, but that now—because he is a bit closer to the things that are and is turned towards things that are more—he sees more correctly? Or, to put it another way, if we pointed to each of the things passing by, asked him what each of them is, and compelled him to answer, don't you think he'd be at a loss and that he'd believe that the things he saw earlier were truer than the ones he was now being shown?

Much truer.

And if someone compelled him to look at the light itself, wouldn't his eyes hurt, and wouldn't he turn around and flee towards the things he's able to see, believing that they're really clearer than the ones he's being shown?

He would.

And if someone dragged him away from there by force, up the rough, steep path, and didn't let him go until he had dragged him into the sunlight, wouldn't he be pained and irritated at being treated that way? And when he came into the light, with the sun filling his eyes, wouldn't he be unable to see a single one of the things now said to be true?

He would be unable to see them, at least at first.

I suppose, then, that he'd need time to get adjusted before he could see things in the world above. At first, he'd see shadows most easily, then images of men and other things in water, then the things themselves. Of these, he'd be able to study the things in the sky and the sky itself more easily at night, looking at the light of the stars and the moon, than during the day, looking at the sun and the light of the sun.

Of course.

Finally, I suppose, he'd be able to see the sun, not images of it in water or some alien place, but the sun itself, in its own place, and be able to study it.

Necessarily so.

And at this point he would infer and conclude that the sun provides the seasons and the years, governs everything in the visible world, and is in some way the cause of all the things that he used to see.

It's clear that would be his next step. What about when he reminds himself of his first dwelling place, his fellow prisoners, and what passed for wisdom there? Don't you think that he'd count himself happy for the change and pity the others?

Certainly.

And if there had been any honors, praises, or prizes among them for the one who was sharpest at identifying the shadows as they passed by and who best remembered which usually came earlier, which later, and which simultaneously, and who could thus best divine the future, do you think that our man would desire these rewards or envy those among the prisoners who were honored and held power? Instead, wouldn't he feel, with Homer, that he'd much prefer to "work the earth as a serf to another, one without possessions," and go through any sufferings, rather than share their opinions and live as they do?

I suppose he would rather suffer anything than live like that.

Consider this too. If this man went down into the cave again and sat down in his same seat, wouldn't his eyes—coming suddenly out of the sun like that—be filled with darkness?

They certainly would.

And before his eyes had recovered—and the adjustment would not be quick—while his vision was still dim, if he had to compete again with the perpetual prisoners in recognizing the shadows, wouldn't he invite ridicule? Wouldn't it be said of him that he'd returned from his upward journey with his eyesight ruined and that it isn't worthwhile even to try to travel upward? And, as for anyone who tried to free them and lead them upward, if they could somehow get their hands on him, wouldn't they kill him?

They certainly would.

This whole image, Glaucon, must be fitted together with what we said before. The visible realm should be likened to the prison dwelling, and the light of the fire inside it to the power of the sun. And if you interpret the upward journey and the study of things above as the upward journey of the soul to the intelligible realm, you'll grasp what I hope to convey, since that is what you wanted to hear about. Whether it's true or not, only the god knows. But this is how I see it: In the knowable realm, the form of the good is the last thing to be seen, and it is reached only with difficulty. Once one has seen it, however, one must conclude that it is the cause of all that is correct and beautiful in anything, that it produces both light and its source in the visible realm, and that in the intelligible realm it controls and provides truth and understanding, so that anyone who is to act sensibly in private or public must see it.

I have the same thought, at least as far as I'm able.

Come, then, share with me this thought also: It isn't surprising that the ones who get to this point are unwilling to occupy themselves with human affairs and that their souls are always pressing upwards, eager to spend their time above, for, after all, this is surely what we'd expect, if indeed things fit the image I described before.

It is.

What about what happens when someone turns from divine study to the evils of human life? Do you think it's surprising, since his sight is still dim, and he hasn't yet become accustomed to the darkness around him, that he behaves awkwardly and appears completely ridiculous if he's compelled, either in the courts or elsewhere, to contend about the shadows of justice or the statues of which they are the shadows and to dispute about the way these things are understood by people who have never seen justice itself?

That's not surprising at all.

No, it isn't. But anyone with any understanding would remember that the eyes may be confused in two ways and from two causes, namely, when they've come from the light into the darkness and when they've come from the darkness into the light. Realizing that the same applies to the soul, when someone sees a soul disturbed and unable to see something, he won't laugh mindlessly, but he'll take into consideration whether it has come from a brighter life and is dimmed through not having yet become accustomed to the dark or whether it has come from greater ignorance into greater light and is dazzled by the increased brilliance. Then he'll declare the first soul happy in its experience and life, and he'll pity the latter—but even if he chose to make fun of it, at least he'd be less ridiculous than if he laughed at a soul that has come from the light above.

What you say is very reasonable.

If that's true, then here's what we must think about these matters: Education isn't what some people declare it to be, namely, putting knowledge into souls that lack it, like putting sight into blind eyes.

They do say that.

But our present discussion, on the other hand, shows that the power to learn is present in everyone's soul and that the instrument with which each learns is like an eye that cannot be turned around from darkness to light without turning the whole body. This instrument cannot be turned around from that which is coming into being without turning the whole soul until it is able to study that which is and the brightest thing that is, namely, the one we call the good. Isn't that right?

Yes.

Then education is the craft concerned with doing this very thing, this turning around, and with how the soul can most easily and effectively be made to do it. It isn't the craft of putting sight into the soul. Education takes for granted that sight is there but that it isn't turned the right way or looking where it ought to look, and it tries to redirect it appropriately.

So it seems.

Now, it looks as though the other so-called virtues of the soul are akin to those of the body, for they really aren't there beforehand but are added later by habit and practice. However, the virtue of reason seems to belong above all to something more divine, which never loses its power but is either useful and beneficial or useless and harmful, depending on the way it is turned. Or have you never noticed this about people who are said to be vicious but clever, how keen the vision of their little souls is and how sharply it distinguishes the things it is turned towards? This shows that its sight isn't inferior but rather is forced to serve evil ends, so that the sharper it sees, the more evil it accomplishes.

Absolutely.

However, if a nature of this sort had been hammered at from childhood and freed from the bonds of kinship with becoming, which have been fastened to it by feasting, greed, and other such pleasures and which, like leaden weights, pull its vision downwards—if, being rid of these, it turned to look at true things, then I say that the same soul of the same person would see these most sharply, just as it now does the things it is presently turned towards.

Probably so.

And what about the uneducated who have no experience of truth? Isn't it likely—indeed, doesn't it follow necessarily from what was said before—that they will never adequately govern a city? But neither would those who've been allowed to spend their whole lives being educated. The former would fail because they don't have a single goal at which all their actions, public and private, inevitably aim; the latter would fail because they'd refuse to act, thinking that they had settled while still alive in the faraway Isles of the Blessed.

That's true.

It is our task as founders, then, to compel the best natures to reach the study we said before is the most important, namely, to make the ascent and see the good. But when they've made it and looked sufficiently, we mustn't allow them to do what they're allowed to do today.

What's that?

To stay there and refuse to go down again to the prisoners in the cave and share their labors and honors, whether they are of less worth or of greater.

Then are we to do them an injustice by making them live a worse life when they could live a better one?

You are forgetting again that it isn't the law's concern to make any one class in the city outstandingly happy but to contrive to spread happiness throughout the city by bringing the citizens into harmony with each other through persuasion or compulsion and by making them share with each other the benefits that each class can confer on the community.⁴ The law produces such people in the city, not in order to allow them to turn in whatever direction they want, but to make use of them to bind the city together.

RELATIONSHIPS

Relationships in general

0001 | Easter on the effects of loneliness vs. solitude

The physical and mental health effects of this epidemic are substantial. Scientists at Brigham Young University found that it doesn't matter how old you are or how much money you have, being lonely increases your risk of dying in the next 7 years by 26 percent. Overall, it can shorten life by 15 years. That's equivalent to smoking half a pack of cigarettes a day. Good relationships are also, according to another study conducted over 80 years by researchers at Harvard, a key ingredient to happiness across your life span. Good relationships beat fortune and fame.

Which is why a growing wave of government reports and popular books, podcasts, and TED Talks are calling attention to the loneliness problem and giving advice on how to be less lonely. The messages are essentially "Get out there with a positive attitude, buddy! Do work at a coffee shop or library! Go to a party or concert! Join a softball team or running club! Talk to strangers!"

These methods are probably helpful and we should surely all work on building strong human bonds. But I'm also skeptical of the idea that, say, some Coors-swilling guy who plays shortstop for a softball team I signed up for could ever provide me with real emotional support or insight into myself.

I can't help but think that in today's increasingly hyperconnected and tribal society—where we define ourselves by the group or movement we belong to—it's not a bad idea to occasionally be alone. Removed from anyone. I'm talking about time with yourself, unidentified with anything. The Buddha, Lao-Tzu, Moses, Milton, Emerson, and many more have spoken highly of the benefits of solitude.

A growing field of scientists today think that these solitude-seekers were onto something. Building "the capacity to be alone" may be just as important for you as forging good relationships. "The capacity to be alone is essentially the ability to be alone with yourself and not feel uncomfortable or like you have to distract yourself," said Matthew Bowker, PhD, a professor of psychology at Medaille College. (TCC PDF 78-79)

Wives

0001 | Breaking your sexual dependency on your wife

Other women

0001 | Deida on experiencing the blessing of a woman with feminine energy

If you are like most men, you probably hide the amount of sexual attraction you feel toward women every day. At work, on the street, and in the grocery store, you see women that turn you on. Sometimes you might want to have sex with them. But many times the feeling is more of a wave of refreshment washing through you. Seeing an especially radiant woman can fill your whole day with delight. A woman's exquisite scent can transport you to an enchanted paradise. A woman's smile can melt the moment into sheer beatitude.

There are two ways to deal with your daily "ahhh" of attraction to the feminine: wisely and foolishly. To respond wisely, you must understand why you are attracted to whom. Your sexual essence is always attracted to its energetic reciprocal. Masculine men are attracted to feminine women. Feminine men are attracted to masculine women. Balanced men are attracted to balanced women.

About 80% of all men have a more masculine sexual essence. These men, of whom you are probably one, are attracted to all things feminine. Not just feminine women, but anything with feminine energy, anything which is radiant, alive, enlivening, relaxing, and moving. Feminine energy gets you out of your head and into your body. Music, beer, nature, women, they are all forms of feminine energy.

It is not just a visually gorgeous woman who attracts you. If a woman is free and radiant in her feminine energy, you are probably attracted; sometimes more attracted, sometimes less attracted, but always attracted, at least enough to steal a glance at her form. This attraction is not only natural, but healthy. It is a sign of polarity, the same kind of natural flow of polarization by which electricity flows between the positive and negative poles of a battery. It's nothing to be ashamed of. It's why there are men and women. The nature of nature is polarity, from the magnetism that flows between the north and south poles of the earth, to the attraction that flows between your masculine core and the feminine radiance of a woman.

If you feel uncomfortable with your attraction to women, you are probably uncomfortable with your own masculine essence. If you feel it is demeaning for a woman to be the "object" of your polar attraction, then you have probably disowned your masculine core. You have energetically emasculated yourself by condemning and suppressing your native desires. You are negating your sexual essence, rather than being at home with it.

Any negative attitude you have about your attraction to women is a sign of fear; somewhere along the line you learned that such attraction was "bad" or "evil." Your attraction to women, all kinds of women, is natural, normal, and beautiful. In fact, it is an aspect of the same desire that will ultimately lead you toward spiritual freedom.

Your desire for a woman is an aspect of your desire for pleasurable oneness. Your confession of desire is a confession of your desire to embrace life. To embrace life, to relax into oneness so that all opposites, including masculine and feminine, find their unity in love, is to be spiritually free. Eventually you will recognize that all desire is an aspect of your native impulse to give love. From beginning to end, your attraction to women can be seen as the essential gesture of your heart, your desire for love and unity.

If you are a man with a masculine sexual essence, you will always feel sexual polarity with anyone who animates feminine energy. You may feel this attraction many times a day, with many women. Enjoy it. Women are a blessing! The feminine, even in the non-human forms of a lush tropical island, a cold beer, or your favorite tune, could make the difference between dreariness and ahhhing in ecstasy. Our acceptance of sexual attraction, even with music and places, is at the root of our capacity to experience bodily pleasure.

Sexual attraction, however, is very different from having sex. There is a big difference between choosing to be intimate with a woman and simply being attracted to her energy and radiance. Intimacy is a choice between people who want to commit to loving and serving one another. Whereas the zing of attraction is a choiceless natural flow of energy between your masculine core and feminine energy, wherever it is found. When a woman is relaxed in her feminine radiance, she is like beautiful music or a warm ocean breeze. You don't need to have sex with her to savor inexpressible joy.

If you are like most men, a radiant woman can inspire you for hours or days. Remember, the desire she arouses in you is a blessing in itself. Acting on that desire and pursuing her is another matter entirely, dependent on whether such an action would truly serve both of you or not. But the mere inspiration felt while beholding a radiant woman is one of nature's gifts to you: the gift of feminine blessing.

The next time you come upon a woman who sends a thrill through your body, relax into the thrill. Let her waves of feminine energy move through your body like a deep massage. Breathe fully, without resisting the joy her sighting affords you. Breathe the joy all through your body, down to your toes. Don't stare at her, don't even interact with her. But when you see her, and you experience your attraction, fully allow the energy of attraction to move freely through your body. Learn to magnify and sustain your desire, so your whole body and breath open and deepen by its force. As you behold her, receive her vision as a blessing (The Way of the Superior Man, chapter 23).

BLESSINGS, LESSONS I'VE LEARNED, AND SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCES

BLESSINGS

Patriarchal Blessing (3 July 2005)

Introduction

I received this blessing on July 3, 2005. It was given by George Richard Runyan, who at the time was the patriarch of the Vernal Utah Ashley Stake. I received it at his home, with both of my parents present.

The sentence numbers are not part of the original blessing; I have added these to simplify references I make to the blessing.

Blessing

1. Bryce Scott Gessell by the authority of the holy Melchizedek priesthood and as a patriarch I lay my hands upon your head and give you your patriarchal blessing. 2. Bryce your Father in Heaven loves you and is very pleased with you and your desires to serve him. 3. You are of the tribe of Ephraim and through that tribe you will receive your blessings. 4. The blessings of Abraham Isaac and Jacob are very important to all who have accepted the gospel. 5. As a young man you will have the responsibility to go into the world and teach the gospel of Jesus Christ, to bring souls unto Christ and help prepare the world for the coming of the Savior. 6. As a missionary you will have the Spirit to guide and direct you. 7. I bless you that you will be a good missionary. 8. Obey the mission rules and you will have success in your work and in your assignments.

[paragraph break]

9. Your example and testimony will make it possible for you to be a leader in the Church. 10. I bless you that you will have the keys of the priesthood at one time or another to administer in the kingdom and to lead the work. 11. In your leadership callings I bless you that you will have patience. 12. The ability to learn from others. 13. Take counsel and make decisions which are appropriate for the circumstances at the time.

[paragraph break]

14. I would admonish you to always keep your mind focused on those things which are eternal and not let worldly things become important in your life. 15. As a servant of your Father in Heaven you will be able to affect the lives of many people. 16. They will love and appreciate you for your service. 17. Remember you are a child of your Father in Heaven and a servant of Jesus Christ. 18. Strive to be like Him and follow His example.

[paragraph break]

19. As you determine what your life occupation will be I bless you that you will be directed by the Spirit. 20. You will find something that will provide for you and your family. 21. Keep in mind that your availability to your Father in Heaven is very important in giving service.

[paragraph break]

22. I bless you that you will be able to find a wonderful and sweet woman to take to the Temple and be sealed for time and all eternity. 23. One you can live with congenially and raise a family and have the Spirit in your home. 24. I bless you that you will have the ability to lead your family as a righteous father and be the example that they need to help them become what they should be.

[paragraph break]

25. You will have the opportunity to be a leader in the community. 26. Through this experience you will have the opportunity to bear witness of the gospel truths and teach the gospel. 27. There will be many who will be affected by your example and service.

[paragraph break]

28. I bless you with the gift of healing. 29. Through the Melchizedek priesthood and the Spirit you can administer and pronounce blessings that would be appropriate, which will benefit your family and those with whom you work.

[paragraph break]

30. I bless you with the ability to find those who are in need. 31. You will be able to determine what they lack and how you can serve them. 32. You will be able to help people who are less active and those who do not know the gospel.

[paragraph break]

33. I bless you that you will be successful in your occupation. 34. Remember to seek first the kingdom of God and the things which you need will be supplied for you.

[paragraph break]

35. Make your home and your life a place where the Spirit can dwell. 36. Do not allow into your home anything that would drive away the Spirit. 37. There is so much evil in the world. 38. You need to protect yourself and your family from Satan's influence. 39. As a husband, a father and a priesthood holder you can bring into your home that which would help each one love the gospel and return to live with their Father in Heaven.

[paragraph break]

40. You will have difficulties and trials in your life. 41. Your strong testimony and love for your Father in Heaven and your Savior Jesus Christ will carry you through any difficulties that you might have.

[paragraph break]

42. I bless you with a quickness of mind that you be able to learn quickly and retain those things which you need to know. 43. You will be able to be efficient in your service to your Father in Heaven and in your occupation.

[paragraph break]

44. You will have the gift of understanding to be able to evaluate circumstances and make good decisions. 45. Those who are around you will benefit from this blessing.

[paragraph break]

46. These blessings are all contingent upon your faithfulness and through the will of the Lord. 47. In the name of Jesus Christ, amen.

Blessing from President Openshaw (16 June 2007)

Introduction

I received this blessing on June 16, 2007. President Openshaw finished his service a few weeks later and went home. He gave a personal blessing to every departing missionary during that missionary's final interview. Since I knew he would be gone by the time I had my final interview, I asked him to give me an interview early, which he did. This blessing was the final part of the interview.

Before he gave the blessing, I prayed so that I would be able to remember as much as possible from what he said. As soon as he was done, I thanked him and went to a large upstairs bathroom, where I prayed again and then wrote as much as I still had in my mind. I no longer know if I missed anything; my impression at the time was that I had missed one or two statements but had recorded everything else. I have no way of checking the accuracy of what I have, but I did not write anything that I didn't remember distinctly.

I added the sentence numbers later.

Blessing

1. The Lord recognizes the sacrifice that you have made not only in your time and in your life but in opening up your heart.
2. I bless you so that this process will continue.
3. You will have many callings—important callings—in the church which will be of grave importance in the lives of others and the building of the kingdom.
4. I bless you with the gift of discernment, to see the needs of others and how to resolve them, and not only that, but to see beyond what they want to hear in order to see what the Lord wants them to know.
5. I bless you with the courage to tell it to them.
6. There will be people who will be offended by your honesty but over time a reputation of your integrity and loyalty to the Lord will grow and there will be those who will come from other stakes and other parts of the world to seek your guidance.
7. There will be moments in your life in which the temptation to leave the church behind along with the testimony you have gained and the covenants you have made will be strong, but I bless you that you will never, never fall away from what you know and the testimony you have gained.
8. I bless you that you will do the four things that Alma taught Helaman his son—pray, read the scriptures, live the life of a child of God, and bear testimony of what you know.
9. These things will be very important.
10. I bless you to never forget the experiences that you have had in your mission, and to remember the profound feelings that have welled up in you in lessons with converts.¹

¹"Welled up in you" is not the exact original phrase, but I have forgotten what it was.

11. I bless you to not only remember the experiences with converts, but the experiences with your companions (you will have many trials in your life, but the beauty of their lives will be a source of comfort for you).
12. Communicate with them.
13. I bless you to seek a university in which you will be able to testify of Jesus Christ and in which you can bear witness of what you know.
14. I bless you to have a wife that loves you.
15. I bless you that you will have the humility you need to accept the counsels of your wife and to apply them in your life.
16. I bless you that through daily routines and habits, you will have the power to overcome the temptations which you face in your life.
17. Through habits you will be able to develop yourself.
18. I bless your children to follow your example.
19. They will love the scriptures because you love the scriptures.
20. They will talk of doctrine because you talk of doctrine.
21. They will want to serve others because they will see you and your wife doing it, and they will be good missionaries.
22. I bless you so that the Lord can be as close to you as you would like him to be.
23. I bless you to not only feel the love of the Lord, but to feel His presence in your heart, and to know He is there.
24. I bless you to feel His presence very closely in the time between your arrival at home and the beginning of your career.
25. I bless you that your heart will always follow the promptings of the Holy Spirit.
26. I bless you that you will be able to work longer and harder than most people.
27. I bless your mind to be open to new thoughts and new ways of thinking, that you will be able to study and understand, and that you will be able to analyze material and return it with creativity and skill.
28. I bless your body from your feet to your head, so your muscles and bones and organs will work as they were designed to work, and they will respond to the priesthood.
29. I bless you with health, to avoid sickness, and to be healthy.
30. I bless you to be able to remember the things you study.
31. (President Openshaw, at a gathering of returned missionaries, October 5, 2007: ("The only way you aren't going to receive these blessings if is you do not accept them."))

Blessing from Scott Gessell (5 August 2018)

Introduction

I don't remember much about the circumstances of this blessing. I was in Utah at the time because we were living in Provo while I taught at BYU for a summer term. Being at BYU had been difficult, but we were having a good time overall, I think.

I think what happened is that I was having a very difficult time gearing up for the job market in the fall, and was going through the extreme uncertainty and anxiety that went along with that. I didn't know where I stood with BYU—and, as I found out later, my standing with them wasn't good—and I was worried about other possible jobs as well.

From the few journal entries I had at that time, it's clear I was feeling very worried:

30 June 2018 I went to the library briefly to look over some materials for class on Monday, since I haven't taught this stuff before (Newton), and Travis Anderson said he was going to try to observe, so I feel like I need to be more prepared than normal. It was not awkward meeting Travis. I hope he is able to come and I've been praying a lot that things will go well.

16 July 2018 Today was a good day for me at work. I talked to Felipe and got some clarity about what I've been working on, and I got back on track. I feel better, but it's been hard. This is not my ideal situation. I have liked BYU and have felt more comfortable than I thought I would, but this still is hard for me. Less routine, not at our own house, all of that. Not my strength.

7 August 2018 Man I have been really bad at writing. It's a shame too because we have had a lot of fun. So much seeing family, so much with the kids, Vernal, it's just been great. Extremely difficult for me for lots of reasons, but great.

I asked my dad for this blessing just a few days before writing that entry for 7 August, and so I was really messed up with everything that was happening. Oh, and Alicia was pregnant with Felicity.

That's all the background I know, at least for now.

Blessing

Bryce Scott Gessell, in the name of Jesus Christ, and by the authority of the Melchizedek priesthood, I lay my hands upon your head, to give you this blessing of comfort and of counsel, and of direction, and indeed knowledge in your life.

Bryce, you have been faithful and diligent and loyal to the things that are so important to you and to your family; to the gospel, to your future career, to your schooling. I bless you that you will continue to be diligent and loyal and active in the things that are so important to you, in these things from God, that has given you great blessings in your life.

Remember the scripture, Doctrine and Covenants 82:3, that says, where much is given, much is required. You have been given much in your life, not only because of your membership in the gospel of Jesus Christ, but because of your loyalty, and the things that you have been doing and the choices you have made to this point. I bless you that you will continue to be wise, that you will continue to make decisions that are beneficial for yourself and especially your family.

At this point in your life, Bryce, you are coming upon a crossroads, and a culmination of many years of work; and decisions will need to be made in the future that will have a great impact upon you and your family. I bless you that you will stay extremely close to the Spirit, and that you will invite personal revelation into your life. Seek after this personal revelation diligently through your scripture study, through personal prayers, and through temple worship.

Remember that you, Bryce, are the patriarch of your family; and because of this, you will feel anxious about many of the decisions that you have to make. But remember that Heavenly Father does not want you to make these decisions alone. You need to include him, in your personal prayers and in your pleadings, and you also need to include Alicia, as she has been the foundation for many of your blessings. Counsel together often; see that the needs of your family are met. There are so many different variables that come into play, and that will come into play in the coming years—do not take on this responsibility of decision-making alone, but include others in your life.

I bless you that you will seek out the support beyond our Heavenly Father and beyond Alicia, that you will seek out the support of those who will make decisions on your behalf. Use your personality, Bryce, use your ability to communicate with them. Be up front and open and honest with them; talk to them often, and remember that opportunities that Heavenly Father provides are for your benefit; that you have been given the right to choose which opportunities are best for you and your family.

I further bless you that you will remain calm, you will remain collected, and you will be focused on those things which are beneficial first and foremost to your family, and not just in the short term, but in the long term.

I bless you that you will have the desire and the energy you need to go above and beyond expectations of others, and even beyond your own expectations, that you will find success in all your endeavours. Remember that, as you move forward in life, there will be times when challenges and difficulties arise, that will seem to put roadblocks and detours in front of you. Know that these are only temporary impediments to your future, and you have been given the gift of knowledge and education, in order to overcome anything that Satan puts in your way.

I bless you that you will continue to remain calm with the baby, the upcoming addition to your family; that you will be able to adapt well to a third child, and that you will give that child the love that is needed in order to progress here on this earthly life.

Now Bryce as you move forward, remember that you have a particular personality and teaching style, and it is of utmost importance that you be open with your teaching style, and that you find a place to teach that will be well-suited to your style.

And finally Bryce, I bless you that you will be able to look forward to the things that are in store for you, knowing that so many doors will open for you. I bless you that you will be excited about the future and the possibilities, and the things that haven't happened yet.

Bryce you are a wonderful father, you are a wonderful husband; may you continue on on your journey in this mortality, knowing that Heavenly Father loves you, knowing that your parents love you, and that Alicia, Addy, and Brigham love you so much. Heavenly Father is indeed proud of you as one of his sons, and I leave this with you, by the authority of the Melchizedek priesthood and in the name of our lord and our savior Jesus Christ, amen.

SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCES

Giving the “Why I Believe” devotional at the institute in 2023

Written 10/6/23

In fall 2023 I was asked by the institute council to give a devotional talk on the topic “Why I Believe.” I had a bit under two weeks to prepare and I initially wrote down some ideas in the first few days after they asked me but I didn’t pick it up again until the Sunday before I was supposed to speak (on a Friday).

I struggled to decide what to speak about. I wrote out many pages of notes on different topics, but as I went nothing really felt right. I wrote out some more notes on a different occasion and it still felt off. I was feeling lost, so I decided to fast on the Wednesday before I was to speak. I fasted and during the morning it occurred to me that I should just ask the students what they thought about it and what they wanted to hear. I did that in the minds/brains class and I ran into Quin and Kamryn Meyer on campus and asked for their thoughts too. They all gave me some very useful thoughts. I wrote them all down and later that same day I started writing down some new ideas that I felt were being given by the Spirit, and I continued to write during faculty meeting on Wednesday night.

On Thursday, the day before I spoke, I worked for a while more and got most of the new ideas in order. I had a late meeting that night and I went to it and when I got home I gave a practice talk to Alicia that had most of the material I felt like I had received after speaking to the students and fasting.

Alicia didn’t really like it. She said it had no structure and didn’t really answer the question of why I believe. We talked it over some and I agreed with some of the things she said and started to write out some different things in a different order. But I was really frustrated because I was really tired of working on it and tired of worrying about it, and also just tired because I wanted to go to bed.

The next morning, Friday, I woke up and grabbed my computer and typed a few additional ideas but I mainly prayed for the Spirit. I said, I still don’t really feel good about any of this, so please give me the Spirit in the moment so I can select from among all the ideas I’ve prepared.

The devotional came around and I got up to speak. I forgot to record it, which was a shame. But I started talking and only glanced at my notes a couple of times. What I said ended up being a mix of everything I had written at various times, and there was also material I hadn’t written.

People were receptive to what I said and it resonated with some of them. In conversations after the talk, I said a number of other things that I hadn’t said in the talk, but which I had prepared.

I had class soon after the devotional was over. I hadn’t prepared at all because I was so focused on the talk, but in that class we talked about my talk and about many other related issues. I ended up saying many more things that I had written down during my preparation, and some of those things were fairly direct answers to questions that students asked me during class.

Preparing for this devotional was a huge, frustrating struggle. It felt like I just couldn’t get anything right and everything felt off. I went into the speech not feeling good about almost any of it. But I realize now that the Lord was preparing me to speak not only in that devotional, but to people after the devotional and then again to my students in class. I needed to be ready to share all that material on different occasions, and the things I shared came from every prep session and version of the talk that I made. If I had gotten things right the first time, I wouldn’t have been able to prepare all the other material that I ended up using outside the devotional. I needed all of that to talk to everyone throughout the day.

In addition, several students emailed me after the devotional wanting to meet to talk over the things I had spoken about.

I felt that the Lord had me struggle through prep for a larger purpose that I was not aware of until after it had happened, and I realized that I hadn’t felt right about the prep because I needed to get a bunch of other things ready.

Another important lesson here is how the Lord used uncomfortable and unsettling feelings in order to get me to act in a particular way. It was the opposite of peace—it was not pleasant, it was anxiety-inducing, and it literally kept me up and night. But there was a job to do and the job got done, and unsettling feelings were the way to accomplish it.

It was also a lesson in preparing as well as I can and then turning it over to the Lord by asking the Spirit. He provided it and guided me during the talk.

LESSONS ABOUT MYSELF

My professional life

Meetings

- Run every meeting, no matter what, as though each person there is waiting for it to end so that they can go take care of young children. Don't drag it out; when it's over, end it; begin on time; end on time; get through it.
- JUST BECAUSE YOU ARE A LEADER DOES NOT MEAN PEOPLE WANT OR NEED TO HEAR FROM YOU! You do not need to finish every meeting by talking. You are not that interesting. You are not that insightful. Stop talking. Stop talking! STOP TALKING!!!

Research

- I am never going to stop wanting to research and write in contemporary philosophy. There will be times when I'm less interested, but I will always want to come back to it, so always leave the door open and plan for my desire to return.

Job searching and job market

- The academic job market is much more work than you realize or remember! Unless you are actively job-searching or have just completed an attempt at the job market, you don't remember what it's like! Do not decide flippantly to job-search in academia!
 - The work of preparing job documents, deciding where to apply, writing cover letters and customizing job materials, and so on, is much more time-consuming than you remember.
 - This work is also much more draining than you remember. If you go on the market all the way, you will not have energy to work on other writing or research projects.
 - You will have to set aside all your other projects until you are completely done filling out all your materials, and even then, you may have to prepare for interviews, which will also take a long time.
 - Do not think that you can stack applying for jobs onto everything else! You cannot! You will not get anything else done!

LESSONS ABOUT CALLINGS AND THE CHURCH

Working with YSAs

- Lessons we learned from my time in the YSA bishopric
 - We did not issue almost any callings after about the third week. We never returned to this in bishopric meeting, the result was that if you didn't get a calling right away, you never got one.
 - Brett let the students fail. This was good.
 - We didn't give enough opportunities to the students to hang out in low-stakes smaller activities.
 - Brett wasn't very good at receiving feedback from us—there were times when we tried to be clear about what wasn't working and he either didn't listen or didn't care.
 - Brett talked too much in meetings, like fifth Sunday meetings and sacrament meetings.
- The most important thing in finding someone for a calling is finding who the Lord wants to be in that position.
 - Many times the Lord seems to be indifferent about this and there is no revelation to receive.
 - But you must be open, even to very different ideas—remember Christian Clement, who was called to be EQ president in our YSA ward in fall 2022. He's weird, socially awkward, possibly or even likely gay, a bad public speaker, a poor leader, and a lot of people don't take him seriously in any way. But he did more toward fulfilling the calling and trying to minister to people in the ward in three weeks than both of our presidents in the two semesters prior to that.

Working with YSAs

- Lessons will be more effective if I understand that I should be trying to create a group therapy session, instead of trying to teach principles that I've been thinking about or studying.
 - Principles are good, but what YSAs need is solidarity and support. They are going through many difficult things—I experienced those things too, but they are hard for me to remember.
 - Don't plan a lesson with the intent of teaching a particular principle. I will lift them more if I try to create an environment where they can share about their difficulties and draw strength from each other.
 - Along the way, I can teach principles and offer my own thoughts, but doing those things is not my primary aim.
- Do not blind yourself by focusing on traditional ways of doing things, especially in the YSA ward. The goal is to help people, not do what has been done before, or what is traditional to do. Think of new ways to do things!
-

LESSONS ABOUT FICTION WRITING

- 001 In the standard Saves the Cat beat sheet structure, the parts of Act 2 before the midpoint are where you will do a lot of your characterizations of secondary characters, places, and events in order to get payoffs from these assets later on.
- This means that you have to fill the “Fun and Games” parts the secondary characters, so that readers learn about them through the POV characters.
 - Think of Act 2 as moving pieces into place that you will then cash in on later as the things which have been moved into place begin to react and go off in the direction you want them to.
- 002 As you move forward in a book, you have to keep a character’s motivations fresh and realistic, and sometimes you have to change them entirely in order to keep them moving where you ultimately want them to do.
- I learned this when I got to the midway point of Sword Without. I realized that my original plan was to just give Rumara the very same motivations she had had previously, and I expected that to carry her all the way to Lakespring and to the end of the book.
 - But I realized this was much too weak; she needed an entirely new motivation, and so I had to redo a few things in order to give her a new task to get her where she needed to go.
 - The key here is discovering new subplots and stories that will keep the motivations new and interesting and powerful enough both for the characters and for the readers.
 - You can’t keep using the same motivations over and over again.
- 003 If you have outlined too much empty space in a story, and can’t figure out how to get your character to where they need to be for their final destination, then consider bringing the final destination closer to them.
- 004 After creating an initial outline, challenge yourself to shorten it by asking, what events can I cut? What events and chapters can I combine into one?
- 005 You have to make something real and tangible happen in the first couple of pages. You get a grace period with the reader, but don’t delay. Introduce the first few pieces, and make something real happen—the LAUNCH.
- The LAUNCH is the first real plot-driving event that happens.
 - When the LAUNCH needs to take place depends on several factors, including genre and the amount of information the characters and reader have about the situation they are in and what is happening.
 - For a book like Sword Without, because the characters are fully aware of the situation they are in, you can have them speak openly about the LAUNCH, and the reader thereby comes to know about the LAUNCH fairly early.
 - This means that you have a bit more of a grace period with the setup, because the reader ALREADY KNOWS the LAUNCH is coming, and so has that to look forward to.
 - For a book like Panopticon, you’ve got Hans, who has no idea where he is, who the aliens are, or what is going on.
 - This means that the LAUNCH needs to happen SOONER, since the reader has nothing else to go on or look forward to.
 - The reader does not and cannot know about the LAUNCH, so you have to make plot-relevant stuff happen SOONER. The LAUNCH has to happen EARLIER.
 - And I wonder if, in a book like this, the LAUNCH needs to be more dramatic, or more sudden, or something like that; it’s going to come out of nowhere, and you want it to really grab.
 - Consider also the utility of short chapters for a book like this.
- 006 In connection with 005, a major factor that must play a big role in structuring your plot is HOW MUCH THE CHARACTERS KNOW ABOUT THE SITUATION THEY ARE IN, because that level of knowledge determines HOW MUCH YOU WILL BE ABLE TO SHARE WITH THE READER ABOUT THE EVENTS THAT THEY OUGHT TO BE LOOKING FORWARD TO.
- 007 If you are going to have an alien race or some other unfamiliar creature/animal play an important role in a story, you must give a DETAILED, CRYSTAL CLEAR description of what they look like.
- 008 Things that need to happen in the setup:
- Hinting at the launch.
 - If appropriate, hinting at the events surrounding the break into 2.
 - Going with both of the previous things, giving the relationship between the launch and the break into 2.
- 009 The way I’m most creative and prolific in generating ideas for outlines:
- I learned this in working on the outline for Heaven’s Key.
 - I floundered for weeks, maybe longer, trying to think of ideas for the third act and really feeling like I was getting nowhere.
 - Then I had a few days in January and February 2024 when I was just sitting down to the mindmap and I started filling in details of characters and places.

- And then it just felt like new ideas were falling out of me, where I hadn't been able to have any new ideas before.
- The lesson is: my best process involves just sitting down and building out the world and characters as much as possible—as I do this, my mind makes connections and comes up with tons of new ideas to use for the plot.
- I can't force plot; I suck at just pulling plot ideas from nowhere.
- I'm much more creative when I'm building the world!

010 The only way to resolve mental blocks about the plot or other problems is to sit down and come up with other details for the story, including characters and their motivations.

- This is closely related to point #9.
- If you feel like the plot is a mess, it probably is.
- The way to fix it is to continue to develop other aspects of the story, including the setting, interesting event ideas, and so on.
- But the most important of all of these is the characters and their motivations.
- Once you start developing characters and giving them real, meaningful motivations, it will start to get easier to unravel plot problems.

011 The Circle Cycle of plot development

- I've been thinking about how getting ideas to work for Heaven's Key has been so difficult. My struggle has led to the insights in numbers #9 and #10.
- But I think I've also arrived at a more general method: think of the main nodes in a mindmap like points on the outside of a circle. The nodes are things like places, characters, cool events, mysteries, plot points, questions, and so on.
- So the development process is basically going around in a circle, from main node to main node, continually deepening the points in each node, and as you do it, making connections and adding to other nodes.
- So you go to characters, and that gives you ideas for plots, and plots give you requirements for characters and places, and so on.
- You have the nodes in a circle, and you develop the story by cycling around the circle and adding material as you go.

012 Are you really ready to start writing the book?

- In order to actually be ready, you need the following, in addition to all the story, setting, and character notes:
 - Maps of all key locations
 - Lists of important characters or titles
 - Lists of important vocabulary to remember to use (you add to this as you go along)
 - Any other lists you need to remind of important things
 - A long list of incidental characters that can be brought up or referred to

MEETING NOTES

APPENDICES

HEBREW INDEX

1. אֲזִימִים, in Urim and Thummim
2. בְּכֹרִים, in Firstfruits
3. בְּרִית, in Covenant
4. דְּלִל, in Isaiah 14:12
5. הֵר, in Temple
6. חֲנוּכָּה, in The garden portion of the endowment
7. חֶסֶד, in Mercy
8. חֻק, in Statute
9. חֻקָּה, in Statute
10. לֵב, in Heart
11. מָשִׁיחַ, in Messiah
12. נִסָּה, in Temptation
13. פְּנֵעַ, in Intercession
14. צָבָא, in Sabaoth
15. רֵאשִׁית, in Firstfruits
16. שְׁמֵעַ, in Obedience
17. תְּזִמִּים, in Urim and Thummim

GREEK INDEX

1. ἀγαθός, in Goodness
2. ἁγιάζω, in Sanctification
3. ἁγιασμός, in Sanctification
4. ἀδικία, in Righteousness
5. ἀθανασία, in Immortality
6. αἰδιος, in Eternity
7. αἰών, in World
8. ἀκοή, in Obedience
9. ἄλλομαι, in Spring
10. ἁμαρτάνω, in Sin
11. ἁμαρτία, in Sin
12. ἀνασταυρόω, in Hebrews 6:6
13. ἀνομία, in Iniquity
14. ἀνόμως, in Law
15. ἀντί, in Antichrist
16. ἄνωθεν, in Again
17. ἀπαρχή, in Firstfruits
18. ἀπάτη, in Matthew 13:22
19. ἀπλοῦς, in Single
20. ἀποκαταλλάσσω, in Reconciliation
21. ἀπολύτρωσις, in Redemption
22. ἀπώλεια, in Perdition
23. ἀργός, in Idleness
24. ἀσεβής, in Ungodly
25. ἄφεσις, in Remission
26. ἀφθαρσία, in Incorruption
27. ἀφίημι, in Remission
28. βαπτίζω, in Baptism
29. δαμονιώδης, in James 3:15
30. διαθήκη, in Covenant
31. δικαίω, in Justification
32. δίκαιος, in Righteousness
33. δικαιοσύνη, in Righteousness
34. δικαίωσις, in Justification

35. δοξάζω, in Magnify
36. δύναιμι, in Power
37. ἐγκρατεύομαι, in 1 Corinthians 9:25
38. ἐκλεκτός, in Election
39. ἐκλογή, in Election
40. ἐκπειράζω, in Temptation
41. ἐκχέω, in Shed
42. ἐλέγχω, in John 3:20
43. ἐλεημοσύνη, in Righteousness
44. ἔλκω, in Draw
45. ἔντευξις, in Intercession
46. ἐντυγχάνω, in Intercession
47. ἐξουσία, in Authority
48. ἔξω, in Outward
49. ἔξωθεν, in Outward
50. ἐπιγινώσκω, in Knowledge
51. ἐπιθυμέω, in Lust
52. ἐραυνάω, in Search
53. ἔσχατος, in End
54. εὐαγγέλιον, in Gospel
55. εὐσέβεια, in Godliness
56. ἑωσφόρος, in Isaiah 14:12
57. ζάω, in Life
58. ζωοποιέω, in Quicken
59. θεοσέβεια, in Godliness
60. θειότης, in Godliness
61. θεότης, in Godliness
62. καλός, in Goodness
63. καταβολή, in Foundation (supplement)
64. κατακρίνω, in Damnation
65. καταλαμβάνω, in Comprehend
66. καταλλαγή, in Atonement
67. καταλλάσσω, in Reconciliation
68. καταρτίζω, in 2 Nephi 9:23
69. κολαφίζω, in Buffet
70. κόλπος, in Bosom

71. κόσμος, in World
72. κρίμα, in Damnation
73. κρίνω, in Judge
74. κρίσις, in Damnation
75. λογίζομαι, in Count
76. λόγος, in Word
77. λύτρωσις, in Redemption
78. λύχνος, in Light
79. μακάριος, in Blessing
80. μεγαλύνω, in Magnify
81. μέριμνα, in Matthew 13:22
82. μετοχή, in 2 Corinthians 6:14
83. μοιχεύω, in Adultery
84. μυστήριον, in Mystery
85. νικάω, in Overcome
86. νίκη, in Overcome
87. οἶδα, in Knowledge
88. οἰκοδομέω, in Edification
89. οἰκοδομή, in Edification
90. οἰκονομία, in Edification
91. οἰκουμένη, in World
92. παράβασις, in Transgression
93. παράκλητος, in Comforter
94. παρασκευή, in DC 19:19
95. πάρεσις, in Remission
96. παρθένος, in Virgin
97. πειράζω, in Temptation
98. πληρόω, in Fulness
99. πλήρωμα, in Fulness
100. πνεῦμα, in Spirit
101. πνευματικός, in Spiritual
102. πονηρός, in Evil
103. πραΰς, in Meekness
104. πρωτότοκος, in Firstborn
105. πτωχός, in Poor
106. σκανδαλίζω, in Offense

107. σπλαγχνίζω, in Bowels
108. σπλάγχνον, in Bowels
109. συναπάγω, in Condescension
110. συνεκλεκτός, in Election
111. συντέλεια, in End
112. σφραγίζω, in Seal
113. ταπεινοφροσύνη, in Humility
114. ταπεινός, in Humility
115. ταπεινώ, in Humility
116. τέλειος, in Perfection
117. τελειότης, in Perfection
118. τελειόω, in Perfection
119. τελείωσις, in Perfection
120. τελειωτής, in Perfection
121. τέλος, in End
122. τιμή, in Honor
123. ὕδωρ, in Water
124. ὑπερεντυχάνω, in Intercession
125. ὑπομένω, in Endure
126. ὑποτάσσω, in Subdue
127. φαίνω, in Shine
128. φανερός, in Outward
129. φαῦλος, in Evil
130. φρόνημα, in Romans 8:6
131. φθαρτός, in Corruption
132. φθορά, in Corruption
133. φῶς, in Light
134. φωτίζω, in Light
135. Χριστός, in Christ
136. ψυχή, in Life
137. ψυχικός, in Natural

TALK IDEAS

View Lehi/Nephi/promised land story and celestial kingdom View this study as a type of our trying to enter into the highest degree of the celestial kingdom (1N) Requires being married (1N 7:1); requires great sacrifice; knowledge from the Lord; death and resurrection (into the water/coming out of it), etc. See 1N 8:1, seeds; other verses that mention seed(s). Connect to Lehi's vision, the fruit desirable to make one happy? And connect that to 2N 5:27 and 2N 9:43? Lots of other connections to make here, in his dream and the way he describes the fruit and everything. So you see Lehi's dream as an allegorical expression of what is happening to his family as they journey to the new land; and then you see both of those as allegorical expressions of our journey to the highest degree of the celestial kingdom. Lehi wants his FAMILY to partake of it. Water in both the vision and the journey to the new land (the sea). Tree in the vision; they take seeds for "fruit of every kind" (8:1). Lehi doesn't go get them personally after taking the fruit; he beckons and calls to them only. Doesn't approach L/L either; he apparently just beckons and calls but they refuse. The role of the SEEDS they carry.

Track each testimony gained in 1 Nephi the gaining of each person's testimony, and the differences in experiences that each person has as they gain their testimonies (1N) Nephi and Sam, early. Sariah, when her sons return safely. Laman and Lemuel, perhaps earlier, but they say "we know of a surety" after Nephi shocks them in 1N 17:52–55, especially 55. What about Zoram? And the members of Ishmael's family? Track each person, very interesting. Note that Sariah uses the term "surety" in 5:8. Remember Lehi struggles with the food—each person has their own struggles and their own moments of conviction based on what is important to them.

The rod in Lehi's dream In Lehi's dream, how we go through the rod/temptation/fruit cycle over and over, and how in different aspects of our life we are on different places in different paths holding on to different "rods"

The tree of life in Lehi's dream with other trees Specifically with the tree of life as mentioned at the end of Alma 32, and how the word grows into that tree. Note also the connection to John 4 and the well of water springing up. I think this gives you a very new view on the tree in Lehi's vision and the possibilities for interpreting it. Remember with this, the word in Lehi's vision is the rod, but it's the seed in Alma. Interesting to compare.

Nephi's discussion of "plainness" at various places He uses the word a lot and is really into it. You could search for "plain" and "plainness" and see how he uses it.

The differences between how Limhi's and Alma's people escape I'm specifically interested in Mosiah 23:23 and 24:21, which explicitly says that no one except the Lord could deliver them; I'll have to check again, but I don't think this is said about Limhi's people. So what's the difference, and what differences does it cause in what the people do? Why are some situations such that the Lord is the only one who can deliver? How can we tell what situation we're in, if at all, and how should it change our behavior? See also Mosiah 29:19–20.

Compare and contrast the journeys across the water (1N/Ether) Note that Nephi's group goes crazy (18:9) and faces lots of setbacks in the weather (18:13); the boj's group praised the Lord the entire time (Eth 6:9; compare Nephi's attitude in 1N 18:16) but still faced lots of challenges (Eth 6:6–7). The main difference seems to be that the Lord caused the wind to blow the entire time in the boj's favor (Eth 6:5, 8), while with Nephi's group, because of their wickedness I'm guessing, they actually went in reverse, away from their goal (18:13). Note the contrast between 18:15, they're about to die, and Eth 6:10, no monster could break them, and they had light the entire time. Another good parallel: the boj's people had light the entire time, but for Nephi's group, their source of light was the Liahona, and it stopped working (18:12) until Nephi took charge again (18:21). Since they didn't have the light of the compass, they didn't know where to steer the ship, so they couldn't have even gotten there on their own if they had tried to fight the wind pushing against them. 1N 17:3 kind of describes this situation: when we're righteous, the Lord prepares the way before us. So a few morals:

- Nephi had the right attitude, but because of the people around him, he wasn't progressing.
- Being righteous isn't a guarantee of calm seas. But it is a guarantee that (1) we'll have the light of the Lord with us, and (2) the wind will always be pushing in the direction of the promised land, whatever happens.
- Sometimes, because of the decisions of other people, our prayers are totally ineffectual (1N 18:19).

"Views" of God's mysteries in Benjamin's story There is an interesting progression in what "views" of God's mysteries are unfolded to the people in the story of King Benjamin. Think of how the "unfolding" process occurs, where some parts that are visible are then no longer visible once a larger portion has unfolded; maybe some of those parts that aren't visible any longer, once we are "viewing" the good things in the future, are our sins and carnal nature.

The definition of sin Analyzing James 4:17 and what we learn from it about sin.

The difference between sin and transgression Embracing the growth mindset, which is like playing the game where sin is involved, versus looking for a commandment mindset, in which what you care about is fulfilling the commandments you have been given.

The relationship between joy and fun, or having fun Thinking specifically of Pook's essay on the fountain of youth, and Mosiah 3:19. Becoming like a child—not necessarily with the qualities listed in that verse, but with the much more salient qualities that children tend to have. This topic is related to the new birth, and gaining that childlike energy and zest for life is an important part of the new birth (and one of its primary goals!). See here for more. See also John 4:14 and notes there. See also the below idea "Becoming like a child in Mosiah 3:16–21."

Becoming like a child in Mosiah 3:16–21 Focusing on a few things in particular: (1) the qualities of children mentioned in verses 16–18 and 21 as a context for verse 19—see this note to Mosiah 3:18; (2) the unusual list of qualities associated with being a child in verse 19, which are not the ones that we normally associate with children; (3) the fact that people damn themselves (verse 18) unless they become like little children. Why is this? One thing little children do is grow, not just physically but mentally, spiritually, and emotionally, so becoming like a child involves adopting a growth mindset and working to reach an abundance mentality;

Limhi's people and Alma's people Compare/contrast the hardships and escapes of Limhi's people (Mo 20–22) and those of Alma's people (Mo 23–24) How are they similar? How are they different? Why does the Lord act differently in each case? How do the people respond differently? Note Mo 25:10 as well, which talks about the power of God in delivering them only when mentioning Alma; doesn't mention Limhi's people and the power of God. But then see Mo 25:16.

15 key BOM scriptures (for an institute class sometime? If I'm ever asked, I can imagine teaching an institute class where we focus on a single BOM verse every week, for a total of between 12–15 verse throughout the semester. Here are some ideas of verses such a course could include:

1. 1 Nephi 4:6 (leading into a discussion of this entire chapter, I think; see footnotes in 1 Nephi 4.)
2. 1 Nephi 10:17 (maybe in conjunction with Mormon 9:21?)
3. Mosiah 3:16
4. Mosiah 3:19

Retaining a remission of sin Look at how this works in the scriptures, with a focus on Mosiah 4:11–12.

Disruptions to our lives in 1 Nephi 16 Using the events of 1 Nephi 16, talk about how to respond to disruptions to our lives. Talk about how we must be in the discomfort zone in order to progress; talk about Nephi's ways of reacting to the disruption, and the ways of everyone else. Make a point that it is better to think about this story in terms of each character being a separate part of ourselves—that is, each of us has inside of us a Nephi, a Lehi, a Laman, and Sariah, the daughters of Ishmael, etc. And we allow different characters to control our thoughts and actions and habits at different times. I also have some footnotes that are relevant here.

How do we apply deliberate practice to developing righteousness?

The experience of Nephi's family as an example of developing self-mastery Notice that they are in the wilderness for eight years—and then they get to somewhere amazing! And then they still have to cross the waters because there is something even better!

John needing assurance that Christ was the one they sought See this note.

The conversion of Lamoni as an almost literal rebirth and resurrection (Al 18–19) This really starts at the end of 18, where Lamoni falls as if he were dead. He is raised as if from the dead by his wife—what significance does that have? Abish tells everyone the news; he gets up and "stands" (common when talking about the resurrection); many beautiful parallels here, including hand-to-hand contact as in the temple and through the veil; see also Al 47:22–24. A beautiful story with a beautiful parallel; this could be powerful when fleshed out. This is almost a literal rebirth for them. Note the word "ground" for the grave, parallels like that. The words are very particular. Note what the people say in 19:33, that they have no more desire to do evil. That's what Benjamin's people say in Mo 5:2. Those people didn't fall asleep or go unconscious, but they saw themselves "in their own carnal state, even less than the dust of the earth." There are two cases of death language there—the dust, referring to the grave, and their carnal state, for being carnally minded is death (Rom 8:6, 2N 9:39). So I shouldn't only be looking for the rebirth process in the scriptures, I should also be looking at how that process is a type of the resurrection, and how the language used to describe one is often used to describe the other. See also what happens with Lamoni's father, especially in 22:18, 22. For more about being dead in sin and raised from it, see Eph 2:1–6. This also answers a question about Al 13:3, what a preparatory redemption is. It's the new birth. It's a preparatory redemption because it isn't the big one that will happen when we are resurrected and glorified; but it's still a redemption, a passing from death unto life through a new birth. It's preparatory to the real one, in the same way that temple ordinances are preparatory to actual becoming a king/queen and priest/priestess. The new birth itself is a preparatory "ordinance," so to speak (and maybe an actual one), that will be fulfilled and actualized when we are resurrected and sanctified. See also Al 22:13, where the plan of redemption gets us out of the carnal state. See also: DC 84:26–27 (preparatory gospel is the gospel of repentance and baptism, and remission of sins); Alma's song in Alma 29 Compare to the other "songs" in the scriptures, like Nephi and the others in the OT. Compare also to Nephi's song in Hel 7:7–9.

Compare what Korihor taught to what the Zoramites believed Why would they have run him through and killed him? Compare what Alma et al. taught in response (Al 30–31; 32–34) For the first part, see 30:13 and 31:22, for example. For the second part, compare what Alma teaches about the effects of the word being "real" because they are "light" (32:35), to what Korihor preaches in 30:16.

Discuss how one has to LEARN to live a spiritual life As told by Alma to Helaman in Al 37:32–37. It may not come naturally—someone has to teach us how to do this. Related to deliberate practice and the gospel.

One way the Nephites fall Slowly setting aside what they know until they are left to their own strength (Hel 4) I read this chapter today, 11/30/2015, and felt a definite rebuke. Lately I haven't been very spiritually diligent, and I think this chapter explains why. I just let things slide and got too casual, relied on myself too much. A good chapter to use to call people to repentance. This is also related to the Independent Study talk on being spiritually awake.

The brother of Jared delays four years in calling on the Lord (Eth 2) Why did he wait four years, after they arrived at the water's edge? I bet he knew what was going to be required of him, and it was too much for him to think about; they were too happy there; his kids were growing up; they had already left behind other places that would have been good to live in; they get to the sea, and he's got to realize what the next step is. But he's scared and comfortable so he doesn't do anything about it. What's the next step for us spiritually? What sea are we facing down right now? What are we delaying or avoiding because we already know what's required of us, and how difficult it will be? The Lord didn't let them stop in other good places (Eth 2:7) because he had something better for them; what does the Lord have which is better for us, that we aren't receiving because we aren't calling on him to ask for his help in overcoming the last great hurdle?

The building of the barges to cross the sea (Eth 2) The brother of Jared asks how they are going to steer (19) without light. But they're inside the boat, and it's enclosed, so how could they steer whether they have light inside or not? By "light" he must mean, how are we going to know where we're going? This makes the story more interesting and the parallel to us more powerful—sometimes we're going to have to board barges in faith without being able to see where we're going at all. No light illuminates the forward path; all we can do is believe that we are being guided by the Lord in the proper way. Think of this story in comparison to Nephi's story of crossing the waters—the entire thing, from preparing the boat (Nephi had to learn how to build it/brother of Jared used his old boats as a model), to steering (Nephi had to steer vs. enclosed ship; see also 1N 18:13 vs. Eth 2:19), and so on. Notice the difference in the questions he asks about light—in 19 it's about steering, while in 22 it's about having light inside the vessel so they don't have to cross in darkness. Follow up on this with the information that it's 6:1–10.

The way the people cross the waters in Ether 6 They are tossed all over chaotically, but are overall on a course toward some place better.

Use the preparing of the stones as a metaphor to describe how the Lord answers questions Or how he gives a testimony, or how human writings become divine scripture—he takes what is already there and makes it shine with inspiration and divine light and intelligence (Eth 2–3) In our lives we are sometimes swallowed up in the depths of the sea (2:25). But the scriptures are a source of light for us, prepared to illuminate us when nothing else will. How do human writings become inspired? Humans take of the material that they already have, like stones, and think and refine and try to understand things as best they can. Then they approach the Lord with their questions and thoughts, each a precious stone that they have worked on refining. The Lord touches each one, causing each one to bring forth light and have power to guide on its own—he corrects mistakes; he sends a testimony; he causes ideas to shine with power that they didn't have before, by adding intelligence through the spirit; and so on. We take what we have to the Lord and he makes it shine.

The Lord appears to the brother of Jared (Eth 3) A few points to note:

- In 6 it doesn't say that the Lord appeared or arrived; he was already there, talking to the brother of Jared in person. But because of the veil he couldn't see him until a certain moment. Extremely powerful—how close is God to us when we pray? Are there times that he's right next to us, and we just can't discern him? He just stretched forth his hand, already being right there, and the the boj's perception changed.
- The pre-earth Christ, not having received a body, is able to physically interact with the stones. Not immaterial.
- The veil is taken off his eyes, not his mind or anything else. There's something about the perceptual faculty itself, beginning with the eye, that needs to be changed in order for us to perceive God. The physical matter and processes have to be changed, quickened maybe, in order for us to perceive the Lord. Note verses 19–20 here as well; it may be that the boj had gained so much knowledge, had so much experience with the Lord, that the veil had already been effectively removed from his mind, and what was blocking him know was the physical matter and processes of his perceptual capacities. The mental or intelligent component was already removed from the veil because he had already worked with the Lord so much.
- Note also that right before this the boj had been chastised by the Lord for not calling on him for four years (!). Then soon after that chastising experience, the Lord asks him how he wants to cross the waters with light (showing confidence in him), and then revealing himself to him (manifesting his worthiness). Extremely important I think.

The “order of the son of God” (DC 107) An interesting way to begin a discussion about the priesthood (in this section and elsewhere) could be to ask, why is the real name of the priesthood “the holy priesthood, after the order of the Son of God,” and not “the holy priesthood, after the order of God”? See my notes there for expansions on this idea, including John 5:26, the stuff about the law of Christ, and so on. All the priesthood stuff.

The metaphor of frost, dew, and gathering (DC 121) See the notes at verse 11 and verse 45; this parallel is worth looking at closely, both in the section and in the letter.

The ways of knowing, according to JS Compare JS's ways of coming to know God and spiritual things vs. those of, for example, Ibn Rushd in the Decisive Treatise; see DC 46:14 and notes there.

My experience with what I thought I did to Keaton Sin and memory.

οἱ δὲ εὐθὺς ἀφέντες in Matthew 4:20, 22 Talk about this phrase and how it's the same in both verses. If these verses were written about us, what would come next? What would we be leaving? Note that the last parts of the verses are identical too.

“If thou wilt”—“I will” in Matthew 8:2–3

How are we bound? (Matthew 12:29 and the later verses in Matthew 12) The later ones are about the man leaving his house after it's been swept out and cleaned. See also Mark 3:27.

Approaching Christ without the intent to make something happen, without faith See notes at the priesthood document for Mark 5:24–34.

TALKS

28 April 2024: EQ discussion on the talk “Covenant Belonging”

The talk for this discussion is Gong’s October 2019 talk “Covenant Belonging,” available here.

- Introducing Gong’s talk “Covenant Belonging”
 - This is the talk that bishop has asked us to read.
 - If you haven’t read it, it’s pretty interesting, and it’s worth taking a look.
 - Today we won’t be looking at all or even most of this—we’re going to focus on a few remarks that Gong makes in a few different places in order to push us into a larger discussion about Christ’s role in the plan of salvation.
 - So let’s take a look at a few passages from the talk.
 - * First, we’ll look at the seventh paragraph, which starts, “God’s ordinances and covenants...” Could someone read that paragraph for us?
 - * What really sticks out to me here is the last sentence, about redemption and salvation; they are possible because of Christ’s atonement.
 - * Then, two paragraphs later, Gong expands on that—he says, “Covenant belonging centers in Jesus Christ as ‘mediator of the new covenant’.”
 - * Christ is able to be this mediator because he performed the atonement. Again, the key here is his sacrifice; the gospel is nothing without it. Everything depends on that.
 - * Let’s read one more bit, a part about half way through the talk, in a paragraph that begins, “The Book of Mormon invites each of us...”
 - * Let’s focus on the last sentence.
 - * Gong says that “we can come by covenant to belong with God,” and by the idea of “covenant belonging,” he seems to mean the fact that we are join a community of followers of Christ when we make covenants.
 - * I want to explore this idea of making covenants in more detail, and I want to do it in order to approach a different question, that I think is fundamental for our understanding of the gospel.
- That question is, what is the relationship between the atonement and the priesthood?
 - We are not going to be able to answer this fully today; I am confident that I’m not able to answer it fully yet.
 - I hope one day to be able to.
 - But we can make some headway on it by looking at some scriptures.
- Let’s begin by reading some scriptures about people making covenants.
 - Gong is talking about covenant belonging, and he seems to be referring to our making covenants with God and with each other.
 - We can also think of covenant belonging in another sense, one that appears in different parts of the scriptures. So let’s take a look at some.
 - Mosiah 18:20–22
 - * sdf
 - 3 Nephi 9:17
 - * sdf
 - Moroni 7:48
 - * sdf
 - DC 11:30
 - * sdf
 - DC 25:1
 - * This one mentions women too; it isn’t just for men.
 - DC 34:3
 - * sdf
 - DC 35:2
 - * Important because it mentions the in-dwelling relationship.
 - * See also DC 50:43.
 - DC 39:4, DC 42:52, DC 45:8, etc.
 - The key here is that certain people “become the sons (or children) of God.”
 - * But why would that be?

- * Aren't we already the children of God? Why do the scriptures talk about us becoming the children of God, if we already are?
- * This language is referring to a new covenant relationship with God.
- But King Benjamin, after he gives his sermon, is more specific than this, and teaches us some other very important things.
 - * Let's begin reading at Mosiah 5:6.
 - * (Two important points: first, we become the children of Christ because of our covenant relationship with him; second, we are spiritually reborn through him; in other words, it is by virtue of his atonement that we are able to be spiritually reborn in this transformation.)
 - * (Read 4:2–3 and 5:1–8 to expand on these points.)
 - * (Then read Moses 6:66–68.)
 - * (Then get into the connection between the covenants we make and entering into the order of the priesthood.)
 - * (Then get into DC 107.)
 - * (Then get into, why is it called that? Why is the priesthood after the order of the son of God? Well, it is that way for us; we access the power of our heavenly parents through Christ; he is the mediator of the new covenant. Get into mediator as μεσίτης, “mediator, arbitrator, guarantor.”)
 - * Christ is the channel through which we get access to the priesthood power that makes salvation possible.
 - * But what makes it possible for Christ to do this?
 - * The answer is, the atonement.
 - * Matthew 28; DC 93:16–17
 - * DC 88, Alma 13
- By carrying out the atonement, Christ becomes the central figure in the plan of salvation, as he was always intended to be.
- Scriptures
 - Matthew 28:18, “And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth.”
 - * Note the difference between ἐξουσία and δύναμις.
 - * Note the alternate translations “has been given” or “was given”; “has been given” is far and away the most common translation in other versions.
 - * NICNT has “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me.”
 - * NIGTC has “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me.”
 - * This goes well with JS talking about salvation as triumphing over all enemies, the last of which is death; see quotes from JS below for 14 and 21 May 1843.
 - Hebrews 12:22–24, “But ye are come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels, To the general assembly and church of the firstborn, which are written in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect, And to Jesus the mediator of the new covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel.”
 - Alma 13:5, “or in fine, in the first place they were on the same standing with their brethren— thus this holy calling being prepared from the foundation of the world for such as would not harden their hearts, being in and through the atonement of the Only Begotten Son which was prepared—”
 - Moroni 10:33, “And again, if ye by the grace of God are perfect in Christ and deny not his power, then are ye sanctified in Christ by the grace of God through the shedding of the blood of Christ, which is in the covenant of the Father, unto the remission of your sins, that ye become holy, without spot.”
 - DC 76:56, “They are they who are priests and kings, who have received of his fulness, and of his glory;”
 - * Fulness of what? Of the Father.
 - * “And again, we saw the terrestrial world, and behold and lo, these are they who are of the terrestrial, whose glory differs from that of the church of the Firstborn who have received the fulness of the Father, even as that of the moon differs from the sun in the firmament” (DC 76:71)
 - * “These are they who receive of the presence of the Son, but not of the fulness of the Father” (DC 76:77)
 - * “Ye who are quickened by a portion of the celestial glory shall then receive of the same, even a fulness” (DC 88:29)
 - * See also DC 93:19.
 - DC 76:57, “And are priests of the Most High, after the order of Melchizedek, which was after the order of Enoch, which was after the order of the Only Begotten Son.”
 - DC 84:19–20, “And this greater priesthood administereth the gospel and holdeth the key of the mysteries of the kingdom, even the key of the knowledge of God. 20 Therefore, in the ordinances thereof, the power of godliness is manifest.”

- DC 88:5-13, "Which glory is that of the church of the Firstborn, even of God, the holiest of all, through Jesus Christ his Son— 6 He that ascended up on high, as also he descended below all things, in that he comprehended all things, that he might be in all and through all things, the light of truth; 7 Which truth shineth. This is the light of Christ. As also he is in the sun, and the light of the sun, and the power thereof by which it was made. 8 As also he is in the moon, and is the light of the moon, and the power thereof by which it was made; 9 As also the light of the stars, and the power thereof by which they were made; 10 And the earth also, and the power thereof, even the earth upon which you stand. 11 And the light which shineth, which giveth you light, is through him who enlighteneth your eyes, which is the same light that quickeneth your understandings; 12 Which light proceedeth forth from the presence of God to fill the immensity of space— 13 The light which is in all things, which giveth life to all things, which is the law by which all things are governed, even the power of God who sitteth upon his throne, who is in the bosom of eternity, who is in the midst of all things."
 - * More connections here between Christ experiencing all things, going below all things, and thus being connected to all things through the priesthood.
- DC 88:19-22, "For after it hath filled the measure of its creation, it shall be crowned with glory, even with the presence of God the Father; 20 That bodies who are of the celestial kingdom may possess it forever and ever; for, for this intent was it made and created, and for this intent are they sanctified. 21 And they who are not sanctified through the law which I have given unto you, even the law of Christ, must inherit another kingdom, even that of a terrestrial kingdom, or that of a telestial kingdom. 22 For he who is not able to abide the law of a celestial kingdom cannot abide a celestial glory."
- DC 93:16-17, "And I, John, bear record that he received a fulness of the glory of the Father; And he received all power, both in heaven and on earth, and the glory of the Father was with him, for he dwelt in him."
 - * It is only after the atonement that Christ receives this power.
- DC 107:1-6, "THERE are, in the church, two priesthoods, namely, the Melchizedek and Aaronic, including the Levitical Priesthood. 2 Why the first is called the Melchizedek Priesthood is because Melchizedek was such a great high priest. 3 Before his day it was called the Holy Priesthood, after the Order of the Son of God. 4 But out of respect or reverence to the name of the Supreme Being, to avoid the too frequent repetition of his name, they, the church, in ancient days, called that priesthood after Melchizedek, or the Melchizedek Priesthood. 5 All other authorities or offices in the church are appendages to this priesthood. 6 But there are two divisions or grand heads—one is the Melchizedek Priesthood, and the other is the Aaronic or Levitical Priesthood."
- Moses 6:62-68, "And now, behold, I say unto you: This is the plan of salvation unto all men, through the blood of mine Only Begotten, who shall come in the meridian of time. 63 And behold, all things have their likeness, and all things are created and made to bear record of me, both things which are temporal, and things which are spiritual; things which are in the heavens above, and things which are on the earth, and things which are in the earth, and things which are under the earth, both above and beneath: all things bear record of me. 64 And it came to pass, when the Lord had spoken with Adam, our father, that Adam cried unto the Lord, and he was caught away by the Spirit of the Lord, and was carried down into the water, and was laid under the water, and was brought forth out of the water. 65 And thus he was baptized, and the Spirit of God descended upon him, and thus he was born of the Spirit, and became quickened in the inner man. 66 And he heard a voice out of heaven, saying: Thou art baptized with fire, and with the Holy Ghost. This is the record of the Father, and the Son, from henceforth and forever; 67 And thou art after the order of him who was without beginning of days or end of years, from all eternity to all eternity. 68 Behold, thou art one in me, a son of God; and thus may all become my sons. Amen."
- Joseph Smith Translation Genesis 14, "And Melchizedek lifted up his voice and blessed Abram. Now Melchizedek was a man of faith who wrought righteousness and when a child he feared God and stoped the mouths of Lions and quenched the violence of fire and thus having been approved of God he was ordained  a high Priest after the order of the covenant which God made with Enoch it being after the order of the Son of God which order came not by man nor the will of men ~~but~~ of neither by father nor Mother neither by begining of days nor end of years but of God and was delivered unto men by the calling of his own voice according to his own will unto as many as beleived on his name for God having sworn unto Enoch and unto his seed with an oath by himself that every one being ordained after this order and calling should have power by faith to break Mountains to divide the seas to dry up watters to turn them out of their course to put at defiance the armies of nations to divide the earth to break every band to stand in the preasence of God to do all things according to his will according to his command subdue principalities and powers and this by the will of the Son of God which was from before the foundation of the world and men having this faith coming up unto this order of <God> were translated and taken up into heaven. And now Melchizedek was a Priest of this order therefore he obtained peace in Salam and was called the prince of peace and his people wrought righteousness and obtained ~~heaven~~ heaven and sought for the City of Enoch which God had before taken seperating it from the earth having reserved it unto the latter days or the end of the world and hath said and sworn with an oath that the heavens and the earth should come together and the sons of God should be tried so as by fire and this Melchizedek having thus established righteousness was called the King of heaven by his people or in other words the King of peace and he lifted up his voice and he blessed Abram being the high Priest and the keeper of the store house of God him whom God had appointed to receive tithes for the poor wherefore Abram paid unto him tithes of all that he had of all the riches which he possessed which God had given him more ~~that~~ than that which he had need and it came to pass that God blessed Abram and gave unto him riches and honour and lands for an everlasting possession according to the covenant which he had made and according to the blessing wherewith Melchizedek had blessed him.”

- JS and BY quotations

- JS: “There are two priesthoods spoken of in the scriptures, viz, the Melchisadeck and the Aaronic or Levitical Altho there are two priesthoods, yet the Melchisadeck priesthood comprehends the Aaronic or Levitical priesthood and is the Grand head and holds the hig[h]est Authority which pertains to the priesthood— the keys of the Kingdom of God in all ages of the world to the latest posterity on the earth— and is the channel through which all knowledge, doctrine, the plan of salvation and every important ~~matter~~ truth is revealed from heaven. Its institution was prior to “the foundation of this earth or the morning stars sang together or the sons of God shouted for joy,” ~~and~~ it is the highest and holiest priesthood and is after the order of the Son [of] God, and all other priesthoods are only parts, ramifications, powers and blessings belonging to the same and are held controlled and directed by it. It is the Channel through which the Almighty commenced revealing his glory at the beginning of the creation of this earth and through which he has continued to reveal himself to the children of men ~~and~~ to the present time and through which he will make known his purposes to the end of time—”

- * 5 October 1840

- JS: “The offering of sacrifice is has ever been connected, and forms a part of the <duties of the> priesthood. It began ~~which~~ with the priesthood and will be continued untill after the coming of christ from generation to generation”

- * 5 October 1840

- JS: “All priesthood is Melchizedek; but there are different portions or degrees of it.”

- * 5 January 1841

- JS: “Salvation is nothing more or less than to triumph over all our enemies & put them under our feet & when we have power to put all enemies under our feet in this world & a knowledge to triumph over all evil spirits in the world to come then we are saved as in the case of Jesus he was to reign untill he had put all enemies under his feet & the last enemy was death”

- * 14 May 1843

- JS: “salvation. is for a man to be seved from all his enemies.— until a man can triumph over death. he is not saved. knowldige will do this”

- * 21 May 1843

- * Knowledge of what? Of Christ: “I give unto you these sayings that you may understand and know how to worship, and know what you worship, that you may come unto the Father in my name, and in due time receive of his fulness” (DC 93:19).

- JS: “What is Salvation. Salvation is for a man to be Saved from all his enemies even our last enemy which is death”

- * 21 May 1843

10 March 2024: EQ discussion on the talk “The Prodigal and the Road That Leads Home”

The talk for this discussion is Uchtdorf’s October 2023 “The Prodigal and the Road That Leads Home,” available here.

- Introduce Uchtdorf’s talk about the parable he’s going to speak about
- Let’s talk about our traditional way of referring to this parable. What does the word “prodigal” mean?
 - 1828 dictionary for the adjective “prodigal”:
 - 1 Given to extravagant expenditures; expending money or other things without necessity; profuse, lavish; wasteful; not frugal or economical.
 - 2 Profuse, lavish; expended to excess or without necessity.
 - 3 Very liberal; profuse.
 - This parable complements and extends the ones that are given before it, all circling back to certain attitudes held by the Pharisees in the opening verses of the chapter.
- There are three characters in this parable, and we can divide it into two rough parts.
 - The character that appears in both parts is the father. The emphasis is on him.
 - We, however, are not the father; we are one or both of the sons, at different times.

- On the son “coming to himself,” or coming to his senses.
 - How have you experienced this “coming to yourself” or “coming to your senses” in the past?
 - Were there particular events that caused you to “come to yourself”?
 - * In the story, the younger son is with the “swine,” or pigs.
 - * These were an abomination to the Jewish audience for this parable (Leviticus 11:7).
 - We all depart from the path at different times and for different reasons. Is there any way of accelerating this process of “coming to yourself” when you depart?
- In what ways do we manifest the attitude of the older brother to our family, friends, or other people around us?
- This parable has some important teachings for us about the difference between merit and grace.
 - In what ways do we demand that God deal with us according to what we deserve?
 - Compare the use of “merit” or “merits” in the restoration scriptures.
 - * Merits of Christ: 2 Nephi 2:8, 2 Nephi 31:19, Alma 24:10, Helaman 14:13, Moroni 6:4, DC 3:20
 - * Our merits, or lack thereof: Mosiah 2:19, Alma 22:14
 - Repentance is a change of mind, a forward-looking return to the truth in order to move your life in a different direction.
 - * It is not, and can’t be, about balancing the scales.
 - * We earn very little by obeying the commandments (Mosiah 2:24 below).
 - Some scriptures
 - * 2 Nephi 10: lay aside sin; reconcile yourselves to the will of God
 - * 2 Nephi 25:23: be reconciled to God; it is by grace we are saved, after all we can do
 - * Mosiah 2:24: God paying us for obeying the commandments, but we haven’t earned much when we do that.
- The irony is that we can be truly “prodigal,” or experience bounty without end, only through Christ.
 - 2 Nephi 26:25: “Behold, doth he cry unto any, saying: Depart from me! Behold, I say unto you: Nay. But he saith: Come unto me, all ye ends of the earth; buy milk and honey without money and without price.”

11 February 2024: EQ discussion on the talk “Praise the Man”

This discussion is roughly based around Russell Ballard’s talk “Praise to the Man,” available here.

- Ballard gave this talk in October 2023, at general conference, which was very soon before his death.
 - If you remember the talk or heard it recently, Ballard seems to apprehend pretty clearly that his time on earth was coming to an end, and in fact he did pass away just a few weeks later.
 - I’ve always found these sorts of talks interesting, that people give right before they pass.
 - In this case Ballard chose to speak on the topic of Joseph Smith as the prophet of the restoration, and he called his remarks “Praise to the Man,” which of course refers to the hymn.
 - Having very recently read 2 Nephi 1–3, which is Lehi’s final message, I invite you to think about what you would say in a final address, if you were to give one.
 - Let’s take a look at some of the things Ballard says.
- The Tyson Zone
 - Let’s set aside Joseph Smith for a bit and we’ll come back to it soon.
 - I want to introduce you to an idea called the “Tyson Zone.”
 - (Introduce the Tyson Zone.)
 - Celebrities enter the Tyson Zone.
- Joseph Smith and the Tyson Zone
 - I sometimes wonder if, for me, Joseph Smith has entered the Tyson Zone.
 - It may be that there’s nothing so bizarre that you could tell me about Joseph Smith that I wouldn’t believe, at least initially.
 - And when I start to think along these lines, I wonder to myself, what would I have to find out about Smith in order to not believe he was a prophet?
 - Is there anything I could find out that could convince me to change the view I have now? There must be, though I can’t say for sure right now what those things are.
 - In any case, not everyone feels the same way as Ballard about Joseph Smith, obviously.
 - Now I want to ask all of you about this, but from a different angle. That angle comes from something Christ taught.
- In Matthew 7, Christ teaches us about false prophets, and gives us a test that we can use to identify false prophets.

- I’d like to read this test and ask all of you what you think about it and how to apply it.
- So let’s read from Matthew 7:15–20.
- Open up to those verses—could someone read them for us?
-
- The principle here is, by the fruits of alleged prophets, we will be able to identify them as false or true.
- So to tie back to some of the stuff I was talking about earlier: On the basis of what fruits do we make this judgment?
 - * A person’s life produces many fruits. Joseph Smith’s did too, just like all of ours—our moment-to-moment behaviors, but also our professional lives, our family lives, our hobbies, and many other things.
 - * So what fruits do we make this judgment on, and why those and not others?
- The larger question is, what aspects of a prophet’s behavior are relevant to judging whether that person is truly a prophet or not?
 - How should these criteria affect the way we live our lives?
 - * Revelation 19:10, “the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.”
 - * JS uses this verse a few different times to talk about how, in a certain sense, everyone is a prophet.
 - * For example, see these questions and answers from May 1838.
 - * See also these remarks from summer 1839.
 - * (These remarks are about there always being prophets; not the best one to share in this discussion.)
 - * Joseph Smith commented on some of this in 1843.
 - * For example, in May he talked about how he wasn’t that much better than other people.
 - * And in connection with this, he once made a very interesting remark about righteousness. According to another account of the same remarks in May, he said, “Righteousness is not that which men esteem holiness. That which the world call righteousness I have not any regard for. To be righteous is to be just and merciful.”
 - * What does this mean for us?
 - * As we evaluate ourselves as “prophets,” or as those with the testimony of Jesus, in what way do we use either (1) holiness, or (2) worldly conceptions of righteousness, to stand in for true righteousness?

6 October 2023: Why I Believe devotional at the SVU institute

(I took extensive notes in preparation for this talk. The actual version, which I unfortunately forgot to record, ended up being a mixture of a bunch of the the things I had written, with some new things. See my discussion of the experience here.)

- I’m grateful to the institute council for inviting me to speak to you today, though I’m self-conscious about being here.
 - It isn’t because I don’t want to speak to you—I do—it’s because I myself am not a very good devotional attender.
 - I have a hard time paying attention to these sorts of talks.
 - When it comes to these things I have the attention span of a little kid. I get distracted by everything.
 - So if any of you out there are distracted right now, I know you’re not hearing this because you’re distracted, but I feel you, because I am you.
- I’ve been thinking for almost two weeks now about what I would say, and I’ve actually struggled to decide.
 - I’ve written out lots of stuff a few different times but none of it felt right.
 - So earlier this week I asked some people in one of my classes and some other students too, about what things you’d be interested in hearing me talk about.
 - They shared some really useful stuff with me and so I’m just going to try to aim for the things they mentioned.
 - The truth is that I feel a lot of pressure because I want to give you something meaningful, and I’m sometimes bad at figuring out what the audience is interested in compared to what I’m interested in.
 - I’m not a great speaker. This is not false modesty, I am actually bad at organizing talks and speeches.
 - I would much rather write things. I started writing essays about the gospel recently just to try to sort my own ideas out and it’s kind of a laborious process because writing takes a while.
 - So fair warning, this may be a disorganized mess. I am particularly bad when the topic is so open-ended. That’s really hard for me.
- The question is why I believe, and it actually feels a bit like the question is why I still believe.
 - One of the students I spoke to actually said this—she said, you should talk about why you still believe, after studying these things and having this background.
 - So let me answer that question as simply as possible. There are two reasons why I believe, or why I still believe.
 - I believe because I’ve had many experiences with the Holy Ghost, and I don’t see any reason to think those experiences aren’t real.

- I still believe because the restored gospel of Jesus Christ has given me clear, insightful answers to questions that I couldn't have received elsewhere.
- But let me tell you about where my belief started.
 - When I left on my mission in 2005, I had never received an answer in prayer about whether the Book of Mormon was true or whether the church was true.
 - This was kind of upsetting to me because it felt like I really needed it to happen before I left.
 - I had prayed about those things many, many times, but I never felt like I got an answer about any of it, and to this day I never have.
 - Before my mission I had been praying a lot about this and I remember having this thought that was like, wait, why do I need an answer in prayer? I already believe the Book of Mormon is true. Why do I need an additional answer if I already believe?
 - And this got rid of my worry about it. I think my view on the Book of Mormon has changed, but I've never worried about it.
 - So I look back now and wonder, why did I serve?
 - My parents hadn't served, and they didn't pressure me to do it. In fact we almost never spoke about it. I just went because that's what you did when you graduated high school in Utah.
 - (More background to me.)
 - But I get out there in the mission, and I start having all these very powerful experiences with the Spirit.
 - Not just feelings during lessons or whatever—on my occasions I felt as though a force outside myself was putting into my mind the words I was supposed to say.
 - This happened mostly when I was speaking to other missionaries.
 - The voice would enter my mind, and I would speak whatever words it gave me. Then the voice would stop, and I would just wait. However the other person was responding, I would just wait until the voice came back, and when it did, I would say the words it gave me, and then I would stop.
 - Those experiences, probably more than anything else, convinced me that the Holy Ghost was a real thing that could communicate with me and give me knowledge and insight that I couldn't get any other way.
 - (How this convinced me of Christ and the atonement.)
 - So I came home from my mission with a strong belief based in many experiences with the Spirit.
- This belief got challenged pretty fast after my mission, though, because soon after I got home I started to get pretty severe anxiety.
 - (How I had learned on my mission to associate the Spirit with emotions and physical sensations.)
 - (Anxiety mimicked all those physical sensations, so I could no longer tell the difference.)
 - (Extremely difficult for me now to tell when my feelings are spiritually significant or not.)
 - (Story of Alicia and of going to Duke, the two most important decisions of my adult life, I never received an answer in prayer to either of those things, and I prayed a LOT.)
 - (Studying it out in our own minds.)
 - (The result has been that I have disconnected my emotional life from my spiritual life, in a way.)
 - This has been difficult sometimes, since I want to feel God's love, not just know about it intellectually. But that is hard for me.
- Since I have trouble taking my emotions as reflective of the Spirit, the thing that has replaced them in my spiritual life has been the scriptures, and the words of Joseph Smith and Brigham Young.
 - (Why I love the scriptures.)
 - You learn more about the atonement by reading the Book of Mormon than by doing anything else.
 - (Why I love JS.)
 - (Why I love BY.)
- But in more recent times I've had a very different kind of question about my experiences with the Holy Ghost, including those ones on my mission where it felt like there were words being given to me.
 - And this question has to do with the brain.
 - (My background in neuro—start with BYU, then Dennett, then Duke.)
 - Learning about the brain is really fascinating. I love it and so do many other people. Everyone loves to hear about the brain. It instantly interests people.
 - And it's like this universal thing you can study—you can study the brain and its relation to poetry, or music, or logical reasoning, or anything else you want.
 - And whatever you study with it, you seem to get these explanations for why people do what they do, or why they believe what they believe.
 - And you can do this for spiritual experience and religion, too.
 - And this leads to an argument about your spiritual experiences, about your experiences with the Holy Ghost, that is really appealing to people, especially if you've been to graduate school, because there you tend to intellectualize everything.

- The argument is basically, when we put people in a brain scanner and they say that they're "feeling the spirit," we can see that different areas of their brains are active during those experiences of feeling.
- It's a way of explaining away your spiritual experiences as just a product of your brain, or a product of evolution, or something like that. And if those are the ways you tend to explain other things, then this argument will seem very powerful to you.
- And it will also call into question everything else: your experience with the atonement, repentance, the temple, and so on.
- It was powerful to me, for a long time. When I first started thinking about it, it made me go back to all those mission experiences that I was mentioning earlier, and think about how maybe all of that was just me, and not the spirit. All of those words were just coming from me and not some external source.
- This is basically the going explanation that people in philosophy, psychology, neuroscience, and so on, give for spiritual experiences.
- I've come to see this argument a little differently.
- (How I think about it—if God did exist, and did want to communicate with me, why wouldn't he be using my brain? How else would he do it?)
- So I hope this answers a little bit about why I believe—I was saying before that I've had experiences with the Holy Ghost, and they've been very powerful.
 - There are lots of alternative explanations for these experiences, like anxiety, or my brain, or evolution, or something like that.
 - But I don't find these alternatives very convincing.
 - The more I learn about the science side of these things, the more I feel that these alternatives are reaching pretty far and ask you to make some pretty big leaps.
 - Maybe in the future these alternatives will be more interesting because we'll know more, but they aren't that interesting now.
 - There are limits to what you can explain by using evolution and neuroscience, and those ways of thinking are not as powerful as they appear when it comes to religion and spiritual experience.
- The second part of my answer was about answering questions—the gospel has answered questions for me.
 - Let me tell you a bit more about this.
 - For me, reading the scriptures, and reading from people like Joseph Smith and Brigham Young, is exciting. I feel the same excitement with those things that I do with other things that I love to study.
 - Philosophy hasn't taken away from this. I think it's only added to it.
 - (Philosophy is methods and ways of approaching problems.)
 - (The fact that the majority of philosophers don't believe in God, or the majority of neuroscientists don't believe in God or a soul or whatever, doesn't really tell you very much.)
 - (How philosophy teaches you to ask questions, but also to figure out your assumptions so that you can ask the right questions.)
 - (This has led me to understand a lot of things differently.)
 - (Example of the story about finding the BY quote.)
 - BY quote: "When God speaks to the people, he does it in a manner to suit their circumstances and capacities...Should the Lord Almighty send an angel to re-write the Bible, it would in many places be very different from what it now is. And I will even venture to say that if the Book of Mormon were now to be re-written, in many instances it would materially differ from the present translation. According as people are willing to receive the things of God, so the heavens send forth their blessings. If the people are stiff-necked, the Lord can tell them but little."
 - (The gospel is just this fountain of truth that rewards me whenever I ask questions.)
- And this is another reason why I still believe: I have always thought that the true gospel of Jesus Christ would reward me for asking questions.
 - And that is what the restored gospel does.
 - It rewards you for asking questions, by giving you insight and understanding and clarity.
 - And this has been a very powerful source of inspiration for my faith.
- What is the point of being a person of faith?
 - (Experiences, questions, and knowledge that you cannot get any other way.)
 - There is no substitute for these things. If you don't have them, you are missing out on an extremely significant part of human life.
- My beliefs are still changing and growing. And this to me is another reason why I still believe: because I feel my knowledge and experience expanding.

- Early in his ministry, Christ’s disciples come to him and ask about fasting. John’s followers fast, they say, and the Pharisees fast too, and we know fasting is important—but you aren’t commanding us to fast, Jesus! Why not? Why don’t you say anything about fasting, when other important people seem to?
- In response Christ makes a remark about how he’s currently present with them, but to make a larger point he then also uses an example of wine. Fresh wine is still fermenting and so releases a lot of gas; if you put it into a wine-skin or other container and try to stop it up, the gas will get trapped. If it’s a new container then that won’t be a problem, because the container can stretch along with the wine. But if it’s an older container and the material has already stretched to its limit, then you’re going to have trouble, because the wine could release so much gas that the container will burst.
- Christ’s point is that new ways of thinking sometimes cause that same trouble for old ways of doing things. The new doesn’t always fit with the old, and might even make us uncomfortable—the Spirit can tell us new things, uncomfortable things, even disturbing things about ourselves or who we really are. Some of that may not sit nicely with what we already believe or the ways we’re already quite comfortable living. But sometimes we have to be shaken a bit roughly out of old patterns, either because we’re so deeply entrenched in them that it’s difficult to get out, or because the patterns are so familiar to us that we don’t even realize they’re there.
- Joseph Smith made some comments in this spirit near the end of his life. On 13 August 1843 he said that “It is the constitutional disposition of mankind to set up stakes & set bou[n]ds to the works and ways of the Almighty.” The implication there is that the tendency to set up “stakes” or limits to what God does is bad, but two weeks later he went farther than implication and just said it: “To all those who are dis-posd to say to set up stakes for the almighty— will come short of the glory of god” (27 August 1843).
- Why would we come short of the glory of God—because God is punishing us, or something like that? Nope. It’s because when we “set up stakes” we’re no longer willing to accept the new, and when we aren’t willing to do that, there’s no transformation or change left for us. There’s only stasis, which in the long run isn’t getting us anywhere.
- One of the major challenges of mortality is figuring out how we can make ourselves as much of a new wine container as possible, as often as possible, to stretch to receive what we’re given. It’s frustrating and annoying, especially as you get older, and not easy. But a bit at a time we can do it, and one of the primary functions of the atonement is to induce in us the childlike malleability of character that will allow us not just to receive the new but become the new: the new man, the new woman, the new creatures, the new life.
- Christ is real.
 - The atonement is real.
 - Covenants are real.
 - We can experience the reality of these things for ourselves, and we can trust that what we experience is real and nothing is deceiving us.
 - And that is why I believe.
- Let me start out by saying that, w
 - (Give background to myself.)
 - Lots of experiences with the spirit on my mission.
- Let me introduce myself a bit more since not all of you have had the misfortune of being in one of my classes.
 - I was born in Sandy, Utah, and when I was 13 we moved to Vernal, which is a small oil field town on the eastern side of Utah.
 - We lived in the more residential part of the town, but even that meant that we had a field full of sheep across the street from our house, and we used to have home run derbies into their field with bonus points for bonking a sheep.
 - I went to Uintah High School and played lots of sports but also played lots of video games and read a lot of science fiction.
 - I still love all of those things and I extremely occasionally stream on Twitch, but I very frequently play the Zelda Tears of the Kingdom game with my kids, and I’m trying to teach myself how to write fiction but I’m terrible at it.
 - Just a few weeks after I graduated high school I left for my mission in Chile.
 - More about that in a moment.
 - I got home in 2007 and started at BYU just a few weeks later.
 - I thought I wanted to be a philosophy major and took courses in philosophy, and you’d think that I would have taken any philosophy course I could but that isn’t what happened.
 - I took the bare minimum number of required classes for the major and I graduated without any minor at all.
 - But I graduated with 221.5 credits—I had to go back and check my transcript, and I remembered right, I had 221.5.
 - 221.5 credits is almost double the number of credits you need for an entire degree, and it’s because I just loved taking classes in all sorts of areas.

- But what I loved the most was languages.
- I had to check my transcript for this took, but I took 81 credits of language courses in my four years at BYU.
- I took courses in:
 - * Latin
 - * Greek
 - * Spanish
 - * German
 - * French
 - * Icelandic
 - * Hebrew
 - * Aramaic
- I loved every minute of those courses, and I still love them.
- I can read Greek and Latin well and Hebrew well enough to understand what is going on and use different dictionaries and sources.
- Reading and thinking about the scriptures in their original languages has had a huge impact on my thinking about the gospel and has also just been really fun.
- Studying ancient languages is difficult, but it pays you off. No effort is wasted, especially when you're able to look at something like the New Testament when you're done.
- Anyway, during this time I also met Alicia, who was in my ward, and a year later we started dating and were married in 2010.
 - * There was just instant chemistry between us—interesting conversation from the very first time we spoke, physical attraction, we had fun together, just enjoyed being around each other.
 - * And that's still true today. To this date my wife is the only person I have ever met that I don't get tired of being around.
 - * We have four kids.
- For some reason I felt like I wanted to study philosophy in graduate school, which was weird because I wasn't that great at it.
 - * I was much better at languages, and so it seems like going into a classics PhD, which is studying ancient Greek and Latin, would have been a better fit.
 - * But philosophy always interested me and it felt right to keep going.
- I applied to graduate programs and did very badly. So I ended up going to a masters program at Tufts, which is a school near Boston, some of you might know Jaden Nelson, who's there right now for dental school I think.
- I went there because my wife is from that area so we saved money by living with her parents and it was easier for her to get a job because she knew a lot of people there.
- We lived with my parents in law for the first year, and then moved to an apartment down the road that was a dump, but we were having our first baby and felt like we needed to be out of there.
- But I kept studying philosophy and I started to take it seriously and really try to understand things.
- I finally got a clue and applied to other PhD programs again and got in and so we moved to North Carolina, where I did my PhD at the university of North Carolina.
- And by that I mean of course, Duke University.
- I spent most of my time studying neuroscience and psychology, and also the history of science, which is probably my favorite subject ever.
- I loved being at Duke, I loved living in North Carolina, and I loved the three most important things about the south, which are barbecue, fried chicken, and biscuits.
- I finished studying at Duke in 2019 and then came up here that summer and started here fall of 2019, which meant I had one complete semester before the pandemic hit.
- There are still a few people around who were in my classes pre-pandemic.
- So when I asked some students what sorts of things they might like to hear about, one person said, you should talk about why you still believe, even though you're a philosopher.
 - And I get what they mean—when I told people in my old home ward in Vernal that I wanted to study philosophy in graduate school, one woman, she had been my junior high typing teacher, told me, “Oh, don't do that. You'll go inactive.”
 - And I was like, “Uh, gee, thanks for the advice.”
 - And I thought, I don't think I will, but I guess I don't know. I can't predict the future.
 - So it does feel a little bit like I'm addressing the topic not of why I believe, but why I still believe—why would I continue to believe, after having studied the things I have?
 - I'll try to talk about that soon.

- But the “still believe” thing is relevant in another way, because as I look around, I would say between 30 and 40% of my college roommates, college friends, and extended family who are around my age—so basically my peers over the sixteen years since I got back from my mission—around a third of them or so have chosen to no longer affiliate themselves with the LDS faith.
- That number isn’t an exact count, but it’s probably about right, and I expect it will continue to rise.
- So when I think about the topic of “why I believe,” what I also end up thinking about is, why do so many people I know no longer believe? It has nothing to do with graduate school or professional field, either, it’s just a general thing.
- Why does there seem to be so few of us left standing? Of the people I’m thinking about when I say this, the men all served missions and so did many of the women, and all of them were married in the temple.
- So what happened? What is happening to my generation, and why does it keep happening? Why is it that every like four or five months I hear about an old college friend or somebody we were friends with in a previous ward, and they’re announcing on Instagram that they no longer consider themselves LDS?
- It’s very sad for me, because you can’t do anything about it. You’re just a witness to this massive car accident happening in slow motion, leaving all this hurt and pain and bitterness, and you have this horrible feeling that there’s just something that has gone very, very wrong.
- And it feels like a war of attrition. Sometimes it feels like you’re just waiting around until your number gets called and you’re the next one up, it’s your turn to make the social media post and write the email to the family and then start making choices about how you’re going to live your life when you no longer need to consider the interview questions for a temple recommend.
- So when I consider the topic of why I believe, or why I still believe, all of this is in my head, and I’m thinking not only about myself but about all the amazing and wonderful people I’ve known over the years.
- So to actually answer these questions, the first thing I want to say is that philosophy and science are just methods or ways of studying things, really. They tend to focus on certain topics, but at the core they’re just ways of looking at things.
 - You can study anything you want with philosophical methods, and you can study anything you want with scientific methods.
 - We use these methods to study certain things. The methods fit certain areas better than they fit others.
 - It’s true that when people go into a certain field, they tend to adopt many of the views and ideas of people in those fields.
 - Sometimes that’s because those views and ideas have been arrived at by the best methods and so they are pretty well-tested, but that isn’t always true.
 - Groups of people just tend to kind of even out their opinions and beliefs over time, and that process isn’t necessarily a rational one.
 - In other words, the fact that most philosophers don’t believe in God doesn’t really tell you anything about whether that opinion is the correct one. It just means that most of the people in the group don’t have that belief.
 - The same is true of neuroscience. I don’t know what the percentages are, but even if a majority of neuroscientists didn’t believe in God, this wouldn’t really tell us very much.
 - And in fact, I’d bet that most neuroscientists haven’t ever given the issue of God’s existence any serious thought, so there’s very little reason to care about what their opinions are.
 - There are exceptions—I had a professor at Tufts named Dan Dennett, who is a world-famous atheist who has written many books on religion and religious belief.
 - * He knew I was religious and LDS, but he never brought it up.
 - * We talked about religion a lot, and we always did it from this kind of detached perspective of an observer.
 - * It was my dad that was worried about me this time. He was worried I’d become a little Dan Dennett and become an atheist.
 - * I did learn a lot from him and he’s actually a huge influence on my thinking even today, but not in his atheism.
 - The way I see philosophy and science is more like, hey, look at all these new ways I have of understanding my beliefs! This is great! I’ll be able to learn so much and understand so many new things!
- And I’ve tried to take that attitude, like an eagerness to learn into both my professional life and my study of the restored gospel.
 - When it comes to the sorts of questions and problems that LDS people ask about their faith and their church, my attitude has always been to just jump in head first.
 - I’ve never seen any reason not to. Why not try to answer questions? Why not try to figure things out?
 - I remember I’d read what my mom would call “anti-Mormon” stuff before my mission, and my mom would say, why do you read that stuff?
 - And I’d think, well I have to know what the counterarguments are. I have to know what the problems are, or else how can I solve them? I can’t think about them if I don’t know what they are.

- Story about Jehovah’s Witness bible on my mission
- This has just always seemed like the right thing to do, and that attitude has been reinforced by studying philosophy and science, because nothing is really off-limits for them.
- You can ask any question, you can examine anything.
- Not everything will necessarily be worth the time, but you could look at anything.
- So that’s always been my attitude.
- Anyway, like I said, whether it’s because of my profession or my personality or whatever, my attitude has just been to get into the different questions I had and other people had about the church.
 - I mean like stuff with church history, social issues, theological stuff, scriptures, Book of Mormon, whatever, all of those things.
 - I just started reading about them and tried to understand the problems. I tried to actually think about them.
 - I see now that I’ve taken a pretty active approach. That may not necessarily work for everyone.
 - My wife’s approach is different. She’s like, I’m going to write this question down, and put it in this jar. And then I’ll just trust that someday that question is going to be answered.
 - I don’t think there’s anything wrong with doing that, it’s just not something that would work for me.
 - When it came to questions about the church, or faith, or whatever other problems people could have with religious belief, I have always thought about it like this—
 - I was like, we say this is true. We say this is the true church, we say the atonement is real, we say this is true.
 - And so I think, well, if it is true, then it better be able to answer my questions, because if it can’t, then that’s a problem.
 - That doesn’t mean I can expect a detailed answer to any possible question—no one has a theory of everything.
 - But my mindset was, if I seriously investigate these questions about the restored gospel, and I sincerely try to understand the issues, then I better get something out of that.
 - I better walk away with some real insight and some real understanding, because that is what the true gospel would give me.
 - The true gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ would reward me for asking questions.
 - Think about that—it would reward me for asking questions, and the reward would be new insights and new understanding and a new clarity of vision about things that really matter.
 - And the reason why it would reward me this way is that, if the gospel is true in the way we say it is, then it must be the right way to see and think about things.
 - And the right way to see and think about things will always, always reward careful questioning, because it’s just a fountain of truth, and it isn’t ever going to run dry.
 - Example: Story about finding the BY quote
 - * You see this all the time in the history of science.
 - * One way you see it is in how people used to think about motion—I mean like how objects actually move.
 - * Unfortunately we don’t have time to get into this here, but motion is an extremely puzzling phenomenon once you start to look at it.
 - * Philosophers before Socrates thought about it, Aristotle did, astronomers like Ptolemy thought about it, medieval philosophers thought about it, like everybody did.
 - * And it stumped all of them because they carried around these incorrect assumptions about it for such a long time, and they just had no idea that their assumptions were wrong.
 - * They were super smart people, but their starting-points were just all messed up.
 - * It isn’t until people have been thinking about it for thousands of years that people like Copernicus, Kepler, Galileo, and Descartes start to finally begin asking the right questions.
 - * People have been wondering about motion for ages, but they’ve been asking all the wrong questions, because of the incorrect assumptions they had about the universe to begin with.
 - * And often what happens when you ask questions that are based on incorrect assumptions is that your questions and your attempts to answer them turn out to be massive red herrings that lead you down all sorts of wrong paths.
 - * But if you are able to fix those assumptions and start asking the right questions, you get results almost immediately.
 - * You’re not going to believe this, but one of the first people to ask the really important, really clear questions about motion was Descartes.
 - * Everyone here thinks he’s an idiot because of all the doubt stuff you read about in Reason and the Self, but he actually did way more than that.
 - * Descartes finally asks the questions correctly, and then do you know what happens after that?
 - * In less than fifty years you get Isaac Newton, maybe the most important scientist who ever lived.

- * And by building on what Descartes and others had done, Newton asked the questions that were exactly the correct questions that people should have been asking for over two thousand years, but they couldn't ask those questions. I mean they literally could not because those questions could not even be asked within the framework of the assumptions they had.
- * Over time people fixed the framework and fixed the assumptions, and what do Newton's questions give you?
- * In 1687 they give you the laws of motion, which are principles so fundamental and so broad that they apply to literally everything in the entire universe.
- So there's an extremely important pattern here for us to learn.
 - * Very frequently, the questions we are asking about not only the gospel but about anything at all are the wrong questions.
 - * And they're not wrong because we're stupid or can't handle the truth or whatever.
 - * They're wrong because they are based on incorrect assumptions we make about the gospel, about ourselves, about the world, about science, or about lots of other things.
 - * Our questions are sincere and well-intentioned but they turn out to be red herrings, just like there were so many red herrings in the history of the way people thought about motion.
 - * And so the next step in the pattern is, we sometimes are able to learn things that help us fix our assumptions. We sometimes are able to think through things, or talk to another person, or learn something crucial that fixes some or all of our assumptions.
 - * (When you think about it, this is most of what therapy is—it's trying to get to these harmful assumptions about ourselves and fix them.)
 - * Then, as the pattern goes, we become aware of our assumptions and we fix them, and now, we are finally in a position to ask the right questions.
 - * And those won't be red herrings because they're built on correct assumptions about ourselves, the gospel, the world, and so on.
 - * And just as happened with Descartes and Newton, whose questions led to world-shattering insights into the very nature of the universe, that is what the right questions about the restored gospel can do.
 - * They can lead to life-altering discoveries and world-shattering insights.
 - * And when you think about it, it just has to be this way. It couldn't be any other way.
 - * The gospel is as broad as the universe and as deep; if it's true, its truth touches the foundations of everything that exists.
 - * So we ought to be able to see this same pattern play out: if I take the questions seriously, and I am diligent in trying to understand things and ask the correct questions, then I have a right to expect the same world-shattering insights from the true gospel.
 - * And that is what the restored gospel of Jesus Christ gives. That is what it offers us.
 - * Remember, the true gospel will reward you for asking questions, because it will be able to answer them with clarity and insight.
 - * The true gospel is a fountain of truth which will never run dry—it's like the position Newton was in at the end of the seventeenth century.
 - * All of a sudden everything clicks into place, and he's given just astonishing intellectual power and penetrating discernment into the universe.
 - * The gospel of Jesus Christ is like that. If it's true, it has to be like that.
- And this, for me, has been the great contribution of philosophy and science to my spiritual life and my faith and my religious belief: they have given me the tools and ideas that I needed in order to figure out what was mistaken about the questions I was asking, so that I could start to the right ones instead.
 - This is why studying philosophy and science and the history of science and other stuff has only strengthened my beliefs, rather than weakened them or hollowed them out.
 - What has happened is that what I have learned professionally has ended up giving me the tools that I needed to both ask and answer serious questions about the gospel.
 - One of the things that philosophy teaches you is what is actually involved in asking the right questions, and then answering them deeply and systematically.
 - It teaches you to unearth assumptions that are very deeply embedded in how you think about things and in how you see the world, and then teaches you to test those assumptions and either reject or change them so that they're better.
 - And once you fix those assumptions, it's like going from being Aristotle to being Descartes and Newton, like I said. You are finally, at long last, in a position to ask the right questions.
 - So philosophy doesn't just teach you to question things, or if it does, it ought to be doing more than that. What it should be doing is teaching you how to ask the right questions, and teaching you how to figure out which ones are the right ones in the first place.

- Those will be the ones that will be most likely to reward the effort you spend in asking and answering them.
- But the truth is that most people have no idea at all what it would take to carefully consider and investigate their sincere questions about their faith.
- And like I said before, it isn't because they're dumb, it's just because no one has ever shown them what that would actually involve.
- The idea that most people have of investigating something, or of really looking into something faith-related, is like watching a TED talk.
- If you haven't seen them, TED talks are these video presentations on Youtube that last between five and twenty minutes and they go over a specific topic in science or politics or whatever. Everything is explained at a very general level and it's all made to seem just so nice and pleasant with a little bow on the top at the end.
- But my friends, I am here to tell you that you do not belong to a TED gospel; you do not belong to a TED-level faith.
- The true gospel of Jesus Christ could never be a TED-level anything, because it's supposed to be the truth of everything.
- Why would it be easy to get answers from something as broad and as deep as the entire universe?
- We're just so used to our systems of thought and ways of thinking being like vending machines, where you just go up to it and punch in a code for whatever your question is and it spits out like a bag of chips or a candy bar for an answer.
- But in order for the process to work like that, you have to dumb everything down so much that the answer you end up getting is as satisfying as a bag of chips or a candy bar. You eat those things and enjoy them for like two minutes and then you feel empty and even worse than before.
- If you are asking sincere and meaningful and difficult questions, you cannot expect your answers to come bundled in familiar, easy language, totally free of any implications that might challenge the way you normally think about things.
- That is how vending machines work, and that is how superficial, TED-level understandings of something work. But that is not how the truth works.
- If investigating the truth were that easy, then it wouldn't have taken thousands of years to get to the laws of motion. Aristotle would have found them a long time ago and there would have been no need for Copernicus or Descartes or anyone else to fix all the incorrect assumptions that people had.
- But again, the truth doesn't work like that.
- And the restored gospel of Jesus Christ doesn't work like that either, because it is the truth.
- So some of the students I was talking to about this devotional were also wondering, what is the virtue of faith? What is the point of it? What is the purpose of being a person of faith?
 - This is a really good question, and actually this is one of the questions that gets more pressing as you get older, because the older you get, the more you start to feel like being a person of faith just doesn't make a real difference to your life.
 - You can be a good person with or without faith, so why make the effort? What's the point?
 - I think this is one of the great rewards of faith: being a person of faith puts you in a position to ask extremely deep and meaningful questions that other people are simply not able to ask.
 - It isn't that they don't want to ask them; it's that they can't.
 - They cannot ask them because they are blind to the reasons why you would ever need to ask them in the first place, and in some cases they don't even have the language to frame the questions at all.
 - And likewise, being a person of faith and knowing the true gospel of Jesus Christ then puts us in a position to answer those questions—not with vague, unsatisfying language, but with actual principles that can re-frame the way you see and experience yourself, other people, and the entire world.
 - As a result, there will be knowledge available to you, there will be truth available to you, there will be experiences available to people of faith that are simply not available to other people.
 - They will never ask those questions and they will never have those experiences.
- This is also the reason why I think religion and spirituality, on the one hand, and science and whatever else you want to put with it, on the other hand, are not in conflict with each other. They aren't in conflict and cannot substitute for each other because they are about different domains of human experience. Professor Lee and I taught a course on science and religion last semester and we ran into this problem a lot. People think, you need religion for morality, you need religion for community, and atheists know this and so write books called things like "the atheist's guide to reality" or whatever. people have been
- This is exactly one of the things that philosophy does best, and teaches you to do. It teaches you not just to identify your assumptions but to try to fix them, and it gives you the tools to do that. And for me this has been a very empowering process. I feel like I've been involved in this process for years and expect to be involved in it for as long as I live, because we're constantly learning and gaining new information and we constantly need to revise what we think about things in response to what we learn. This is as true for the gospel as it is for anything else. And I think there's some risk in not doing this, because many people, later in life, will have to confront this, and the confrontation will take place whether they know it's happening or not. In many cases it happens like this. You spend [obstacle course] You finish and finally you can rest, and you start to pay attention to other stuff. And one of the things you start to pay attention to is your experience of your faith. What happens to a lot of people is that you experience something uncomfortable about your faith, and you call it doubt because you don't have a good term for it and because we often oppose faith and doubt. But in many cases it isn't doubt. It's friction between your experience of the world and the things you believe about the world, including things connected to the gospel.

- It's almost like we don't take the gospel seriously ENOUGH. We don't really consider what it would be like if the fundamental claims of the gospel, like about the atonement and other things, were actually TRUE, like really and honestly TRUE, and not just stories. We talk about it all like it's just stories sometimes, like the pre-existence and the celestial kingdom and the atonement and everything is just stories, like a set of mythological tales that make us feel good when we go to bed at night or something.
- But like we've been saying, that's not what the gospel of Jesus Christ is. It is not just a set of nice stories that your parents or the missionaries told you.
- The gospel the great underlying and unifying truth of the universe. And we have to remember to treat it that way. If you take the gospel medium-seriously, you'll feel the Spirit sometimes and you'll read the Come Follow Me assignment and so on. But if you take it totally seriously—if you take the fundamental claims of the gospel as just straight-up true, as things that either have happened or are real—then you will begin to glimpse that great underlying and unifying truth. You will begin to grasp the clarity and the vision and the beauty and the power of these truths.
- The topic of this devotional series is "Why I Believe."
 - That question I can answer really easily.
 - Christ is a real person, and the atonement is a real event.
 - And I believe in those things because they're real, just like I believe in the existence of, oh, I don't know, corn dogs, because they're real too.
 - And if I ended right now this would be a talk that was really well suited to my own attention span.
- But when I think a bit more about the topic, it's actually a difficult one for me, because I can't separate it from the question of why so many people I know no longer believe.
 - So I guess I want to talk about that.
 - I have written and re-written this a few times, though, so I've had a hard time deciding what to say.
 - When I took this job a few years ago, I knew that I would sometimes have these sorts of discussions with students—not necessarily like this, at a pulpit, but in class or in my office or whatever.
 - And the one thing I've always tried to do with students is be totally honest. So I'm going to do that today. I don't know how uplifting this is going to be, but it will be completely honest, and I hope you'll appreciate that, even if you appreciate nothing else about what I say.
 - So—I turned 37 a few weeks ago.
 - I started my mission a few weeks after I graduated high school in 2005, and then got home in 2007 right before fall semester started.
 - That means it's now been just over 16 years since I finished my mission.
 - In that time, I went to college, got married, graduated, went to graduate school, and we had four kids.
 - But also in that time, between 30 and 40% of my college roommates, college friends, and extended family who are around my age—so basically my peers over those sixteen years—around a third of them or so have chosen to no longer affiliate themselves with the LDS faith.
 - That number isn't an exact count, but it's probably about right, and I expect it will continue to rise.
 - I'm not going to talk about the reasons why these people have made this choice. Some have reasons that are good, others have reasons that are less good.
 - But when I think about the topic of "why I believe," what I end up thinking about is, why do so many people I know no longer believe? Why does there seem to be so few of us left standing? Of the people I'm thinking about when I say this, the men all served missions and so did many of the women, and all of them were married in the temple. So what happened? What is happening to my generation, and why does it keep happening? Why is it that every like four or five months I hear about an old college friend or somebody we were friends with in a previous ward, and they're announcing on Instagram that they no longer consider themselves LDS?
 - It's very sad for me, because you can't do anything about it. You're just a witness to this massive car accident happening in slow motion, leaving all this hurt and pain and bitterness, and you have this feeling that there's just this horrible feeling that something has gone very, very wrong.

- And it feels like a war of attrition. Sometimes it feels like you’re just waiting around until your number gets called and you’re the next one up, it’s your turn to make the social media post and write the email to the family and then start making choices about how you’re going to live your life when you no longer need to consider the interview questions for a temple recommend.
- It’s just so frustrating, because fifteen or twenty years ago, we were the ones being called the “rising generation,” “the ones prepared for these latter days,” and all that other stuff that you guys get called now.
- And it doesn’t feel like we are that or ever were that.
- Now in saying this, I don’t want to give the impression that I consider myself better or more righteous than those who have taken different paths.
- In fact I know I’m not better, and this is one of the most frustrating parts, that personal righteousness doesn’t seem to be a factor in what I’m talking about here.
- It’s like it doesn’t protect you.
- I’d love to say, ideas protect you, good ideas protect you, and sometimes I believe that and sometimes I don’t.
- The truth is that the explanation for why I still believe has less to do with deliberate choice and more to do with circumstances and things I happened to learn at different times,
- And that’s a little scary to think about, that my continued belief has less to do with deliberate choice and more to do with circumstances and things that just happened to occur.
- But as I look back, at least now, that’s what seems to be true.
- Maybe, probably even, the Lord has provided these opportunities for me to learn. But I don’t feel uniquely deserving of them and I’m not sure why he hasn’t done the same for other people.
- So the simplest answer to the question of why I still believe is that, by either a stroke of good fortune or some very convoluted divine intervention, I ended up studying in my profession basically the exact ideas that I would later use to understand my own spiritual experience as well as the restoration itself.
- neuro
- history of science examples
- changing views of the gospel (BY quote, other stuff)
- This is going to sound really strange, but the biggest part of why I still believe next major reason that I still believe is that, one day, completely by random chance, I came across a quotation from Brigham Young that changed the way I thought about the gospel and put my thinking about it on a completely different track.
 - We got married and lived in this tiny studio apartment in Provo, Utah.
 - Our bed was in a loft above the kitchen so every morning I would go downstairs and sit at the table and read the scriptures.
 - I had this old desktop computer with a database on it that could search through a lot of sources, including the Journal of Discourses.
 - If you don’t know them, the Journal of Discourses is a set of books that have general conference talks and other talks from church leaders given from about the 1850’s until the 1880’s or so, around there.
 - Anyway, one day I was just using the database to search sort of random stuff, just playing around. I don’t remember what I was searching for in particular.
 - But the search brought up a remark Brigham Young once made about the Book of Mormon and what it would have been like if it had been re-translated later.
 - The remark seemed interesting, but I didn’t write it down or anything, I just moved on.
 - But something about it stuck with me, and I thought about it a couple months later, only when I went to find it again, I couldn’t find it. It took me a long time of re-searching through that database to find it.
 - Finally I did, and this time I wrote it down so that I would have the reference in the future.
 - I’m going to read that remark to you now, and then tell you a little about it. It’s from a talk Young gave in 1862, and the source is Journal of Discourses volume 9, page 311:
 - * “When God speaks to the people, he does it in a manner to suit their circumstances and capacities...Should the Lord Almighty send an angel to re-write the Bible, it would in many places be very different from what it now is. And I will even venture to say that if the Book of Mormon were now to be re-written, in many instances it would materially differ from the present translation. According as people are willing to receive the things of God, so the heavens send forth their blessings. If the people are stiff-necked, the Lord can tell them but little.”
 - * Let me read the part about the Book of Mormon again—remember that he said this in 1862, 32 years after the book was published.
 - * (Read bold part again.)
 - * That idea absolutely blew my mind and all of a sudden I had like a million questions—like how could the translation be different? Wasn’t it written on plates? How could anything be different?

- * That idea started to work on me, and it worked and worked and it hasn't ever stopped.
- * Eventually it caused me to see the scriptures differently and to see many events in the history of the restoration of the gospel differently as well.
- * I believe that the reason I've never had anything like a testimony or faith crisis is that I found this idea, and other ideas like it, and they and the Spirit helped me to think about things in new ways such that nothing like a crisis could ever even arise.
- And now, looking back, I'm probably the only person in the church whose faith Brigham Young saved, instead of destroyed.
- I continue to learn a great deal from Brigham Young and Joseph Smith.
- This is why I teach classes on them—because I want to try, even if I do it badly, to communicate some of what I've learned from them, and some of the immense power that we find in their thinking about the restoration.
- I'm still trying to work out the implications of these ideas about revelation. The scriptures are full of incredibly important ideas about revelation that we very frequently gloss over.
- In my opinion, the way to answer difficult and troubling questions about the church is to study revelation, and the way it works. For me at least, many puzzling things have dissolved away as I have come to understand the principles by which revelation operates.
- The first important thing that happened to me was that, as a missionary, I started to take the scriptures really, really seriously.
 - I grew up LDS and we read the scriptures as a family pretty consistently.
 - And I read them individually, too. I read the Book of Mormon a couple times as a kid, and must have made it through the New Testament at least once too.
 - I got called to serve a mission in Chile, and I was set to leave just a few weeks after I graduated high school.
 - * Looking back, it's hard to even say why I went on a mission. Neither of my parents served and we rarely spoke about it at my home. They didn't pressure me.
 - * It just seemed like the right thing to do.
 - I got some stuff in the mail from my mission before I left, asking me to read the Book of Mormon before I got to Chile, focusing on the atonement of Christ.
 - I did my best to do that.
 - But when I got down there I met my mission president, a guy named Ken Openshaw, and I went to zone conferences where he would teach from the scriptures.
 - And in those zone conferences I learned that I knew absolutely nothing about the scriptures, and that I had never really read them at all.
 - I mean, I had read them, but I had never taken them seriously. I had never taken seriously the fact that they contain revelations given by God through the Holy Ghost.
 - * I had never understood that they are the most fundamental way that God gives us information about the plan of salvation.
 - * I had never understood that even the tiniest things in the scriptures, like the presence or absence of a given word, could be extremely significant.
 - * I learned this from my mission president, and out of all the things I gained individually on my mission, this was undoubtedly the most significant.
 - * Let me give you an example, from Doctrine and Covenants 13. That section is a report from Joseph Smith's personal history of a messenger who appeared to him and Oliver Cowdery in the early days of the church.
 - * The opening part of the section reads, "UPON you my fellow servants, in the name of Messiah, I confer the Priesthood of Aaron."
 - * One time my mission president asked me to hold his scriptures for him and I was flipping through them and came to this section, and I noticed that he had marked the beginning of this section, and noted that it didn't have the word "the" in front of "Messiah."
 - * And he had a note written to himself about whether the absence of the definite article "the" indicated that the text is referring to "Messiah" as an office or role that could be occupied by multiple individuals, or whether it's referring to a particular person.
 - * I don't know what the answer to that question is, but I learned that, in order to really study the gospel and the plan of salvation, I had to be paying attention to the scriptures at that level of detail.
 - * And that's really, really difficult, and it takes a lot of effort, and I don't always get there.
 - * But when do, amazing things happen—things just click into place in these moments of absolutely beauty and power when you're just stunned into silence by the grandeur and the expansiveness of the plan of salvation.
 - The scriptures are still extremely important to me. I read almost nothing else, at least when it comes to the gospel, though I'll tell you about a few exceptions later.

- So to answer the question of why I still believe, the start of the answer is that the scriptures still provide me today with the same excitement and inspiration that they did back when I was a missionary. My interest in them has never diminished.
 - * There are many aspects of my participation in church that bore me, but not the scriptures. They have never bored me.
- Not everything that happened on my mission had good long-term consequences. For example, while I was a missionary, I learned to connect powerful emotional experiences with the presence of the Spirit and revelation.
 - So after I got home, I still had that connection in my mind: powerful emotions = presence of the Spirit.
 - But then in college I developed really severe anxiety.
 - * I had panic attacks, and at times it was so bad I could barely make to class and couldn't pay attention.
 - This was really a challenge for trying to discern the Spirit.
 - * Anxiety brings with it many very powerful emotions, including a lot fear and other very unsettling feelings.
 - * And previous to this I had connected feelings exactly like those with the Spirit, like with being warned about something or whatever.
 - * So now, my anxiety and my thinking about the Spirit are basically constantly putting me in a position where I think something is spiritually wrong: my feelings are unsettling and uncomfortable, and I assume that's the Spirit.
 - * And I wonder, am I the problem? Am I not righteous enough? Why do I always feel like the Spirit is telling me that something is off?
 - * The culmination of this problem came when I was trying to figure out whether to get married to Alicia, who I am in fact now married to.
 - * I loved being with her, we always had fun and really interesting conversations, we were attracted to each other, everything was there.
 - * But when I prayed about it, all I got was unsettling feelings, and so there was this huge conflict between what I knew I wanted, which was to be with her, and what I felt like the Spirit was telling me, which was that something was off.
 - * At one point I finally felt like I received a sort of lukewarm "yes" from the Spirit and I told Alicia about it and so we were sort of unofficially engaged.
 - * But not that long after I broke off the unofficial engagement because I still felt like my feelings weren't right and the Spirit was warning me about something.
 - * I wanted to be with her, so I was miserable, because it felt like the Lord was telling me I couldn't have something that I both wanted to have and that was clearly a good thing for me to have.
 - * But that wasn't what was actually happening.
 - * I now realize that the Spirit wasn't warning me about anything, and that none of what I was feeling had anything to do with the Spirit.
 - * I didn't know that at the time, and when I say I feel lucky that I made it through our engagement alive, I mean that totally seriously. Everything about my life was a disaster during that time and I regularly thought I was going to actually die—not that I was going to end my life, but that there would be some accident or something that would prevent me from marrying the girl I wanted to marry.
 - * I walked around like that, with those thoughts filling my head, for months. It was horrible and the darkest, most difficult time of my life.
 - * What terrified me the most was just the future—how could I know that our relationship would be successful in the long term? How could I know that things would go well for us and that we wouldn't get divorced?
 - * It's almost like I was expecting the Spirit to guarantee a successful relationship, or to give me proof that we would have that.
 - * But the Spirit doesn't work that way.
 - * If you are hoping that a witness from the Spirit will help you avoid making choices that might be mistakes in the long run, you are hoping in vain, and you will paralyze yourself into inaction.
 - * Do not make the mistake that I did.
 - * We are told to "study it out in our minds" (DC 9:8) because, in that process, we very frequently discover the information that allows us to make the decision without requiring input from the Spirit—so we might discover that one of our options is clearly the best, or that another is totally unworkable.
 - * And in this process we also provide the Spirit with more information and material to work with, so it can add nuances to our understanding that it wouldn't be able to give otherwise.
 - * For me and my choice about marriage, the answer was in my experience: we were compatible and in love. We had fun together and loved being around each other. We wanted the same things. And that was the answer. You can't be more sure than that, and many people that have powerful spiritual experiences related to who

- they feel they should marry end up divorced or in bad relationships anyway.
- So I learned that for me at least, because of the way I feel things—which is either not at all, and that’s most of the time, or in an unbalanced way, and that’s the anxiety—I had to sort of sever the connection between my spiritual life and my emotional life.
 - To this day I try not to connect strong emotion with the presence of the Spirit because I still find it difficult to sort through my feelings sometimes.
 - This is another reason that my spiritual life revolves mostly around the scriptures, because reading them is an intellectual rather than an emotional experience.
 - I think this separation of emotion and the Spirit has had long-term consequences, and the most important one is that when hurtful things related to the church happen, they don’t bother me at all. They don’t mean a lot to me because the connection is already cut.
 - * Please don’t misunderstand—I am not suggesting that you should do what I did. I think you should not do what I did.
 - * But it has changed me. Sometimes hurtful things do happen related to the church and my wife will say, why doesn’t this bother you? And I think, it probably should bother me, I recognize why people are upset by it, but it doesn’t bother me. I don’t feel anything for it.
 - * I guess I had to kill the part of me that would have been bothered in order for the rest to keep going.
 - * I feel like this makes me less human in a way.
 - Everything up to this point set me in a particular direction in my thinking about the gospel, since it all happened before I started studying philosophy and science seriously—all of this other stuff was already there.
 - Because the truth is that I did not pay much attention to either philosophy or science when I was an undergraduate.
 - Anyway, despite taking more than eighty credits in languages in college and just forty in philosophy, I decided to study philosophy in graduate school.
 - This was probably a surprise to people who knew me back then. I wasn’t very good at it and had a pretty poor understanding of it, even for someone who had only been an undergraduate major in it.
 - I applied to graduate programs and did very badly. So I ended up going to Tufts, which is a school near Boston, some of you might know Jaden Nelson, who’s there right now for dental school I think.
 - I went there because my wife is from that area so we saved money by living with her parents and it was easier for her to get a job because she knew a lot of people there.
 - We lived with my parents in law for the first year, and then moved to an apartment down the road that was a dump, but we were having our first baby and felt like we needed to be out of there.
 - But I kept studying philosophy and I started to take it seriously and really try to understand things.
 - The most important thing that happened during this time was that I met a philosopher named Dan Dennett.
 - * I had a class about psychology and philosophy of mind with him my very first semester, and loved it.
 - * Dennett is a very outspoken and widely known atheist. He’s written a number of books about religion, including one about religious leaders who privately lost their faith but for social reasons they couldn’t leave their church.
 - * He’s also been called one of the “Four Horsemen of the New Atheism,” like, he’s one of the major figures in certain atheist movements.
 - * He knew I was LDS, but we rarely talked religion, but when we did, he was always extremely respectful and very kind.
 - * He thought about everything in terms of how we can know things, and in practical terms to, like what difference it would make if this idea was the correct one, as opposed to that idea.
 - Studying neuro
 - Studying history of science
 - Changing concepts, developing concepts, new languages
 - Revelation, and the essays

13 August 2023: EQ discussion on the power to heal

Based on the talk “He could heal me!”, by Peter Meurs.

- Meurs’ talk is about the healing power of Jesus Christ, and in particular, Christ’s ability to heal aspects of our lives that are not related to sin.
- Meurs tells a story to illustrate this point, about a time that he was responsible for a very severe accident that hurt a number of different people. Let’s read about it.
 - The story starts about two-thirds of the way through in a paragraph beginning, “In 1990...” Could someone read that paragraph for us?

- We also need to read the next three paragraphs after that one.
- So after working with other people and teaching them about the atonement, Meurs came to realize that Christ's power to heal didn't just extend to forgiveness from sin or other sin-related things, but also included the guilt and remorse that he was feeling because of his actions.
- We can read the next paragraph in the talk, which begins "The Savior's healing and redeeming power..."
- This is a pretty powerful story of a person's experience with Christ, and how Christ changed that person's feelings about a troublesome event.
 - Meurs' story reminded me of one from the Book of Mormon, where we read about a very similar healing.
 - We'll go to Alma 24 for this story.
 - Here, a group of Lamanites are preparing to take up arms against another group who are now calling themselves Anti-Nephi-Lehis.
 - The king of the Anti-Nephi-Lehis passes away, and gives the kingdom to his son, to whom he ends up giving the name "Anti-Nephi-Lehi."
 - The people hold a council together knowing that they are going to be attacked, and they decide that they are not going to fight back, and in fact aren't going to prepare for combat at all.
 - The king then makes some remarks, which start in verse 7.
 - Let's pick it up in verse 8—could someone read verses 8 and 9?
 - So they've been convinced of "sins" and "many murders."
 - Then verses 10 and 11, I'll read those.
 - (Discuss these verses—hit on God taking away the "guilt" from their hearts, and then the idea of "sufficient repentance" in verse 11.)
 - So these people, similar to Meurs, had some very troubling feelings because of actions they had done in their past, and they prayed and Christ's power was essential in taking away those feelings.
- I find these stories so interesting in part because they are so foreign to me, in a way. For me, over time, my feelings in particular have played less and less a role in my spiritual life.
 - To begin with, I'm not a very emotional person by nature, I tend not to feel very much. This isn't necessarily a bad or good thing about me, it's just how I am. Maybe some of you are similar.
 - But one thing I do feel is anxiety, sometimes in extreme amounts.
 - Tell story of mission—associating spirituality with feelings of different kinds.
 - Then getting home and my anxiety blossoming as I connected my immediate feelings with my level of righteousness, and felt like I needed to repent all the time.
 - Then starting to get panic attacks and, after a long time which included both therapy and medication, realizing that I had to sever a great part of the connection between my feelings, on the one hand, and my spirituality and righteousness, on the other.
 - Because of my anxiety, I couldn't trust that connection, because one of the most important things to learn about anxiety is that it's misleading—your worries are, at least most of the time, not based in reality and therefore are not guides for what is real or for your actions.
 - So now, all these years later, when I start to feel guilt and shame, my first reaction most of the time is to just reject those feelings—not to suppress them, but to just let them sit there in my experience until they go away.
 - I'm not sure that this is the best thing for me to do, but all this time has shown me that, at least for me, my feelings are rarely spiritually significant—the positive ones are not necessarily indications of the Spirit or something like that, and the negative ones are not necessarily indications of a warning from the Spirit, or of a prompting that I need to repent, or whatever.
 - So they aren't spiritually significant in that sense.
 - My question for you all is, How do you know when your feelings are spiritually significant? How do you know when you can trust your feelings to be real indications of the Spirit, or the need to repent, or something like that?
- When we look at the life of the Savior, we see that feelings played an extremely important role in the way he lived and in the way he responded to people.
 - In his talk, Meurs discusses some of this.
 - Roughly halfway through, Meurs is talking about 3 Nephi 17, in a paragraph that begins "In 3 Nephi 17..." Let's read that paragraph and the next one.
 - The key part comes at the end of the second paragraph, that Christ's "bowels" are filled with "compassion."
 - Let's go to 3 Nephi 17 in the scriptures to read verses 5–7.
 - So Christ sees the people and has a very powerful emotional response to them, and that response compels him to stay, even though he has other things to do.

- (Explain the idea of “bowels” as the location of powerful emotions.)
- In the New Testament, there is a more direct linguistic link between “bowels” and this compassionate response.
 - * We get the word σπλάγχχνον, splanchnon, which is a noun that basically means the “inner body parts,” especially the ones in your stomach and chest.
 - * And then we get the verb σπλάγχχνιζω, splanchnizo, which means “feel pity, have sympathy for,” and this is a very common word used to describe Christ’s reaction to people who are suffering.
 - * (We actually have a somewhat similar linguistic connection in English, with the words viscera and visceral.)
 - * Some important locations for the verb are Matthew 9:36, Mark 8:2, and Luke 7:13.
 - * The word also appears in two extremely important parables in Luke—at Luke 10:33, which is the parable of the Good Samaritan; and also at Luke 15:20, which is the parable of the Prodigal Son.
 - * We can read a bit from those passages.
- So there is clearly an appropriate emotional response to have to the suffering and difficulties of others—and for someone like me, who’s by nature pretty unemotional and has learned to distrust his emotions in some ways, that’s a somewhat difficult thing to hear, because it means I have a lot of work to do.
- Meurs comments on Christ’s response of deep emotion and compassion for others in the next two paragraphs of the talk from where we were, the first one begins, “I believe that His compassion...” Let’s read those two paragraphs.
- You may recognize some of the language from that first paragraph as coming from Alma 7. In fact, there are a number of verses which clearly connect the atonement and this deep, emotional, compassionate response to the difficulties of other people.
- Let’s take a look at some of these verses and think about them through this lens.
 - * Alma 7:11–13
 - * Alma 34:13–16
 - * Mosiah 15:7–9
 - * DC 45:3–5
- So the atonement, in some way, played a fundamental role in Christ becoming a being who could have this compassionate, emotional response to every individual, in any circumstance.
- This is a state of being that is extremely far from where I am right now, clearly.
- Enoch got a taste of this way of feeling and experiencing in Moses 7:41.
- DC 19:15–20
- So I take two lessons from Meurs’ talk.
 - The first is that the atonement and Christ’s power can heal our troublesome feelings, even if it’s just a bit at a time over a long period of time.
 - The second is that part of the transformation we must undergo through the power of the atonement is to become people who can have more of the compassionate, emotional response to other people that Christ has.
 - * This is also going to be a little at a time, over a long period of time.

23 April 2023: EQ discussion on the priesthood

- Promoting Twitch channel and Substack?
- The talk we’ll be discussing is Elder Renlund’s from the most recent general conference, at the beginning of this month.
 - The talk is called “Accessing God’s power through covenants.”
 - We’ll be reading and talking about certain passages from it, but our goal will be to understand more about some of the things Renlund says about the priesthood.
- Let’s begin by reading a passage from Renlund’s talk—the sixth paragraph.
 - Here is that paragraph: “Before the earth was created, God established covenants as the mechanism by which we, His children, could unite ourselves to Him. Based on eternal, unchanging law, He specified the nonnegotiable conditions whereby we are transformed, saved, and exalted. In this life, we make these covenants by participating in priesthood ordinances and promising to do what God asks us to do, and in return, God promises us certain blessings.”
 - This eternal law is the priesthood, and it gives us the conditions in which we are supposed to perform ordinances and make covenants in order to be “transformed, saved, and exalted.”
 - As I was reading about this I was thinking about some of his remarks and some things that the scriptures tell us about the priesthood, or this eternal law.
 - I’d like to read a bit about that and discuss.
 - Let’s start with DC 107:1–3.

- In verses 2–3 we learn that the name “Melchizedek priesthood” is really just a nickname, and it is not what people called the priesthood before Melchizedek came around.
- Before him, they called it “the holy priesthood, after the order of the Son of God.”
- Let’s consider a question here: why did they call it “the holy priesthood, after the order of the Son of God”? Why didn’t they call it “the holy priesthood, after the order of God”? Why is it “the Son of God,” and not just “God”?
- As far as I know, the scriptures don’t contain a direct answer to this question. We have to look at a number of different things in order to pick up parts of the answer.
 - For example, let’s look at John 5:26 first.
 - * Here we read that the Father has “life in himself,” and has given, or permitted or allowed or something, the Son to have the same thing, life in himself.
 - * What does it mean to that God has “life in himself”?
 - Now let’s read a couple other verses that expand on this idea.
 - The first will be John 10:17–18.
 - * Explain and discuss.
 - The next will be John 17:2.
 - * Explain and discuss.
- Distinction between ἐξουσία and δύναμις.
 - Explain the distinction
 - * ἐξουσία means “power” in the sense of “authority” or “right to control.”
 - * δύναμις means “power” in the sense of “force” or “energy,” a kind of power that accomplishes things.
 - * We’ve seen examples of ἐξουσία; there are a few examples of the other kind of power from Christ’s life.
 - * Two come from stories you may be familiar with, in Luke 6:19 and Luke 8:46.
 - * Another is Luke 5:17 and Luke 5:24.
 - We increase in both as we progress along the covenant path.
 - Increase in δύναμις
 - * Perhaps it’s like John 4:14 or DC 50:24?
 - * A better example might be 1 Nephi 17:48.
 - Increase in ἐξουσία
 - * We increase in ἐξουσία as we make more covenants.
 - Renlund, beginning of the eighth paragraph: “The term covenant path refers to a series of covenants whereby we come to Christ and connect to Him. Through this covenant bond, we have access to His eternal power. The path begins with faith in Jesus Christ and repentance, followed by baptism and receiving the Holy Ghost.”
 - * This is an increase in exousia.
 - * See also endnote #17 in Renlund’s talk.
- Over time, Christ received both more ἐξουσία and δύναμις as he progressed in his life.
 - We see this in Matthew 28:18; “is given” here is a past tense verb that could be translated “was given” or, perhaps even better, “have been given.”
 - DC 93:12–17 appears to be about both types of power.
- So we increase in these ways as we progress—and more specifically, our relationship with Jesus Christ changes.
 - Renlund talks about this, in a paragraph about halfway through: “We become His disciples and represent Him well when we intentionally and incrementally take on ourselves the name of Jesus Christ through covenants. Our covenants give us power to stay on the covenant path because our relationship with Jesus Christ and our Heavenly Father is changed. We are connected to Them by a convenantal bond.”
 - He says that “our relationship with Jesus Christ and our Heavenly Father is changed.” How it is changed? In what way?
 - We see a description of this after King Benjamin’s speech in the book of Mosiah, in chapter 5.
 - Let’s read Mosiah 5:2, 5–6.
 - Mosiah 18:22
 - Mosiah 27:25
 - Moses 6:64–68
 - When we are spiritually born again, we are changed through the power of the atonement—we are given new life through Jesus Christ.
 - Christ becomes the person who provides us with this new life, new power, and new energy. Christ says, “Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me” (John 14:6).
 - And in this way, he becomes the person through whom we access that power.
 - Notice that, for us, it isn’t God that is our direct source of this power; it’s Christ.
 - Christ receives it from God, and we receive it from Christ.

- And this is why, for us, the priesthood is “after the order of the Son of God,” because we are integrated into this network of laws and covenants and power in a way where Christ is the source for us, even though he isn’t the ultimate source.
- Return to the question of why the priesthood is after the order of the Son of God, rather than just of God.

22 January 2023: As a Child

YSA Fifth Ward, Buena Vista, Virginia (note that I didn’t actually give this talk on this day; many people were assigned to speak, and there wasn’t time. I only shared a brief bit about Mosiah 3:19)

- Introduction to the topic: the new birth in Jesus Christ.
 - I’d like to talk about this a bit by looking at a few verses in scripture.
 - I’ll talk about them and try to make some connections.
- Discuss Mosiah 3:19, with a focus on whether the list of qualities at the end is meant to explain what it means to become “as a child.”
 - How much do these qualities actually describe children you know?
 - Here are some other qualities that children have, which don’t appear on this list:
 - * Energetic
 - * Curious
 - * Inquisitive
 - * Quick to learn
 - * Quick to remember
 - * Aware that they don’t know everything
 - * Willing to let themselves marvel
 - * In love with what is new not because it’s new, but because it’s an opportunity to learn
 - * Quick to laugh
 - * Playful
 - * Silly
 - * Powerless
 - * Vulnerable
 - I suggest that, in our “becoming as a child,” gaining or re-gaining these qualities is just as important as gaining the ones we read here that we normally associate with being as a child.
 - I’d also say that these qualities are far more accurate in describing children than some of the ones we see in the verse.
 - But we’re old now, we’re not children anymore. So can we become as a child in this sense?
- Christ is the one that transforms our character so that we can regain, or gain for the first time, these qualities of a child.
 - This is one of the ways to understand the new birth, or the transformatoin that he can carry out in us.
 - * Mosiah 5:7
 - * John 1:12
 - * John 3:3
 - * Romans 12:2
 - * Mosiah 27:24–26
 - * Alma 5:7
 - Christ has the power to carry out this transformation in us.
 - * Let’s discuss this in John 4:7–14.
 - This water is a force of energy inside us that will make us new. It will make us children again—not in the sense that we become immature or irresponsible or anything like that, but by giving us back those qualities which we might have lost as we’ve gotten older: energy, curiosity, inquisitiveness, a playful attitude, and so on. We’ll get those qualities again and will experience a newness of life that isn’t possible any other way.
 - This newness becomes more valuable the older you get, because the older you get, the farther separated you are from your actual childhood.
 - But that’s the power and miracle of the atonement, and that’s the power and miracle of Jesus Christ.
 - The golden age of our lives doesn’t have to be in the past, or even in the future. It can be right now, the moments and days we’re living now, and we can become the kind of person who can make those moments and days a golden age through Christ.
- If I have time, connect to DC 84:33.

BIBLIOGRAPHY AND ABBREVIATIONS

4TW

Four Thousand Weeks

Citation: 4TW PDFpage#

A PDF of the book by Oliver Burkeman. References are to PDF page numbers.

48LP

48 Laws of Power

The 48 Laws of Power, by Robert Greene. I have a PDF.

AB

Anchor Bible

Citation: AB YEAR page#

This is a translation and commentary series in each book in the Bible, both OT and NT. I have a lot of them in PDF. There are some books which have multiple AB translation/commentaries; this is why it's necessary to cite the year when you quote from them, in cases where there has been a second edition that supersedes the first.

References are to actual book pages, not PDF pages.

ABD

Anchor Bible Dictionary

Citation: ABD PDFpage#

This is the multi-volume Anchor Bible Dictionary, which is super long. I have a PDF file of all the volumes combined.

References are to PDF pages.

ABET

Antioch Bible English Translation

Citation: ABET NT verse

The Syriac-English translation of the New Testament, edited by Kiraz. I have a hard copy.

References are to verses in this hard copy edition.

ACCS

Ancient Christian Commentary on Scripture

Citation: ACCS OT/NT volume# page#

This is a series of volumes which collect remarks by church fathers and other ancient figures on different passages of scripture. As of 11/24/22 I don't have that many volumes.

ACD

Ancient Christian Doctrine

Ancient Christian Doctrine, a five-volume set which focuses on the Nicene-Constantinopolitan creed, with expositions of the various parts by different church fathers.

AFGTET

The Apostolic Fathers: Greek Texts and English Translations

Third edition, edited by Michael W. Holmes, 2007.

ATBEBW

All Things in the Bible Encyclopedia of the Biblical World

Citation: ATBEBW PDFpage#

All Things in the Bible: An Encyclopedia of the Biblical World, Nancy M. Tischler, two volumes, Greenwood Press, 2006. I have a PDF of both volumes combined into one.

References are to PDF page numbers.

Augustine

ADDC: De Doctrina Christiana

Citation: ADDC book/paragraph#

Augustine, De Doctrina Christiana, edited and translated by R. P. H. Green, Oxford UP, 1995. Citations are to book and paragraph number.

BHS

Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia

Citation: OT verse (in Hebrew)

This is the standard Hebrew bible, at least until the BHQ, Biblia Hebraica Quinta, comes out.

References are to OT verses, and I'm almost always quoting some Hebrew with this—when I quote Hebrew, it comes from this or from the Hebrew text in the Step Bible, which is the same as BHS in most places (but not necessarily all).

BIBBC

Baker Illustrated Bible Background Commentary

Citation: BIBBC PDFpage#

The Baker Illustrated Bible Background Commentary, edited by J. Scott Duvall and J. Daniel Hays, Baker Books, 2020.

I have a PDF. The file is enormous, and takes forever to download, so I may not be able to use this a huge amount, at least on the iPad.

References are to PDF page numbers.

BIBD

Baker Illustrated Bible Dictionary

Citation: BIBD PDFpage#

The Baker Illustrated Bible Dictionary, edited by Tremper Longman III, Peter Enns, and Mark Strauss, Baker Books, 2013.

I have a PDF.

References are to PDF page numbers.

BOP

Book of Pook

The Book of Pook, by Pook.

BSV

Biblia Sacra Vulgata

Citation: OT/NT verse

This is the standard Latin edition of the Bible, both the OT and the NT. I have a hard copy and a PDF.

References are to particular verses.

BSJSP

Biographical Sketches of Joseph Smith the Prophet

Lucy Mack Smith, Biographical Sketches of Joseph Smith the Prophet, and his Progenitors for Many Generations, Liverpool, 1853. I am using a version from the New Mormon Studies database.

BTD

Buck's Theological Dictionary

Citation: BTD "headword" BTD page#

I have the 1833 edition, published in London, enlarged by Henderson.

References are mostly to the text found under a particular entry.

BYCAW

Brigham Young: Colonizer of the American West Diaries and Office Journals, 1832–1871

Edited by George D. Smith, Signature Books, 2021, two volumes. I have hard copies.

CB

The Commentator's Bible

A commentary series. I don't have many volumes.

CDCT

Cambridge Dictionary of Christian Theology

Citation: CDCT PDF page#

The Cambridge Dictionary of Christian Theology, edited by McFarland, Fergusson, Kilby, and Torrance, Cambridge University Press, 2011.

DBCI

Dictionary of Biblical Criticism and Interpretation

Dictionary of Biblical Criticism and Interpretation, edited by Stanley Porter, Routledge, 2007.

DECB

Dictionary of Christian Biography and Literature to the End of the Sixth Century

A more modern edition of an older source.

DELG

Dictionnaire étymologique de la langue grecque

Citation: DELG Page# DELG entry

Dictionnaire étymologique de la langue grecque: histoire des mots, by Pierre Chantraine, published in Paris 1999. This is a revision with a supplement of the original edition from 1968.

I have a PDF of this source.

DELL

Dictionnaire étymologique de la langue latine

Citation: DELL Page# DELL entry

Dictionnaire étymologique de la langue latine: histoire des mots, by Ernout and Meillet, published in Paris 2001. This is a revision of the fourth edition with corrections by Jacques André.

I have a PDF of this source.

DJPABP

Dictionary of Jewish Palestinian Aramaic of the Byzantine Period

A Dictionary of Jewish Palestinian Aramaic of the Byzantine Period, Sokoloff, Bar Ilan, 1992. This source is in the Aramaic folder of my hard disk.

DQA

Dictionary of Qumran Aramaic

Dictionary of Qumran Aramaic, Edward Cook, Eisenbrauns. This source is in the Aramaic folder on my hard disk.

DSA

Dictionary of Samaritan Aramaic

A Dictionary of Samaritan Aramaic, Tal, Brill, 2000. This source is in the Aramaic folder on my hard disk.

DTIB

Dictionary for Theological Interpretation of the Bible

Dictionary for Theological Interpretation of the Bible, edited by Kevin Vanhoozer, Baker Book House, 2005.

DTT

Dictionary of Theological Terms

Dictionary of Theological Terms, Alan Cairns, Ambassador.

DUPL

Dictionary of Untranslatables A Philosophical Lexicon

Citation: Page#

Dictionary of Untranslatables: A Philosophical Lexicon, edited by Barbara Cassin. 2004, Princeton UP. I have a PDF of the book

EBC

Expositor's Bible Commentary

Expositor's Bible Commentary, a commentary series, I have various volumes.

EBCA

Expositor's Bible Commentary Abridged

The abridged version of EBC, it's two volumes, one volume for the OT and one for the NT. I have both.

ECC

Expositor's Bible Commentary Abridged

EJ

Encyclopedia of Judaism

Citation: EJ PDFpage#

Encyclopedia of Judaism, edited by Neusner, Avery-Peck, and Green, Brill, 2005. There's several volumes and I have a PDF with all the volumes.

EPB

Early Patriarchal Blessings of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

I have a PDF of this source, compiled and edited by Michael Marquardt. It was published by the Smith-Pettit Foundation in SLC in 2007.

ESM

Enlightened Sex Manual

The Enlightened Sex Manual: Sexual Skills for the Superior Lover, by David Deida.

GELSM

A Greek-English Lexicon of the Septuagint

Peeters 2009, edited by Muraoka.

GELSL

A Greek-English Lexicon of the Septuagint

Revised edition, by Lust, Eynikel, and Hauspie, Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft, 2003; I'm using a PDF that is not a scan of the book.

GNT4

The Greek New Testament Fourth Revised Edition

(This is my red copy of the Greek NT.)

GNTI

Donald Guthrie's New Testament Introduction

New Testament Introduction, revised edition, Donald Guthrie, IntersVarsity Press, 1990.

HALOT

Hebrew and Aramaic Lexicon of the Old Testament

Citation: HALOT PDFpage# columnLetter

This is the Koehler-Baumgartner lexicon, the revised 1994 edition, published by Brill. I have a PDF of all the volumes together.

HCBD

Harper Collins Bible Dictionary

1996, revised edition, general editor is Paul J. Achtemeier.

HDDC

Historical Development of the Doctrine and Covenants

Citation: HDDC page#

This is a BYU thesis/dissertation from 1974 by Woodford. I have a PDF and I've added a bunch of bookmarks, and have made a handful of corrections here and there. When I added the version info and background to the DC sections in my notes, I used this book a lot.

HIBD

Holman Illustrated Bible Dictionary

Citation: HIBD PDFpage#

2003, published by Holman.

HSN

"Hyde and Smith, Notebook"

A source from the CHL, where Hyde and Samuel Harrison Smith copied certain documents, including DC 29.

See DC 75:13, where these two are commanded to travel together.

IVPBBC

InterVarsity Press Bible Background Commentaries

Citation: IVPBBC OT/NT Page#

A two-volume set, one for the OT and one for the NT. Cite by actual page number.

IVPBDS

InterVarsity Press Bible Dictionary Series

Citation: IVPBDS Vol# Page#

A collection of volumes, I have nine total, which are all dictionaries for different sets of books in the Bible or different themes or topics.

JH

Journal History

This is the many-volume "Journal History" that Andrew Jenson began assembling around 1896. I have many of them saved in my hard disk.

The collection is in CR 100 137 of CHL. From the "about" page:

Scrapbook containing information about Church since April 1830, arranged in chronological, day-by-day format. Andrew Jenson began to compile Journal History circa 1896 and Historian's Office/Historical Department/Family and Church History Department staff members have continued to add material ever since.

Most of Journal History consists of clippings from newspapers and magazines or typed transcriptions of published materials. Compilation also includes extracts from minutes, journals and diaries, correspondence, and other sources, but most such entries relate to nineteenth-century events.

Journal History is currently compiled by members of Church History Library staff, who have custody of volumes for most recent months. Beginning in 1985, selected items from national and international wire services, newspapers, periodicals, and television broadcasts that are included in NEXIS data base have also been placed in Journal History.

There's an index to the Journal History at CR 100 142.

JI

Juvenile Instructor

sdf

JPSTC

Jewish Publication Society Toray Commentary

Citation: JPSTC Vol# Page#

A set of five volumes, where each is a one-book commentary on one book of the Torah. Unfortunately I only have four of the volumes—I am missing Leviticus.

JSIM

Journal of the Southern Indian Mission

In the Thomas Brown folder I have a PDF of some interesting passages from this journal.

JSLB1

Joseph Smith Letterbook 1

See this source online here.

From the JSP website:

JSNTB

Joseph Smith's New Translation of the Bible: Original Manuscripts

The giant book edited by Faulring, Jackson, and Matthews from 2004.

JSP

Joseph Smith Papers

JSR

Joseph Smith Revelations

KRSPP

The Presocratic Philosophers

Citation: KRSPP passage# OR KRSPP page#

The Presocratic Philosophers: A Critical History with a Selection of Texts, edited and translated by Kirk, Raven, and Schofield, second edition, Cambridge University Press, 1983.

LSHP

The Hellenistic Philosophers

Citation: LSHP chapter# passage letter LSHP 44 B, for example, is a quote from Diogenes Laertius on the Stoics LSHP vol# page#, OR

The Hellenistic Philosophers, two volumes, edited and translated by Long and Sedley, Cambridge University Press, 1987.

I have PDFs of the two volumes. The first volume has the translations and commentary, and the second volume has the original texts and discussion of the context.

LSLD

A Latin Dictionary, founded on Andrews' edition of Freund's Latin Dictionary, revised, enlarged, and in great part rewritten by Lewis and Short

The 1958 printing, I have a PDF.

LXX

The Septuagint

Citation: Book, chapter, verse

The Septuagint—I have a nice hard copy but I usually use a digital copy of it, but it's the Rahlfs second edition published in 2006.

MAP

Mindful Attraction Plan

By Athol Kay.

MCEDONTW

Mounce's Complete Expository Dictionary of Old and New Testament Words

MCEDONTW

Mounce's Complete Expository Dictionary of Old and New Testament Words

Citation: MCEDONTW Page#

A dictionary keyed to the KJV, I think. This is actually pretty useful although my guess that I will forget to use it.

MM

Moulton and Milligan

Citation: MM Page# MM entry

The Vocabulary of the Greek Testament Illustrated from the Papyri and Other Non-Literary Sources, by James Hope Moulton and George Milligan, 1929, published in London.

Normally this would be something like "VGTI..." based on the way I have been naming other sources, but BDAG uses "MM" to refer to it, so I'm going to do that too.

MMM

Mystery Method (by Mystery)

The Mystery Method, by Mystery, the pickup artist. It's not "MM" because that's used for a Greek dictionary.

MMSLP

Married Man's Sex Life Primer

By Athol Kay, from around 2011.

MNHM

The Manosphere: A New Hope for Masculinity

By Ian Ironwood.

MPD

Mormon Polygamy Documents

A website with copies of many important documents related to Mormon polygamy. URL: <https://mormonpolygamydocuments.org/>

MTCGNT

Published by Oxford UP in 2007, edited by Pietersma and Wright, I have a digital copy.

Metzger's A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament

NIBD

Nelson's Illustrated Bible Dictionary

Citation: MTCGNT Page#

A useful commentary on the Greek text of the New Testament. Helpful to read about disputed passages or alternative readings.

Citation: PDF page #

Published by Thomas Nelson in 2014, general editor of original is Hebert Lockyer Sr., other editors are F. F. Bruce and R. K. Harrison.

NAC

New American Commentary

This is a Bible commentary series.

NICNT

NCDAS

New and Complete Dictionary of Arts and Sciences

The New International Commentary on the New Testament

Various volumes.

I have an edition in three volumes, the first volume of which was published in New York in 1819. I don't know anything about the history of this series. It could be plagiarized from other sources.

NICOT

The New International Commentary on the Old Testament

I have various volumes.

NDTHS

New Dictionary of Theology Historical and Systematic

Citation: NDTHS Page#

A dictionary of theology, published by IVP Academic in 2016 and edited by Davie et al. Very long; probably pretty useful.

NIDNTT

New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology

NETS

A New English Translation of the Septuagint

Citation: NETS Book, chapter, verse

Citation: Vol# page#

This is the first edition of what would eventually become NIDNTTE. I have a digital copy of all the PDFs combined into one (there are four volumes). I'd prefer to use the hard copies since they're updated.

NIDNTTE

New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology and Exegesis

Citation: Vol# page#

This is technically the second edition of NIDNTT. On page 5 it says, "The present edition, consisting of a thorough reorganization and revision [of NIDNTT], is now entitled New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology and Exegesis (NIDNTTE, suggesting a kinship with the New International Dictionary of Old Testament Theology and Exegesis [NIDOTTE], 5 volumes, ed. William Van Gemeren [1997])."

I have hard copies of these, there are five volumes total. They are the blue ones edited by Silva.

NIDOTTE

New International Dictionary of Old Testament Theology and Ex- egesis

Citation: Vol# page#

Five volumes. I have hard copies, they are the five green volumes edited by VanGemeren.

NIEBC

New International Encyclopedia of Bible Characters

Citation: PDF page#

New International Encyclopedia of Bible Characters, edited by Paul D. Gardner, Zondervan, 1995. I have a digital copy.

NIGTC

New International Greek Tex- tual Commentary

Citation: Vol# PDF page#

This is a commentary on the Greek text of the NT.

NIVAC

New International Version Ap- plied Commentary

Citation: Vol# PDF page#

A commentary on the NIV. I have various volumes.

NMMNG

No More Mr. Nice Guy

No More Mr. Nice Guy, by Robert Glover. I have a PDF.

NPDE

New Palgrave Dictionary of Eco- nomics

PDF in the F6 Economics folder.

OBC

Oxford Bible Commentary

Citation: Page#

I have a PDF of the one published by Oxford UP in 2007.

PNTC

Pillar New Testament Commen- tary

PGPTHL

Greek Philosophical Terms: A Historical Lexicon

Citation: PGPTHL page# OR pGPTHL HEADWORD (in Greek or transliteration)

Greek Philosophical Terms: A Historical Lexicon, F. E. Peters, New York University Press, 1967.

PJS

Papers of Joseph Smith

sdf

PUA

The Pickup Artist

The Pickup Artist, by Mystery.

RAZ

Rationality: From AI to Zombies

Written by Yudkowsky back on the old LessWrong forums. I have a PDF of this book.

RB1

Revelation Book 1

An early manuscript collection of revelations. See here for more.

RM1

Rational Male Volume 1

The Rational Male volume 1, by Rollo Tomassi.

RM2

Rational Male Volume 2

The Rational Male volume 2, by Rollo Tomassi.

RM3

Rational Male Volume 3

The Rational Male volume 3, by Rollo Tomassi.

SHBC

S H Bible Commentary

SGM

Sex God Method

The Sex God Method, by Daniel Rose.

SLSM

Saving a Low Sex Marriage

Saving a Low Sex Marriage: A Man's Guide to Dread, Seduction, and the Long Game, by Bluepill Professor. I have a PDF.

SSECB

Strongest Strong's Exhaustive Concordance of the Bible

Citation: Page#

Published in 2001 by Zondervan.

TCC

The Comfort Crisis

A book by Michael Easter. I have a PDF.

TDNT

Theological Dictionary of the New Testament

Citation: Vol# Page#

This is the ten-volume set with purple covers, edited by Kittel and published by Eerdmans. Unfortunately I only have one digital copy of two of the ten volumes, and it's volume 1; I also have a digital copy of the abridged version. But I have hard copies of all ten unabridged volumes as well.

TDOT

Theological Dictionary of the Old Testament

Citation: Vol# Page#

This is a fifteen-volume set edited by Botterweck and Ringgren and published by Eerdmans in the 1970's. Fortunately I have all fifteen volumes in usable digital formats with no pages missing (I used to have them with pages missing but found the real ones).

TLNT

Theological Lexicon of the New Testament

Citation: PDFpage#

This is a three-volume collection written by Spicq and translated by Ernest. I have a PDF with all three volumes.

TLOT

Theological Lexicon of the Old Testament

Citation: PDFpage#

This is a three-volume collection edited by Jenni and Westermann, I think from the 70's. I have a PDF with all three volumes.

TOTC

Tyndale Old Testament Commentary (possibly)

TWOT

Theological Wordbook of the Old Testament

Citation: Page# columnLetter, OR Entry# (The entries are the ones in the margins; the page numbers are at the bottom. The volumes are numbered continuously so if you use page numbers you don't need to use the volume number.)

Two volumes, edited by Haris, Archer Jr., and Waltke, published by Moody Press in Chicago in 1980. I have a single PDF file that has both volumes.

TWSM

The Way of the Superior Man

The Way of the Superior Man: A Man's Guide to Mastering the Challenges of Women, Work, and Sexual Desire, by David Deida. I have a PDF.

TPJS

Teachings of the Prophet Joseph Smith

sdf

UBCS

sdf

WBC

Word Biblical Commentary

A commentary series with many volumes on all the books of the Bible.

WEBC

sdf

WISNIFG

When I Say No I Feel Guilty

When I Say No I Feel Guilty, by Manuel Smith.

ZIBBC

Zondervan Illustrated Bible Backgrounds Commentary

Citation: ZIBBC OT/NT Vol# PDFpage#

There are a lot of volumes of these commentaries, and I have a lot of them but not all of them. I'm still trying to figure out if I'm able to get more.

ZIBD

Zondervan Illustrated Bible Dic- tionary

Citation: ZIBD PDFpage#

A big bible dictionary with lots of images.